Dat big buss run round several delapidated trucks loaded wid watermelons. We passed one old moddle T truck broke down and de men wuz tryin to fix it an I thought to my set, yes, dat moddle T is jes bout lak me, always breakin down an hafta go to de good Lord an git fixed up.

One young oman got off de buss at Calera and I thought bout some people whut gits on de ole ship of Zion an rides fur a while an den gits off to see how it feels to be out in de worl ergin. Reader, where is you gwyin? To what city is you travelin?

I is reminded ob a prayer meetin dat a preacher told me bout one time. He sed dat one young gal got up an sed dat she wuz travelin on de highway to heben, but wuz not gwyin very fast because de car she wuz drivin didnt run so good, but dat she tried to keep it fixed up so it would run. Den another woman jumped up an sed dat she wuz drivin a good car, dat it wuz easy to drive an not hard to keep in de road, dat she wuz travelin bout 40 miles an hour an nothin could stop her. Next, a man got up an cleared his throat an sed, you women dont kno whut you is talkin bout. I is drivin a victory-six sedan and all I got to do is jes set dar wid one han on de steerin wheel while Jesus sets in de back seat. I can run off of de highway an travel on de country roads all de week an den git back on de highway Sunday mornin in time fur Sunday School, an when I do git on de road I dont play along lak you folks, I hit it up to bout 65. No sooner dan he sot down ur young well-dressed man got up an throad back his shoulders an stuck out his ches an smiled a saintly smile an stuck his thumbs in de armholes of his vest an sed. Shucks, you all can talk bout your Chevrolets an Dodges an sich things as dat but I want to tell you all dat I am on de highway to heben in a bran-new Ford V8. My tank is full of de fuel of de spirit an I is got plenty of de oil of joy. My seat cushions is padded wid de Bible, my radiator is filled wid de water of salvation an I is ridin on tires inflated wid de gospel of de Son of God. Den he stopped to git his breath an then added. I dont travel so fas durin de week but I hits em up to bout 90 on Sunday. Next ur big fat yaller woman riz up, looked round over de people, her under lip tremblin, an she shifted her weight fum one foot to de udder an sed. I's mighty proud dat I is on de highway. Ob course I has to take it afoost, but I has cum a long ways, cause I has ben travelin dis road ur long time an I is not tired yet. But I do want to caution some ob you fast ones, if you dont watch out some of you is gwyin to hit one ob de curves of life so fast dat you will loose controle ob your machine an find de thing wrecked in de ditch ob sin. As I plod along de highway to heben I sees lots of wrecks of people who started out in a fine machine an got to goin too fast, an before I set down I want to say to dat young man whut has his cushion padded wid de Bible, you should have de Bible up in front of you as your guide stid o settin on it.

I'se des lak dat fat woman bout it. Stid ob drivin de machin ob life my self I let Jesus take de wheel an do de drivin, cause He knows de road. He's been over it before an knows where all of de curves an treacherous places is. It feel dat is de only way to reach dat city dat all ob God's children is lookin fur.

Since evy body is travelin fum earth to some where else it would be a grand idea for all to git a ticket to dat city to which Paul wuz gwyin. Sinner, you is on de wrong buss, you is travelin in de wrong direction. If you will repent of your sins you can den make application to Jesus, who is de superintendent of dis line an He will give you a free pass which will take you to de city of God.

May de Lord use these words to hep some body is de prayer of.—Elder Blossom.

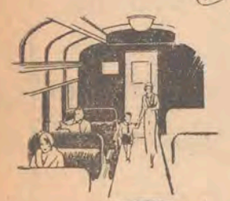
Consider YOUR SAFETY, YOUR COMFORT and YOUR COSTS

When you travel by train you are using the safest as well as the most comfortable and economical mode of transportation. Last year but one passenger out of nearly five hundred millions transported by train lost his life in a train accident—whereas—twenty-nine thousand persons were killed in automobile accidents, and an average of 90 per day were hurt. Can you afford such chances? Not a single passenger has been killed in an L. & N. train accident during the past 15 years.



Consider the comfort of traveling in large roomy coaches or Pullmans, providing dining, smoking and toilet facilities—without roadside delays or the fatigue of driving—and figure the costs as compared to using any other form of transportation.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Thorsby has suffered a great loss in the death of Carl C. Petersen, which occurred last Sunday night in a Birmingham hospital. Mr. Petersen was born in Denmark 66 years ago on July 28. He came to America when a young man 23 years old and moved to Thorsby in 1901. He has been identified with the civic and community life of Thorsby as, perhaps, no other man. For the last seven years he has been Mayor of the Town. He has been a leader in the Fruit Growers Association ever since its organization, and for several years past, president of the association. He was president of the Bank of Thorsby. For many years he was a member of the Board of Trustees for the Thorsby Institute and active in the upbuilding of that institution. He was chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Congregational Church, of which he was an active and loyal member. A Christian citizen, a loyal member of his church, a friend to all. The community is in sorrow because of his going.

He leaves a wife and four sons to mourn his death: Albert, who lives in New York City; Harry, of Tuscaloosa; Nels, whose home is in Thorsby, and Jack, who is also in Thorsby. Also a daughter, Rachael. He will be sorely missed in the community life.

There will be regular preaching services at the Baptist church next Sunday, both morning and evening. Everyone is invited.

The Lutheran Ladies aid social will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Howard on Thursday afternoon. Everyone is asked to bring her own cup and plate. Thank you.

Everyone is invited to the Public School auditorium Friday night, October 20. Miss Austin will speak on social welfare work. An enjoyable Halloween program is being planned after which refreshments will be served. Admission is ten cents and the proceeds are to be used for school needs.

GRAVES ANNUNCES CANDIDACY

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12, 1933.

I have today filed with the Secretary of State an Official Declaration of my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor, subject to the rules and regulations to be prescribed by the State Committee of my party.

At this time all I have to say is that I am for Bibb Graves for Governor, and a "new deal" for Alabama.

In due time I will make clear and specific the things that I expect to accomplish as governor that will give to Alabama the full benefits of that "new deal."

The people of Alabama know that I will keep my promises.

FREAK CHICKEN ON DISPLAY AT THE UNION-BANNER OFFICE

Mr. Wash Scott adds to The Union-Banner's collection of freaks a chicken with four legs, four wings, two necks, and one body and one head. The chicken, Mr. Scott relates, came from a very small egg. Anyone who doubts the description of this freak may call at the Banner office, where it can be found on display.

Mr. Scott also tells of another freak which he found on his place. He says when he was clearing a new ground some time back he found a root without an end. He says that the root had four corners and that no end was found.

P.T.A. Meeting To Be At Thorsby

The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers is putting forth every effort to improve school conditions in this state. The know-your-school program for the regular parent-teacher meetings as outlined by a joint committee from the Alabama Education Association and the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, dealing as it does with problems of vital concern to both parents and taechers, should challenge the interest of every member of both groups. The work we are doing with citizens councils throughout our state is attracting nationwide attention. The plans of work outlined for the standing committees are just the kind of help the local associations have needed for carrying on the activities sponsored by our organization for the welfare of childhood.

On Saturday, October 28, a district parent-teacher conference will be held at Thorsby. The program will be in the nature of a school of instruction based upon the material and activities mentioned above.

CLANTON MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED IN MOBILE SATURDAY

News was received in Clanton Sunday that C. Wilbur Stanley had been held up Saturday night in Mobile and robbed. Mr. Stanley had his Ford truck parked on St. Michael Street, and about 9 o'clock three negro men and one woman held him up and robbed him of $10. The negroes shot at him three times, breaking the glass of his car. One bullet pierced his side. He was taken to a hospital and treated for a minor wound, and a short time later released.

Alabama's Greatest Reading Value!

The Birmingham Post

to R. F. D. Readers

EASY TO READ — $3.00 PER YEAR — WORTH READING

Facts About The Post

When the rates of Alabama's daily newspapers are the same, why not subscribe to the best?

The Birmingham Post is a different newspaper, and for this reason THE POST has grown faster than any other paper in the history of the South. There is no other newspaper in Alabama like The Birmingham Post. It stands alone in the field—entirely different.

There are no strings on The Post—financially, politically or otherwise. Being so, it is free to speak the truth. It owes no allegiance or obedience to any save the public good.

The Post strives not to suppress, distort or exaggerate. Its editorial columns are not for sale—its news columns are not influenced by outside considerations or ambitions.

Moreover, The Post is a condensed newspaper—quickly and easily read. Its news is brief—its size readable. In striving to be terse and to the point, The Post meets the demands of this busy bustling age—with no time to waste on tiresome repetition or trivial matters.

At the same time, The Post strives to entertain. It is not too stiff to bend and enjoy a chuckle. It is not too stately to talk in the language of the common conversation.

Opinion is confined to the editorial columns. The news columns give honest, unbiased and accurate accounts of the events of the day.

In policy, style, appearance, The Post stands alone in Alabama—Entirely Different.

And this different newspaper has grown faster than any other paper in the history of the entire South.

The Birmingham Post is the most believed-in paper in the state.

BILLINGSLEY JR. HI NEWS

The enrollment of the Billingsley Jr. High School was comparatively small but is increasing rapidly. Mr. Griffin reports progress is being made along all lines. The following clubs have been organized:

An agriculture club, with 13 members, has been formed. Its purpose is to foster agriculture in the community. The beautification of the school grounds is a project to be carried out by this club.

The Home Economics Club proposes to further interest in home development. It meets weekly and plans to have a social monthly.

The entire school is included in one of the two literary societies which alternate in giving their programs. The Utopian Society is headed by Earl Davis and the Jeffersonian Society by Charles Foshee.

BARBECUE AT BILLINGSLEY FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20TH

There will be an all day barbecue on the Billingsley High School campus Friday, October 20th, for the benefit of the athletic association. Mr. Spearman urges that you come early, stay late, bring a pocket full of money and eat lots of dinner. There will be many attractions and plenty of entertainment. One of the most interesting features is the Prattville-Billingsley football game at 2:30 p.m.

LIBERTY HILL

LIBERTY HILL B. Y. P. U.

Our B. Y. P. U. is progressing very nicely. We need more good Christian workers who do not mind taking hold and carrying things on as God would have us to do. We are to put to the test, but we sometimes fail, because we shirk our duty. So come on, boys and girls, let's do our part, and not be called a shirker, but a worker for God. We were very glad to have one of our fellow workers with us Sunday night, Mrs. Odine Gallman. She is one that we all learned to love. We just welcome her back any time. There will be preaching at eleven Sunday morning. B. Y. P. U. at six-thirty and preaching at seven by a young minister, Rev. Warren Riggins. Let's have the house filled to its capacity at both services, for I am sure he has something fine to tell us.

The following is the outline of the program for B. Y. P. U. for next Sunday night, October 22:

Introduction: Mack Gray.

"Political Freedom," Earl Lowery.

"Social Freedom," Willis Baker and Louetta Cooper.

"Econmoic Freedom," Glenn Bradberry and Ottis Gray.

"Physical and Mental Freedom," Amy Gray and Eula Deason.

"Moral Freedom," Jewel Cost.

"Religious Freedom," Gladys Turner and Pauline Chambers.

OAK GROVE

We urge everyone to come out to our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. and bring somebody with you. We are delighted to announce that Eanon has invited our B. Y. P. U. to come up there to render them a program the first Sunday night in November. We are more than glad to say that we will accept their invitation and render to them a program to the best of our ability. Also following the B. Y. P. U. program our pastor, Mr. Lowery, will present them a wonderful sermon. We invite everyone to go and take someone with you.

Those attending the association at Mineral Springs from this communtiy were as follows: Mr. G. W. Littleton, Mr. L. O. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cobb, Mrs. Nannie Samons, Miss Dorothy Dees and Miss Onzell Littleton.

Don't forget we still have our prayer meeting on Wednesday night. We invite everyone to come and be with us.

Quilting seems to be some of the ladies' favorite past time. Mrs. C. H. Pierce entertained with a spend the day party and quilting last Thursday. A delicious dinner was served at noon. Those present were Mesdames W. J. Satterwhite, W. T. Pierce, Homer Webb, Lottie Dees, Charlie Martin, Robert Martin and Emma Pierce and Misses Mattie Lee and Willie Mae Thames, Thelma and Geneva Pierce.

Mr. Homer Webb has been ill at his home this past week, but is greatly improved now.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pierce and little daughter, Virginia Ruth, left Monday to make their home in Ensley.

Mrs. D. S. Edwards is visiting in Birmingham this week.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley dined with Miss Gladys Satterwhite Sunday.

Mrs. T. F. Satteerwhite is ill at her home, but wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. James Sutley is still improving nicely, and we hope he will soon be able to enter school.

Mr. Moody entertained a large crowd at his home with a party Saturday night. A large crowd of young people from Eanon were present. Each and everyone reported a wonderful time.

MRS. DOLLY ABERNATHY DIED

Mrs. Dolly Abernathy, age 79 years, died at her residence, Mt. Creek, Route 1, Monday, October 16 at 10:30 o'clock. Funeral services were held at Verbena Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon. Burial was at Verbena Cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home, of Clanton, in charge.

Mrs. Apernathy is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lula B. Sorrell, of Birmingham; two sons, Bob Abernathy, and Rev. N. H. Abernathy, of Mt. Creek; and 23 grandchildren.

Mrs. J. C. Jones has returned from a visit to relatives in Birmingham.

Highland News

A large crowd attended Sunday School and preaching here Sunday. We invite them back every Sunday. Bring someone with you.

Mrs. George Daniel was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Cora Culpepper, the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Coggins and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Price were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. G. B. Billingsley and family and Mrs. Coggins's brother, Mr. B. C. Traywick.

We are very glad to learn that Mrs. M. D. Dickey is improving.

Misses Euna Powell and Gladys Culver were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Mildred Coe.

Quite a large crowd attended the singing at Mr. G. B. Billingsleys Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billingsley and little C. B. Weldon were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe Sunday.

We are very sorry to learn that Miss Mildred Coe is on the sick list this week.

Miss Lorena Billingsley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Atticus Limbrick, of Independence.

Mrs. Sid Plier visited her sister, Mrs. Elijah Weldon and daughter Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. Clint Billingsley and Leslie Robinson were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Cecil Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lee were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baker and the later's mother, Mrs. Nettie Sullivan, Sunday.

Miss Ruth Maddox was the guest of Miss Mildred Coe Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Herman Culpepper returned home Sunday, after a few days visit in Birmingham, where his wife has been very sick but is now improving. We hope she will continue so.

MR. A. J. JONES'S BIRTHDAY

A large crowd of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jones for his 84th birthday anniversary Sunday, October 15th. Two brothers, nine children, twenty-three grandchildren, three great grandchildren and many friends attended.

A bountiful and delicious dinner was enjoyed by everyone at twelve o'clock. The birthday cake was made by Mrs. W. C. Smith and was beautifully decorated with eighty four pink candles. There were there layers. The layers were tapered so that candles were on each layer.

In the afternoon games were enjoyed by all, both young and old. Rev. J. T. Nelson, 101 years old, attended and told many interesting things that happened long ago. He performed a marriage ceremony in the afternoon. The bride was Miss Mary Brown and the groom is Mr. Russell Hayes, of Thorsby.

The relatives attending the birthday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and children, Vera and Peggy Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Jones and children, Jack, Nathiel and Whitmer, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bussie and children, J. Polly, Johnnie, Katheryn, Arthur and Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Chasteen and children, A. J., Elizabeth Ann and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones and children, Margaret Mary Edith and Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones and children, Ophie Lee, James William, Coy, Irea, Mr. and Mrs. Auburn Jones, Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Jones, Mrs. Janie Bates, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, Mr. J. S. Jones, Mrs. W. B. Snider and daughter, Jeanette, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kemp and children, Bobbie and Willie, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Culp and son, John Evans.

Friends attending were Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Nelson, Mrs. Eula Smith and children, Forrest and Mildred, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bussie, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. M. Jacks, Mrs. Murrah and Vester Causey.

SOME QUESTIONS ABOUT NRA AND POWER COMPANY RATES

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you be so kind as to give me a small space in your paper to ask a few questions in regard to the NRA and the blue eagle?

First, does the NRA discriminate against the people out in the rural districts in favor of those who live in towns and cities?

My reason for asking the above question is because the Alabama Power Company has decreased the electric rates in Clanton and increased on us at Lomax.

The former rate gave us at Lomax a minimum of $2.00 for 20 KW and 10 cents a KW for all over the minimum used. The new rate is $2.00 for 5 KW minimum and 5 cents per KW for all over the minimum used. This is an increase on us at Lomax from 10 cents to 40 cents a KW on the minimum, and is equal to an increase of 300 per cent.

Does the NRA do this kind of business? Shall this discrimination be investigated? — Respectfully, A. A. Jackson, Lomax, Ala.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Hard To Beat

Up at Lomax, Richard Turpin is setting the pact on producing corn. Seventy-five and one-half bushels were produced on one and one-half acres of land. Of course his corn followed vetch, and it wasn't bottom land. Otho McKinney produced 120 bushels on three acres, which followed Austrian peas. There is no mistake whatever that winter legumes increase the yield. Now, I want all of you to plant winter legumes right away. Last year only two tons were planted in our community. Let us double that this year.

Still More Books

Mr. Warr, principal of the Chilton County High School, gave to the County Training School last week a number of good books which are to be added to the collection of books received a few days ago from our friends in Wolfboro, New Hampshire. In behalf of the faculty and student body of the county training school I wish to express our sincere appreciation for the gift coming from Mr. Warr. We are glad that he was interested in us to the extent that he has manifested his interest by giving us a collection of books. We thank you wholeheartedly for this gift and for any other you might give us in the future.

Special Drive For P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring a membership drive at the training school Friday afternoon. We are urging all parents, particularly, patrons of our school, far an dwide, to come out Friday and renew your membership in the P.-T. A. We don't want money. We want your presence. We want you to become active members of this organization for the interest of your children. There is going to be a surprise in store for you. Come and see what it is Friday afternoon at three o'clock.—Benj. Anderson, prin.

PLEASANT GROVE—SHOULTS

This community was saddened by the death last Friday morning of Mrs. Mollie McGee at the home of her son, Walker McGee, near Randolph. She and her husband, Mr. Eugene McGee, who survives, were residents of this community until a few years ago, when they moved to Randolph.

She was Miss Mollie Walker before her marriage and had lived to be 73 years old. The mother of 13 children, 2 girls, who are dead, 11 boys, nine living. Two brothers survive her—Mr. C. T. Walker of this community and Mr. Joe Walker of St. Petersburg, Fla. She was the grandmother of about 48 children, great grandmother of about 26 children.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Buford Lawrence at Pleasant Hill Methodist church. Burial was at Pleasant Hill cemetery, Clifton, of Tuscaloosa in charge.

Although she suffered of heart and kidney trouble for a long time, yet she was always so patient and sweet, never complaining. We have learned a lesson from her quiet and noble life, and it will always be a pleasant memory, for she always loved the right and abhorred that which was evil. We shall miss her, but God knows best and we must be submissive to His will, and we can only live to see her again. We pray our heavenly father, to reassure the anguish of the bereaved.—One who loved her.

Dr. Arthur Johnson has returned from the hospital where he has been under treatment for several weeks. Although under the handicap of marked physical disability he has resumed his own medical practice, and can be found at his office daily.

Miss Dorothy Sessions together with a classmate, Miss Charlie Verne Tinney, of Alabama College, spent the past week-end in Clanton with friends and relatives.

W. O. Rich of Birmingham is spending several days with relatives and friends in and near Clanton. Mr. Rich attended the Chilton County Association at Mineral Springs last week. He reported a mighty fine time at the association.

20,000 YEARS IN SING SING OPENS AT WADESONIAN NEXT MONDAY

Seldom, if ever, has the human side of prison life, with its laughter and tears, its romances, its thrills and its grim tragedies, been painted in such vivid and dramatic coloring as in the First National Picture, "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing," which shows at the Wadesonian Theater on Monday and Tuesday, October 23 and 24.

This screen drama was taken from the book by Lewis E. Lawes, Warden of Sing Sing prison, who unquestionably knows more about the criminal heart and criminal life, as well as the technical side of prison affairs, than any other man in the country. It is a document of facts which are stranger and more fascinating than fiction.

The story deals with the life of a "big shot" gunman who, when finally convicted, believes he can rule in prison as he ruled his political gang. His personal attachment for the warden becomes so strong that he voluntarily returns to the prison and the chair when on parole, rather than let the warden down. Besides the many thrills, including a prison riot, there is a glowing underlying romance, made inspiring by the touching loyalty of convicts women for their misguided husbands and sweethearts.

Spencer Tracy has the leading role, with Bette Davis playing opposite him. Others in the cast include Arthur Byron, Lyle Talbot, Grant Mitchell, Warren Hymer, Louis Calhern, Edward J. McNamara and Sheila Terry. Warden Lawes's book was dramatized by Wilson Mizner and Brown Holmes and adapted for the screen by Courtenay Terrett and Robert Lord. It was directed by Michael Curtiz.

WILLIAM DANIEL BURNETT DIED

William Daniel Burnett, age 63 years, passed away at his residence near New Cedron, early Monday morning, following an illness of several days.

Funeral services were held at New Cedron Church Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. Bentley, of Billingsley. Burial arrangements were in charge of Spigener Funeral Home, of Clanton.

Mr. Burnett is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Burnett; five daughters, Mrs. E. E. Edwards, of New Cedron; Mrs. W. C. Beener, of San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. B. E. Wilkins, of Billingsley; Mrs. H. A. Turner, of Houston, Texas; Mrs. J. E. Edwards, of Clanton; three sons, John, Charley, and Jim, of New Cedron; one brother, Henry M. Burnett, of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. Ellis Mims, of Maple Springs and Mrs. Monroe Askins, of Billingsley.

Mr. Burnett was an outstanding citizen of his community, and was regarded as one of the most successful farmers of Chilton County.

Mr. O'Neal Stroud and Floyd Starling, of Birmingham, were visitors of friends and relatives in the Enterprise community last Sunday.

Rev. R. P. Cochran made a trip to Huntsville and his old home at New Market last week. He was accompanied by Miss Mary Robinson, who went as far as Athens to visit Miss "Popsy" Polk, student at Athens College.

"I WANT MY TELEPHONE PUT BACK IN"

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

As general business continues to improve and prices for agricultural products and manufactured goods continue to rise, people who have discontinued their service are asking to have their telephones put back.

These folks tell us that trying to get along without a telephone was mighty difficult, and even embarrassing at times, and that they were doubtful if the small amount they saved justified the annoyance and trouble they experienced when doing without a telephone.

Not having a telephone, they say, made it too difficult and inconvenient for their friends to keep in touch with them. As a result, they found themselves and especially the younger members of the family being left out of things.

Many of these people also mentioned that not having a telephone they found themselves using some neighbor's telephone and although the neighbor was willing, still it was embarrassing to be continually borrowing something from a neighbor that couldn't be paid back.

Of course, numbers of people have been forced by circumstances beyond their control, to give up their telephones, but as soon as their financial condition improves they are quick to order them put back. As some have expressed it, "the telephone is such a convenience and protection in emergencies and all-round handy thing to have in the home that it just doesn't pay to try to get along without it."

If you are one of those who is still trying to do without your telephone, is it really necessary, when the cost is so small?

Call the telephone office and find out how inexpensive it is to have this service in your home.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

CHANGE EMPHASIS OF ORGANIZATION

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 17.—Change of emphasis of the Farm Bureau organization in Alabama from business to education and public affairs has the hearty approval of Dr. L. N. Duncan, Alabama extension service director, who has urged farm organization work from the beginning of the Farm Bureau movement in Alabama.

Dr. Duncan made known his position on this in a public statement issued today. He declared that such an organization is necessary for the farmers to keep step with profit by President Roosevelt's program for readjustment and improvement of agriculture in Alabama and other states of the nation.

"Farmers, like all other groups," he said, "must be organized thoroughly under their own leaders chosen by themselves to derive maximum benefit from the "new deal for agriculture" which is being developed and promoted so ardently by President Roosevelt and others in his administration. It pleases me greatly that the splendid farm leaders of Alabama are making a special effort to strengthen their Farm Bureau organization."

On the shift from business to federation and public affairs, Dr. Duncan quoted from the State Farm Bureau constitution and endorsed it as follows:

"The object of this federation shall be through the united efforts of the county farm bureaus of the state to effectively organize, advance and improve, in every way possible, the agricultural interests of the great commonwealth of Alabama, economically, educationally, and socially, and to cooperate with the United States Department of Agriculture and our Land Grant Colleges in making effective a national planned program of agriculture."

MORE PARK LAND GRANTED BY ALGER-SULLIVAN CO.

Montgomery.—Eighty acres of attractive park land has been donated to the State Commission of Forestry by the Alger-Sullivan Lumber Co., as an addition to the Little River State Park, according to a statement issued by the Commission. Twenty acres of the newly added area is entirely covered with Flowering Dogwood. On a part of the tracts are three springs, any one of which furnishes enough water to supply a sizeable village. The water is clear and cool and gushes from banks of white gravel. The lower part of the area is covered with such ornamental trees and shrubs and Red Bay, Sweet Bay, Loblolly Bay, Sour Wood, Mountain Laurel, Pinxter Flower and native Elder. Most of the higher ground is well covered with young Long-leaf Pine. A savannah tract near Little River is partly covered with tall young Slash Pine.

The little River State Park was originally founded through the public spirit of the Alger-Sullivan Lumber Co., who donated the first tracts of land for the purpose. Large additions were made through grants from the Blacksher Co., of Mobile, and the second donation by the Alger-Sullivan Lumber Co., which brings the total area to 1120 acres. It is expected that a work camp will be established at the park in the near future to carry on its development.

Estimates place the annual loss to farmers of the United States as a result of erosion at 200 million dollars. Most of this loss could be prevented by the planting of good cover crops, such as Austrian winter peas, hairy vetch, and crimson clover.

Reports from the wheat belt show that county committees have already signed up about 70 per cent of the nation's wheat farmers in agreements to cooperate in cutting the wheat surplus. Nearly 100 per cent cooperation is expected.

A tentative allocation of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 for the construction of a fertilizer plant at Muscle Shoals has been announced by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, Tennessee Valley Authority Chairman, who said the allocation was conditioned on the result of experiments now being conducted.

CANNED GOODS ON PANTRY SHELVES

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 17. — Alabama pantry shelves are heavily laden with canned and preserved foods for winter use.

Home demonstration agents of the state have reported to Miss Margaret Garrett, extension specialist in food preservation, that farm women have filled around 6 million containers with fruits and vegetables.

This work was done during the summer and fall, and, according to Miss Garrett, presents an excellent example of what can be accomplished through cooperation. The relief agencies of Alabama and the extension service, represented by county home and farm demonstration agents, Miss Garrett, and Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, cooperated with the educational program which resulted in the saving of this large quantity of food.

"Much suffering will be alleviated as a result of this provision for the winter needs of many citizens of the state," Miss Garrett commented.

During the spring and summer 48 training schools in food preservation were held and Miss Garrett, home demonstration agents and relief workers instructed 2,394 farm women leaders to assist them in carrying out the canning program as a service to people on relief rolls and others.

As a result a cooperative canning program was conducted in 57 of the 67 counties of the state. In most of the counties canning centers were established which served as a means of getting food canned and also for instruction. In all, 1,162 such community canning centers were in operation.

FACTS MUST BUILD ROADS NOW

Milwaukee, Oct. 17.—"The day of highway hysteria is over. The bubbling good roads booster, with his sentimental appeal, must be replaced by the highway economist armed with sound plans, fundamental facts regarding the dividend-producing aspects of improved highways and convincing proof of the equity of proposed highway tax collection and distribution."

This statement was made by Frank T. Sheets, consulting engineer and former chief engineer of the Illionis state highway department, in an address at the annual convention of the American Association of state highway officials.

"Rational planning is the salvation of the highway industry," declared Mr. Sheets. "Lack of it spells ruin. The alarming invasion of road funds in recent years, climaxed by the diversion of hundreds of millions of the highway dollars to uses utterly foreign, and accompanied by the crippling of state highway departments and grave cessation of construction activity, can only be stopped by the arousing of public opinion to the fighting pitch of positive action."

Mr. Sheets pointed out that inevitably the burden of leadership in the important work of informing the public falls upon state highway officials. He asserted that individual prejudices must be stiffled, pre-conceived ideas discarded and basic facts recognized as the true governor of high planning and distribution of highway revenues.

"A state-wide traffic survey is almost indispensible as a guide of rational highway planning," Mr. Sheets said. "It should develop complete information regarding the volume, character and distribution of traffic on city streets and on primary, or state, secondary, or county trunk, and tertiary, or township highways.

"Another invaluable tool for the planner of highway programs is the economic survey. Such a survey should reveal the sources and distribution of highway revenues, general revenues, and so forth."

Mr. Sheets recommended that the economic survey embrace facts on the collection of high revenues in rural areas and in municipalities in different population groups and that it be learned how these highway revenues are expended in relationship to payment by the population groups. From these basic facts he said that a logical plan of expenditure could be developed.

In conclusion Mr. Sheets said: "Today's chaotic highway conditions are a challenge. The highway case can and must be proved. Only in this way can the public's best interests be served. Never before in highway history have the needs for intelligent leadership been more pressing, the opportunity for public service greater, or the potential benefits of rational and diversified highway development more attractive."

BOX SUPPER FOR FLOYD CHURCH

Everybody is invited to come to Mr. T. A. Pickett's home on Saturday night, October 28th, to a box supper. The box supper is for the benefit of Floyd church. Mr. Prickett lives about 10 miles south of Clanton and 5 miles west of Verbena. Everybody come and bring some one with you.

Leading varieties of oats for Alabama are Texas Red Rutproof, Appler, Fulghum, 100 Bushel and Norton. All of these varieties have a high degree of red rustproof resistance except Norton, which is very susceptible to this disease.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PARDON OR PAROLE

ALABAMA GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17.—The approach of the open season for hunting ducks has prompted this "believe it or not" from Rep. T. Sidney Frazer of Bullock County.

It was during the last hunting season, the Union Springs attorney said, when a boy came to his door and told him to look out and behold the sight of his life.

He stepped to the porch and beheld the delightful sight of 26 ducks scattered about on his private pond. Snatching his wife's gun from the wall, Col. Frazer rushed into the yard and fired two shots.

"Two fine ducks fell," he said.

"I fired another shot, and two more ducks fell."

"How's that for shooting."

The duck hunting season opens November 16 and from then until January 15 the nimrods of the state will be shooting from blinds every morning at sunrise, except in certain spots of Mobile Bay where Monday and Tuesday are "rest days" for ducks. When these days fall on a holiday, they are open for duck hunting.

The bureau of biological survey at Washington has set the bag limit this year at 12 ducks. Good duck hunting depends largely upon the food supply and from present indications Mobile waters will afford excellent grounds this season. The gulf coast probably is the greatest winter concentration point for ducks on this continent, and annually thousands of mallards, green and blue-winged teal, scaups and shovelers visit the coast. Many of these ducks and some geese choose the lakes and swamps in the Tennessee Valley.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

European, Game, Bantam and Miscellaneous Breeds of Chickens.

A number of breeds of Continental European origin are recognized as standard breeds in the American Standard of Perfection, very few of them, however, have gained great popularity nor have they become of considerable economic significance, and because of these reasons they will be mentioned only briefly.

For a more complete description of the European breeds and varieties the readers are advised to consult the "Standard of Perfection," published by the American Poultry Association (1930), Robinson (1924-25) and Jull (1926). Also, for further information concerning breeds not included in the Standard of Perfection, the following should be consulted: Brown (1929).

The Houdon is a French breed and like the Dorking, is five toed. The Houdon gained considerable prominence in France because of its laying and meat-producing qualities. In America, however, it does not hold a very prominent place in the industry. It has a well-developed crest, a beard and a V-shaped comb. There are two varieties, the mottled and the white.

The Frauerallies originated in France and crosses involving the Houdon, Brahma, and possibly other breeds. In France it has proved to be a good table bird, but has not gained prominence elsewhere. It has a beard, muffs and feathered shanks.

The Solmon is the only standard variety recognized in America, although in France there are also the light and the black. Other continental European breeds of less importance are The Crevecoeur, La Fleke, campine, Buttercup, Polish, Hamburg, Malay and the Sumatra.

The game breed includes a number of varieties, but as a group it has certain definite characteristics. The birds are very striking in appearance, close-fitting plumage, stand upright, great width of the shoulders, sloping backs and drooping tails, single comb, and lay brown-shelled eggs, and are classed as broody breed. The varieties of the Game class include the Black-Breasted Red, Brown Red, Golden Duckwing, Silver Duckwing, Birchen, Red Pyle, White and Black.

Bantams are kept by many to whom the type appeals and who take in working out the breeding problem that it presents. The development of various color patterns, is also an incentive in bantam breeding. Also many young boys and girls may readily keep a pen of bantams, which in turn frequently leads to an interest in larger fowls. The breeds of bantams include miniatures of the varieties of Games, and a number of ornamental breeds.

Three misellaneous breeds recognized as standard in America include the Frizzle, with its peculiar development of the feathers which show a tendency to curve outwards at their ends, the Silkie, with its blue skin and silky appearing feather formation, and the Sultan, with its V-shaped comb, a crest, muffs, beard and vulture hocks.

Of the other miscellaneous breeds in the world today, only two will be mentioned because of their peculiar characteristics. The Yokohama, of Japanese origin, is interesting from the fact that some of the tail and saddle feathers are developed to extreme length, sometimes as long as 20 feet. The Araucano of South American origin, is of interest, because it has a peculiar growth of feathers on each side of the neck, is frequently rumpless, and lays a light blue tinted egg.

PLEASANT VALLEY B. Y. P. U. WILL GIVE BENEFIT PARTY

A benefit party (something on the order of a Halloween party) will be given by Pleasant Valley B. Y. P. U. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Burkhalter on Saturday night, October 21. Proceeds from the party will be used for B. Y. P. U. and finish paying for piano. Everyone who is interested is invited to be present at the party. There will be fun for old and young.

Prof. J. Alex Moore of Montevallo was in Clanton Monday.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS

Peach Tree Borers

Now is the time to put paradichlorobenzine, or crystal gas, around your peach trees for effective control of the worms that cut your trees so badly just beneath the surface of the ground.

Sweet Potatoes

You should dig your sweet potatoes before frost. They keep in stroage better if dug prior to frost.

Vetch and Austrian Peas

At our meeting at Auburn in August Director Funches advised planting Austrian peas in Central Alabama from the 15th of October to the 15th of November, but preferably the last half of October. Every farmer in the county should try to get some vetch and Austrian Peas planted during the next 20 days. Get your seed and inoculation and be ready to plant as soon as you get a rain.

Weevils in Corn

If you expect to treat your corn for weevils, close up the cracks in your corn crib before you store the corn. If your corn crib is tight, one and one-half gallons of carbon disulphide, or high life, for each 1,000 cubic feet of space may be expected to control the weevils.

LITTLEJOHN REUNION

After a serious illness of Mr. Tom Littlejohn, of Lawley, relatives of Clanton and vicinity visited him and and family Sunday, October 15, 1933.

A most bountiful dinner was served to forty-eight guests. Although grandpa was unable to be up but enjoyed the day and dinner in bed. The ones that were present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Littlejohn and daughter, Lena; Mr. and Mrs. John Littlejohn; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Littlejohn and daughter, Eran; Mr. and Mrs. George Foshee and children, Ruby, Georgia, Nell, and Estelle; Mr. and Mrs. Will Burks and Davy Kimbel; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Avery and son, Delbert; Mr. and Mrs. Mack D. Messer and children, Louise, Don, Maxine; Mr. and Mrs. Miner Littlejohn; Mrs. J. R. Baker and children, Loyce and Earle; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Littlejohn and son, Howard; Mrs. E. H. Littlejohn, son and daughter, Woodfin and Lou Oline; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Watson and son, Earbie Lee, Jr.; Mrs. Rushell Shoults; Mrs. Dixie Cray and children, Monta Loue, Bonetta, Hollie, Gertrude, and Zendale.

The day was enjoyed by all. Hoping to meet you all again.—Mrs. Sadie Watson.

VEMONT JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Parent-Teachers Association will meet at the building on next Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. This will be the first meeting since the opening of school. All members and those who are interested in our school and community activities are requested to be present. Plans of vital importance, concerning this year's school program, will be discussed.

The players began practicing this week on a tip-top comedy drama play which will be presented at the school building about the middle of November. This is a play for all groups, both young and old, to enjoy. The best talent available has been drafted to present it and a good time is assured for all.

Miss Cagle, our sixth grade teacher, and instructor of Jr. High English, called the large girls together last week and drew up plans for organizing a girls' athletic club. We hope to get our ball by next week and get our team organized for playing.

The boys have erected their basket ball goals and they too, hope to begin practicing this week. Even though they are inexperienced, they are highly enthusiastic and are working hard to build up a new, yet good team.

We are proud to have T. J. Ratliff, a former student of Isabella Jr. High School, to join our nineth grade class.

Miss Dorothy Manning, primary teacher, spent the week end at home with her brother, Oliver, who is there for a brief visit. He is student of the State Agriculture College at Auburn, Alabama.

The Liberty Hill quartet has promised to present a musical program for our school in the near future. These boys are real talented singers and we trust that plans can be completed for them to be with us.

We are glad to announce that many of the pupils who have been withheld from school on account of sore eyes and whooping cough are now enrolling. We expect the enrollment to be above one hundred and fifty by the end of this week.

BRIEF RURAL ITEMS

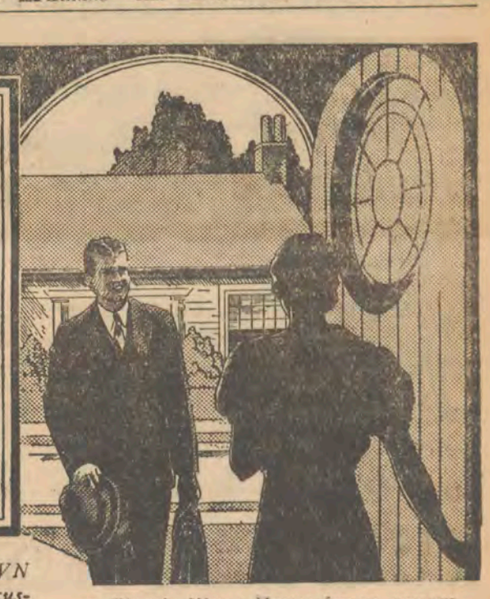
FOURTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

An ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN for Mrs. BROWN



A conversation between MRS. BROWN (who is typical of more than 6,000 customers of this company whose use of electricity has been averaging between 80 and 130 kilowatt hours of electricity a month) and a REPRESENTATIVE of this company who is explaining the effect of our new low rates on her use of our service.

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Brown. Have you heard about our new low rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. BROWN: "Yes, and I've been hoping they would make it possible for me to have an all-electric kitchen."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "I believe they will, Mrs. Brown. Let's see, you already have an Electric Refrigerator and some small appliances, haven't you?"
- MRS. BROWN: "Yes. We used 100 kilowatt hours of electric service last month. The bill as I recall was $4.75."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Then if you continue using the same amount of electricity, Mrs. Brown, your bill will drop to $4.05—a reduction of 70 cents a month. The new rate also entitles you to use 17 more kilowatt hours of electricity per month absolutely free!"
- MRS. BROWN: "What will those 17 kilowatt hours do?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "On your rate, Mrs. Brown, 17 kilowatt hours will operate an electric iron 30 hours, a waffle iron 30 hours, a 10-inch fan 340 hours, a percolator 30 hours, or a vacuum cleaner 170 hours. Or you can increase the lighting in and around your home about 50 per cent."
- MRS. BROWN: "More electricity for less money—that's good news!"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "And here's better news: your new rate will enable you to add an Electric Range to the appliances you are now using for an average monthly cost of $1.61 more than you've been paying, or an Electric Water Heater for an average monthly cost of $3.49 more than you've been paying."
- MRS. BROWN: "What do the range and water heater cost?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "We have ranges from $100 to $300, and at present, water heaters for $99.50 and up."
- MRS. BROWN: "I wish I could go ahead and make my kitchen all-electric, but I'm afraid we can't afford to invest in any more equipment just yet."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You needn't decide to buy the equipment now. We'll rent it to you for a small sum per month. The rental is all you contract to pay. In this way you begin at once to enjoy the benefits of Alabama's new low-cost electricity without having to invest in the equipment."
- MRS. BROWN: "How much is the rental?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "The range rents for $2 a month—or slightly less than 7c a day; the water heater for $1.45 a month, or less than 5c a day. In other words, you can rent and operate an Electric Range for about 12½c a day, or an Electric Water Heater for about 16½c a day!"
- MRS. BROWN: "I never dreamed it could cost so little! Will you please call again tomorrow? I'll talk this over with Mr. Brown this very night, and we'll decide whether we will order the range or the water heater or both."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Thank you, Mrs. Brown. I don't wish to hurry you, but we have only 500 ranges and 250 water heaters to rent, and they're going fast. The new low rates already are in effect. So you can't lose, except by putting off your decision. Good day, Ma'am."

ARE you in Mrs. Brown's class? If so, you are in a position to get astounding bargains in electric service by increasing your use of electricity on our new low rates and Rental Plan. Get what's coming to you! Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative immediately.

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Our advertisement in the next issue of this newspaper will explain how the new rates affect our customers who have been using a monthly average of 200 kilowatt hours of electricity. WATCH FOR IT!

FIRE IN CLANTON EARLY LAST TUESDAY NIGHT

Fire seriously damaged the home of Miss Rena Rembert in Clanton about eight o'clock Tuesday night. The blaze was discovered by neighbors who turned in the alarm., The fire department answered the call and promptly subdued the flames.

Miss Rembert, who lives alone, had already retired to sleep, and did not know of the fire until awakened and rescued by Benson Sims, a member of the fire department.

Mr. Julian P. Evans has returned from Birmingham where he spent several days.

Mrs. F. A. Gulledge Died Tuesday Night

Mrs. Cordelia Ann Collier Gulledge, wife of F. A. Gulledge, prominent merchant and retired business man of Verbena, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of that section, died Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at her home, following an illness of long duration.

For the past five years Mrs. Gulledge has been an invalid, being entirely helpless since a fall almost three years ago resulted in a broken hip. Since tha ttime she has been unable to even propel her wheel chair about the home.

In her death Verbena lost one of its most revered citizens. Mrs. Gulledge was prominently known throughout the entire state because of her interest in old Indian remedies, which were taught her by an old Indian herb doctor during her girlhood in Coosa County.

Especially had she been successful in the treatment of cancers. Until her health began failing, scores of persons from all sections of the state sought her advice and treatment for this malady. Mrs. Gulledge was instrumental in the accomplishment of much good, physically and morally, during the fourscore years she lived.

Born October 30, 1845 at Buyckville, in Elmore County, Mrs. Gulledge lvied to the venerable age of 88. She was the daughter of William W. Collier and Mrs. Mahaley Brooks Collier. Her father died when she was very young and she removed with her mother to Coosa County when she was 11 years of age.

She was married December 21, 1868 to F. A. Gulledge; they continued to make their residence in Coosa County until 1877 when they removed to Verbena. Mr. Gulledge engaged in the mercantile business and the Gulledge family has long been one of the most prominent families in the county.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Verbena Methodist church, of which she was a member, with the Rev. Cecil Ellisor officiating. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Gulledge are: Her husband, F. A. Gulledge; two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Oliver, and Mrs. Samuel Scott; three sons, J. H., W. A., and C. E. Gulledge, all of Verbena. She is also survived by eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The following friends served as active pallbearers: Hugh Champion, Red Rutland, Charles Lewis, Hubert Hammell, Jesse Jones, and Hobson Rutland.

Honorary pallbearers were: E. B. Williamson, R. L. Williamson, G. H. Caffey, D. I. Deramus, Barnett Deramus, F. A. Rutland, J. M. Hurtt, and Floyd Irvin.

Martin and Sons were in charge.

10-cent Cotton Loans Now Available

FARMERS TO MAKE APPLICATION THRU OFFICE OF COUNTY AGENT

Warehousemen, Ginners and Bankers Will Aid Farmers In Complying

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, announces this week that arrangements have been completed for all cotton farmers who so desire to come to his office and execute the necessary papers and present the same to any bank in the county and draw 10 cents a pound (less 15 cents per bale) on their cotton. The 15 cents per bale is for postage, exchange, etc.

A meeting of bankers and warehousemen was held at Mr. Stapp's office Tuesday night. Those assembled voted unanimously to cooperate in the movement one hundred per cent in making loans to the farmers at 10 cents a pound for their cotton.

In the mail Wednesday letters went to all cotton farmers informing them that the 10 cent loan plan is now open and available to them. Various important details of the plan were explained.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found an article which fully conveys to the farmers all details of the operation of the cotton loan plan.

Under the plan cotton can be handled through any warehouse in the county. See your warehouseman and he can tell you about your receipt and sample. The loan is available to any producer of cotton.

Mr. Stapp desires to wait on all applicants as soon as possible. But he will doubtless be rushed, and farmers are requested not to press too hastily for their applications.

COTTON COOPERATIVE PARITY PRICE PLAN

The declared policy of the National Administration and the Seventy-Third Congres is to restore the pre-war exchange value of the basic agricultural commodities. Congress, at the request of the President, provided the legal authority and the means through the Agricultural Adjustment Act to that end. With the cooperation of farmers, the administration has within its power the ability to complete the task at will. According to the Department of Agriculture, 14.9 cents per pound is the present parity price for cotton, and it is advancing.

While prices of the designated basic agricultural commodities have been improved, operations of the NRA have resulted in largely offsetting such gains. The exchange value of cotton in terms of food and clothing necessities is now reported as being less than it was a year ago. Furthermore, the price of cotton is now only 59.4 per cent of the pre-war price, while the things farmers buy have risen to 116 per cent of their pre-war price.

The hope of the NRA that manufacturers and distributors reemploy their former help is largely based upon increased buying power of farmers, and the hope is futile unless farm buying power at least equals that of pre-war days.

Ten cent cotton and seventy-five cent wheat will not answer the purpose.

Farm prices can be returned to the pre-war level in the same way that prices have been maintained by industry—that is, by controlling production within the volume that may be absorbed at a satisfactory price.

Precedent for the pre-war parity price is contained in the marketing agreement between the manufacturers and producers of flue-cured tobacco and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture. While Tobacco producers

Singing Sunday At Courthouse

There will be singing in the new books at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon. The hour to begin is 1:30, and the singers of the county have an invitation to attend and lend their help in the singing. There is a supply of both the Stamps and Henson books on hand—plenty of either kind for a large class; so do not stay away for fear of not having a book all to yourself. And there will be books for sale, in case some one wants to carry a copy home with them.

This is a kind of adjourned session of the county singing convention, to be held jointly with the Central Singing society, in which all societies of the county are expected to participate. The election of officers for the county convention will be had at some time during the afternoon. Don't forget, the singing will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

A DOUBLE BABY WEDDING PERFORMED BY A. L. FOSHEE

A double wedding, in which the youngest children from four different families were the principals, was performed by and at the home of Rev. A. L. Foshee at early candlelight last Saturday night. The contracting parties were: Raymond Smith to Miss Mary Scarbrough, and Homer Smith to Miss Allie Pearl Kelley.

The young grooms seemed to be particularly thrilled at having the opportunity of placing a wedding ring on the brides' fingers. The young couples, happy over their adventure, left immediately after the ceremony for Montgomery. Their many friends wish them much joy.

Mary Scarbrough is the daughter of Cleve Scarbrough of Birmingham, and Allie Pearl Kelley is the daughter of Elzie Kelley of Clanton. The two Smith boys are well known in the Liberty Hill community in which is their homes.

CLANTON PARADE WAS EXTRA GOOD

Chilton County Section Was Best of All In Loyalty Day March

Strictly according to schedule as announced last week, and with perhaps greater success than any of us expected, Chilton County had a fine representation in the NRA parade in Montgomery last Thursday afternoon.

Modesty alone restrains us from asserting that the Chilton County section of the parade was the most beautiful and most impressive of any division in the long train of exhibitions extending over two miles of the capital city streets.

The Clanton float was received all along the line of parade with much cheering from the spectators. "Miss Chilton County," otherwise Miss Corinne Polk, represented "Miss Liberty" on the float, and was accompanied by "Miss Clanton," who is Miss Ova Lee McCutcheon, and also Misses Lillian Smith, Celia Gerald, Mary Courtney Jones, Helen Moore, Ruth Gowan, and Elizabeth Gragg. The float was "drawn" in the parade by "Uncle Sam", who was impersonated very impressively by John VanDerveer, Jr.

Mounted at the front of Clanton's float was a real eagle, the property of Dr. V. J. Gragg, who captured him recently at Bud Baker's pond near Clanton.

Marching in the Chilton County section were hundreds of citizens, including city and county officials, school children, headed by the Comer Band, from Sycamore.

Not satisfied with parading in Montgomery, it was determined that the people of Chilton County should also have a chance to witness the demonstration of loyalty at home. It was, therefore, decided to stage the NRA loyalty parade in Clanton Saturday afternoon.

Plans were laid for all local organizations to take part. The float was kept intact, and many other features were added to that which appeared in Montgomery. The Sidney Lanier High School band was secured, and everything made ready for a great occasion here.

The parade was formed at the Chilton County High School at two o'clock Saturday afternoon. Headed by the band, the march was made up Second Avenue west to the Wilson Hotel, north to Fourth Avenue, east to Seventh Street, and south to Second Avenue. Here the parade disbanded. Surrounded by thousands of interested persons, Judge Loyd Tate of Wetumpka, spoke to them about the purposes of the NRA.

Represented in the parade Saturday were many communities of the county. Thorsby contributed a beautiful float, accompanied by a large following of school children. The colored school children of Clanton, under their teacher, E. W. Burt, made a splendid showing of their patriotism and loyalty.

All things considered, it must be said that last week's demonstrations proved that Chilton County has a very commendable interest and loyalty to the purposes of NRA.

NOTICE TO SOLDIER BOYS

All ex-service men in the county are requested to meet at the courthouse in Clanton at one o'clock Thursday, in order that we may form for ceremonies at the burial of our departed comrade, Thomas M. Parrish. Come if you can.

This Week Is For Church Pay-Up

Joint Campaign By Baptist and Methodists Is Going Very Slow

Methodists and Baptists of Clanton are reminded that this week is the time set for "Pay Up and Stay Paid Up" campaign of those two churches. The drive was officially begun last Sunday, and will end on next Sunday.

Teams of workers have been organized by the official boards of the two churches. These workers will go out this week with an allotted list of church members to see and to solicit payment of church obligations.

In the window at Upchurch Drug Store there is a big sign showing the picture of two thermometers. One represents the Baptists and the other the Methodists. Daily reports will be made to the financial secretaries from which the "temperatures" in the thermometers will rise to show the progress that is being made.

Church members are urged to take seriously this effort to pay up the current operating expenses. The bulk of our church deficits constitute unpaid salaries we owe our pastors. It will not take much to square the accounts. Just a small bit from each member will do it. Then if each member will do his or her part regularly, it will be easy to keep the finances of our churches out of the red.

Lots of us church members get aggrivated because somebody is always talking about money. The reason somebody has to keep talking about money is because so few of us pay our parts regularly. Remember this. If you pay your part, there will not be anybody worrying about paying. You will not even have to worry yourself.

"Pay up and Stay Paid Up" and you will enjoy your religion a heap better. Try it this week and from now on.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TO BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

Parents and teachers of Chilton County are urged to remember the District Parent-Teachers Conference to be at Thorsby Saturday of this week, beginning at ten o'clock a.m. Each community is requested to send representatives, and all who come are expected to bring lunches.

The program will be in the nature of a school of instruction, and will be very valuable to all people who are interested in the furtherance of our schools.

PORK IS READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

Dates and Places Where People Are Asked to Apply Are Announced

Miss Austin, of the Chilton County Relief Administration, announces that the allotment of pork to relief workers in Chilton County has arrived, and is ready to be distributed.

The following schedule of dates and places is announced at which pork will be issued:

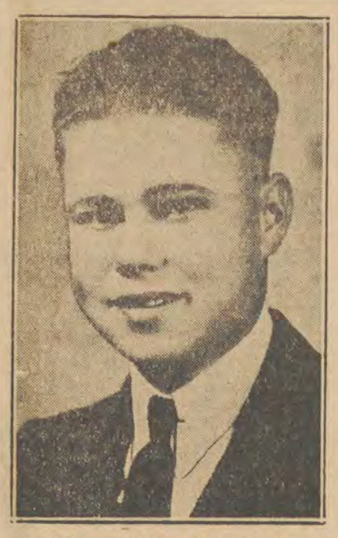
Friday, October 27, from 9 o'clock to noon, at Thorsby, Beat 9; Coopers, Beat 10; Maplesville, Beat 7; Jemison, Beat 2.

Friday, October 27, one o'clock to four o'clock p.m., Rasberry's Store, Beat 14; Verbena, Beat 5; Stanton, Beat 8; Shaw's Store, Beat 13.

Saturday, October, 28, nine o'clock to noon, at Clanton, for relief workers of Beats 4, 11, 3, 1, 6, and 16, at the Red Cross room; Pletcher, Beat 15; Union Grove, Beat 12.

Distribution of pork will be made only to those who are certified as relief workers. Everybody is cautioned to go to the places above specified for your Beats. You can not get pork at other places.

It is pointed out by Miss Austin that distribution of pork is a move on the part of the government for direct relief, becuase other means heretofore employed for relief have been inadequate to fully meet the needs of the people.



REV. HARRY B. MILLER

REVIVAL MEETING AT FOURSQUARE

Rev. Harry B. Miller, 19-year-Old Boy Evangelist Is The Preacher

A revival is in progress at the Clanton Foursquare Church this week, with services every night at 7:00 p.m., in charge of Rev. Harry B. Miller, 19-year old "boy "evangelist" of Hollywood, California.

Rev. Miller is a graduate of the Lighthouse of International Foursquare Evangelism, at Los Angeles, California, a very interesting speaker, and an accomplished singer and musician. He comes to Clanton from Concordia, Kansas, having just finished a campaign there.

Particularly interesting and attractive to the younger people is this young man. Knowing the views of a young person he presents his inspiring message in a manner that makes them comprehensive and easily understood.

The entire public is extended a sincere welcome to attend these different and interesting messages presented by Mr. Miller.

The messages of the coming week are as follows:

Thursday, October 26, "God's Trade Mark."

Friday, October 27, "Boomerangs Everywhere."

Saturday, October 28, "The End of the Rainbow," or "The Road to Happiness."

Sunday, October 29, "Short Beds and Scanty Covers."

Monday, October 30, "My Fraternity T.S.E.S.A."

Tuesday, October 31, "Dead Broke and Homesick," or "From Pigs to Palaces."

Wednesday, November 1, "The question Every Man Should Ask His Wife."

SONS OF MRS. ABERNATHY

In the report of the death of Mrs. D. N. Abernathy in last week's paper, the name of one of her sons, T. N. Abernathy, of Mt. Creek, was omitted. We regret this omission, but it was unavoidable, since the party who furnished us with the information did not give us the name.

MAPLESVILLE TO STAGE BIG LIVE STOCK SALE

Daddy Fox and Col. Bob Little are engaged for a mammoth auction sale of live stock at Maplesville, where they have listed for disposal 50 head of beef cattle, 12 milch cows, 10 good farm mules, a big lot of farm implements and some second hand automobiles.

They announce that anybody in the neighborhood of Maplesville, who has anything they want to dispose of, may see them and arrange for entry in the big auction sale.

Buyers will be present from Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Montgomery, Selma. With competitive bids from these four markets, as well as local people interested, it is pointed out that the sale will be an interesting event and prices will be good. The date of the sale will be announced later.

CIRCUIT COURT BEGINS HERE NEXT WEEK—RUNS TWO WEEKS

The July term of the circuit court of Chilton County opens at the Courthouse in Clanton Monday morning of next week, October 30th. The civil docket will run through Thursday of the first week. The criminal docket begins Monday, November 6th, and runs through Friday of that week.

Hon. F. Lloyd Tate of Wetumpka will be presiding judge, with Winston Huddleston solicitor.

EXECUTIVE ORDER EXEMPTS TOWNS OF LESS THAN 2,500 IN POPULATION

Roosevelt Calls For Investigation of Increase In Price of Commodities

Washington, Oct. 23.—The text of President Roosevelt's executive order exempting from the president's reemployment agreement "employers . . . . who do not employ more than five persons and who are located in towns of less than 2,500 population," follows:

Executive Order

n order to effectuate the policy of Title I, of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 15, 1933, and to provide for equitable enforcement of agreements heretofore made with the president and codes approved by the president under said act, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States, pursuant to the authority vested in me by Title I, of said National Industrial Recovery Act, hereby prescribe the following rules and regulations which shall have the effect of modifying any inconsistent provisions of any order, approval rule or regulation heretofore issued under Title I, of said Act.

The provisions of the president's reemployment agreement, issued July 27, 1933, shall not be held to apply to employers engaged only locally in retail trade or in local service industries (and not in a business in or affecting interstate commerce) who do not employ more than five persons and who are located in towns of less than 2,500 population (according to the 1930 federal census) which are not in the immediate trade area of a city of larger population, except so far as such employers who have signed the president's reemployment agreement desire to comply with the terms of said agreement after the date of this order; and this release of such employers who have heretofore signed the president's reemployment agreement shall be further extended so as to release to the same extent all such employers of obligations not voluntarily assumed under the provisions of a code of fair competition approved by the president. This exemption is intended to relieve small enterprises in small towns from fixed obligations which might impose exceptional hardship; but it is expected that all such enterprises will conform to the fullest extent possible with the requirements which would be otherwise obligatory upon them.

In view of the general increases in prices which may or may not be justified in specific instances by increased costs caused by compliance with the president's reemployment agreement, or with approved codes of fair competition, the administrator for industrial recovery is hereby directed to cause to be conducted such investigations as may be necessary to determine the extent to which manufacturers and producers have increased prices following, or in anticipation of, the approval of codes of fair competition, or after the signing of the president's reemployment agreement, and to set up adequate organizations for the handling of complaints against such price increase and of local complaints against retail price increases alleged to be contrary to he requirements of codes of fair competition, or the president's reemployment agreement, or in conflict with the policy of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

Baptist Revival Begins Sunday

Rev. W. P. Reeves of Tuskegee Will Preach. Fred Bond is the Singer

A revival meeting will begin at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday, October 29, and continue for one week, ending Sunday night, November 8.

Rev. W. P. Reeves, of Tuskegee will do the preaching. He is one of the most outstanding Baptist preachers in Alabama. In the past he has been pastor of the First Baptist church, at Albany, and the First Baptist church at Jackson, Tennessee.

Fred Bond, singer, of Birmingham, will have charge of the music during the revival. Mr. Bond was here in a revival two years ago.

TWO WRECKS SATURDAY NIGHT

Spurgeon Calloway was called to haul in two wrecks between midnight Saturday and daylight Sunday morning.

A Ford coupe was wrecked between Clanton and Thorsby, in which a lady from Montgomery was severely hurt. The people in the car were brought to Clanton and given medical aid, and went on home Sunday morning.

The second wreck occurred South of Clanton. A lady from Florida was driving alone, going North. Her car a Ford coupe, got off the pavement and turned over. She was not hurt. The car was repaired of minor damages, and she continued on her journey.

A PETRIFIED BLOCK OF WOOD

The Union-Banner has come into possession of a petrified block of wood. It is about a foot in length and about the same in diameter. It appears to be a block from a hickory log, with part of the bark still on it. The weight is about three hundred pounds.

The curious formation came from the farm of B. G. Johnson about 8 miles west of Clanton. Mr. Johnson a few years ago bought the farm known as the old Headley place. The rock was in Mr. Johnson's pasture, but was up on dry land that had been cleared years ago. It may be seen at The Union-Banner office.

11 BOYS SENT TO FORESTRY CAMP

Will Receive two Weeks Training at Fort Benning, Georgia

The Chilton County relief office Tuesday sent eleven boys to Birmingham for enlistment in the forestry conservation service. From Birmingham they went to Camp Benning, Georgia, where they will have two weeks preliminary training before going into the forestry camps.

Following is the list of boys who went: Walter Hefner, Lawley; Clarence Jones, Verbena; Arlie Bone, Maplesville; Edgar Bullard, Verbena; George Wilson, Clanton; Woodrow Rockett, Cooper; W. J. Cummings, Maplesville; Noble Smith, Robert Avery, L. C. Langston, Jemison; Curtis Carter, Clanton.

Three negroes were sent to Birmingham Wednesday for enlistment in the service, as follows: Joe Wilson, Verbena; Alvin Barber, Clanton; J. D. Averytt, Clanton.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY WILL INFORM ITS CUSTOMERS

Beginning this week the Alabama Power Company will carry a series of advertisements, the purpose of which is to acquaint the people of Alabama with some vital facts, historical and otherwise, relating to the company.

As indicated by the first of this series this week, these messages will make interesting reading to the people of the state. They contain some things that not only every customer of the power company but every citizen of the state should know. Turn to the adv., elsewhere in this paper and read it. Then watch for the subsequent ones to appear in The Union-Banner later.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar, Leon and Reese Mullins spent Sunday in Birmingham.

THOS. M. PARRISH DIED IN HOSPITAL

Funeral at Clanton Baptist Church at 2 P.M. On Thursday

Thomas M. Parrish, former business man, of Clanton, and veteran of the World War, died at Veterans Hospital in Tuscaloosa late Tuesday evening. For several years past Mr. Parrish had been suffering with pellagra. He went to the Tuscaloosa Hospital about three weeks ago, in a very serious condition.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Aisle Mims Parrish, and one daughter, Miss Edith Parrish. He was a member of one of the old pioneer families of Chilton County, a son of the late Bill Parrish.

Funeral services will be at Clanton Baptist church at two o'clock on Thursday. Martin will have charge of the burial, and members of the American Legion will honor their departed comrade with appropriate rites.

A big fox chase in Beat 16 was enjoyed Tuesday night by several sportsmen of Chilton County.

COTTON MILL PAY ROLLS DOUBLED UNDER NRA CODE

Washington. — Declaring employment figures in the cotton textile industry are back to predepression levels as a result of the NRA", and the weekly payrolls of cotton mills 100 per cent higher than on March 1, 1933, George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, in his annual report just published said:

"The 40-hour week reduced the work week 25 per cent. During the last week of August the number on pay rolls had increased 140,000 over last March. The average wage for seven groups in 1932 that earned more than the minimum wage now prescribed by the code was 34.9 cents an hour. In August 1933 the average for the same groups was 43.9 cents an hour. Furthermore, the August 1933 rate was about 40 per cent in excess of the code minimum."

Mesdames Benson Sims and Tom Tiffin spent the week end in Tuscaloosa.

THE PRICE OF COTTON

It is high time for the Federal Government's machinery to begin functioning in the matter of loans to cotton farmers, seeing that recent sags in the market have cost Texas and the South tens of millions of dollars. Government action advancing 10c a pound on low middling seven-eighths inch staple and 8c on shorter lengths may help to steady the market. But one wonders why federal agencies did not decide to lend 15c a pound instead of a dime, when all the world knows that if parity is aimed at, the figure offered is inadequate. The American Cotton Cooperative Association takes the position, and with considerable weight of evidence on its side, "that cotton now is only 59 per cent of its prewar price, while articles farmers buy are 116 per cent. "Clearly cotton price is out of line. Any efforts toward farmer recovery in the South must aim at a substantially higher price.

Directors of the American Cotton Cooperative Association also take the view that the secretary of Agriculture has legal sanction to bring about the pre war parity in line with announced program. It is unfortunate that, when such powers have been placed in the hands of government officials they take their own good time to put remedial measures into operation. In the matter of cotton acreage reduction, steps were taken so late that farmers actually had to plow up whole fields in full fruit when more timely action could have prevented the planting of an excessive acreage, by far the cheapest method all around. As to distribution of Federal cotton checks, these would have done greater good had they been sent to farmers early in August as originally due. Coming largely in October they are still highly welcome and are greatly helping business conditions. Better late than never!

In Lynn P. Talley the administration has selected a man to head the new cotton credit corporation who has had long and varied acquaintance with cotton banking problems and who knows not only farmers but bankers and merchants. His Texas experiences alone will give him the needed background of intimate knowledge of a situation requiring special talents.

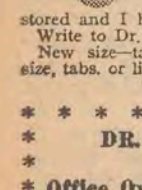
Mr. and Mrs. Charley Seibert of Birmingham spent the week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Taylor.

Mr. Jesse C. Jones, the barber, is confined to his bed with a complication of stomach trouble and malaria. He has been rather sick, but late reports say that he is somewhat improved.

A woman inquired of a negro porter the time of the train to Chicago. She then went to a white man and asked him.

The porter went to the white man afterwards and said, with a smile, "perhaps she will believe it, now she has it in black and white."

• INDIGESTION, GAS •



"I suffered from indigestion—a gassy condition—nothing agreed with me," said Carlie Craft of 1205 River Ave., Hattiesburg, Miss. "I was so nervous I couldn't sleep. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a short time my strength and general health were fully restored and I had no more indigestion." Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y. New size—tablets 50c, liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. "We Do Our Part."

"I am so happy my skin is now clear"

● And it is all so simple.

It only seemed yesterday she felt discouraged and so conscious of a pimply skin . . . now to have it clear . . . why, of course she is very happy.

A friend had urged her to do as she had done . . . reasoned that the "trouble" probably came from within the body—the blood.

She followed her advice to take S.S.S. Tonic . . . what happened? First, she felt better. Pep replaced a tired-worn-out-let-down-feeling . . . she awoke every morning more cheerful and gradually her skin took on a clear, healthy tone. Then when she added powder and lipstick . . . what a difference! Do you wonder she is happy? No more open dates now.

You owe it to yourself and associates to try S.S.S. Tonic . . . a very old, acceptable, successful product. It will not interfere with any other medicine you may desire to take at the same time.

S.S.S. is obtainable in any drug store . . . it is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

We invite you to take a course of S.S.S. Tonic . . . its positive action, demonstrated by modern scientific methods, is your guarantee of satisfaction—its benefits will surprise you.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

Lesson for October 29

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:11-14; 14:7-9, 15-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. Romans 13:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Laws Are Made.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Citizen.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Obey the Law?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Use of Personal Liberty.

I. Supreme Motive Governing the Life of a Christian.

The attitude of a Christian is that of eager expectancy. The time of salvation is drawing near. The salvation here mentioned is not that which we obtain in justification and sanctification, but is that which we get when our redemption is completed in glorification at the second coming of Christ. The reasons for this attitude of expectancy are that the night of Christ's absence is far spent and the day of his glorious appearing is at hand. The proper conduct in view of this is—

1. To put off the works of darkness (v. 12). These are reveling, drunkenness, chambering, wantonness, strife, and jealousy.

2. Put on the armor of light (v. 12). The figure here is of the Roman soldier who arose from sleep and cast aside his slumber robes and put on his gleaming armor.

3. Walk honestly as in the day (v. 13). The Christian, therefore, will so order his life that his conduct will conform to his high calling.

4. Put on the Lord Jesus Christ (v. 14). This means to enthrone Jesus Christ as the Lord of the life, to bring the life under his control. No provision is to be made for the flesh; no forethought is to be given to that which the carnal nature desires.

II. No Man Liveth unto Himself (Rom. 14:7-9).

The supreme purpose of Christ's death and resurrection was that he might be the Christian's Lord in life and in death. By virtue of Christ becoming one with the race, there can be no indifference of attitude toward him.

1. All must stand before the judgment seat of Christ. It is not to be a class judgment, but individual.

2. Account must be rendered unto God. Nothing can be concealed from him. Nothing can escape his judgment, for he is omniscient.

III. A Stumbling Block Should Not Be Placed in the Way of Another (Rom. 14:15-21).

A properly enlightened Christian may have perfect liberty concerning a matter so far as he himself is concerned, but this very liberty may become an occasion of stumbling to others. Two urgent reasons are set forth for the abridgment of our liberties in such cases—

1. We may destroy the weak brother for whom Christ died (v. 15). If it was worth while for Christ to die for a man, surely it is worth while that we should deny ourselves some privileges for his sake. Nor should this be deemed a hardship. Self-denial and cross-bearing attest the sincerity of the believer (Luke 9:23), who thus follows his Master.

2. We should not allow our good to be evil spoken of (v. 16). Liberty in Christ is a precious thing, which only love knows how to use. The proof that one is in the Kingdom of God and therefore ruled by the Holy Spirit is not by eating and drinking, but by living daily the love-life which is characterized as follows—

a. Righteousness (v. 17). This means honesty and integrity in all things.

b. Peace (v. 17). This means living at peace with each other. Peace among Christians is a powerful testimony for Christ that his Holy Spirit is in them.

c. Joy in the Holy Ghost (v. 17). Saved men will manifest this joy, for "He that in these things serveth Christ is acceptable to God and approved of men" (v. 18).

3. We should follow after things that make for peace, and edify one another (v. 19). He that causeth a weak brother to stumble, through exercise of his liberty, thus destroys the work of God.

4. We should abstain from meats and wines which offend the weak brother (vv. 21, 22). This is made possible by the exercise of faith in God.

IV. The Christian Should Please His Neighbor and Not Himself (Rom. 15:1-13).

This is not merely a privilege, but a solemn obligation, because,

Of Christ's example (vv. 1-3).

2. Of Scripture testimony (vv. 4-13).

A Pilgrimage

All faith recognizes that life is a pilgrimage whose course and duration cannot be foreseen, and therefore it takes these lives of ours out of our own weak, trembling and uncertain control, and puts them in the hand of God.

What Are You Doing?

What are you doing to make life a little brighter and better for somebody? Mostly we are complaining because of the gloom we ourselves have done nothing to dissipate.

Raymond (Blondy) Taylor is spending this week in Birmingham with relatives.

THE UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS RECRUITING SERVICE

Macon, Ga., Oct. 24.—The United States Marine Corps is the military branch of the Naval service, and high school graduates only are accepted for its service afloat, ashore and in the air today.

After a short basic training the new Marine, is assigned to a ship or station at home or abroad, for duty with infantry, artillery, aviation, motor transport, or signal units, for this versatile corps boasts of every military activity, and service on both sides of the world; with the Legation Guard at Peiping, and the famous Fourth Marines in Shanghai, China, and the Marine Garrisons at Cavite, in the Philippines, and in Hawaii, and Panama, and Haiti. In fact the sun never sets on the flags that these distant Marine garrisons fly, from sunrise to sunset.

The local Marine Corps Recruiting Offices in Memphis and Nashville, Tennessee, and Birmingham and Mobile, Alabama, have been closed and District Headquarters formerly located in Atlanta, Georgia, and is the only Marine Corps Recruiting office now located in, Tennessee, Alabama and Western Georgia.

MANY PROFESSIONS AND TRADES IN RUBBER FACTORY

Akron, Ohio.—Many more trades and professions than that of tire building are necessary to keep a huge rubber plant in operation.

Literally hundreds of varieties of talent—in fact all trades and professions that are found in an average sized city—are represented in the Akron plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., according to a survey recently completed. In addition to the men who compound the rubber, weave the fabric and build the tires; professions ranging from highly trained engineers to cooks and waitresses are to be found at Goodyear.

Technical men, of course, are to be found in many departments. There are men skilled in electrical, civil, mechanical, structural, chemical and other forms of engineering; while research laboratories and development departments contain other scientists who are striving to make the product better.

Carpenters, plumbers, electricians, chauffeurs, garage mechanics, truck-waitresses, photographers, newspaper writers, lawyers, telegraph operators, printers, stenographers, bookkeepers, filing clerks, doctors, dentists, nurses—these are but a few of the everyday professions represented at Goodyear.

In addition to the great number of men and women of different professions directly associated with the business of making and marketing tires, Goodyear also has its own industrial university, employing a corps of instructors for the various courses offered. Another school employing expert instructors teach Goodyear salesmen, dealers and others are taught how to repair tires. Physical training instructors and coaches are in charge of the factories' diversified recreation program which includes nearly all forms of sports.

The diversified occupations listed above could be supplemented with many others in naming the professions found in Goodyear's "city within a city."

ISABELLA NEWS

The students are still pepped over the outcome of the game last week. Much interest was shown on the part of visitors, faculty and students when Isabella played Autaugaville here last Friday. Isabella's eleven showed their strength by downing Autaugaville 28 to 0. Much of the honor can be bestowed on Will L. Martin, captain of the team, for the first touchdown, because it was his hard hitting and steady running that put the ball over the goal line. Autaugaville came back in the second quarter with the ball in mid-field, but failed to make first down over the line. During this time Plato Chambers, a guard, did some brilliant tackling. Isabella's second touchdown was made by a long pass from Homer Morgan to Parnell Ratliff. Autaugaville came back in the third quarter with the fighting spirit, but again they failed to make first down and lost the ball to Isabella on downs. The splendid management of Will L. Martin Isabella drove over another touchdown by line bucks and passes. Bill Jones and Leo Deason caught most of the passes and Van Williams did the blocking for the passer. After loosing several yards on a line buck, being penalized fifteen yards and the quarter nearly over, it seemed that Isabella's chance to score again was hopeless. The next play was Isabella's most noted pass, with the end receiving the pass behind the fullback. In less than five seconds Parnell Ratliff, running at full speed took the ball out of the air and ran for a touchdown. Will L. Martin bucked the line for the extra point and with a few more plays the game ended.

The senior class is giving a Hallowe'en festival next Saturday night, October 28, at the school building. Many enjoyable things are being planned to entertain every person who attends. A prize will be given to the person waring the best Hallowe'en costume. Come to this festival and get as many laughs as you got at the community party. The seniors are trying to use proceeds for benefit of the school.

May Isabella's eleven be a victorious team when they play Eldridge at Eldridge next Saturday. If they cooperate and work as hard as they did last Friday, they are sure to win.—Lorene Lecroy, senior class reporter.

CORINTH-SHADY GROVE SINGING SOCIETY WAS HELD LAST SUNDAY

In spite of the rainy and threatening weather and the muddy roads a number of people gathered at Shady Grove Sunday afternoon, October 22, for the regular session of the society. Directors for the afternoon were: N. J. Jones, R. Miller, Herman Dubose, Leroy Mims, Luke Calloway, Katherine Pratt, and Emma Patterson. The organists were R. P. McKinney, Beatrice Pratt and Claudie Hughes. J. M. Mims led the opening prayer and N. J. Jones led the closing prayer.

Many of the members of the society were absent and were really missed. We, who were present, hope that they will not have to be absent any more. There were visitors from Chestnut Creek Singing Society, Verbena, Midway, and Sylacauga. We appreciate their coming and want them to be with us again. All visitors are cordially invited to meet with us at Corinth Sunday afternoon, November 12. —Secretary.

Mr. Paul Bussie and Mrs. James White of Sylacauga dined with Misses Bertie and Lula Edwards Sunday.

OAK GROVE

We would like to have just a small space in your paper to say just a few words about this community.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school services were rather small Sunday, because of the bad weather, but hope it will be better next Sunday.

A few weeks ago our B. Y. P. U. elected new officers. Officers are as follows: Seniors—President, Charles Nix; vice president, Mr. W. J. Northcutt; secretary, Mrs. Leonard Pierce; vice secretary, Mary Jim Sutley; treasurer, Mr. Lassie Northcutt; chorister, Sam Collins; Bible Quiz leader, Miss Rosie Lee Martin; group captain, No. 1, Roberta Satterwhite; No. 2, Mrs. Lester Northcutt. Intermediates elected Mr. J. C. Seay as their leader, and the juniors elected Miss Loy Mae Glass as their leader. We are sure all the officers are striving to be A-1 for Christ. Everyone has a most cordial welcome to come and worship with us at all times.

Mr. Forest Glass of Birmingham visited relatives here this week end.

Misses Irene and Pauline Lessley spent the week end with Mrs. Luther Varden.

Mr. Jack Middlebrooks, Misses Jettie Mae Anderson and Pinola Middlebrooks, of Autaugaville, spent Sunday with Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Mr. Mark Nelson of Thorsby spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Tom Lessley.

Misses Virginia Glass, Dorothy Dees and Nannie Samons were business visitors in Clanton Saturday.

Mr. Frank Lesslye of Calera spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley.

Miss Rosie Lee Martin spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. C. Seay.

James Foy Nix and Troy Cobb spent Sunday with Curtis Satterwhite.

Mrs. Orb Martin was hit last Thursday morning by a truck but was not seriously burt.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Deerman, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Deerman, of Birmingham, spent this week end visiting relatives.

Miss Gladys Cobb and Mr. Charles Nix, members of the Sr. III class at Jemison High School, report a wonderful trip to the NRA parade held in Montgomery last Thursday. They are really proud of the county which they represented in Montgomery.

Mr. Leonard Pierce left last week for Detroit, Michigan. We greatly miss him in our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school, but hope he has a wonderful time.

Miss Gladys Cobb spent last week end in Birmingham visiting friends.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY

Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes of Jobless

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy. In the consequent operation, this relief agency entered upon a commercial enterprise greater than any single commercial firm has ever undertaken in the same period of time.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,803,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies. During the severe northwestern drought of 1931 the Red Cross also gave wheat in the form of food for livestock to 184,188 families.

The clothing — dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and comforters—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 ready-made garments and 92,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from 844,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months.

In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000. At the same time the organization carried on its regular program of disaster relief; of service to the veterans of all our wars; of educational and welfare work through the Junior Red Cross; of health education and public health nursing and of life saving and first aid. Funds for this work come from the membership roll call the Red Cross chapters conduct from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, when every one is invited to join the Red Cross and aid in this vital relief work.

Seven hundred thousand women volunteers under the Red Cross banner sewed for the needy last year and many thousands still are making cotton garments for their Red Cross chapters.

The Red Cross has 3,701 chapters and 10,000 branches of chapters. Thus it can be mobilized nationwide in a great relief task within 24 hours.

"If we had paid no more attention to our plants than we have to our children, we would now be living in a jungle of weeds."—Luther Burbank.

You parents should take more interest in your child in school, take interest in what he does, the kind of a report card he brings to you at the end of each month. Parent's interest will not only be of great benefit to the child but will help in a large way the school. The members of the Parent-Teachers Association see this. If you have a child in school and do not belong to the P.-T. A., join it and you will be well repaid. Some time it is not the student but the lack of his father or mother having any interest in his struggles for an education in school.

The writer begins this week with a brief biography of our teachers. Mr. L. C. Warr, our well loved pricipal, will have the honor of being first and the teachers will be taken in alphabetical order in the following weeks.

Mr. Warr was born in Clayton, Alabama on August 11, 1889. He attended the Third District Agricultural school at Abbeville and graduated from there in 1912. For a few years he taught school in order to earn money to further his studies, and in 1918 was awarded his diploma from the State Teacher's College. Following this and after a few more years of study re received his Bachelor degree from Peabody College in 1921 also having studied at Vanderbilt University. Not being satisfied to stop here Mr. Warr went farther in the educational field and in 1930 was given his Master's Degree from Columbia University in New York City. Mr. Warr has also served in the United States Regular Army, having enlisted in February, 1918, and was given an honorable discharge in February 1919.

He is principal of the Chilton County High School now, also teacher of sociology. Mr. Warr has been principal here for five years, this term beginning his sixth year. Before coming to Clanton, he served as principal of the schools in the following towns: Dothan, Ashford, Headland, Enterprise, and Luverne. When asked to give a statement on advice to those who desire to reach high goals, Mr. Warr responded with, "I have learned through life's experiences that you earn all you get. That nothing is given you; that truly we are all the architects of our own fortunes, and to be happy we must keep busy. A fairly good measure of success in life might be built around one who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children and who has left the world better that he found it."

The improvements in our library are very noticeable. The space alloted for library purposes has been enlarged and now extends the entire width of the study hall. More shelves have been erected to make room for the number of new volumes to be placed in the library soon. Besides all of these new additions, new library rules and regulations have been made and adopted.

Know why Clanton's float in the NRA parade in Montgomery last Thursday stood out so strinkly in appearance? One of the reasons is that a number of the home economics girls had a hand in the decoration. Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin is the home economics instructor.

The science classes under Mr. Varnell are making rapid progress in their studies. The writer joined the members of the biology class "running down bugs" one day last week. These field trips given by Mr. Varnell are of great value to the students due to the concrete examples of life they may observe and study. Physics students are adding wrinkles to their brains in solving, water and air pressure and other problems that require deep thinking and concentration. The students of chemistry are finding it very interesting (and not to be laid aside). Especially is it interesting on laboratory days.

Some of our students feel at home in studying bugs in biology. Yes, I said students not teachers.

The senior class as a body took part in the parade in Montgomery last Thursday.

The senior class, with John Ezell as president, has been busy discussing plans for making money so they may leave a worthy memorial to this school. There is talk of a post-season football game; a mid-term play; and candy selling. So you freshmen, sophs and juniors and teachers, too, save your money for the senior class activities. Remember (not you teachers, tho) that you will be seniors some day.

We hope all this talk will also be practical and not just "hot air and dreams."

Imagine if you can: Grady Reynolds not blushing; Roberta Cochran not studying; Joe Moore and Carl Jones not arguing with their teachers and don't forget John; Dorothy Waite without her friendly smile; Willis Parker not knowing his memory work; Jesse Frank Foshee, James Tiffin, Wilson Maddox and some others not at the corner of the cemetery at dinner and in the morning; a certain senior with two "wimmin;" a certain junior with personality; Morris Popwell not amusing others at the teacher's expense; Emanuel Copoer without his team loyalty; and a particular couple "busting up."

We are still proud of our team although they were defeated last Friday. We are very proud of them, because they held that strong Tallassee team for no scores until the beginning of the second half when Tallassee sent in fresh men against our tired boys. With all the breaks against them our boys held Tallassee to only three touchdowns and an extra point. Go to it team. Take it on on Plantersville tomorrow.

The "C" Club held a meeting last week to elect officers for the year. The boys to receive the honors as officers of the "C" Club were: Jesse Frank Foshee, president; James (Gabby) Tiffin, vice president; and Joe Moore secretary-treasurer. It won't be long before the club will initiate new members. Everyone is looking forward to enjoy this annual event. How about initiating coach into the club.

Red Cross Poster of 1933 Appeals for Help for Needy

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?

This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,755 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,738 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,911 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $411,000.

Serves Under Five Presidents

John Barton Payne, a retired judge and lawyer of international reputation, is serving his twelfth year as chairman of the American Red Cross. His service is without pay, and his appointment is by the President of the United States. He has served by appointment in high public office under five presidents—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

O. S. CAUSEY FOR SCHOOL SUPER.

Howard College Officer In the Race For Important State Office

Birmingham, Oct. 24.—Formal announcement by Oscar S. Causey, Howard College Registrar, who for many years has been a prominent figure in education circles of the state, that he would be a candidate for the office of state superintendent of education in the Democratic primary next May was made here Monday. He is the first to make a formal declaration for the office.

A native Alabamian, Prof. Causey was educated in the Washington public schools and at Howard College where he graduated with an A. B. degree in 1914 and received an A. M. degree in 1928. He also has done graduate work at the University of Colorado, the University of Denver and the University of Chicago.

Declaring that "Alabama can afford neither to have schools closed, the school term shortened, nor the children poorly taught," Prof. Causey said he advocated full terms for all schools, textbooks without profit to individuals or corporations over publishers' prices, a living wage for teachers and a minimum cost of operation for the state department of education.

As additional qualifications for the office, Prof. Causey cited his experience as a teacher in the Washington County Grade Schools, Principal of Brewton High School and teacher in the state secondary agricultural school at Wetumpka.

He has served as principal of the training high school of the Western State College of Colorado and from 1924 to 1926 he was head of the biology department at Normal University of N. Mexico. Since 1926 he has been connected with Howard College, serving as Professor of Biology until 1928 when he was appointed to his present position as Registrar. Prof. Causey served in the United States Army two years.

DOAK, HOOVER CABINET MEMBER DIED AT HIS HOME IN VIRGINIA

Washington, Oct. 23. — William Nuckles Doak, Secretary of Labor in the Hoover administration, and for many years prominent in the organized labor movement, died today at his suburban home in Virginia.

Death followed an illness of several weeks, and was attributed to heart disease. Mrs. Doak was at his bedside.

Doak was 51 years old and a native of Virginia. He entered actively into the labor movement nearly twenty-five years ago and became chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for the Norfolk & Western system.

From that post, he rose to the vice presidency of the union. From 1916 until his appointment to the Hoover cabinet in 1930, he was national legislative agent for the trainmen.

Doak succeeded James J. Davis, as Secretary of Labor upon the latter's election to the Senate. He retired on March 4, along with the Hoover administration, and has since been living in semi-retirement at his country home across the Potomac.

THE PRICE OF BUSINESS SPEED

Banking Institute Speaker Says That Bank Failures Followed Business Failures

CHICAGO, Ill. — Many appear to think that failures occur only to banks, but the complete story of business shows that failures of American banks have followed the failure of business enterprises, and have not been a cause of those failures, Dr. Harold Stonier, National Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address here before the American Institute of Banking.

"It is true that we have had more failures in our banks than in the banks of a number of other countries," he said. "It is also true that we have had more failures in drug stores, grocery stores, railroads, and in every other type of business enterprise. At the same time, it must be said that we still have left after all our failures, more drug stores, more grocery stores, more railroads, and more banks than any other country."

In spite of the rough weather Sunday we had a nice little crowd at preaching, Sunday morning and Sunday night, too. As you know, Bro. T. W. Billingsley was to preach here last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He brought us a very interesting message, which all enjoyed. We were glad to have him with us. We invite him back.

There will be a Sunday school teachers trainging school taught here beginning on Monday night following the first Sunday. The class will meet at 7 o'clock and will be dismissed about 8:45. This course is a very beneficial one and we hope to have a large class. We invite those from other churches who wish to take the course. All students completing this course will be awarded a certificate. The course will be taught by Bro. W. E. Robinson of Birmingham. We will assure all those who wish to take up this study with us that you will find it interesting and your time will be well spent.

Mr. Oliver Mims spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mims of Verbena.

Misses Lucile and Lorene Cleckler and Miss Mildred Hayes were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Maddox.

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 3,268 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families. The chapters also aided 7,346 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.

An Army of Children

The membership in the Junior Red Cross last year was 6,629,866 boys and girls in schools, private, public and parochial. They enjoyed volunteer work in hospitals and for orphans, the aged and crippled, and also aided their schoolfellows by providing attention for their eyes, purchasing their glasses, and giving many other types of service to them. The Juniors aid their school work by carrying on correspondence and the exchange of portfolios with school children in other nations.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Oct. 24.—Alabama's Crimson Tide will make its first trip to New York City next Saturday, when the team meets Fordam University there. The Bama team has toured the Mid-West, Pacific Coast, and has come as close to New York City as Syracuse, but has never played before in the nation's metropolis.

While the Alabama boys are playing their first grid game in New York, Frank Thomas will clash with a former team mate in Sleepy Jim Crowley, one of the Four Horsemen. Crowley was a member of the Notre Dame eleven during Thomas's senior year with the Irish.

The Fordham tussle is the second in Alabama's string of six tough contests that form "suicide row" for the Tide. The Crimsons went on the road to Knoxville, and then must jump up to New York City against the Rams. Kentucky, V. P. I., Tech, and Vanderbilt are the other members of the row.

Alabama has managed to be fairly successful in intersectional warfare during the past, and are hoping to keep their record clean against Fordham. The tide has played nine intersectional games since 1922, winning six, losing two, and tying one.

Syracuse beat a raw Wade team in 1923, and Wisconsin trounced the Tide 15 to 0 in 1928. Excepting the draw with Stanford in 1926, 7 to 7, the Crimsons have come off victorious in all other intersectional battles.

The men from Bama expect a hard game with Fordham. They are whipped down after their battle with Tennessee, and the road journey isn't going to make the game any easier. Fordham has shown a hard fighting eleven, although the line is no bigger than Alabama's.

Comparing the two elevens is fruitless, as they have played such diverse opposition already this season that no ranking can be made. One thing is certain, however, Thomas knows that Crowley rates among the East's best coaches, and will be on the alert for a smart bunch of gridmen from his former backfield mate.

The following correction appeared in a small town paper:

"Our paper carried the notice last week that Mr. John Doe is a detective in the police force. This was a typographical error. Mr. Doe is really a detective in the police farce."

Talkative lady—A big man like you might be better occupied than in cruelly catching helpless and innocent little fish."

Angler—"Perhaps you're right. But if this fish had kept his mouth shut, he wouldn't be here."

TAXES—BARRIER TO RECOVERY

How great is the influence of excessive taxation in retarding recovery, and in preventing employment and wage increases that would otherwise be provided?

The anwer is that its influence is very great indeed. The most public spirited business man alive can't spirit dollars out of the air. He can't wave a wand and produce the wherewithal for new jobs and pay wages out of his hat. He has so much spending power—and of late, in the average case, increases in income have been more than offset by increases in his operating costs. He has fixed expenses, which can't be pared. The difference between those expenses and income is what he has to spend.

Nowadays, an extremely—often extortionately—high percentage of the difference must be paid to the tax-collector. We're all "buying" more government than we ever bought before. For three years business has cut costs, raised efficiency, and redoubled its efforts to give the best value at the lowest cost. Government, as a whole, has failed to follow.

It is very possible that the recovery movement will, in the near future, reach a point where it cannot go further without tax reduction. Some of the money that now goes for government must be released into the channels of productive enterprise, to provide jobs and opportunities and the means of expanding business. And those who are now entrusted with government management, from federal right down to the smallest hamlet, should be busy planning the way to do just that.

SEVEN SPECIAL MESSAGES

Rev. D. W. Griffin will be at the Chilton County Courthouse in Clanton for one week, beginning Monday night, October 23, 1933. His lectures will be based upon the messages of John, directed to the seven churches in Asia.

There will be no admission charges to this series of lectures and the public is most cordially invited. All meetings will begin promptly at 7:00 p.m., and a special choir will be organized. Congregational singing will be featured.

Rev. Griffin will bring his closing address Sunday afternoon immediately after the closing of the singing convention.

GOVERNMENT CHISELING

In a timely editorial, the New York Sun analyzes the plans of the Tennessee Valley Authority to reduce the electric bills of its customers from 20 to 60 per cent below the present average, in the light of the stand of another and more important branch of government—the NRA.

It is the NRA policy — and one which has received the overwhelming endorsement of American citizens—to adjust costs and arrange business methods so that the greatest possible number of citizens may be employed at the highest possible wage. That is the reason for the elimination of cut-throat competition—the main idea behind every code.

Government competition with private electric plants, with its low-financing charges, different bookkeeping methods and freedom from taxation, can produce but one result—it will throw thousands of men out of work who are now employed by private utilities. And this, the Sun observes is the kind of offense to which the always frank General Johnson has applied the word "chiseling."

It is the opinion of the Sun that power from Muscle Shoals, however distributed, should be sold at a price commensurate with that which private utilities, operating efficiently under similar conditions, can sell it for. Any other course would be government chiseling on a grand scale. It would be directly opposed to reemployment of workers and advancement of living standards for the masses. It will be a bitter irony indeed if, while the NRA works, to bring about recovery by insisting on fair and equitable business practices, the Tennessee Valley Authority frustrates its efforts so far as one of the most important and most progressive of our industries is concerned.

"Now Albert, will you tell me who the first man was?"

"Yes, teacher, it was George Washington!"

"Yes, teacher, it was George Washington!"

"Why no, Albert, I thought that you would know better than that. It was Adam!"

"Oh well, I wasn't counting foreigners."

Mrs. Lamar Smith was re-elected president of the Alabama Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the forty-eighth annual convention of the state union in Tuscaloosa.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Birmingham named Richard J. Stockholm president at the semi-annual election, and Albert Boutwell was elected vice-president.

A women's rally for the support of social work in America has been called for October 30, in Chicago, by Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, chairman. A number of Alabama women will attend.

A special term of Morgan County Circuit Court has been announced by Judge W. W. Callahan, to begin Nov. 27, for the retrial of seven negro defendants in the "Scottsboro case."

Well balanced diets for 360,000 of Alabama's needy this winter were in prospect as Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration, notified Washington of this state's needs.

Striking miners at the Dogwood Mines of the Little Gem Coal Company returned to work following a compromise between officials of the mines and representatives of the strikers.

Presidents of the four State Teachers Colleges held their annual conference with Dr. A. F. Harmon, State superintendent of education, prior to the annual meeting of the State Board of Education.

Marion N. Morrow, 61, widely known resident of Coffee County and brother of Tax Collector A. J. Morrow, was drowned in a mill pond near his home. The body, with a wound on the head, was recovered.

A three-year-old child burned to death and two other children escaped with slight injury when a barn burned down on a farm near New Merkle. The children said they were playing with matches in the hay.

Mrs. Effie Moore, of Birmingham, worthy grand matron, opened the thirty-third annual convention of the Grand Chapter of the Eastern Star at Montgomery, with more than a thousand delegates attending.

Following Tax Collector J. W. Hamilton's action in granting another 30 day moratorium to 10,000 delinquent taxpayers in Jefferson County to save their homes from being sold, a committee of citizens moved to speed action on application for loan with the Home Loan Corporation of the federal government.

Rev. W. E. Robinson is now teaching school at Jacksons Chapel.

It is the desire of our sixth grade class to read as many good books as possible during the year. It is not sufficient that we read. We must select for our reading those books that will elevate our minds and give us a bigger and better view of the interesting things of the world.

These poems were composed by two fifth grade girls in their study of Alabama:

Alabama

From far up north to the shores of Tampa,
Just give me dear old Alabama.
Now Tennessee is good, you see,
But it'll never mean so much to me.
There's Texas too, with ropes and cattle,
But milch cows are great in Alabama.
Take all the states with their talk and tattle,
Then give me dear old Alabama.
—Nellie Grubbs.

My State

To me dear Alabama is the best state of the South,
From her hills and valleys to the Mobile's mouth.
Next is Mississippi, which is by her side,
Then there's Tennessee with laws Georgia cannot abide.
Florida with her soft waves is lying just below,
But to give up my own dear state, I'd be very slow.
—Sarah Price.

There are about fifty-four pupils in the sixth grade, about twenty-six in the A class and about twenty-eight in the B Class. We shall enjoy our reading now very much because we are taking the Weekly Readers. The story that I like best and is the most interesting is "Byrd's Second Trip to the South Pole.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade boy in his study of language.

One Hallowe'en Night

One Hallowe'en night
I had a fright.
As I stepped out upon the street
Down went my head and up my feet.
There, just a bit behind the gate
I nearly got into a scrape.
My feet were tied;
I could not move.
I turned my head to look about,
And saw them run and heard them shout.
I bet they were sad when I got loose,
For they scattered like down from an old dead goose.

I turned around and there it stood,
Something tall like Lonnie Wood.
Wrapped in sheets with a pumpkin head,
Out of its mouth these words it said:
"Who, my boy, Oh, who are you,
Just another likeness of Little Boy Blue?"
Then in its arms grabbed me
Where I fell asleep.
These were the happenings and horrible scenes
That I beheld on a Hallowe'en.
—Kenneth Thompson.

THANKS TO PEOPLE OF CLANTON AND CHILTON COUNTY

I want to take this opportunity in behalf of the NRA Parade Committee to express our appreciation to those who made possible the wonderful showing this community made in the NRA Loyalty Day Parade in Montgomery last Thursday and also the parade here in Clanton last Saturday. Everyone who was called upon to assist in any way responded wholeheartedly. The committee especially wants to thank the county commissioners, the Town of Clanton, the Study Club, the Pilot Club, the Kiwanis Club and the merchants and business men of Clanton for the wonderful assistance they rendered in making these affairs a success.

The people of Clanton and Chilton County are to be congratulated for their spirit of loyalty and patriotism to the President's National Recovery Program. The committee feels that we have been helped by our participation in these patriotic affairs to the end that a better feeling and understanding exists.—Sincerely yours, — NRA Parade Committee, J. Lee Smith, Chairman.

THE THRILL OF THE SEASON

A Holloween party at Jemison High School Friday night, October 27th. There will be planty of thrills—lots of fun—and many good things to eat. Get the first laugh. Be there at 7:30 o'clock. Admission will be 5 cents.

Keep Your Cotton In Our County

The undersigned LICENSED COTTON WAREHOUSES OF CHILTON COUNTY have been designated as satisfactory places to store cotton to participate in the ten cent loan from the government to producers.

It will not be necessary to carry any cotton out of your county to secure these loans.

Patronize home warehouses. Keep the cotton in our county. We are prepared and ready to assist you in every way possible in making out documents as required, and in securing prompt service on these loans without any extra cost to you. Bring us your cotton or your warehouse receipts, and let us help you.

We are anxious to cooperate with you and our government in the cotton program. Let's work together.

The American Legion

The American Legion, whose national convention was recently held in Chicago, placed itself as a 100 per cent American organization through its resolutions asking for stricter punishment of agitators seeking to overthrow of the American government, condemning the proposal to recognize Communist Russia, denouncing Hilterism and any attempt to inaugurate a similar movement in this country, and opposing any relaxation of the immigration laws, war debt cancellation or reduction, and entrance into the League of Nations and the World Court.

The Legion took its stand upon a rock-bottom foundation of pure Americanism and democratic government under the Constitution. This is what the nation expected of it and it has not been disappointed.

The action of the Legion, is, somehow, one of the most comforting things that has happened in this disordered country in a long time. It calls for our return to the political faith of our fathers in democracy and democratic institutions, and utters a challenge to unpatriotic elements within the country. So long as such a spirit prevails the United States government is not likely to be seriously attacked nor undermined by those futile individuals and organizations which, filled with false theories would bring destruction upon us by trying to induce us to adopt the Old World's new ways.

The patriotic people of America, what ever their class, whatever their political, social or religious beliefs, owe the American Legion a vote of thanks for its rugged stand in behalf of real Americanism.

Cost of the New Deal

Everyone has been pulling for the national recovery act and the coordinating efforts of the administration to pull us out of the depression. When anyone has mentioned the terrific expense to the government of the various projects which have been assembled by the so-called "Brain Trust" for restoring Uncle Sam to a prospeous condition, he has usually been met with the reply: "Well, no matter what it costs it will be worth it, if it does the work."

All of which, however, naturally leads to the question of just how much it is going to cost. According to Gould Lincoln, a conservative, fair minded and usually accurate writer in the Washington Star, the cost of the recovery program under the New Deal is apt to be considerably more than eleven billion dollars. In round figures he places the approximate total sum at $11,574,000, although four billions of this amount, he adds, the government guarantees only the interest. The total, according to Mr. Lincoln, may be subdivided as follows:

"Total capital structure or lending power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $4,074,741,000.

"Appropriation for the NRA and public Works Administration, $3,300,000,000.

"Bonds to be used by the Home Owners Loan Corporation, on which the government guarantees interest at four per cent, $2,000,000,000.

"Farm Loan bonds, issued by the federal government on which the government guaranttes interest at four per cent, $2,000,000,000.

"Appropriation made for subscription to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, $150,000,000.

"Bonds of the Tennessee Valley Authorization, $50,000,000."

The writer adds that while the government only guarantees the interest on the bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal Farm Loan bonds, it is not believed that the government would permit these bonds to become valueless.

The tremendous financing of these various relief acts comes of course outside of the regular federal budget. The government theoretically expects to get most, if not all, of this money back. But the question is, will the money come back? If the recovery program works and the country gets back on the road to prosperity again, doubtless money expended in this extraordinary way will in part flow back into the treasury. But if it doesn't, then who will pay?. No doubt our old and much abused friend, Mr. American Taxpayer, will be asked to step into the breach once more.

Freedom of the Press

President Roosevelt has made it plain that he does not object to criticism, but one gathers that he has not been able to impress that point of view on all his subordinates. Dick Thompson, editor of the Tallassee Tribune, for example, has just gone through an unhappy experience with a representative of the Department of Labor. The Tribune had spoken out against the unionization of a cotton mill in its community. Its editor was thereupon threatened by the federal agent, named Dunnegan, who held that the Tribune has violated the provisions of the NRA, forbade any further publications of such opinions, and indicated that the United tSates attorney at Montgomery might be called on for action. Mr. Thompson's resentment was expressed in an editorial, part of which runs as follows:

"No bureaucratic appointee can, with authority, tell any newspaper editor, from the biggest daily paper down to the smallest weekly paper, that which he can say and that which he cannot say. Mr. Dunnegan came to Tallassee as a representative of the United States Department of Labor, and his actions here are understood by this paper to be official actions, backed up by the department which he represents. We say that the United States Constitution has not been changed and that it is more important than the empty threats of Mr. Dunnegan. . . The editor of this paper will express his views and opinions through this paper as long as the Constitution of the United States grants a free press and a free speech. . . Now, Mr. Dunnegan, it is your move."

The position taken by the Tribune is so impregnable that one understands why the Montgomery Advertiser should say, "There is not a respectable newspaper in this country which will not applaud this declaration of principle and purpose, however sharply many newspapers may disagree as to whether the Tallassee mills should be unionized. But something dearer than unionism is being involved. The last refuge of human dignity in this country is in the principle that conscience must be free."

"Ministers Protest Indiana Beer Law," says a headline in the Indianapolis News. Well the stuff isn't much good.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Just now the political attention of the entire country is entered on the three-cornered mayoralty race in New York City where Mayor O'Brien, the Tammany Democratic candidate, is facing an attack on two sides from Joseph V. McKee, independent Democrat, and F. H. LaGuardia, the fusion candidate. The outcome of this election promises to have a political effect far beyond the time limits of the year 1933. At first the race was between LaGuardia and O'Brien. LaGuardia, although not a regular Republican, had the support of the Republican organization, which is anxious to defeat Tammany and of a great many so-called liberal Democrats, who were equally anxious to unseat Tammany.

But a great many administration Democrats in New York were not satisfied with the set-up. They realized that Tammany had never been whole heartedly for the national administration, yet they could not see where any great political advantage could be gained for President Roosevelt's forces by the victory of an independent Republican. So, under the leadership of Postmaster General Farley, the political "big shot" of the administration, a new independent Democratic organization was formed and former Mayor McKee was induced to become a Democratic candidate for mayor in opposition to Tammany. Of course the national administration is apparently keeping out of the fight, but nobody who "is in the know" in New York politics doubts for a minute that the Roosevelt administration is anxiously interested in the success of Mr. McKee. And this knowledge is having some effect. Before McKee entered the race it looked as though Mr. LaGuardia might be the winner. Now, however, regular Democrat leaders in New York, with national and local patronage in view, are deserting the Tammany bandwagon and going over to McKee. At this writing, when the election is still four weeks away, it appears that McKee has the advantage. In addition to the administration support he is getting encouragement from a number of conservative Republicans who do not like LaGuardia, anyhow, and prefer to support a conservative Democrat like McKee in their efforts to get rid of Tammany.

The political effects of this race will be far-reaching. The administration, under the political leadership of Mr. Farley, is undoubtedly looking ahead to 1936. It is realized that Tammany was never very enthusiastic about the nomination of President Roosevelt in 1932 and the intention is to give him complete control of the state in 1936. The first step is of course to elect a Roosevelt man mayor of New York. But many political observers believe that Mr. Farley's action is not entirely unselfish so far as his personal fortunes are concerned. According to Oliver Mckee, Jr., writing in the Boston Transcript: "There is no limit to the political ambitions of Mr. Farley. He wants to be the big boss of Democracy, the country over, and to permit no independent Democrat organization of their own." Many observers think that Mr. Farley wants to be the Democratic nominee for governor of New York in 1936 and that he even has visions of becoming the successor of Mr. Roosevelt in the White House in 1940. All this of course is predicated on continuing Democratic success, which is something that no man at this time can foretell.

In the meantime suppose the unexpected happens and O'Brien wins. The administration forces in New York will certainly be in a tough spot if Tammany controls the city again. In any event, Tammany will not feel any too good about the results if its candidate is defeated, although it will then, of course, have its claws clipped, and its power curtailed. It is also to be believed now, that President Roosevelt's progressive friends are feeling none too good over late developments. They had visions of LaGuardia becoming the first "progressive" mayor of America's largest city. But the entrance of Mr. McKee into the race under the sponorship of the President's political manager, Mr. Farley, has dimmed their hopes. They supported Mr. Roosevelt loyally in 1932 and will not take with any too good grace the harpooning of Mr. LaGuardia in 1933.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

The Veterans

I went to Tuscaloosa last week, and while there visited the Veterans Hospital. Those in charge of the hospital are very accommodating, and, although it was not the regular visiting hour, we were allowed to go all through the place. Here the government has built one of the finest hospitals it has been my pleasure to visit. It is an enormous building, everything is spick and span, and I think nobody could ask for better treatment than the men received. I was surprised at the number of vets at the place. I do not know how many are there, and would not dare to guess, but there is a little army of them. The big hospital is four or five stories high and chock full of men. It sets on the brow of a little rise, back about one-fourth mile from the road, and is surrounded by an immense acreage of beautiful grass, carefully cropped. It is a break for the poor fellows that must suffer, that they can be in such a place. Far away from the noise and bustle of the town, some ten miles from Tuscaloosa, nature does her best to lighten the sufferings of the boys. As far as I could tell, every room is an "outside" room, cool and airy, and every precaution has been taken for the comfort of the veterans, no matter what kind of weather. If you have not seen the place, by all means do so, for you will be enlightened in many ways. You will gain a new idea of the extent of suffering which war has caused, and can cause, and you may see what a burden is placed on all by war, even years after the close of it. To the veterans, the war will never be over—at first they fought for us all, and now they must fight for their very lives. It is saddening to look at all those fine fellows, some of whom will always be in the shadow of death, for a cause that never should have existed. Visit the hospital. It will not take long, and you'll be surprised.

President Roosevelt

Every now and then I read something that President Roosevelt has done or said that causes admiration for him in no small degree. That he must go through his immense task surrounded by individuals who do not understand him and his methods, and who have an altogether different attitude toward the people than he has is a pity. Given help that aligns with his own views in every way, he would of course be able to get things done faster. One example of difference in the policy of the president and his helpers is their attitude toward the press. Assuming that "the king can do no wrong," these helpers have been loud in their denunciation of individuals who criticized the methods of the administration when they considered that something was wrong. Some reporters have been barred from hearings where information was to be given to the press. But Mr. Roosevelt does not feel this way about the matter—I quote his own words: "I sincerely welcome constructive criticism. We are not perfect—none of us. We all make mistakes. While I despise 'chiselers', those who try to belittle our efforts for selfish reasons, yet I invite sincere criticism, and ask the gentlemen of the press, and any other individuals, to feel free at all times to tell us what is wrong with our methods. That helps us to see our own faults as others see them, and we can then take proper measures to correct them. We are not trying to force our own ideas—we want to work our troubles out together. We have a big job to do, and it will take the best of ALL of us to do it. Give us your ideas." These are wise words, from a wise man, I think.

Future History

But there are some who made very scattering remarks concerning the president and his methods. In some instances they may be right, and may be wrong in others. Here's one of the latest, from the lips of the national secretary of the Methodist Temperance Board, in regard to the president's stand on the beer question: "History will say that Thomas Jefferson signed the Declaration of Independence, George Washington the Constitution, James Monroe the Monroe Doctrine, Abraham Lincoln the Emancipation Proclamation. Theodore Roosevelt the treaty between Russia and Japan, Calvin Coolidge the Kellogg Pact, Woodrow Wilson the World Peace Pact, and Franklin Roosevelt kept his name among the immortals by signing the beer bill. Fifty years from now, when President Roosevelt's name is mentioned, someone will want to know which Roosevelt is meant—Teddy, the 100 per cent American Roosevelt or Franklin, the 3.2 per cent beer Rotsevelt. That's about the way they stack up against each other." Draw your own idea as to whether he was denouncing or commending the president, and as to whether he was right or wrong.

Our Roads

Now and then, I hear somebody make some sarcastic remark concerning our "fine roads". To some of those who think our roads are bad, I just wish they would make a short journey through Elmore, our neghbor county. I went to Tallassee, through Elmore County, last Friday, carrying Marion Foshee with me, and we went by way of one of Elmore's best roads. It was just like running on a giant wash board, or through a succession of duck nests. Here's Marion's idea of it. He says: "The women of Elmore County don't know what they are missing. If they have any churning to do, and if they ever visit their neighbors, they could combine business with pleasure very easily. All they would have to do is just put their milk in a good tight container, place it in a car, ride down to visit their next-door neighbor, and when they got back their churning would have been done long before they got back. It's that bumpy." Before anyone starts criticizing OUR road system, they ought to look around a little. We're well off and don't realize it.

If we ever get through this depression we have made up our minds never again to gamble on the stock market, buy an over-sized automobile or stay out late at night.

Who Are Injured?

Who are the people first injured, and irreparably injured, by the issuance of fiat money?

1. Every wage earner and every salaried man or woman, for wages and salaries never keep pace with the widly rising prices caused by uncontrolled inflation.
2. Every insurance policy holder.
3. Every savings bank depositor.
4. Every member of a building and loan association.
5. Every holder of a bond or mortgage of any kind.
6. Every endowed school, hospital, college or university or charitable institution.
7. Every taxpayer, for the cost of government of all kinds in a fiat-money market grows by leaps and bounds.

Who on the other hand profits by uncontrolled inflation?

1. The speculator, for his manipulations he can take advantage of wild fluctuations.
2. The holders of equities represented by common stock in corporations, though this class, while numerous, constitutes but a small fraction of the whole public.
3. The man who owes money on a mortgage or a note. He may mistakenly think it to his advantage to pay off his obligations in cheap dollars, but his own earnings will be so sadly affected and the cost of things he must buy so greatly increased that this seeming advantage is swept away before the disaster which finally overwhelms the entire economic structure.
4. Bankers, to the extent to which cheap money makes it possible for bad loans to become good and be repaid, and so do not fall as a burden on the capital and surplus of the banks, but in the long run the banks lose because of the total demoralization which sets in on all values.

The danger to which the country is exposed at the moment can not be exaggerated.

The need of the president of your support and ours is unmistakable. The forces in the nation that are eager for disruption of our present economic system, and are intent upon the redistribution of wealth, see their chance and will capitalize it in every possible way.

The president has shown every disposition to fight these radical demands. He is entitled to the support of every man and every woman in the country who believes in the American system of government, who has a stake in the present economic system, and who is opposed to the rise in America of that type of irresponsible political dictatorship which now scourges in Germany.—Chicago Daily News.

Maybe we didn't know much in the good old days when our only sea-food diet consisted of cove oysters and crackers, but anyhow we didn't have to worry about frozen assets.

World-Wide Recovery

A great deal of bunk has been distributed over the country during the past few weeks about the course of the depression and how, if the nation did not do thus and so, did not inflate, or do something to increase foreign trade, or put the entire nation under government control, we would have anarchy and chaos.

In light of all this it is interesting to note the result of the world-wide survey of conditions taken by the National Industrial Conference Board, portions of which were published recently in the metropolitan newspapers. The conference finds that there has been a marked improvement in business activity of the principal countries of the world, beginning in the summer of 1932, a year and a quarter ago. This improvement, it is said, has been accompanied by a recovery in world prices of staple commodities.

Strange to say, the Board finds that much of this improvement occurred during the last four months of the year 1932, which, by the way, was several months before the Brain Trust commenced functioning. The improvement it is added, continued through July, 1933. The statistics for August, according to the report, are not yet available.

Examination of various business indices, the Conference Board states, shows that the low point of the world business depression was reached in the summer of 1932. In most countries business was at its lowest ebb in the month of August. Index numbers of industrial production in the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Canada, Belgium and other countries reached the low point in the middle of 1932. Since that time there has been a distinct improvement.

"Coinciding with this improvement in business activity in the principal industrial countries of the world," the report continues, "there occurred a recovery in world prices of raw materials and food stuffs—wheat, sugar, coffee, cotton, rubber, silk, tin, wool hides and leather. In the last quarter of 1932, these prices again turned downward but for the first time since 1929 prices of most staple commodities at the end of the year remained above the low points for the year. The decline in whosesale prices in practically all countries of the world was either arrested or greatly slowed down in the second half of 1932.

"The decline in the volume and the value of world trade was also stopped in the last half of 1932, while the League of Nations index of world prices of internationally traded commodities moved in a horizontal direction. Security prices moved horizantally or turned upward in the second half of the year in all financial markets."

What we need now therefore seems to be an assurance that we are to have sound money coupled with more economy in government and fewer attempts to get around the law of supply and demand.

A financial writer on the New York Times recently pointed out the fact that in relation to recovery from depression "the testimony of our own past history is impressive. It is that no return to real prosperity has ever followed prolonged industrial depression, except when it was accompanied by return of government and people to the principles of currency stability and sound money."

It is equally true that lasting recovery cannot come without balanced budgets, federal, state and individual, and a recognition of the fact that the laws of supply and demand cannot be repealed by government fiat.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Fishing on the Gulf

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Martin, Grover, Jr., and Elizabeth Harris spent last Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Mobile and vicinity. They enjoyed a most successful fishing excursion at Bayou La Batre, where they caught fish until it was not funny. Among their catch was a 15-pound "stingeree," landed by Mrs. Martin, after much squealing and breaking of her pole. They brought it back as evidence. "No use to tell how many fish we caught," said Samuel, "for nobody would believe it." That is about right, I am sure. Not that I mean anybody would doubt Sam's veracity, but because I know it is so easy to catch fish in the Gulf waters, it sounds "fishy" to a highlander when he hears the story told.

The Gulf Coast Fair

You can depend upon Dr. Gragg to furnish the birds for any occasion that arises. Last week he supplied the eagle for Clanton's NRA parades. This week he has specimens of pheasants and Japanese Silkies (a very ugly chicken) on exhibition at the Gulf Coast Fair in Mobile. He sent three coops down there last week. I suppose we have right here in Clanton the only expert and professional pheasant grower in Alabama. It will give Dr. Gragg and Clanton as well a marked distinction to have his beautiful birds exhibited at the Fair.

Let The Temperature Rise

"Let the temperature rise," said Presley Cochran as he gazed at the "thermometer" in Upchurch's window Tuesday. But the sad part of it was there could be detected no rise at all so far. Now is the time for all good Methodists and Baptists to come to the aid of their budgets. Preacher's salaries are past and much over due. Current bills are delinquent. We go along entirely oblivious of our obligations, and some of us church members haven't given a dime to support our churches in years. And some of the critics point to us with scorn to say that our churches are nothing but money grabbing organizations. The churches of Clanton are not guilty of the charge. If they are no better as purveyors of religion than they have been at money-grabbing, well then, STOP. "Pay up and stay paid up." That is the best thing for us to do. Let's do it, and let the critics go hang.

The NRA Retires

Announcement that the NRA has pulled out of the small towns comes with a mingling of many sorts of opinions and expressions. Among them we have heard: It never was intended for us folks anyhow. It means that the NRA is headed for a complete surrender. They bit off more than they could chew. We would have fared better without it. These and many other expressions reveal the feelings of the populace. But the words of Presi- Roosevelt still have a convincing tone. He says this country has not and will not surrender to the depression. If the NRA does not solve our problems, we will find another way that will. I like his bulldog tenacity. We can not surrender to the prophecy that the darkest days are ahead. We must hold tight and fight hard. Everything we have is at stake, and we can not surrender.

For Better Lumber Business

Tom McKee drifted up to the corner Tuesday for a chat. I thought it was another razzing about politics. He likes to punch me for fun now and then. But he was serious this time. Tom is now a saw mill man, and I am told that business will make most anything out of a man, except perhaps a saint or angel. Mr. McKee is hatching up in his mind a business proposition that sounds good for lumber manufacturers. From his exposition of the present situation the thirty-odd saw mill operators of Chilton County need a revamping of their business. He is not yet ready to announce details of his proposal, but will do so soon. It will be interesting, I predict.

This Is A Believe It or Not

Emmett Singleton has reported a find that is in Ripley's class. It is a hive of bees that settled on the branch of a small tree in a clump of bushes out in a field near his home. The bees, industrious as they are, did not waste any time looking over the country for a home. They went to making honey. Now they have two nice juicy loaves of honey comb hanging from the limb, while the members of the family hover about in the vicinity of the bushes. Paul Mims went to the place Monday and made a picture of the unusual arrangement. Strange indeed that bees should depart from their ancient custom of seeking inside quarters, and go to building honey right out on trees. Maybe Emmett has found the fabled land of "milk and honey."

New NRA Slogan

Ever since the NRA move was put on foot, people have been inventing all kinds of slogans, etc., for which the letters could stand. A few weeks ago we gave all the ones we had up to that time, but since that time quite a few new ones have made their appearance. In fact, one nationally known magazine has offered prizes for new, unique slogans, and all kinds of answers have come in. However, one good old dyed-in-the-wool Republican has this to say in turning in his idea of a slogan, and in view of the way things have been going of late, he isn't so far from wrong, to say the least of it. Here it is, and you can be your own judge of whether it is good or bad. NRA—Need Republican Advice.

Without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, we are still patiently waiting for the revenue from beer to reduce our taxes.

The gross income of America's rice growers declined from $45,000,000 a year in the 1924-1928 period to $15,000,000 in 1932. Why doesn't NRA start a campaign for more rice throwing at weddings?

We refuse to get excited about inflation until we find out who wins the World Series.

There seems to be a rising tide of resentment to Americans down in Cuba. Maybe the Cubans are sore because we are trying to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Kidnapers have been doing all in their power to make capital punishment more popular.

Thorsby Institute News

On Saturday night the newly organized Commercial Club of Thorsby Institute gave an interesting program, the proceeds of which were for purchasing a much needed roll for the ditto machine, which is a duplicating machine for circular letters, examinations and other school purposes.

Miss Boring, who is the commercial teacher, had charge of the program. She gave a reading entitled "The Sacrifice of Naoman." And did it very well. There were two one-act plays that were amusing. Edith Johnson, who is an honorary member, sang a solo, "Gypsy Love Song." She was dressed in a Gypsy costume and Lloyd Howard, who played the accompaniment, was dressed in a Gypsy costume also. This number was very much enjoyed.

One young person, unable to be present, gave the price of admission later. Six dollars was cleared. The new roll will cost over six dollars.

At the first Literary Society one of our patrons was unavoidly prevented from coming till after the program was over, yet he insisted on paying for himself and others he had expected to bring.

We apprecite such generosity. We thank, very much, Mrs. Martin Peterson, who recently presented the dinning hall with some plants. She also made a donation of potatoes. She has often given the school plants and potatoes.

We wish to thank Mrs. Soberg, Mrs J. N. Jones, Mrs. Raybon, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Irene Mastin, Mrs. Butler, and Mrs. Each for canned fruit and vegetables given the dormitory this school year.

A week from Saturday night, the second open meeting of the Literary Society will take place to which every one is invited. The predominant interest will center around Thanksgiving.

November 25th will be the annual stunt night of the classes.

620,000 ADDED TO THE PAY ROLLS DURING SEPTEMBER

Washington.—The regular monthly report of the Bureau of Labor statistics of the department of labor, showing that more than 620,000 workers returned to jobs during September, covers 17 industrial and business groups. Secretary Perkins said:

"This increase of employment of nearly three-quarters of a million in one month does not represent the total number in all branches of industry. The industries surveyed each month normally employ about 20,000,000 of the 40,000,000 of gainful workers of the country. Reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the same period show an increase of 16,000 workers on class 1 railroads. Only a very small portion of the contracts let by the Public Works Administration to date had been awarded in September. Gains in pay rolls of the 17 industries surveyed indicate that more than $10,000,000 was paid out to workers in September than in August. Total pay rolls for September were $84,000,000 more than the weekly aggregate for last March."

V. J. ELMORE'S 5c, 10c & $1 STORE — Clanton, Alabama

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TIME NEARING FOR NEW COTTON PLAN

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 24.—Within the next few weeks Alabama farmers will be asked to sign contracts to cooperate in the 1934 cotton reduction control program, the aim of which is to limit planting of cotton in the United States next spring to approximately 25,000,000 acres. This will mean a cut of 40 per cent of the 1931-32 average acreage.

Just when definite work will be started on the new program is not yet known but officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration have announced that this program will be postponed until the present emergency program is entirely completed and all farmers have been paid for plowing up a portion of their 1933 crop. The majority of Alabamians who participated in the emergency program have already received payments.

The central feature of the program for 1934 is the domestic allotment plan. Under this, growers who agree to adjust their acreage will receive a virtual guarantee of a parity price for their proportion of the crop consumed in the United States. This means that they will get parity for about half of their crop. A parity price means a price that will give cotton the same purchasing power it had in the pre-war period, 1909-1914.

Some time shortly after the cotton is planted next spring growers who cooperate will receive rental payments as follows:

For land producing approximately 75 to 125 pounds per acre, a rental of not over $3 per acre; from 150 to 200 pounds, a maximum of $5; 225 to 300 pounds, a maximum of $7; 325 to 400 pounds, a maximum of $9; and for land producing 400 pounds and over, a maximum of $11.

Then additional payments will be made in the fall to bring the amount the producers get up to a parity price for about half of their crop.

Coupled with the agricultural reduction program is a plan under which growers are to be loaned 10 cents per pound on their present cotton crop, enabling them to hold their cotton until prices are nearer a fair exchange value.

TERRACES ENHANCE VALUE OF FARMS

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 25. — The time for terracing is or soon will be at hand, and J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is authority for the statement that a good terrace will enhance the value of an area of land by $5 to $8. The cost of making such a terrace varies from 75 cents to $4 per acre, depending upon the condition of the land and the equipment used, according to Mr. Wilson.

County agents and the agricultural engineer are now busy conducting terracing schools in many counties. At these schools leading farmers are trained to do expert terracing work. They receive the latest and best information about terraces, how to make them, and how to retain them.

"Soil erosion is one of the most serious enemies of good farm real estate and constitutes the farmer's most expensive leak," said Mr. Wilson. "In Alabama where the soil is seldom frozen during the winter it is subjected to a large amount of washing by the winter and spring rains unless it is terraced properly os is covered with a winter cover crop, such as legumes or small grains.

"Since fertile soil is fundamental to succesful farming, terracing is given major consideration in the program of agricultural development sponsored by the Extension Service."

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24.—I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, has announced that the big annual deer hunt in the Alabama National Forest will be held this year on November 8, 9, 10 and 11.

Like the deep sea rodeo held on the gulf coast each summer, this is the only hunt of its kind held annually in the south. It will be the fifth and will last four days, one more than in the past.

Sixteen buck were killed on last year's hunt in which approximately 500 sportsmen participated. The bag limit for the hunt is one buck. To enter, each hunter is required to have a state hunting license, if he resides in Alabama, and a non-resident license if he is a visitor. Also he must have a written permit from F. C. Henneberger, federal forest ranger, stationed at Decatur.

The national forest at present embraces 135,000 acres in South Lawrence, North Winston and East Franklin Counties and the government is adding about 39,000 acres, which will bring the total to around 175,000 acres. There are 16,000 acres in the forest that have been set aside as a game sanctuary in which game animals are protected at all times of the year.

Sixty-three doe deer and a small number of bucks were planted in the forest in 1925 by the game and fisheries department and today it is estimated there are at least 1,200 deer in the forest. Persons participating in the hunt may enter the forest either at Moulton or Haleyville.

Copies of rules and regulations governing the hunt will be distributed among the hunters and these will be rigidly enforced by the forest ranger and a staff of five district wardens under W. G. Wharton, chief state game warden.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Further development of the program to assure prosperity for rural America and to permanently place agriculture on a parity with other industries will be the primary task of the annual meeting of the American Farm Federation in Chicago, December 11, 12, and 13.

"The use of Dry Skim Milk in the Manufacture of Cultured Buttermilk" is the title of a new bulletin published by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It reports research work done by E. E. Allredge and A. D. Burke.

"Farmers are strengthening their organization in order to speed agricultural recovery through higher prices, development of an adequate farmer-owned credit system, currency reform, and revision of the state system of taxation in order to reduce the inequitable levy on property," according to Col. J. Litt Edwards of Selma, R. 1, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

The textile procesing tax on cotton does not impose a heavy burden on the public. The Consumer's Counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration reports that this levy should not increase the price of a pair of overalls more than eight and one-fourth cents, the price of a shirt more than three and one-half cents, the price of unbleached muslin more than one cent a yard, or the price of a sheet more than eight cents.

Mrs. T. H. Neighbors of Goodwater spent the week end with Mrs. Grady Broadhead.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Don't Overdo the Thing

Quite a number of people have come to me for recommendations to Miss Austin for Red Cross Relief. Some of those persons were recommended because they actually needed help, while others were not because they could make it without help. Please don't come to me for help unless you actually need it. I know every person in the community, and I know his condition. If you are in need of help, I shall be glad to do what I can for you; if you do not need help, it would be well for you to spend the time coming to see me for something more profitable.

This is A Good Paper to Read

Reading maketh a full man. Have you ever heard that statement? Well, it's very true. If you would find plenty of reading material, it would give plenty of time to attend to your own business, and let the other fellow's business alone.

Why not invest one dollar in a year's subscription to this paper? It will pay you many, many times. Then you will get the news of the week, and should you have occasion to go visiting, plenty of good news will be yours for discussion.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

Breeding Practice and Breeding Records in Relation to Poultry

Breeding practice, with a view of increased production of poultry products, is of much significance to the successful poultryman, hence breeding practices used today.

According to statistics available, the average egg production per hen per year, taking the United States as a whole is 80 eggs. Sixty-five per cent of these are produced during the months of March, April, May and June, hence, the price is lowest at this time. It can readily be seen that breeding should be carried on to produce winter layers. Ten eggs are worth as much in the winter as twenty are worth in the summer months, usually.

It is clearly evident that there is much room for improvement of poultry by better breeding methods. But what are the better methods?

Select for standard quality. When breeding a standard bred poultry, adhere closely to the standards of the breed. Eliminate all fouls that do not comply to the breed standard from the breeding flock.

Select for vigor. Heavy eggs production is a great drain on the bird's system.

Select good body type. This has been discussed in a previous article

Select for factors affecting production. This means select only the best layers for breeders.

Select for early maturity. Use for breeders, the pullets that start laying at the earliest age. This can be done by leg banding, and keeping accurate records.

Select for heavy laying. This can be done by ordinary culling practices.

Select for non-broodiness. Never use a hen that is inclined to "sit" much in the breeding flock.

Select for persistency. Get the hens that lay through every month if possible.

Practice system of banding. Do this in order that individual records may be kept of each foul.

Take special care in selecting males for breeders. The offspring of any one male are many more than from any one female.

Select for hatchability and livaability.

Inbreeding is the mating together of relatives. Most people look upon inbreeding of poultry as bad. But carried out carefully, with elimination of inferior fouls, inbreeding is a fine method of developing a favorable characteristic in a breed. Inbreeding should not be closer than tenth cousins, as the practice closer than this persistently followed results in birds of low vitality and poor hatchability.

Outbreeding is the opposite of inbreeding. It is done with a view of increasing hatchability, livability and vitality. It is also used to combine desirable qualities of different breeds.

The age of breeders has a vital effect on the fertility of hatching eggs. Fouls, both male and female, should not be used for breeding after the age of one year old has been reached. A chicken is a comparatively short lived farm creature.

FIFTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

A conversation between MRS WHITE (who is typical of several thousand of our customers whose use of electricity has been averaging about 200 kilowatt hours a month) and our REPRESENTATIVE who is explaining the effect of our new rates on her use of our service.

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. White. Have you heard about our new low rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. WHITE. "Yes. I hear that I'll get an immediate reduction."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "That's true, Mrs. White. How much electricity have you been using?"
- MRS. WHITE: "About 200 kilowatt hours a month. Last month's bill came to $7.85."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Let's see. This is a six-room home, isn't it?"
- MRS. WHITE: "Yes; we have five persons in our family."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Then if you use 200 kilowatt hours this month, your bill drops to $6.86. That's a reduction of 99c—or roughly one-eighth of your old bill. But in addition you are entitled to use 69 more kilowatt hours absolutely free!"
- MRS. WHITE: "In other words, I now get 269 kilowatt hours for $6.86, whereas I formerly paid $7.85 for 200 kilowatt hours?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "That's it. And do you realize that's giving you one-third more electricity for one-eighth less money?"
- MRS. WHITE: "That's just splendid. There are several more small appliances I've been wanting for some time. Now I can operate them on those 69 free kilowatt hours, can't I?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You certainly can. There are dozens of ways you can use your free electricity. But most of the ladies who have been using about as much electricity as you, are adding Electric Water Heaters."
- MRS. WHITE: "But my 69 free kilowatt hours aren't suffiicient to operate a water heater, are they?"
- REPRESENTATIVE: "No. But on your new low rate, you can operate a water heater for only $1.90 a month more than you've been paying all along. That's just a fraction over 6c a day for automatic hot water! Isn't it worth that much?"
- MRS. WHITE: "Goodness, yes! Water heating is one of my biggest problems. But aren't water heaters high priced? I'm afraid we haven't the money to buy one at this time."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You don't have to buy one. We'll rent you one for $1.45 a month. On that basis, you pay only a fraction more than 11c a day to rent and operate an automatic electric water heater."
- MRS. WHITE: "Marvelous! I'll speak to Mr. White about it this very night. I'm sure he'll agree—he's so particular about having plenty of hot water, and goodness knows I need it in the kitchen all the time. Call again tomorrow and I believe I'll be ready to sign up."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "Thank you, Mrs. White. Don't put it off any longer than you can help, because we have only 250 water heaters to rent and they're going like hot cakes. Good day, Ma'am."

IF, like Mrs. White, you live in a 6-room home and have been using 200 kilowatt hours of electricity a month, take immediate advantage of your free electricity and the bargains awaiting you in increased use of our service. Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative to your home immediately.

Our advertisement in the next issue of this newspaper will explain how our new low rates affect customers who have been using 400 kilowatt hours of electric service. WATCH FOR IT!

FACTS ABOUT BOB JONES COLLEGE IN TENNESSEE

The Bob Jones College, formerly located at College Point, Florida, accepted the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce to move to Cleveland Tennessee, because Cleveland is in the center of the testimony of the institution.

The college is interdenominational, co-educational and orthodox. It stands without apology for the old time religion and the absolute authority of the Bible. Every teacher is required to sign, once a year, the following creed:

"I believe in the inspiration of the Bible (both Old and New Testaments) the creation of man by the direct act of God; the incarnation and virgin birth of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ; His identification as the Son of God; His vicarious atonement for the sins of mankind by the shedding of His blood on the cross; the resurrection of His body from the tomb; His power to save men from sin; the new birth through the regenration by the Holy Spirit, and the gift of eternal life by the grace of God."

The motto of the college is "No college shall excel us in the throroughness of our scholastic work and God helping us, we endeavor to excel all other colleges ni the thoroughness of our Christian training."

Students from the Bob Jones College have been admitted to the leading graduate schools of the United States and they have uniformly made good.

The college is sponsoring the Young People's Fellowship Club movement which is the fastest growing young people's Christian organization in the world. In less than two years more than three hundred clubs have been organized in the South. To become a member of the Young People's Fellowship Club young men and young women are required to take a pledge to read their Bible daily; to pray alone in secret at least twice a day; to try to win others to Jesus Christ; to attend church services regularly and especially prayer meetings, and to attend all meetings of the club.

This year more than fifty of the students in the college are studying for the ministry. Dr. Bob Jones, the evangelist, who is the founder and president of the college, spoke recently to three groups of young people in Alabama and Florida. Over two hundred young people in these groups testified that they had been converted under the ministry of students from the Bob Jones College. These ministerial students are leading thousands to Christ throughout the country. Several of the most successful evangelists in the United States have been trained in the Bob Jones College. The college, through its field organizations, has sponsored more than six hundred revivals during the last six years.

The Bob Jones College is a corporation NOT FOR PROFIT. This means that it doesn't belong to the Board of Trustees. It doesn't belong to anybody. It is held in trust for a definite, orthodox, Christian educational testimony.

This year, in spite of the financial depression, when most schools had a decline in attendance, the Bob Jones College has an increase over the previous year.

The college broadcasts gospel programs daily over a number of radio stations throughout the country. It has been estimated that as many as a million people daily have heard these programs. As a result of this many souls have been saved.

FOREST TREE SEEDLINGS ARE AVAILABLE THIS FALL

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24.—A total of 424,000 tree seedlings will be available this fall for reforestation purposes in Alabama, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. Of the total quantity of seedlings, 77,000 are slash pine, 17,000 loblolly pine, 4,000 long leaf pine, 2,000 shortleaf pine, 8,000 bald cypress, 17,000 black walnut, 24,000 osage orange, 18,000 persimmon, 1,000 red cedar, 110,000 black locust, 40,000 water oak, 7,000 live oak, 5,000 white oak and 93,000 white ash. The oak and the white ash are two year old seedlings, while all the others have been produced during the current year. All of these seedlings will be distributed to tree planters interested in reforestation for timber production with the exception of the 110,000 black locust trees which will be held in reserve for use at the emergency conservation camps engaged on soil erosion projects.

The seedlings can be secured by tree planters at $1.50 per thousand f. o. b. Livingston. The trees will be shipped at intervals during the planting season which extends from November 15 to March 15.

Application blanks, on reverse side of which will be found the regulations governing the distribution of seedlings, can be obtained from the office of the state forester at Montgomery. Shade and ornamental stocks are not available for private plantings, since it is not the purpose of the state commission of forestry to compete with private nurseries. However, a considerable quantity of desirable transplants are produced annually at the nursery to be used in connection with the development of the state parks of Alabama and for highway beautification. Due to the lack of funds, the planting of trees along the highways has been discontinued for the present, but it is anticipated that a large number of shade trees will be planted on the state parks by the civilian conservation corps from the state park camps.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be controlled.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Due to the bad weather last Sunday only a small crowd attended Sunday School and preaching, but I am sure every onepresent derived some benefit out of Rev. Trice's sermon, for he certainly delivered two wonderful sermons.

Miss Ruth Maddox left Friday for Thorsby where she will spend a week or so with her aunt.

Mr. Cecil Billingsley had as his guest Saturday night Mr. Odell Traywick of the Indian Grave community.

We were very glad indeed, to have Mrs. M. D. Dickey back with us Sunday.

Mr. U. L. Headley was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billingsley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Scott were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Dickey Sunday.

Mrs. Lillie Weldon and family spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe and family.

Mr. Fonzie Coe spent a while Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Culpepper.

Everyone be sure and come to Sunday School next Sunday at 10 o'clock. The young people are going to put on a temperance program just after Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baker and little daughter were the Sunday all-day guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Baker.

Mrs. Josephine Lockhart visited her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Aldridge, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Headley had as their week end guests Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wilkins, of the Bethsalem community.

VERMONT SCHOOL

A large number of new students have enrolled the past week. This makes our present enrollment about one hundred and forty-five.

On Saturday night, November 11, the favorite play, "A Poor Married Man," will be presented with a select cast. This play has proven popular at many schools and on numerous occasions, and we feel that this will be no exception. Everyone who possesses a sense of humor and enjoys good wholesome entertainment cannot afford to miss seeing this delightful comedy-drama. A small charge of admission will be made. Proceeds for school equipment.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant and Miss Cagle spent Sunday with the latter's parents, at Mitchell Dam. While there they were carried through the different units of the plant.

Examinations are in full blast this week. We are all working diligently to make as high a mark as possible. We trust no one meets with the sad fate of being set back a grade because of a careless grade of work or an indifferent attitude.

The girls completed their sales of candy in five days, which is a real record for salesmanship. They now have a new basket ball on the way and are anxious to begin their training in basket ball here. Miss Cagle will coach them.

The boys have erected one goal and are now drilling in the technique of goal shooting.

Superintendent Little was a visitor to our school on last Friday morning.

A large number of students went with their parents to Clanton last Saturday to witness the NRA loyalty parade.

The faculty is arranging a Thanksgiving program to be given on the last day of school before the holiday. This program will be presented by the student body.

A THOUGHT OF FATHER W. D. BURNETTE

Father. Tis the sweetest word in all the world to me, wherever I may wander, wherever I may be. The very thought of father unfailing cheer will always be a comport though he may be far or near. A wonderful thing is a father. Other folks may love you, but only father understands. Father works for us, cares for us, loves and forgives us, and when you lose him—like a guardian angel, his memory is always with you.

Accept you father's love and honor it, for it is the most cherished possession in life. His tears have halted me when I was wrong. How his dear arms have held me like a cradle of love. Father's love outlives them all. Father when the gates of heaven moved apart for your coming, earth received its greatest blessing. When the call comes for father and he must go, heaven holds our benedictions, for I love my father, resting in the arms of Jesus in the beautiful land where we'll never grow old, away from this old world of sorrow and trouble, pain and cares.

A thought for father dear God only granted him the privilege of going on to heaven, where he could be with his dear daughter, mother and sisters that have already gone on. But there is yet one more thing we can do for him to make him happy and rejoice, and that is to be ready to meet him when God sends for us. If we children and mother will all live as father did, and follow the advice he has often given us, we will surely meet him again some day. Isn't it wonderful that God will give us the privilege of meeting our dear father and sister again, to be with them always, if we will only do his will. As a thought of father, our cut flowers so white and peaceful and still, may that precious father's face be the guiding star that will lead us children and guide us to a better life.

Let us all accept our father's love and honor to be a guiding star for us to live a better life. May God bless each and everyone.—A child that loved her daddy. Written by Mattie Wilkins.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends during the sickness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Dolly Abernathy, and also thanks to the doctors and especially the funeral director, Spigener. May God's richest blessings be upon each and every one is our prayer.—The Children.

HAGENBECK WALLACE CIRCUS TO BE IN SELMA WEDNESDAY

The good old days are here again, as far as the small boy is concerned,—for a circus is coming.

The great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, second largest in the world, is announced for performances in Selma on Wednesday, November 1.

Hailed as the highest class circus on earth, the Hagenbeck-Wallace show boasts of countless new features this season, many of them importations from Europe and new to America. Clyde Beatty, world's greatest wild animal trainer, again, heads the list of stellar attractions. Twice daily this fearless younth gives battle to forty snarling and ferocious lions and tigers, declared the most dangerous and breath taking display of all time.

"Poodles" Hanneford, the greatest of riding clowns, and the famous Hanneford family of bare-back riders; the sensational Billetti Troupe of high wire performers; "Bombayo," the man from India; the Picchiani Troupe, thrilling spring-board acrobats; the Canestrelly family, unsupported-ladder performers, and the Flying Hills and Clarkonians, famed troupes of daring aerialists, are, but a few of the one hundred acts and displays which go to make up the gigantic 1933 program of the Great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus this year.

Innumerable horse displays, trained wild animal numbers, herds of performing elephants, educated seals, and scores of thrilling ground, and aerial displays and a new version of "Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt," lyrical pageant of ancient Egypt which opens the performances, will be additional features.

Performances are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m., with the main gates opening one hour earlier in each instance, allowing time for leisurely inspection of the big double-meagerie, the largest on tour in the world.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB MEETS

The Midway-Mt. Creek club met on September 11th at Mrs. S. R. Hudson's with Mrs. W. A. Adams, president, in charge. Our county demonstration agent, Miss Pardue, gave us a talk on poultry raising and home gardening. At our next meeting we will take up sewing. The club will meet with Mrs. L. T. Davis November 8.—Reporter, Mrs. Charles Cooper.

Miss Grace Ezell, daughter of Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton, underwent an operation for appendicitis at a Montgomery Hospital last Friday. She is reported to be improving satisfactorily.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Some time ago a very charming woman who is the wife of a bishop in the Methodist church said to me, "Dr. Jones, during a session of the annual conference my husband can't sleep at night. He suffers because he it unable to give all the ministers a good position." That is beautiful sentiment. The bishop is a lovely man, but I thought (and remember that I am a minister) that the bishop should be staying awake at night because he can't give all the churches a good preacher.

Preachers have a hard time but a preacher is only a means to an end. He is a bundle boy whose business it is to take the gospel packages and deliver them to the people. The bundle boy is not the most important member of the firm. The firm is important and the people are important. A preacher should be so sure that his gospel packages come direct from God that when he delivered the packages the responsibility for them is on the firm and not on the preacher.

Laymen, hear me. If the preacher preaches the gospel, don't kick him. He is only a bundle boy. If you don't like the package, call up the firm and kick God.

STATE TROOPER TO BE AT THE WADESONIAN NEXT SATURDAY

The following is a brief story of "State Trooper," which is to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre next Saturday afternoon and Saturday night, October 28th:

A bitter, relentless gasoline price-slashing war has broken wide open because W. J. Brady, president of the Brady Oil Company, refuses to meet the demands of Garber, a rival, and crucify the public in hard times. Graber's ultimatum has been delivered—the price of gas stays up—or else! Anything might happen.

It does. We find officer Michael Rolph speeding on his motorcycle to subdue riots caused by Graber's hired thugs, bent on the maximum amount of damage. Filling stations come first. The refinery will be next. Rolph gets off on the wrong foot with pretty Jane Brady by handing her a ticket for speeding. She gets her dad to give the handsome cop a job as a guard in his plant just to have him handy to teach him a lesson.

The whole refinery is under strict guard, headed by Rolph, when Jane appears. When she recognizes the man who refuses her admittance, she is incensed and decides to put the young man in his place. Stealing a gasoline truck, which was about to be used by Graber's men in crashing the gate to the refinery, she drives it toward the gate. As it goes down a hill it is soon out of control and the girl is helpless. Rolph goes to her aid and, in a daring rescue, hauls her from the truck and onto his motorcycle. It is the start of love for Jane. She invites Rolph to a party at her home.

On the night of the party, Burman has made arrangements to have a hired aviator bomb the refinery. He is to aim for the beacon light on the tower of the grounds. Burman attempts to kill Carter, is stopped in this by Rolph, who learns of the bombing plot. Forgetting Jane's party Rolph grabs a gasoline truck, attaches to it a portable searchlight and sets out for the sand dunes some distance from the plant.

As the plane roars overhead searching for the beacon, Rolph reaches his destination and starts the searchlight. Bombs come hurtling down. The truck is destroyed but the refinery is saved. Jane, who has learned of Michael's danger, arrives. Rolph is unhurt. He and Jane drive off together.

The head of the store was passing through the packing room and saw a boy lounging against a box whistling cheerfully.

"How much do you get a week?" he asked.

"Ten dollars, sir."

"Here's a week's pay—get out."

When he next saw the foreman, he asked, "When did we hire that boy"?

"We never hired him; he just brought in a package from another firm."

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Health of this community is very good at present.

Our Sunday school met Sunday morning. We did not have a very large crowd on account of the rainy weather. We hope to have more next Sunday. We invite everyone to come and be with us next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

Mr. J. R. Rucker made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smitherman of Prattville are visiting Mrs. T. B. Minor this week end.

Mr. J. F. Giles went to Clanton last Saturday.

Mr. C. Williams made a trip to Pletcher Saturday.

We are looking for Mr. T. L. Patrick of Billingsley to visit us in our Sunday school soon. We want everyone to come next Sunday.

Our pastor moved from Billingsley to Plantersville, and said the ladies met them with a car full of groceries.

Corn On Land Following the Growth of Vetch and Austrian Peas

This week Mr. J. L. Smith of Clanton, Route 2, called at Mr. Stapp's office and reported that he gathered and weighed in 325 bushels of corn from eight acres where vetch was turned under last Spring for the first time. This is an average of better than 40 bushels per acre. Mr. Smith is one of the farmers who thinks that every farmer should plant five acres of vetch or peas per mule.

Mr. Alf Mims of near Thorsby called at Mr. Stapp's this week and reported 112½ bushels of corn weighed in from 2¼ acres where a growth of vetch was turned under last Spring for the first time. This is an average of fifty bushels per acre. Mr. Mims says that he is well pleased with results of same and expects to plant more peas and vetch in the near future.

COTTON LOANS

obtained the parity price by agreement with manufacturers, it is no less the obligation of the Government to make possible the same result to cotton growers by whatever practical means there is available.

The next question then is how may we obtain a parity price for cotton, and the answer is by a systematic plan of cooperation between the Government and the farmers themselves whereby the power and resources of the Government are brought into play in helping the farmers do the things collectively which are beyond their ability as individuals, that is, that brings into harmony their individual and their group interests.

Any plan of production curtailment must embody the principle that those who cooperate must benefit more than those who do not. This can only be done when a cash consideration is offered as an inducement to throw the advantage in favor of the co-operating farmer. The plan in principle is based upon the sound premise that a permanent price control is only practical through the adjustment of supply to demand, both as to quantity and the flow of cotton into the channels of trade. The proposed plan should not be confused with the stabilization or valorization operations of this or other governments, as the efforts referred to sought to control price by damming up the supplies without adequate regard for the increased production naturally resulting from higher prices. The Cotton Cooperatives Parity Price Plan provides the missing link without which the other efforts at price control failed, that is this plan securely ties financial benefits to production control.

The first purpose of the plan is to secure parity price through production control, but incidentally other important results are accomplished, among them being a more systematic and gradual flow of the supply into the market resulting in a seller's rather than a buyer's market. That is, supplies are released by the farmer because of a more favorable price rather than forced out of his hands on a declining market because of his inability to hold.

Forces which may be employed by the administration are adequate, in our judgment, to bring about the desired price level, but their effectiveness may be delayed beyond the time when it will be of any advantage to the growers for the present crop. Already more than half of the crop has been ginned and a large percentage has left farmers' hands. Every day's delay in bringing about the pre-war exchange value of cotton reduces the individual farmer's buying and debt-liquidating power.

It is with the idea of cooperating with the President in making the national policy effective at the earliest practicable moment in the constructive interest of the public welfare and in line with sound economic policy that the Cotton Cooperative Parity Price Plan is proposed.

Plan in Detail

The plan consists of four steps as follows:

(1) Loan 10.60 cents per pound on all cotton grown by and in the hands of actual producers, basis seven-eighths inch low middling or better, or 8.60 cents per pound on similar grades, with staples less than seven-eigths inch, at port or Group "A" mill points. This is with relatively few exceptions in round numbers the natural price of cotton based on ten cents interior at points farthest from consumer markets, and makes possible storage of cotton either interior or at ports without discriminating against either interior or port warehouses, and without penalty to farmers by way of forcing them to absorb freight rates to distant warehouses when near ones are ovefolwed, or when combined storage and insurance rates may be obtained to better advantage at another place. Warehouses must be used, as warehouse receipts are required as collateral for loans.

Let it be remembered while this is a loan without recourse on the maket or any subsequent endorser, the framer will be compelled to eventually pay all carrying and handling charges before he receives any additional returns. His interest must be protected while being fair to all parties concerned.

The ten cent loan is the first step in the Parity Price Plan. It is contingent upon the agreement to cooperate in the acreage control plan of the Government in 1934 and 1935, and is intended as a means of preventing the dumping of cotton on the market, and stopping further decline in the price pending the inauguration of the other phases of the plan.

(2) Advance four cents per pound on all "plow-up options." There are 2,400,000 bales of such options held by 660,000 farmers. These options may now be exercised at any time cotton is nine and a half cents or above. The dire need of many of these option-holders is such that they will be compelled to dump their options on the market as fast as the market will take them at that price—thus tending to prevent the market from getting much above that level.

An advance of four cents will bring the options to ten cents, same as the ten cent loans, and with the other features of the plan will make it possible for the option-holders to benefit by the advance in price resulting from the assured success of the acreage control plan. This does not prevent option-holders, however, from exercising their options at will.

The advance of four cents would be contingent upon an agreement by option-holders to cooperate in the 1934 and 1935 acreage control plan.

(3) The Government would enter into agreements with producers to increase the loan to 15.60 cents per pound, at ports or Grop "A" mill points, (equivalent to approximately 15 cents interior) without recourse on the maker or any subsequent endorser, on all spot cotton grown and held by farmers, basis seven-eighths inch low middling, with premiums and discounts according to grade, staple and character of cotton as determined by the average of the ten spot cotton markets, as of July 1st, 1934, all carrying charges and expense against the cotton to be paid by growers to that date).

After July 1st, 1934, the loans would be increased twelve points per month to cover interest, storage, insurance, handling charges and all other expenses. Whenever the price level shall be high enough to net the farmer the pre-war parity price at interior points with due allowances according to quality of the cotton, the Secretary of Agriculture may at his discretion sell the cotton and remit any equities of the borrowers to them.

(4) Bona fide cotton farmers who have sold a portion or all of their this year's production shall have the right to buy in the open market an equal number of bales to that which they have produced and sold this season. This would give the benefit of the increased price resulting from the success of the plan to both those who have and have not disposed of this year's production—and assure the acreage reduction program.

The same conditions as to the ten cent and the fifteen cent loans would be applied to this who had re-purchased their sold cotton of this year's production as to those who still hold their cotton. A large percentage of growers have sold their entire crop, while practically all have sold a considerable portion of it without knowing the possibility of realizing the promised parity price. For reasons of geographical location and consequent early maturity of the crop, coupled with the pressure put upon them by their creditors, they have been compelled to sell. They would be discriminated against if they were not permitted the privilege of buying back their sold cotton.

The government plan provides for parity price for those who cooperate in the acreage control program on that portion of next year's crop consumed in the United States, but also provides that should the general level of prices be less than the parity price, the government may apply the cash rentals paid individual farmers towards the increased return to them from the parity price. We regard this proposal of little value and doubt if its significance is fully understood, as the cash rentals in all probability would be much greater than any probable difference between the parity price and the market price. It is a simple matter to calculate at what level of prices a certain yield per acre and the rentals based on that yield would be to the advantage of the growers, as compared with the parity price. It is significant, however, that with the practically assurred success of acreage control under the plan presented here, the parity price will be reasonably assured by natural means for the entire production and without any deductions from that parity price account of cash rentals.

CORN AND HOGS WILL BE TAXED

New Federal Regulations Are In Effect Beginning November 1

The Collector of Internal Revenue has been advised that processing tax becomes effective November 1, 1833, on field corn and hogs.

Every processor of field corn, which includes every grist mill operating for toll or otherwise, will be required to make monthly returns with reference to the corn which he processes. Certain exemptions from the processing tax on corn is given where corn is ground for the producer and is to be used by the producer of the corn for his personal use. To secure such exemptions certain affidavits must be made, blanks for which can be secured from the Collector of Internal Revenue, Birmingham, Alabama. The Collector will send instructions to all processors engaged in grinding field corn with reference to these taxes in the event he can secure the names and addresses of these parties. Every merchant or person who deals in the sale of corn meal and other articles manufactured in chief value from field corn will be required to make what is known as a floor tax return and instructions will be furnished these parties so far as this office can secure their names and addresses.

The processing tax on hogs will apply to hogs slaughtered for the purpose of sale, even though only a part of the hog is sold. Farmers engaged in the slaughtering of hogs for the market should secure full instructions relative to the operation of the processing tax on hogs.—Harwell G. Davis, Collector.

SCHOOLS RECEIVE SIXTY PER CENT

Figures Show Receipts From State Funds Over Period Of Last Year

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 31. — The schools of Alabama received approximately 60 per cent of the money appropriated to them from the state treasury during the year ending September 30, last, the office of the Alabama Education Association announced in Montgomery Saturday. This percentage, based upon the latest figures compiled by the business department of the state department of education, includes the moneys disbursed from the Public School Fund and from the special educational trust fund, the two principal funds from which the state support for education is drawn.

Of the $4,042,000 accruing to the public school fund, $2,865,972, or approximately 83.3 per cent, was used for school purposes. This sum does not include the $627,000 from this fund used by the administration as payments on the state debt or $450,000 of the $500,000 appropriated from the general fund of the state to the public school fund for the elementary and secondary schools.

During the year approximately $2,460,000 was disbursed from the special educational trust fund. This amount represents 49.3 per cent of the annual appropriation of $4,980,000.

Had the appropriations for education been paid in full, the schools would have received from the state treasury for the year $9,023,000. They actually received $5,425,000, or 60 per cent.

Officials of the Association attribute the non-payment of the remaining 40 per cent of educational appropriations to the decided decrease in tax receipts, the operation of the opinion of the attorney general, which classifies education as a secondary state service, and the payment of the above mentioned amount on the state debt. As a result of the attorney general's ruling, the schools received only $138,750 of the $1,500,000 appropriated from the general state fund to the special educational trust fund, and only $45,000 of the $500,000 appropriated from the general fund to the public school fund. This ruling is now involvel in a suit against the state comptroller and state treasurer, recently instituted by W. A. Abramson, president, Alabama Department of the American Legion, and Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Strange Cars On Parade Friday

Pan Am Will Show Models of Year 1902 With That of Future in 1962

The people of Clanton will be treated to an amazing sight Friday, November 3rd when a 1962 model automobile will be driven through the streets of the city.

Automotive, marine and aeronautic engineers have for years startled the world with their predictions as to the vehicle of the future.

For the first time these amazing predictions have actually been incorporated in a full size vehicle. Pan-American Petroleum Corporation, planning always ahead, decided to build an automobile that would resemble these sensational cars of the future, as near as present engineering research could forecast them.

The 1962 car, with extreme streamline and lowered wind resistance, has aroused wide-spread interest in the automotive world. It has an overall length of 20 feet (about double the wheelbase of the average present day car). It has wings with a spread of 14 feet, propeller and rudder, since it is believed that the car of 1962 will be able to fly and land on streets or building roofs, as well as skim the highways at 150 miles an hour.

The car has aviation compass, altimeter and tachometer, in addition to regulation automotive instruments.

Accompanying the car of 1962 on its trip through the state is an authentic 1902 model Cadillac, with its crank on the side, old time steering arm, and buck board reminiscent of the old days.

So, tomorrow, at one time the people of Clanton will be able to see one of the first dependable automobiles chugging along behind a vehicle which carries us as far in the future as the imaginations of automotive and aerodynamic engineers have gone.

Both cars are powered with Orange Pan-Am gasoline, and Pan-Am promises the right gasoline for the sensational cars of 1962.

Goodyear Buys Decatur Plant

Will Employ 500 In Making Cotton Cord, For Use In Tires

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company has purchased the Conneticut Mills at Decatur and will give employment to 500 persons, with a payroll estimated at $10,000 a week, as soon as the plant can be reconditioned, T. D. Johnson, manager of the new industries division of Alabama Power Company announced Saturday.

The property was bought at public auction from the bankrupt court for $251,000, the transaction being conducted by P. E. H. Leroy, vice president and treasurer of the Goodyear Company.

"With the purchase of the Decatur tire fabric mill, Goodyear is enlarging the scope of its extensive manufacturing activity in the south," Mr. Leroy said. The Decatur mill, which will be placed in production as soon as possible, joins the southern group of the Goodyear tire and fabric mills already operating in Gadsden, Ala., and Rockmart, Cedartown and Cartersville, Ga.

Mr. Leroy said there were three important factors which led to the selection of Decatur for the establishment of the Company's new production unit. These are labor, power and nearness to raw material supplies.

At Decatur, Mr. Leroy said, through the service of the Alabama Power Company, Goodyear was assured of an uninterrupted supply with a forcible contract, and at a rate 20 per cent lower than could be obtained in the north or east.

Power at assured low prices and assured, uninterrupted service, is necessary for any section that would attract new industries," he said.

Commenting upon the successful negotiations, Thomas W. Martin, president of the power company said: "We are greatly pleased that the efforts of our new industries division and the Decatur Chamber of Commerce have succeeded in again interesting the Goodyear Company to locate in our state with a large industry."

Work of reconditioning the plant, at a cost estimated at $100,000, is expected to begin at oncse.

POLK STALK FOUND GROWING FORTY-NINE FEET FROM GROUND

Here comes a story with plenty of authenticity, even if it does sound fishy from the start. Right here in the corporate limits of Clanton something very unusual and hard to explain was found one day last week.

Alphus Bowles and a negro named Oscar Hill sawed down a post oak about 30 inches in diameter at the bottom. At the top of the tree, 49 feet from the ground was a hollow and in this hollow was growing a polk stalk about three feet high with matured berries on it. The oak tree was hollow at the bottom and top, but was perfectly sound for several feet in the middle. It was on Mr. John T. Ellis's place, down between where he lives and the creek.

COTTON LOANS TOTAL $89,277.76

Farmers Are Rushing County Agent's Office With Applications For Government Loans At Ten Cents a Pound for Cotton

The government cotton loan business is taking on rather large and extensive proportions at the office of County Agent Stapp. Tuesday was the biggest day of the business so far with 185 separate loans made on 571 bales of cotton for a total of $28,994.91.

At the close of business Tuesday night the records showed a grand total of 599 loans made on 1,747 bales of cotton, for a total amount of $89,277.76. There is no telling what will be the total of the cotton loans, as it is not known how much cotton is being held in the county, nor how many farmers will avail themselves of the borrowing privilege.

Mr. Stapp points out an interesting fact for the benefit of farmers who may have already pledged their cotton to mortgage holders at less than the loan value. Such farmers may, if they can recover an amount of cotton equal to their production this year, come in now and borrow ten cents a pound on it, provided it is low middling grade or better, and seven-eighths inch staple or more.

JESSE C. JONES IN BIRMINGHAM HOSPITAL WITH TYPHUS FEVER

Two weeks ago Mr. Jesse C. Jones, barber of Clanton, was seized with a peculiar ailment which baffled several local physicians. Mr. Jones was carried to Birmingham Thursday of last week and placed in South Highlands Infirmary. There a number of examinations were made before a report was made as to his ailment, when it was pronounced typhus fever. Mr. Jones has high fever and is delirious much of the time.

Late reports from the hospital say that he seems to be slowly improving, but that he is not entirely out of danger yet.

Baptist Revival Another Week

Present Order of Daily Services To Continue On Through Wednesday

Revival services in progress at Clanton Baptist Church will continue through next Wednesday, November 8, with daily services at ten each morning and seven each night. Rev. W. P. Reeves, of Tuskegee, is doing the preaching. Fred Bond, of Birmingham conducts the singing.

The meeting started off with a fine attendance Sunday night, and the day services Monday and Tuesday were will attended also. Interest is splendid. The preaching of Rev. Reeves is marvelous. His messages have a peculiar appeal to the people who have heard him.

The church at Clanton extends an invitation to people of adjacent rural communities to attend any or all of the services during the remaining week of the revival.

Funeral Services for Thomas M. Parrish Held Here Last Thursday

Impressive funeral services for Mr. Thomas M. Parrish, veteran of the World War, were held at Clanton Baptist church last Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. A large number of World War comrades of the deceased participated in the funeral rites, carrying out the plan of military honors prescribed by the ritual of the American Legion.

The funeral escort was formed at the home and accompanied the body by marching to the church and from the church to the cemetery. World War veterans made up the escort in the following order: Color bearer with two color Guards; Commander, Chaplain and Bugler of the Chilton County Post of American Legion; six pallbearers marching alongside the hearse; firing squad of eight men behind the hearse; and a group of about fifty ex-soldiers in the rear of the firing squad.

In a casket draped with the American flag the body of Comrade Parrish was seen for the last time by a great throng of his mourning friends and relatives at the conclusion of the funeral service at the Baptist church. From the church the casket was escorted to the grave at Clanton cemetery, where the last rites of the American Legion were performed in an impressive manner. Committal of the body to the grave was read by the Post Chaplain, Mack Wyatt. Salute to the dead was fired in three volleys from eight rifles by the firing squad, commanded by Jean Gore. Taps was sounded by Joe Ben Downs. The flag was removed from the casket by two pallbearers, and given to the wife of the departed comrade. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Ezell.

Thomas M. Parrish was 41 years old. He was a son of the late Bill Parrish, and was born and reared near Union Point, in Beat 16. When he was a young man he moved with his family to the Maple Springs community, a few miles south of Clanton. For a while he was engaged as a teacher in the Chilton County schools, later coming to Clanton and forming a connection with the store of W. A. Kemp.

He married Miss Alsie Mims, who with one daughter, Miss Edith Parrish, survive him. He was a volunteer in the World War, and served his country faithfully and honorably for about fifteen months. He was a sargeant in the quartermaster department.

After returning from the army Mr. Parrish engaged in business for himself in Clanton, which he continued for several years until forced to retire on account of ill health. During the past five of more years he had been in ill health, suffering pellagra. Much time was spent in government hospitals. Death came to him on Tuesday evening, October 24 at the Veterans Hospital in Tuscaloosa. The body was shipped to Maplesville, where it was taken in charge by Mell Martin, for burial arrangements.

Besides his wife and daughter, Mr. Parrish is survived by four brothers, Bud, Webb, Lonza and Dewey Parrish, of Clanton; three sisters, Mrs. J. B. Wells, of Selma; Mrs. Roy Alverson of Birmingham and Miss Blanche Parrish.

ANSWERS TO NRA INQUIRIES

Q.—Are farmers and smaller stores in small towns exempt from NRA regulations?

A.—In addition to exempting from the operation of the master retail code, and also from the President's Reemployment Agreement, all stores not having more than five employees in towns of less than 2,500 population, the President issued an additional executive order which exempts farmers' cooperative organizations whose members receive "patronage dividends" from the sections covering fair practice sections of all codes. Such sections either limit or prohibit rebates or allowances of any kind to favored purchases whether in the form of money, goods, or services or otherwise.

Q.—Are premiums, prizes, etc., in connection with retail business permitted?

A.—Such sales-promotion aids are forbidden in substituted provisions for particular lines of business, and the subject is covered in detail in the master retail code.

Q.—Does the census of 1930 as referred to in the President's Reemployment Agreement govern invariably?

A.—In cases where the 1930 Federal census shows that a town at that time had a population of more than 2,500 but the population of which subsequently decreased to below 2,500 a certification to that effect from the mayor or other competent municipal authority will govern for the purpose of clasification under NRA.

Killed Instantly In Auto Wreck

Bill Powell, Age 15, Lost His Life In Accident Last Saturday Night

Bill Powell, age 15 years, son of Sam B. Powell, was killed instantly in an automobile wreck two miles south of Clanton about midnight Saturday.

A Ford car driven by Dewey Parrish, accompanied by Powell, coming north on the highway, collided with a bus loaded with negroes going south on the curve in front of the home of Mr. J. B. Downs. Both machines were wrecked. Powell was killed instantly. Parrish was severely injured. One of the negroes was hurt.

The first theory of Powell's death was that he was thrown headfirst against the pavement, crushing his brains out. After studying the situation, however, Coroner J. Mell Martin was not satisfied with that explanation. Continuing his inquiry into the matter, Mr. Martin has convinced himself that Powell was thrown out of the car, landing on the pavement in the middle of the road, but not killed. His death, according to the coroner's theory, was caused when a passing car ran over him immedately after he was thrown into the road from the wreck. It is not known who was driving the car that whisked by and which the coroner believes ran over Powell's head mashing his brains out.

Martin's ambulance answered the call to the wreck, bringing Dewey Parrish to the hospital. The body of Powell was taken up and prepared for burial. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, at Samaria Monday afternoon.

Young Powell is survived by his father and mother and several brothers and sisters.

COMEDY - DRAMA PLAY AT VERMONT SATURDAY NIGHT

On Saturday night, November 11, a rollicking good comedy play entitled "A Poor Married Man," will be staged at the Vermont Jr. High School. If you can endure two hours of genuine wholesome laughs you should not miss seeing this breezy little play. Come and witness the terrible trials which the innocent professor is subjected to at the hands of a critical and domineering mother-in-law.

A hasty marriage leads to a ridiculous tangle, which is eventually straightened out, but not until after a flood of comical situations have taken place. Black Jupiter Jackson, a negro servant, is a regular bundle of fun. Getting everything wrong-end first.

A sparkling little play filled with youth, pep and laughter. You just can't afford to pass it up. Curtain will rise at 8:00 o'clock. Admission 10 cents and 20 cents.

The Cast of characters are the following:

RED CROSS ROLL CALL ON NOV. 11

Committee Will Be Named To Make Thorough Canvass of County

Chilton County will be asked again this year to show its appreciation and gratitude for the great aid given it during March and April, 1932, by the American National Red Cross, when the annual Red Cross Roll Call for this county opens on Armistice Day, November 11th.

Approximately $40,000 was expended in this county by the Red Cross in furnishing homes for those families left destitute in the path of the storms in 1932 and considerable other work in distributing clothing, etc., was done by that organization here.

Plans for the annual Roll Call are being worked out, according to Billy Smith, who will serve this year as Roll Call chairman in this county. Committees are to be appointed to give the county a thorough canvass during the campaign for membership.

The same percentage of dues will prevail this year as last year. Out of each amount given by an individual, whether it be one dollar or a hundred dollars, only fifty cents will go to the National headquarters to carry on that end of the work. The remainder will stay in the treasury of the local Red Cross Chapter.

The Roll Call this year will open on November 11th and continue on through Thanksgiving.

$28,500 Requested From Public Work Board of Federal Government

Alabama's seventh application for an emergency public works construction loan, the $28,500 Thorsby waterworps proposal, was sent to Washington Wednesday for final approval, Dr. George J. Davis, Jr., state engineer for the advisory board, said last Thursday on his return from two days of hearings conducted by the board in Mobile.

This brings the total value of Alabama projects now before national authorities to $2,282,000.

The others which have been sent in are the $2,000,000 Birmingham drainage plan, the $75,000 Greenville city hall, Tuskegee waterworks, $45,000; Escambia county jail, $85,000; Hanceville waterworks, $15,000; Ashville waterworks, $33,500.

The board will hear proposals in Birmingham next Tuesday, October 31, and in Montgomery November 1 and 1, according to present plans, Mr. Davis said. He said that hearings which came to the notice of the board after arrival in Mobile caused the setting of appointments for Thursday, October 26, in addition to the two-day schedule previously announced. Montgomery members of the board are expected to return to this city late Thursday, but no hearings are expected here this week.

A number of projects, including the Talladega auditorium, Jefferson county schools, Geneva levee, Tuscaloosa schools, Heflin waterworks, Birmingham-Southern college library, Andalusia, Sheffield and Tuscumbia electric distribution systems, Elba flood control, Sylacauga city hall and Gadsden community center, are undergoing engineering examinations by the board, and Mr. Davis said that additional projects would be forwarded next week. The board consists of Milton H. Fies, Mayer W. Aldridge, Frederick I. Thompson and Mr. Davis.

E. G. COFER DIED

On Tuesday morning, October 24th, at 4:30, Mr. E. G. Cofer of West Chilton passed away. He was one of the most favorably known men in this section. He was born in Georgia, and located here more than 50 years ago. He was 87 years old. He was sick for quite a while before he died. Mr. Cofer was a big hearted Christian gentleman, a friend to the poor, a public spirited man, a lover of the truth on all questions and a broad minded progressive citizen.

He reared an interesting and intelligent family. His wife preceded him to the grave three years ago. He has four sons and three daughters yet living. Mr. Cofer was a man of thought and a lover of good literature. Although he sleeps in death, yet he will live again, and we cherish for him an abundant hope of eternal life in the beautiful world and ages to come. He was one of the few confederate veterans lingering this side the setting sun, and we hope the laurels of victory await him in the sweet bye and bye.

Present truth was a source of comfort to him in life. The burial was at Mars Hill, attended by an immense gathering of friends and relatives. The floral offerings were in rich profusion.

BOX SUPPER AT THE SMITH SCHOOLHOUSE

There will be a box supper at Smith schoolhouse, in Beat 1, Saturday night, November 4th, beginning at 7:30. A cake will be given to the best looking girl, and one for the ugliest man. Everybody is invited.

WEST END—CLANTON

WEST CHILTON

We are still going, but don't know where.

The harvesting of crops is just about finished.

Mr. Allen Chapman, 81 years old, fell dead from his chair at William Robinson's early Tuesday morning. He was apparently well. Burial was at Shady Grove in Bibb County.

Several of the relatives from Birmingham came down to Mr. Cofer's burial Wednesday.

Mrs. Susan Mullins of Lawley is visiting here.

We note the Man in the Moon is giving us some solid facts as the days go by. Listen to them and heed.

The dear old Banner is just indispensible. Its logic is sound. Then follow its leading. You will need it more and more.

How would the needy people have carried on without the relief work this year? No one worked harder for that than Judge Reynolds. The people owe him a debt of gratitude, and don't forget the previous national administration started this work, even though handicapped by a lack of cooperation. Then don't forget your discarded implements—political, religious, agricultural, educational or otherwise. They will come in handy some day. You are going to need them. There is good service in them yet. So don't forget them.

The annual moving season is now on. People are changing homes.

Yes, we are going somewhere, but "union" is the keyword.

JACKSON CHAPEL

There will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock Sunday; and, at 2 p.m., we will have a singing. We are expecting the Liberty Hill quartet and Mr. O. L. Devaughn and several other good singers. Everybody is invited. — V. G. Smith.

Amazing Car of 1962 Parades Here

PAN-AM Car of 1962, only one of its kind ever built, forecasts future cars that will travel on land and through air. PAN-AM will have the right gasoline for 1962 cars. Today it's Orange PAN-AM.

← Original 1902 model, on parade with the 1962 car, is one of the early horseless carriages. Orange PAN-AM gasoline keeps it running mile after mile.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The Bob Jones College is located in Cleveland, Tennessee, which is in the center of the purest blooded American population. The overwhelming majority of the citizens of this section believe that the Bible is the word of God. They believe in American traditions and the old time religion. All of them may not practice the old time religion, but they believe it.

A few days ago it was my privilege to attend the Holston conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which conference was held in Knoxville, Tennessee. It was utterly astonished to learn that only thirty-four per cent of the people who live in the territory covered by the Holston conference are members of any church. This conference covers eastern Tennessee, a section of Virginia and a section of West Virginia.

The churches have been operating in this section for more than one hundred years and only thirty-four per cent of the population hold membership in any church. Something is wrong. The churches are influential. They influence the sentiment of the people, but the membership is small.

What is wrong with the churches? I am loyal to our organized churches. I am not boasting about it, but I have put more people into these churches than anybody my age in the world. I think I know what is wrong. We are away from the simple fundamentals of the old Christian faith. We are loaded down with ecclesiastical machinery and we are so busy oiling the machinery that we haven't any time for conquest. Something must be done. We must get back to the old gospel and quit depending upon machinery and depend upon Almighty God.

The teacher was testing the knowledge of a kindergarten class. Tossing a half dollar on the desk, she said sharply: "What is that?"

Instanlty a voice from the back of the room replied: "Tails!"

LAWLEY RT. 1—PLEASANT GROVE

The fiddlers convention at Shoults Schoolhouse was a great success last Saturday night. About $17.00 was realized which will go for school supplies. Mr. Robert Gentry won first prize; Mr. Ira Hicks second; and Mr. McGee third. Those who attended say it was the best ever attended.

The W. M. S. of Pleasant Grove is making very encouraging progress with Mrs. Willie Hicks as president. It only likes one point being an A-1. And they are striving to attain that point before the year is gone. Mrs. Hicks has been elected Superintendent of Chilton W. M. U. Work. She should be given our hearty cooperation and earnest prayer.

There is one thing needful and that is to know more about Jesus so as to carry on the work He left for us to finish.

Mr. Charlie Lawrence of Plantersville visited Mrs. Oscar Shoults Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Moore of Macedonia visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. Charlie Raybon of Randolph attended B. Y. P. U. services here Sunday night.

Miss Emma Ree Gay of Maplesville spent last week end here with her cousin, Miss Vera Lee Moore.

Miss Mary Lou Snead of Centreville and Miss Anna Bell Mount attended the fiddlers convention here Saturday night.

A very interesting missionary progrom was rendered by the Senior B. Y. P. U. members Sunday night, with Miss Bessie Mae Moore as leader.

The B. Y. P. U. and W. M. S. of Pleasast Grove Baptist Church are making wonderful progress altho some are opposed to these organizations in the church. But nowing that they have God's approval they are going forward.

Chatom, Ala., October 31.—Bob Alman of Millry has feasted on the venison of three deer that he has killed but he has never fired a gun at a deer in his life.

Somehow, the highways just aren't wide enough for those big Washington County bucks and the Alman automobile to pass at the same time.

Alman was on his way to Chatom last week when a seven-point buck tried to take more than his share of the road. The car didn't have such good brakes and there was a collision. A broken back put the deer out of commission and Alman hauled him home.

This is the third deer that Alman is reported to have killed with automobiles and he has never killed one with a gun. The deer season does not open until November 1. A warden investigated, found it was purely accidental and announced there was nothing to be done about it.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 31.—J. H. Cumby of Birmingham, who on September 17 won the Alabama skeet championship at North Birmingham by breaking 96 out of 100 targets, returned to the Southern Skeet club course the other day and broke 100 straight.

As the old timers say, hundred straights at skeet are as rare as electric fans at the north pole. The best Glenn Watts of Mineola, Long Island, could do to win in the Great Eastern Championship at Lordship, Conn., last month was 98 out of 100.

Cumby is considered one of the best skeet shooters in the country.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 31.—A. Z. Oberhaus, district game warden with headquarters here, reports that there are lots of ducks and coots in the marshes around Mobile already. The duck hunting season in Alabama opens November 16.

Warden Oberhaus said Mobile waters will afford excellent feeding grounds this winter and reports from Canada state that blizzards, snow and cold weather have started in large numbers the annual migration of water fowl south.

THANKS FROM REV. GRIFFIN

Upon leaving Clanton Monday morning following a week of lectures at the courthouse, Rev. D. W. Griffin requested The Union-Banner to say for him that he is most grateful to the county officials for use of the courthouse; and to the singing convention for the use of the piano.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION ELECTS OFFICERS, NEW YEAR

At the adjourned session of the Chilton County Singing Convention held at the courthouse in Clanton Sunday afternoon officers were elected for the coming year. The results of the call were: President, O. L. Devaughn; vice president, Ralph Grant; secretary, Marion Easterling. These officers take charge immediately.

The singing Sunday afternoon was a good one. The courthouse was filled to overflowing, there being some twenty-five or thirty standing in the rear and in the aisles. There was a large class of singers from all over the county and from Autauga and Elmore Counties. W. G. Culp presided, and appointed as committee, W. M. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson and T. E. Wyatt. The directors were: O. L. Devaughn, Emmett Wilson, Jasper Robinson. Herbert Lowery, Lee J. Grant, Fonza Cleckler, J. B. Hammonds, A. H. Glasscock, L. T. Grant, Marion Easterling, Ralph Grant, Edward Jones, W. M. Devaughn, Rube Miller, J. Z. Mims and Ira Grant.

A supply of both books was on hand. The Morris-Henson books belong to the convention, but the Stamps-Baxter books are merely sent here to be sold. Two of these books were purchased and three were carried away without being paid for. This is a shame and an outrage. Stealing song books is just as bad as stealing anything else. The convention should make some arrangements to get a supply of Stamps-Baxter books, as we need both books in our singings. For the present copies of both books may be had at The Union-Banner office at 25 cents a copy. All the profit made on these books will go toward supplying books for the convention, or rather the singings to be held at the courthouse and elsewhere sponsored by the county convention. Anyone wishing to contribute anything toward the fund for the new Stamps-Baxter books may also leave that with T. E. Wyatt at The Union-Banner office.

There will be a singing at the courthouse in Clanton every fifth Sunday afternoon and every fourth Sunday of those months when there is not a fifth Sunday. This will make one afternoon singing at the courthouse every month. All the singers of the county are asked to bear this in mind. The next singing will be at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in November.—T. E. Wyatt.

TACKY PARTY TO BE GIVEN AT CANE CREEK CHURCH

A tacky party will be given at Cane Creek church on Saturday night, November 4th, sponsored by the Sunday school. There will be fun for all, both large and small. Don't forget to come. There will be different kinds of amusement; also a pretty girl cake contest and an ugly man cake contest; so, come on, folks, and see who wins these prizes. There will be other interesting things in the meantime. Admission will be 5c and 10c.

The proceeds of this will go to the church. Surely each member will come and go their share. We invite everybody to come. You haven't been here for a long time. Try to join the tacky band. Let's be on time at 6:30.

Just a word about our Sunday school. We are gaining new members right along, and are progressing fine at this time. Everyone seems to be interested and we hope to hold out.

Our prayer meeting is still going. Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days—11 o'clock both days. Let's all attend.

Don't forget Cane Creek always heartily welcomes visitors—anyone at any and all times.

ENTERPRISE NEWS

The second P.-T. A. meeting will be held at Enterprise Jr. High School Friday evening, November 3, at seven o'clock. The program consists of special music, a burlesque debate and a discussion of the subjetct, "How Much and How Well Does Your Child Study," by Mr. A. L. Bearden.

The proposition for the debate is Resolved: "That the Calendar Should Have Thirteen Months Instead of Twelve." Both sides of the question will be ably presented. Mr. Howard Boockholdt and Mr. Hubert Stroud are the affirmative speakers and those defending the negative side are Mr. G. C. Weldon, Jr., and Mr. Marvin Huett.

We urgently request the presence of all patrons. We believe you will be entertained as well as benefitted.

"AIR HOSTESS" IS LATEST ROMANTIC PICTURE HEROINE

Columbia presents a brand new type of heroine in "Air Hostess" to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre on next Wednesday and Thursday, November 8 and 9—glorifying one of those charming, adventurous, modern misses, who has the romantic job of flying the great transcontinental planes for a living.

Evelyn Knapp brings this role to the screen, and her leading man is James Murray, the manly looking young actor who made a memorable debut in "The Crowd" several years ago. Others in the picture are Thelma Todd, Arthur Pierson, J. M. Kerrigan, Jane Darwell, Mike Donlin and Dutch Hendrian.

There are only thirty-five air hostesses in the country—but for those jobs more than 25,000 applications were received from air minded girls all over the United States.

The air hostess is really the stewardess and conductor at the same time, of the huge passenger planes, which soar majestically over mountains and plains with their precious human cargo. The pilot and his assistant have charge of the flying of the ship, but the air hostess has all the contacts with the passengers once the ship takes off.

Most of the women who would like to become air hostesses are automatically eliminated at the outset, because air hostesses must be graduate nurses. This special training makes them vastly useful in various emergencies which arise on long air journeys.

Another ruling which eliminates many is the bar against marriage. An air hostess must be unmarried.

"Air Hostess," adapted by Keene Thompson and Milton Raison from a True Story Magazine serial, was directed by Al Rogell.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By DAN SMITH

"The greatest mistake you can make in life is continually fearing you will make one."—Elbert Hubbard.

This statement has been used by a number of great men when asked what they contributed their success to. Don't hesitate on doing a thing just because you fear it will be a mistake, the chances are it won't be if you think you are right. Don't be afraid of mistakes. When you make one let it be a big one. A big mistake is always followed soon by a bigger success.

The Jr. III class, with Miss Sarah Colley as class sponsor, elected their class officers last week for the coming term. They are: Juanita Miller, president; Mary Armstrong, vice president; and Mary Ruth Gowan, secretary and treasurer. Good luck to you, officers.

We had two very interesting and instructive addresses at chapel periods last week. On last Wednesday the school was honored by a visit of the Rev. Harry B. Miller, nineteen-year-old evangelist of Hollywood, California, who is conducting a series of services at the Foursquare church. Besides bringing an inspirational message to the students he also sang several minutes, accompanying himself on the piano and banjo. Both the brief message and musical offerings were greatly enjoyed by the students and the faculty and we cordially invite the Rev. Miller to be with us again.

On Friday of last week at the chapel period, the Rev. E. W. Griffin, evangelist, who conducted a meeting at the courthouse last week, gave us an interesting talk in which he compared Christianity to a football team. This was a splendid talk and we all thank Mr. Griffin for his visit and extend to him a cordial invitation to repeat his visit.

What's wrong with a certain boy in the Senior One class? Is he bashful? You girls find out.

The writer was threatened one day last week for printing a statement about a certain person. Some people are so narrow minded that they never see but one side of anything. They should stop this, since it may hurt them some day.

The mothers of the members of the Senior class are requested to come to the high school next Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 to be the guests of Miss Gulledge, class sponsor, at an informal get-together. They will have a chance to become acquainted with the faculty and the school. This will encourage the mothers and the students to take more interest in their school.

Girls basketball practice, under the capable coaching of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, began this week. We are expecting great things from our girls. Let's encourage them in their efforts to put C.C.H.S. at the top of basketball. With the appearance of the players reporting there is no doubt of a winning team. Let's go, girls.

Our football team meets the strong Bibb County eleven from Centreville here tomorrow. This promises to be one of the best games of the season, and we want Chilton high to win. So, let's go out and give the boys the support they deserve and get a victory for the gold and blue in return. Come on, Jesse Frank, we're expecting lots from you and the team, and, Emanuel, you play as well as you did against Prattville and Tallassee. Gabby, old boy, let's see some pretty passes from you to our fast ends, Joe and Jack. We are sure that the rest of the team will do their duty toward a victory. Carl, Osmond, Sidney, D. H., U. L., Morgan, Carson, Grady, Jr., and you others, we're pulling for you.

And we want our "mystery player" to be in there and put the fighting spirit out there that brings in the touchdowns.

If you can, try and imagine: "Punchie" not trying to see that things are done right in physics; Dixie Johnson not stalling when Mr. Varnell takes the daily census on chewing gum, she's good at it; a certain boy doing without his girl at school; a certain senior two taking her love affair seriously; Miss Griffin's study hall without Roy Wilkerson; Gabby running through advanced algebra as he does through those lines; a science class without Joe Moore; a student getting "B" on biology when he didn't ever meet the class, never studied, in fact, doesn't take it; a certain Sr. III in love with a certain fair and beautiful Junior, but afraid to tell her—oh, my.

Second in a series of short biographies of the members of our faculty is Miss Sarah Colley, class advisor for the Jr. III class and English instructor. Miss Colley is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Colley. Dr. Colley is the superintendent of the Baptist orphanage at Troy. Miss Colley was born in the city of Birmingham on April 24, 1910. In the year 1923 the family moved to Troy, and there Miss Colley finished high school in 1927. In the same year she entered the state teachers college at Troy and received her diploma from this school in 1929. Going further Miss Colley received her A. B. degree at Judson in 1931. Since this Miss Colley has studied one summer at the University of Alabama preparing herself for higher learning. This year she begins the third year of her career as a teacher. Her first teaching was at Brundidge and in 1932 she came to Chilton High and is now beginning her second year here. Miss Colley has won the love and admiration of all those who have studied under her and those with whom she comes in contact with every day. The school feels itself proud to have in its faculty a lady of Miss Colley's friendliness, personality, intelligence and school interest.

The members of the Sr. I class chose who they considered could serve as officers of their class the best in a class election last week. The officers are as follows: President, Mary Courtney Jones; vice president, Quinton Kelley; secretary, Jack Gillespie; treashrer, Harriet Esco. Here's wishing the Sr. I class a profitable and rich year in every way.

By S. L. Broadhead

In ancient times the Chinese and Egyptians built incubators of enormous capacities and eggs were furnished from miles around, being brought on the backs of camels. These huge incubators were heated by means of decaying organic matter or by burning straw and other combustible materials, somewhat as the modern hotbeds are heated.

From these crude means of artificial incubation originated the modern, highly efficient incubator, varying from a few dozen eggs capacity to capacities of many thousands. These incubators may be divided into three groups, namely, the hot air and hot water type, the cabinet type, and the mammoth type in which the air is circulated in direct contact with the eggs. The two former types are the ones in which the small flock poultrymen are interested.

There are three main factors, besides minor ones, affecting success with artificial means of incubation. There are humidity, ventilation and temperature. Of these, adequate provisions are made in all good makee of incubators for maintenance of correct humidiy and ventilation, but the matter of temperature is a matter of individual control.

In selecting eggs for setting, secolor, cleanliness and freshness. Never use eggs for incubating that are over ten days old, and not this old if the temperature is high. Setting eggs should be kept cool until set.

There is no definite rule as to correct incubation temperature but in the types of incubation in which heat is supplied from directly above the eggs, the temperature on a level with the top of the eggs is kept at 102 the first week, 103 the second week and third week, and allowed to rise to 104 at hatching time. To be sure that the thermometer is correct, it should be compared with a physicians thermometer at least once a year. The incubator should be run at least a day on the correct temperature before the eggs are placed in it, and then allowed to regain its temperature within itself without further adjustment. A hen does not run up her temperature when eggs are placed under her in order to quickly raise them to 102 degrees.

Eggs should be candled on the seventh and fourteenth days and all infertile or abnormally developed eggs removed. The egg chamber should never be opened from the time hatching is finished. Opening the incubator allows the chicks to dry and stick to the shell.

When the hatching is completed the chicks should be carried to the previously warmed brooder house. They should never be allowed to become chilled.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barto Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged. 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

LOMAX NEWS

Our little town is blessed with good health and everybody seems to have the good will spirit. Some of our farmers are planting wheat and are expecting to have some biscuit next year, raised from their own soil, and avoid paying the high price for flour next year.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, who is teaching at the Ensley High School, was the Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson, of Lomax.

One of the most vital questions that is confronting the best brains of our country is whether or not we can drink, destroy and borrow our way to prosperity.

Little Lois Cotton, daughter of our good natured James Cotton, of this place, was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital some days ago and had her tonsils removed. She is at home again and doing well.

We often hear someone say, "I shall not consider the party as much as I will the man in the next year's election." So, Mr. Candidate, whoever you may be, you had better know how to read your titles clear if you gain the mansion that awaits the winner in November, 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson of Central Park, Birmingham, visited their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson, Sunday.—Lomax Observer.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

IN MEMORY OF SERENO E. NORTON

Thorsby Institute has sustained during the past month a very great loss in the death of one of its most devoted friends and members of this Board of Trustees.

Mr. Sereno E. Norton was as much responsible as any other man, many would say more than any other, for the fact that we have this Institute here in Thorsby. Through all the years of its life he has given himself without stint to anything which he thought would advance its interests. Until very recent years he has been secretary of this board, and has kept himself in closest touch with everything affecting the life and welfare of the school.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Norton has always been, as it were, a haven for teachers and friends of Thorsby Institute. Eternity alone can measure the value of the service which he has rendered to Thorsby Institute and through the Institute to the many whom our school has been a light and an inspiration.

We sorely miss this brother as we meet in trustees meeting today, and shall miss him in our counsel for many days to come.

Therefore be it resolved:

1. That, we bow in humble submission to our heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, and that we look to Him for strength to carry on the cause which was so dear to his heart.

2. That, we extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and commend them to the love and sympathy of God, our Father, and Jesus, our Saviour.

3. That, the original of these resolutions be tendered his wife and son, and that a copy also be furnished the press and one placed on file with the Secretary of the Board of Trustees.—Signed by: Mrs. Charles Howard, Mr. N. Laurell, Rev. J. W. Jones, Committee on Resolutions.

THORSBY CHAPTER OF O. E. S. OFFER RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, the Almighty God in His wisdom, saw fit to call from our midst our beloved sister, Mrs. Cora Gentry:

Therefore, be it resolved, that our chapter has suffered an irreparable loss;

Resolved that Sister Gentry was one of our most ardent and active members and will be greatly missed;

Resolved, that our charter be draped in mouring for a period of thirty days;

Resolved, that these resolutions be sent to each of our county papers for publication.—Martha B. Goddard, Lutishie Bean, Charles A. Peterson.

The School of Instruction, an extension course from Auburn, was attended by Mrs. Charles S. Howard and Mrs. Anna Phalin on last Wednesday. This was a very interesting and instructive meeting conducted by Miss Dorothy Dean, of Auburn, on the renovation of clothing and hats.

The Thorsby Club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. M. Williams on Wednesday, November 15, where this demonstration will be given, conducted by Miss Ruth Pardue.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Butler and daughters, Elizabeth and Frances, of Montgomery, spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moody of Birmingham visited Mrs. Hattie Gerald over the week end. Mrs. Gerald expects to remain at home for a while now, after spending several weeks in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Gerald of Birmingham announce the birth of a son last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend of Birmingham visited friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thomason of Lay Dam spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams.

Mr. Herbert Peterson, Jr., of Birmingham spent the week end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson.

Miss Dera Rowell has secured a teaching position at Collins Chapel.

The Girl Sewing Club will meet on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Jean Swanson.

Mrs. S. M. Pate entertained last Sunday in honor of her husband's birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mims, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Gore, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gore, Mildred and Claud Gore and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Pate and family.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive entertained Sunday in honor of their son's first birthday. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moody, Mrs. Hattie Gerald, Mrs. Janie Sutlive, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maddox and Miss Mary Maud Knight.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each had as dinner guests Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Maddox and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin.

Mr. Alton Connatser spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. H. Bean of Collins Chapel spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead.

Mrs. Hollis Pate spent the week end in Clanton with Mrs. Lester Pate.

Miss Roberta Marcus spent Sunday with Miss Linnie Bell Reinhardt.

Mr. and Mrs. Erchel Martin, Miss Myradine Martin and Mr. Loyd Howard spent Wednesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. H. L. Walker, Mrs. Grover Bice and Mrs. Lee Pate spent Saturday in Montgomery shopping.

Mr. H. V. Thompson spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. Arnold Soberg of Birmingham spent Thursday in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive had as their dinner guests Monday night the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones and Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each.

The Ladies Guild social held on Friday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin was a very pleasant occasion. The house was decorated with Hallowe'en posters and designs. Refreshments also were a la Hallowe'en.

Miss Marguerite Davison and Rev. E. W. Butler expect to leave this week for a conference in west Florida.

The marriage of Miss Mattie Scott and Mr. Tom Lesslie will be of interest to their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davenport in Mulberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Willis and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams in Mulberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen and children spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night the dormitory students, the faculty of Thorsby Institute and the town students who work for the school had a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party. Miss Phillips and Miss Klingelhoefer planned the games and refreshments. The games were different from those at previous Hallowe'en parties. It had taken a lot of planning and work to prepare for the party, but a good time ensued for all.

There are so many socials and wholesome games that we wonder why the town young folks do not plan more of their parties along these lines. There are a good many young folks who are very capable of planning games and who have time to do it. The library of Thorsby Institute has some books containing interesting games.

Next Saturday night the second open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will take place. The program is mostly relative to Thanksgiving. A playlet entitled, "Hidden Treasure" will be presented. Also there will be two readings, one a poem recited by Mary Nell Pate, and the other a story recited by Christine Dopson. In he pantomime, "Up-to-Date Manners," Mary Frances Duke will be the reader; Josephine Billingsley, the mother; Ruth McKee, the oldest child; Mary Frances Harris, the younger sister; Sam Bentley, the younger brother. Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

IN MEMORY OF CARL C. PETERSON

Thorsby Institute has sustained during the past month a very great loss in the death of one of its most devoted friends and members of this Board of Trustees.

Mr. Carl C. Peterson has for many years been actively and helpfully identified with the business and social life of Thorsby, not the least of which was his association with the Thorseby Institute. The positions which he held in his church and Sunday school, as mayor of the town, president of the bank, president of the fruit growers association even up to the hour of his death are a tribute to the value of the services he was ever ready to give to any good work. He was deeply interested in the work of Thorsby Institute, and appreciative of its value to the community long before he became officially connected with it. Since he became a member of this board he has cheerfully and effectively assumed every responsibility laid upon him. He could always be counted on for attendance to meetings.

We sorely miss this brother as we have met in trustee meeting today and shall miss him in our counsel for many days to come.

Therefore be it resolved—

1. That, we bow in humble submission to our heavenly father, who doeth all things well, and that we look to Him for strength to carry on the cause so dear to His heart.

2. That, we extend to his family our deepest sympathy, and commend them to the love and sympathy of God, our father and Jesus, our Saviour.

3. That, the original of these resolutions be tendered to his wife and children and that a copy also be furnished the press and one placed on file with the secretary of the Board of Trustees. Signd by — Mrs. Charles Howard, Mr. A. N. Laurell, Rev. J. W. Jones, committee on resolutions.

RESOLUTIONS

To Mrs. C. C. Peterson and family:

We, the Town Council of Thorsby, Ala., in regular session this the 26th day of October, passed the following resolution:

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler in His all wise wisdom has seen fit to call our beloved mayor, Carl C. Peterson, to his reward. Mr. Peterson had served the town both as councilman and mayor for a number of years, and by untiring efforts for the upbuilding of our town and his fair and impartial manner in disposing of all issues coming before him, had endeared him not only to the members of the council, but to all the citizens of the town.

We will feel his loss and miss his presence here, but we have hope that we will meet him in the Celestial City above, and we commend you to the unfaultering love and mercies of our heavenly father.

Be it resolved that a copy of this resolution be attached to the minutes of the town records and a copy furnished to each of the county papers for publication.—Very respectfully, S. M. Pate, J. M. Smith, M. E. Willis, M. J. Soberg, Donald Merchant, councilmen; E. R. Piper, clerk.

Death of Mrs. Mary Lou Mims

Mrs. Mary Lou Mims died of heart failure at her home early last Wed-Tuesday morning. Mrs. Mims lived at Collins Chapel until about ten years ago when she moved with her husband to Thorsby, where her home has been ever since. She was sixty-nine years old on September 17. She had been a member of the Collins Chapel church for over forty years.

Rev. J. W. Jones, Rev. J. E. Each and Rev. W. P. Lowery were in charge of the funeral services held on last Thursday morning at the Collins Chapel cemetery. Spigener officiated.

Mrs. Mims leaves a husband, Mr. John Mims, four living children, Mrs. Jim Honeycutt, Mrs. David Childress, Mrs. Earl Marcus and Mr. Sammy Mims; three brothers, John Harrison Collins, Sam and Dudley of Clanton; four sisters, Mrs. John Littleton, Mrs. Bill Vinson and Mrs. Mat Vinson of Collins Chapel and Mrs. Martha Burnett of Thorsby.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Oct. 31.—Catlike agility on his feet and unusual perception at diagnosing enemy plays are the principal reasons Tom Hupke is the South's leading guard this year in the opinion of Frank Thomas, Alabama grid coach.

These are not the only reasons, however. Hupke's underslung carriage, low charging stance, alertness and ability to "give and take" have something to do with it.

"Hupke is a hard man to figure out on defense," Thomas said in discussing his line ace. "He varies his defensive charge, sometimes submarining under the line and sometimes diving over. Usually he charges straight through, keeping the opposition off him until he can see where the play is going.

"If he finds himself blocked away from the ball carrier, Hupke keeps driving and frequently slips aloose to make the tackle."

Speed with his hands and feet enables Hupke to beat the opposing linemen to the punch. He is able to get across the line of scrimmage before they can hit him. With his unusual keenness at diagnosing plays, this makes him doubly effective.

Hupke's speed is evidenced by the fact that he has blocked nine punts for Alabama. Three of them led to important Crimson victories. He has recovered two blocked punts and batted down one this year.

Tommy leads interference on offense as a whipping guard. He is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 185 pounds. He can navigate 100 yards in 11 seconds in full uniform.

Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama, spoke to a net work of stations of the National Broadcasting Company last week, discussing "education in the South in the recovery period."

Dr. Denny also delivered the principal address at the forty-eighth annual dinner of the New York Southern Society.

The university is to send a large delegation to the state-wide student conference for the Methodist denomination to be held at Womans College in Montgomery on October 27, 28, and 29.

Murphy High school of Mobile was awarded a trophy given by the University of Alabama extension department for publishing the most effective and most interesting high school annual in 1933. Other books receiving honorable mention were the annuals of Florence high; Ramsay Tech, Birmingham; Tuscaloosa high and Anniston high schools.

Blackfriar players at the university have selected "Let Us Be Gay" as the first major production to be given this year. Work has already begun on scenery and cast selections.

Plans for the annual Homecoming Day celebration at the university on November 11 have been annuounced by Tom Garner, alumni secretary. The feature of the day's events will be the foothall game between Alabama and V. P. I. Last year the Crimson Tide won a 9 to 7 victory over the strong Virginia eleven.

Classes will be suspended at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The Armistice Day parade is to be given by the R.O.T.C. unit under the command of Cadet Col. Harry Schmitz of Tuscaloosa.

Alumnae and women students will attend a convocation in Morgan Hall at 10:30 o'clock. The Board of Trustees will convene in its annual meeting at this time also. The Alumni Council is to meet in the Alabama Union at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. John C. Page returned with her sister, Mrs. Davies, to her home in McMinnville, Tenn., last week. She will spend several days in Tennessee visiting relatives.

Miss Annie Lou Scarbrough of Blue Springs was the week end guest of her sister, Mrs. Reid Mullins.

Mesdames J. C. Jones, Ruth Kate Sheppard and Irene Rasberry spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Willis have purchased the Kitchen farm two miles north of town on the Lay Dam Road.

If you cut your finger, always remember to rush to the medicine cabinet where you will find all sorts of toothpastes and shaving creams.

Now they have invented a sieve without holes in it for people with nothing to strain.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard wishes to thank the Masons and everyone who helped in the care of her husband during his recent illness.

Mrs. Martin Peterson received a card from Willis that he is now in training in San Deigo, California. He would like to hear from his friends. His address is Willis Martin Peterson, Company 33-19 U. S. Naval Training Station, San Deigo, Cal.

Miss Mary Louise Bates will make her home for the present with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Mrs. Foster is visiting her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Daniels.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson spent Sunday in Jemison with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peterson.

Mrs. Annie Thacker of near Clanton was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard Friday.

Mr. W. H. Snell of Indianapolis passed through Thorsby on Friday morning on his way to Miami. He stopped and visited for a short while with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Miss Edith Johnson spent the week end with her sister, Esther, in Birmingham.

Mrs. King returned to her home in Birmingham Saturday, after spending a few days with Miss Marian Fairbank. Mrs. King is a sister of Miss Elizabeth Robinson, a former teacher and librarian in the Institute.

Mrs. Anna Phalin, Mrs. A. E. Reagan, Mrs. Charles Howard and Miss Ella Howard spent Saturday in Selma.

Alabama Power Company

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

An increasing interest in municipal ownership and operation of electric utilities in this state has been evinced recently, owing largely to general economic conditions which have prevailed.

There are in Alabama fifteen municipalities that own and operate their electric systems. The following table presents the monthly billing for varying typical uses of electric service in the homes of these towns compared with the cost in the towns served by this company.

Monthly Billing (5 Room House)

	Minimum or Very Small User	Lighting and Small Appliances 30 KWH	Lighting, Small Appliances & Refrigeration 105 KWH	Lighting, Small Appliances, Refrigeration and Range 255 KWH
Municipal Operations	5 KWH
Alexander City	$2.00	$3.00	$8.15	$12.05
Athens	1.50	2.25	5.06	8.44
Cullman	1.00	2.70	5.06	9.11
Dothan	2.00	4.50	7.45	9.77
Evergreen	1.00	3.00	5.80	10.25
Fairhope	1.25	2.94	6.74	12.44
Hartford	1.00	3.00	4.52	8.27
Lafayette	1.50	3.00	7.50	9.75
Lanett	1.00	2.60	7.45	14.40
Luverne	1.50	3.00	5.25	9.47
Opelika	1.00	2.80	5.80	9.60
Piedmont	1.00	2.50	4.86	8.84

Weighed Municipal Average	$1.35	$2.97	6.26	$10.38
Alabama Power Co. State-wide Rate "A-2"	$1.00	$1.80	$4.18	$ 7.93
Saving by A. P. Co. Rates	$ .35	$1.17	$2.08	$ 2.45
Per Cent Saving by A. P. Co. Rates	26%	39%	33%	24%

These 15 municipal electric systems pay no taxes. Out of each dollar paid for electric service by customers of Alabama Power Company living in 483 municipalities almost 15 cents will be paid back during 1933 to the cities, counties and the state to support the schools and other governmental agencies. Approximately $380,000 of our taxes go directly to education.

There are 42 municipalities in Alabama having populations averaging from 2,000 to 10,000. Of these, 8 operate their own electric systems and 34 receive service from private utilities. Of the 8 municipalities which operate their own electric systems, 6, or 75 per cent, have by special amendment increased their ad valorem taxes above the $5.00 constitutional limit. Of the 34 towns with private utilities, only 17, or 50 per cent, have increased their ad valorem levies above the $5.00 limit.

Municipal electric properties are exempt from all taxes (including the 3 per cent Federal tax on residential and commercial electricity). Notwithstanding these exemptions, municipal rates in Alabama are higher than those of Alabama Power Company.

Yours very truly,
THOMAS W. MARTIN,
President.

Letter No. 3.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY WILL APPLY AUBURN RESEARCH

Auburn, Ala., Oct 31.—Practical application of agricultural research work done by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will be made by the Tennessee Valley Authority, according to Prof. M. J. Funchess, director of the station, who has been called upon to supply information to the Authority.

Alabama has several counties lying directly in the Tennessee Valley and one of the sub-experiment stations is located at Belle Mina in Limestone County.

It is expected that the contributions of the Alabama research work will deal directly with the agricultural problems of crop production, land use, adapted crops, soil fertility, erosion control, farm management and other problems.

NEW USE FOR COTTON IN ROAD BUILDING

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 31.—A new use for cotton and a better method of curing newly-laid concrete roads result from tests conducted recently by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, according to information received here.

Soon after fresh concrete is placed it is necessary to protect it from the sun, which causes rapid drying of the surface with injury to the concrete. It is customary to cover the concrete with a fabric until it has hardened sufficiently to permit a covering such as wet earth or one of the various proprietary materials. Burlap, made from foreign material, has been used for the early covering.

The tests referred to show that nats made of cotton are apparently effective curing agents and give better results than burlap. This work may result in increased consumption of cotton.

Miss Bettie Mullins visited friends and relatives in Montgomery Wednesday.

CO-OPS SPONSOR COTTON AID

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 31. — Cotton cooperatives in the South are taking the lead in promoting a program to bring further relief in the serious cotton price situation. As explained by J. A. Beaty, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, this plan has two chief aims.

The first calls upon the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to immediately advance 4 cents a pound to holders of "plow up" options. This would keep the 2,400,000 bales of option cotton off the market. It will be recalled that producers who participated in the emergency cotton control plan of this year received options on cotton at 6 cents per pound. If the government lends 4 cents on these options it would bring the loan value of the option up to 10 cents, which is the amount now being loaned on spot cotton.

The second feature of the program seeks an additional loan of 5 cents a pound on this year's spot cotton. Since 10 cents is already being loaned, this additional 5 cents would bring the total to 15 cents.

Only those farmers who agreed to reduce their acreage next year under the program sponsored by the adjustment administration would be eligible for the additional 5-cent loan, and this additional loan would not be given after the crop is planted next spring. The aim of this additional loan would be to give farmers a parity price for this year's product.

Public endorsement of this program will be welcomed by Mr. Beaty.

"Farmers should be pleased over President Roosevelt's recent address in which he discussed currency," said President J. Litt Edwards of the Alabama Farm Bureau federation. "It means that we are to have a commodity dollar, and that the purchasing power of farm products after being raised will remain fairly stable."

FAIRVIEW DEMONSTRATION CLUB

Members of the Fairview community club were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cox on Tuesday, October 17, at our regular monthly meeting. Miss Jewell Foshee, president, took charge. The roll call and minutes were called and approved. After all business was finished, Miss Pardue gave us a lesson on poultry, including housing, feeding, diseases and vaccination. Everyone enjoyed her talk very much. We realize the necessity of planning and fixing for our back yard flock in order to obtain better results. Mrs. Comer Durbin was added to our roll. We were very glad to have her and hope we will get more new members next time. Our next meeting will be at the home of Miss Jewell Foshee, November 21. Now let's every membre be present next time and bring some one with you.—Reporter, Mrs. J. D. Williams.

NEWS IN BRIEF

India won't get as much cotton this year as she did last, but she has more acres by about 4 per cent. This was the outlook from early fall reports. Last season India's crop was the smallest in 10 years.

Cotton picking started in October in some parts of the Russian cotton belt, which is about as far north as Chicago. Yields are a little better than those of last year, which were somewhat disappointing.

Reduction of wheat production may be attempted by the French government through a bill approved recently by the cabinet, according to an Associated Press report.

CO-OP'S PARITY PRICE PLAN GAINS IN FAVOR

With ten cents a pound being advanced on actual cotton, the Cotton Cooperatives are now pushing toward the next satge of their "prewar parity price" program the making of a similar advance on "plow-up" options.

A statement from cotton cooperative headquarters at New Orleans this week says that an advance of four cents a pound on the options would put fifty million dollars cash into the hands of 660,000 growers, and permit them to hold their options for such advances as may be obtained from the acreage control in which these growers are taking part. The four-cent advance with the original 6-cent valuation of the options, would put the options on the same 10 cent loan basis as actual cotton.

The cooperative plan also calls for government loans of fifteen cents a pound to growers after they have actually complied with the acreage control requirements, and the final step is to have the government allow the 10-cent loan now, and the 15-cent loan later, on cotton which growers may re-purchase to replace that part of this year's crop which they may have sold. Without this last provision, it is explained the price raising program would be of no immediate benefit to growers who have already sold their crop, as is the case with a very large part of them.

Practically unanimous support has been voiced for the cooperative plan by individuals and groups to whom it has been presented throughout the cotton states. All state commissioners of agriculture who have expressed an opinion have been wholeheartedly for it. The State Bankers Association of Louisiana approved it unanimously at its annual convention. One hundred and fifteen directors of cooperative gins in west Texas gave unanimous endorsement, as did editors and publishers of agricultural papers which go to a million and a quarter southern homes.

The plan is said by co-op leaders to be a "practical method of putting into effect President Roosevelt's announced intention of restoring cotton and other farm commodities to their pre-war buying power." Cotton has been selling lately at about 60 per cent of its pre-war value, it was stated, while things farmers must buy are selling at an average of 116 per cent.

Those who approve the plan are urged to write Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., since a supporter doesn't register approval where it counts until he registers at Washington.

REFUGE NEWS

Health in our community is very good at present.

We had a large number out at service Sunday. Rev. M. J. Parrish brought us a short, but very rich message that I am sure everybody enjoyed. If we will just take this message to heart and abide by it, I'm sure we will be stronger in the work of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. We were very glad to have our visitors from Providence. We hope you will come again. We also invite Bro. Parrish back to see us again. We were disappointed Sunday night for the Mineral Springs program did not come, although we are hoping that they will come in the near future.

We linvite everybody to come back to Sunday school next Sunday and also to our prayer service, which will begin at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and B. Y. P. U. following. We are always glad to have visitors from other churches to come and be with us.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors for the help, kindness and sympathy shown us in the illness and death of our husband and father, Thomas M. Parrish. May God's richest blessing be upon each and everyone, is our prayer.—Mrs. Thomas Parrish and Edith.

COUNTY AGENT URGES THE REGISTRATION OF JERSEYS

Urging the Jersey breeders of this section to register their animals immediately to take advantage of the temporary low rates in effect now, C. E. Stapp, county agent, said today that he has just received an announcement from Lewis W. Morley, executive secretary of the American Jersey Cattle Club, New York, that the time limit for the present low registration and transfer fees expires on December 1, 1933.

Until that date the registration fee for Jerseys over 2 years old is $5, and Jerseys under 2 years of age may be registered for the fee usually charged for animals under one year of age. The fee for recording transfers received six months after date of delivery of animals to new owners is likewise reduced, from $3 to $2, until December 1, 1933.

Mr. Morley says also, that the life membership fee in the American Jersey Cattle Club is now reduced from $100 to $50. Since this reduction became effective about two months ago men and women in eighteen different states have become members of the club according to Mr. Morley.

Fees for Jersey registrations and transfers are lower to members than non-members of the Club. For example, members may register heifers under 1 year of age for $1 and the other fees are correspondingly lower. The reduction in fees to members has been in effect for many years.

"Our organization, the oldest dairy breed organization in the United States, feels it wise to have a large membership," Mr. Morley says, "because of the beneficial influence on the further development of the breed, providing, of course, the new members have those qualities of vision and leadership we all associate with progressive owners of Jersey cattle."

Mr. C. Williams of Pletcher was in Clanton Tuesday on business.

BOX SUPPER TO BE GIVEN AT BAKER SCHOOLHOUSE

What? Box supper. When? Saturday night, November 4. Where? At Baker Jr. High School, west of Clanton, on the Maplesville Highway. Listen, something very important comes next. We are going to have a prize for the tackiest dressed person. So, everyone come with a tacky costume and try to win the prize. We are going to have some good music and contests of every kind—guess cake, cake walk, sand dip, and oh my, lots of other things to entertain you.

Come and bring someone with you. The main point to remember is to bring your pockets full of money. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the library needs. Don't forget the place, date and time—Baker Jr. High School, November 4th, at 7:30 o'clock.

POPLAR SPRINGS

On Sunday, October 29, the people of Poplar Springs met to organize a singing society. The meeting was called to order by W. M. Devaughn, after which Bro. W. F. Gilland led in prayer. After singing one other song the following officers were elected: President, W. M. Devaughn; vice president, Floy Devaughn; secretary, Myrtice Smith; treasurer, Mattie Lou Crew; chaplain, Mr. Joseph McDowell; and Miss Ora Devaughn was selected to take charge of the books.

The society decided to meet on the second and fourth Sunday afternoons at two o'clock. We also sing thirty minutes before Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. The former begins at 9:00 o'clock and the latter at 6:30 o'clock.

If you people don't believe the Poplar Springs bunch can sing, you have a cordial invitation to come and witness for yourself.—Secretary, Myrtice Smith.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

There will be a social given at Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School on Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Our program, "A Good Time for All." We promise plenty of wholesome fun. The admission will be 10c. Come. Proceeds to be used for boys and girls basket ball teams.

Mr. J. T. Turner has been on the sick list for the past two weeks, but is improving.

Misses Dorothy Jones and Annie Robinson spent the week end in Sylacauga visiting relatives.

Misses Ertice Riggins, Myrtice and Jewell Cost spent Sunday with their uncle, Mr. Zackie Lowery of Friendship community.

The Jr. High boys, under the direction of Mr. Carl Glasscock, their coach, are very busy erecting goals and laying off their basket ball court. They will start practicing soon.

The girls have bought their basket ball and their court is now being put in order. Mrs. M. A. Wright will coach the girls team.

Miss Celia Baldwin spent the week end with her parents in Mt. Creek.

Mr. Robert Turner and son, Robert Jr., of Birmingham, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Turner of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mastin and little daughter, Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Williams and children of Harpersville spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. William Turner, Elijah and Gladys Turner spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mr. Jean Smith of Thorsby spent Saturday night with his sister, Mrs. William Turner.

Misses Reasie Jones and Luettie Cooper motored to Montgomery Wednesday.

Miss Gertice Riggins spent Saturday night with Miss Lorene Price.

Miss Callie Cooper visited her aunt, Mrs. Jim Lewis, of Birmingham, Sunday.

Misses Gladys Turner and Callie Cooper enjoyed a birthday party Saturday night at the home of Miss Josephine Williams.

Mr. Curtis Bice visited Mr. Elbert Jones this week end.

Miss Pauline Price had dinner with Misses Pauline and Annie Chambers Sunday.

"WHOOPPEE" EASILY ONE OF YEAR'S BEST FILMS

"Whooppee" will be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre next Monday and Tuesday night, November 6th and 7th, with all the burst of splendor that would be anticipated from the news that Samuel Goldwyn and Florenz Zelgfield were working together to produce a musical-comedy spectacle on the talking color screen. All the lavishness implied in these two names appers in the gorgeous scenes, the beautiful girls, the rib-splitting comedy from Eddie Cantor and his numerous assistants the fast pace and the splendid photography which makes "Whooppee" what it is.

The plot of the picture is an adaptation of Owen Davis's grand farce, "The Nervous Wreck," with its story of the imaginary invalid forced to be a he-man in order to get the heroine out of trouble and married to the right man. Eddie Cantor's portrayal of Henry Williams, the invalid in question, is a classic comedy from one of the stages' greatest. Combined with the beauty of huge ensembles of handpicked girls, fast, unflagging, direction by Thornton Freeland, and breath-taking photography, the whole picture is the talking screen at its opulent best.

Among the pulchritudinous features of the production are Eleanor Hunt, selected personally by Samuel Goldwyn from the chorus of the stage "Whooppee for the leading role of the picture version, and Dorothy Knapp, famed "most beautiful girl in the world" as well as huge numbers of beauties selected from the best of Hollywood and New York. The "Invocation to the Sun" sequence toward the end of the picture is a memorable example of what can be done with color photography and human beauty in natural outdoor settings.

The singing of Paul Gregory, Zeigfeld's $25,000 tenor, and Chief Caupolican, the Indian baritone, form another notable feature of the screen "Whooppee." It is a picture which satisfies from any angle.

California faces the repeal of prohibition with more than 50,000,000 gallons of wine in storage or process fermentation. Thirty million gallons of this is coming from the crops now being produced.

MILDEWS AFFECT ELMS

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 31.—Of all the trees used for ornamental and shade tree planting the indigenous species of Elms are probably the most susceptible to fungus diseases of leaf and stem, according to a statement issued by the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. Leaf diseases, althouh not particularly serious, often cause premature defoliation which greatly reduces the vitality of the affected trees while stem diseases, among which is the dreaded Dutch Elm disease, are practically uncontrollable in the individual tree.

One of the more widely distributed leaf diseases is the common mildew, known scientifically as uncinula macrospora. The presence of the casual fungus is generally denoted by more or less well defined spots or blotches of varied sizes and color, the destruction of areas of leaf tissue or wilting of the whole leaf. Usually the mildew does not cause serious or permanent injury unless the entire leaf space of the tree becomes infected. During a particular year when weather conditions are favorable the fungus may show pronounced activity while the succeeding year under changed conditions it may be entirely absent.

In the fall of the year all dead and diseased twigs should be pruned away and all fallen leaves and twigs gathered up and burned. Leaves from diseased trees should not be allowed to accumulate around the premises, for the fungus will develop spores which may be disseminated to healthy trees. Even though the infected tree or trees are not pruned the sanitation measures recommended in the foregoing should be carried out in every instance.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be controlled. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our P.-T. A. met last Tuesday and twenty-four members were present. Election of new officers was withheld until our next meeting, which will be today, Thursday, November 2. Each parent and teacher pledged themselves to bring at least one new member. We hope the weather will be favorable and a large number can be present. Quite a bit of interest is being manifested in P.-T. A. work and we hope to stimulate this interest more and get our P.-T. A. quickly organized and working for the common purpose of our school and community.

The girls' basket ball arrived this week. We are now working to get our goals set up, and after about two weeks of practice we hope to arrange some games with the girls clubs of other schools.

The boys' athletic club is moving along nicely. The ground is not quite ready for use and the goals have not yet been fixed. But having to get everything new, even the boards and goal posts, we are greatly delayed in getting started. Any school desiring a game with us after November 15 is requested to write the principal.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant and Miss Cagle enjoyed a fine chicen dinner last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt in Clanton.

Miss Dorothy Manning spent the past week end at her home in the Isabella community. Her mother and father left Saturday for the World's Fair at Chicago.

The intermediate boys now have a new regulation play ground ball and bat. A great deal of fun is being had by them in this new game.

Mr. Johnson spent the past week end at his home in Jemison.

Our enrollment now stands at one hundred fifty-seven.

Little Mary Jo Chandler, popular 12-year old member of the Jr. III class, won, as the girl's prize in the candy selling contest of last week, a beautiful Sheaffers laides' fountain pen. She turned in over one hundred sales. Jack Deason, a member of the fourth grade class, won the boys' prize, a nice combination writing and drawing set.

Beginning this week the bus driven by Mr. Williams will make a double trip instead of only one as heretofore. He has approximately fifty-eight to bring in. Up until now he has accommodated as many as he could, but it is a physical impossibility to convey the above number in at one load. We are proud of the new arrangements, as all on his route can now ride.

Don't forget to see "A Poor Married Man" at our school building on Saturday night, November 11.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Our Sunday School met Sunday with a very good attendance. We are very glad for them all to be out, but some were absent. We hope they will come and be with us next Sunday at ten o'clock.

We had some visitors Sunday which we were very glad to have, and invite them back again.

There will be a Sunday School Convention at Mt. Carmel the second Sunday in November at two o'clock. We are in group number three of the Unity Association. We invite all the churches to come and be with us on that day, November 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Minor's baby has been sick for some time but is reported better now.

Most every body is done gathering now.—A Reader.

JOYCRAFT CLUB MEETS

The Joycraft Club of Jemison chapter No. 398, O.E.S., met at the home of Mrs. J. P. Montgomery Tuesday afternoon, October 24th.

After a short business session, time was spent in pleasant conversation, while needles were plied on articles for the Masonic home in Montgomery.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames Ensley Atkinson, A. M. Attoway, Edward Glasscock, Susie Bald, J. A. Peterson, J. A. Sims, S. J. Reynolds, George Naish, A. C. Wells, Julia Glasscock, A. C. Bratton, Zane Turner, Dezzie Littlejohn, Leonard Glasscock, Lillie Glasscock; Misses Nolan Meroney, Imogene Griffin, Leacy Newell.

Tea guests present were: Mrs. Easterling, Mrs. Rufus Brown of Clanton; Mrs. Lake Thompson, Mrs. Bryant and Miss Mattie Hand of Jemison.—Mrs. George Naish, reporter.

OLD TIME SPELLING

Be sure to come to Concord Jr. High School Friday night, November 3 at seven o'clock. Everyone is invited, especially the older ones. Only small admission will be charged, which will go to the benefit of the school. Don't miss it. A prize will be given to the best speller.

SERVICES AT CHESTNUT CREEK ANNOUNCED, SATURDAY-SUNDAY

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby, pastor at Chestnut Creek, Cooper, announces that regular services will be held at that church next Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. The subject for Sunday morning, to be discussed by the pastor, will be: "NRA—BRA." A special invitation is extended to all to hear this message. It deals with the source of some of our present day troubles and their remedy.

Judge (to servant acting as a witness)—Have you ever seen your master under the influence of intoxicating liquor?

Witness—No, your honor, I can't say that I have, but I have seen him lying on the floor swearing that he'd catch that bed the next time it came around.

EMPLOYMENT—PATRIOTISM

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you kindly allow me space in the columns of your good paper to express my views relative to the unemployment situation in our town and county?

I will say in the outset that I have no desire nor intention of offending anyone in the few statements I am about to make, and I feel sure that there will be those who will fell like telling me to attend to my own business, but just remember the "hit dog always hollers" and be governed accordingly. I have somewhat against (with apologies to the apostle Paul) the policies of certain business houses in Clanton, as to whom they employ. Now this to some, may seem an impertinent statement, but just hold your "hosses", I've not finished yet. There are ladies employed as salesladies whose husbands are among the wealthiest in the county, while capable salesmen and salesladies who have dependents, maybe children to feed, clothe and send to school, are walking the streets, wondering where the next meal will come from and how.

There are other business houses employing young boys, whose parents have good jobs and who are fully able to take care of them, while capable, experienced and trustworthy salesmen, who have families to support, are walking the streets, dodging bill collectors and wondering how they can provide the food, clothing and shelter for their loved ones throughout this winter. Now, dear readers, I ask you, is it right? Is it not high time we citizens began to express ourselves upon such vital matters? These same business houses display the NRA sign, which carries the caption "We Do Our Part." Oh yes, some people do their part, so long as they can do as they please. I say that the time has arrived when we, as citizens, must have backbone enough to publicily express our views, when we see open disregard for principles on which our great nation was founded. I'm sure our forefathers didn't expect nor wish greed and selfishness to finally utterly destroy us. I wonder who has hidden the "Golden Rule" and substituted in its stead the ancient "Mosiac Rule, An eye for an eye?" It seems that instead of progressing as we should that we have digressed in principle to the "cave man" era with "the survival of the fittest" as our slogan.

I thank God for a man like Roosevelt, who has grit enough to fight for the principle of "equal rights to all" against such a capitalistic anarchy as we've had in the past. We've prided ourselves for having a free country. We've sung with pride, "My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty," and we've looked on the socialistic idea of government with awe, but with our country facing starvation and trouble and chaos on every hand, mainly because of our capitalistic form of government, allowing a few to hoard a majority of our gold, we sometimes are caused to wonder if, after all, we wouldn't fare better under a socialistic regime.

Of late I've heard several express themselves as being opposed to government interference with private business, but personally, I think that since we are so selfish and greedy it is high time some neutral party like "Uncle Sam" stepped in and did a little dictation. Looks like our only salvation. Now, in conclusion, let me beg you citizens to let's all stay behind our president, regardless of politics, so long as he continues to fight for the cause of justice and right. And to those displaying the NRA signs, let's do our part in reality and not just make a pretense of the thing and openly disregard other people's welfare. After all if we'll simply go up attic and get that old dusty "Golden Rule" that has so long been stowed away, and bring it down to the living room and let it be the rule and guide to our conduct in all our dealings with mankind, we'll find ourselves pretty soon on the upward road to better times, both financially and spiritually.

I really think that the "Golden Rule" could be effectively used in the matter of employment, and I feel sure that I express the sentiments of a vast majority of our best citizens in the foregoing statement.—A Subscriber.

GOODE CANDIDATE FOR AGRICULTURAL POST

R. J. Goode, farmer, livestock breeder, legislator and member of the state board of agriculture, Gastonburg, has announced as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Mr. Goode filed his statement with the Secretary of State Saturday.

For the past 18 years Mr. Goode has been a member of the state board of agriculture and since 1915 has served his home county of Wilcox as a member of the legislature. He received his academic education at the Gastonburg High School, afterwards was graduated from Marion Institute with the degrees of A. B. and B. S. and later took a course at the University of Pennsylvania.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There will be a social given at Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School on Thursday evening form 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Our program, "A Good Time For All." We promise plenty of good wholesome fun. Admission 10 cents. Come. The proceeds to go for the boys and girls basket ball teams.

The beautiful girl and the honorable man, sole survivors of a wreck; he had saved her, managed to get on a desert island and there for three long years they lived in hope—she growing daily more beautiful, he daily more honorable.

At last she could stand it no longer. "It looks like we are going to spend the rest of our lives here," she said coyly one day. "Don't you think we might — might be more friendly?"

"All right," he answered eagerly. "I've been longing to ask you if you would care to play two-handed bridge with a set of cards I have made out of palm leaves."

Poesy Handcuffed

"Poems that describe an event often live forever. Could anybody write one like 'The Wreck of the Hesperus,' now? It so, why doesn't he?" says the St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Well, he is to busy figuring out his income tax, trying to find ways and means of raising the money to pay his local and state taxes; wonderering when he can get some money out of the bank, where he can get a job and how he can keep a roof over his head and his family together.—"Good Morning," in Detroit Free Press.

Rugged Individualism

The real issue in politics the world over is that of the rights of the individual as against the power of the state, says the National Republic magazine. If, at on time, the doctrine of Laissez Faire (let alone) was extremely applied, today the doctrine of the do-it-all state is even more menacing to human rights and human welfare.

The most dangerous of all our special interests today, and the most powerful is the highly organized political interest. This interest seeks to sweep society into the maw of an all-devouring state, which is to be the task-master of humanity. At the root of this demand is the same greed for domination on the part of those who envision themselves as the masters of this state, that is responsible for such wrongs as may have been committed by the ambitious and the greedy under the existing economic system.

In the case of Russia, Germany, Spain, and of Italy we see to what lengths such tyranny inevitably carries itself. It results in the complete suppression of liberty, the destruction of initiative, the end of rugged individualism, of all that makes social progress possible.

From the vote-getting standpoint we have no very formidable socialist party in the United States. But we have many socialists masquerading under the old party names, industriously seeking the destruction of private and the lengthening of public payrolls, demanding government ownership in the face of that record of failure this system has scored when tried in the Unted States and elsewhere.

Power in private hands in a government of public opinion is subject to the restraints that public opinion may put upon it. But when such power is concecrated in governmental agencies, when it is increased to such an extent that the office holding interest dominates the situation, it cannot be called to accountability, because it is, in effect, the government itself.

During the next session of Congress socialist demands may again be loudly sounded. Speeches and proceedings calculated to advance the cause of government ownership may develop. There will be the usual socialist outcry against American "imperialism"—which means the national defense of the rightts and property of Americans abroad, the usual demand for full abandonment of the Philipine Islands, as much territory of the United States as the old Louisiana Purchase, the usual outcry against American business enterprise by demagogues who, with their professed courage, have not that bravery which would cause them to run up the political banner to which they actually yield allegiance. There will be the usual socialistic demand to disarm the United States. To render the United States helpless, to dismember its territory, to paralyze its prosperity—all this is a part of the socialist agenda.

It is well that the American people should realize the underlying significance of this campaign. It aims at the politification of industry, the hamstringing of the nation, the advancement of the Marxian conception of the citizen as a slave to the state, the establishment of the tyranny of political power. It is high time that thoughtful Americans should begin more active resistance to the attacks of such political leaders entirely out of sympathy with the American form and spirit of government, and with that system of the rugged individualism which alone has been responsible for the growth of this republic.

Only One Sure Way

It is possible that we may yet discover that the surest way for us as a nation to be restored to something like our old time economic condition must be by the strictest adherence to the fundamental prinicple, spending less than we receive. In other words, there is no sure promise of national security as long as we are paying out millions more than are coming in.

Pay day comes some day, sure as fate. No one can fail to be concerned about this matter when he thinks it through. Bold strokes in favor of artifical rejuvenation of trade, agriculture, industries, business in all forms must have a coordinate reaction that will be harmoniously stimulating and tend quickly to make us a going concern in the matter of finances.

We cannot go on forever and ever running behind our budget. That we know. We must quit spending soon and go to paying off. As for general conditions, they may be improved by remedial measures—it is certainly to be hoped they will be—but the most solid improvement will come through the natural processes that work through our economic organism just as such processes work through all other organisms.—Washington (Ia.) Evening Journal.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Officials high in administration circles at Washington, as well as so-called economic experts, are said to be seriously concerned by the failure of wholseale commodity prices to rise as was expected of them. Wheat, corn, grain, cotton, copper and other basic products have not risen in price as it was hoped they would rise under the government's reconstruction program, and the price of live stock, of course, is a big disappointment to the farmers as well as the agricultural experts. In other words, prices of raw materials have not developed the strength and the elevation that has come to finished goods. A great deal of the present dissatisfaction in farm communities is due to the fact that the farmer finds that the thing he buys, under the NRA have gone up much more rapidly in price than the things he has to sell. This dissatisfaction was in large measure responsiblbe for the wave of inflation demand which swept the country a few weeks ago, and it will doubtless raise another wave of inflation talk when Congress convenes, if the price disparity does not right itself in the meantime.

Most of the business indices have a steady if slow decline during the past few weeks, and a great part of this, many economic students believe, has been due to the failure of the price of raw materials to rise to the occasion, as well as the fact that general buying power has not increased as rapidly as the price of finished products. With respect to this latter reason, Senator Wagner, of New York, said, in an address recently before the American Federation of Labor convention:

"Pay rolls are still 48 per cent below the 1926 level. They have lagged so far behind industrial activity that production, which rose 65 per cent from April to August, lost one-third of this gain in the single month following. There has been a gain of 17 per cent in the purchasing power of wages but retail prices have mounted rapidly. The increased volume of total wages is due almost entirely to gains in employment and to rises in the minimum scales. Due to the higher cost of living there have been some actual reductions in real wages."

Just what will be done or can be done to remedy the disparity of price between raw materials and finished goods remains to be seen. Some friendly critics of the government's reconstruction program, while admitting its good points, declare that the improvement would have been steadier if the program had not attempted to do too many things at once. They seem to feel that more attention should have been paid to the foundation of the structure, by which they mean the stability of basic commodities, and less to price fixing. They maintain that improvement must begin at the bottom, and that once the basic commodities show a healthier condition, price and wage improvement would come as a natural result, with the increase in the price of finished products coming last. Thus they maintain retail prices would be the last to go up and there would or should be no perceptible rise in them until the wage volume had improved enough to justify the higher prices.

While on the subject of price fixing the comment of Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, on Secretary of the Interior Ickes's action in fixing the price of crude oil at $1.11 a barrel is interesting. In talking of controlling production and prices, he mentioned the celebrated Conroe oil field, where in one instance the earth opened up under a well and swallowed it, leaving a veritable crater in the ground. Then he added: "The crater alone is producing 6,000 to 10,000 barrels daily. We can't go down there and read Ickes's telegram to the crater and expect it to stop flowing." Then he expressed the opinion that a veritable army will be needed to control oil production in Texas with its 47,000 wells, but like a good American, promised that Texas would do what it could to cooperate with the federal government. That is one satisfying thing about the whole reconstruction scheme. Nearly everyone, regardless of his political or economic views, is cooperating, and if the plan does not succeed in its entirety, it will be no fault of the American people themselves. Regulation of production, control of prices and wages is a big undertaking, however, and the old economic laws of supply and demand cannot be left entirely out of the picture.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Team Work

A famous football coach once said: "I had rather have a mediocre TEAM—every man working for the good of the whole ensemble—than a group of stars, with each trying to be the whole show within himself. No matter how many stars there may be, it is the TEAM that brings home the bacon." When coaches take their charges on the practice field, they watch the blocking as much or more than they do the ball carrier. No matter how good a back field man may be, he cannot go through the enemy's line unless there is a hole, and to make that hole there must be team work. During the practice period, the several candidates make the going tough for their opponents in the try for positions on the varsity, then the subs pull for their late opponents with all they have. They do not sulk, and throw stumbling blocks in their way, but sit on the sidelines whooping it up for "the boys", and ever ready to go in and give all they have if called upon. This same condition should exist in a political party—any political party—our Chilton County Republican party! Our primary is the practice period; then the party slate is selected—the varsity. These are the ones who carry the battle to the enemy, but they must have support to get very far. They have a right to expect the whole-hearted support of their fellow party members. This is no time for sulkers; no time for men who want to carry the ball all the time. Somebody must play in the line—somebody must block. The player who cannot carry the ball on one play, and then block for his team mate on the next play has no business on the squad. He should be sent to the showers, and usually is, just as soon as the coach finds out his attitude toward the game. Let's pick our Republican TEAM, and then pull for them with all we have. That's the way to win, and the only way! Let's have more team work.

The NRA Pulls Out

Oh, yeah! So the NRA pulls out of the small towns. Now, that's something, again. What's the matter? Is the whole thing a big flop? Have the big powers decided that the project is impractical, and are withdrawing it, by degrees? If it is no good for the small towns, is there any reason to believe it is good for the cities? That the movement has failed to produce the results hoped for has been openly admitted by the president, himself, although he believes it has helped some. The president has proved that he is a sensible man. He has said: "If this plan will not work we will try another. In one way or another we intend to solve this problem." And, on the heels of this statement, comes the announcement that the NRA is pulling out. Perhaps that is his first move to try some other plan. Perhaps he has become convinced that the pet of the "brain trust" is a myth. Perhaps he has some other plan of his own that he thinks will work better. All right, let's have it. We'll try anything once—if it is good, we'll keep it—if not, we'll discard it and try something else. It's a good bet any time that Mr. Roosevelt can hatch out a better plan than the round table of college professors. The plan of the professors was only a theory in the beginning, and like lots of other theories, it seems that it isn't practical. This is openly admitted insofar as the small towns are concerned. Maybe the larger burgs will follow next. The NRA is pulling out—to stay out. Now, let's have the next card from the new deal. We haven't drawn a pair, so far, but here's hoping. Maybe we'll get one soon, and while we're at it, let's hope it will be aces. Deal!

Wonderful Percy

Percy Taylor, in his "What's Happening in Alabama" column in the Birmingham News seems to get a great kick out of reading my column and taking a dig at me every once in a while. He found something funny about my article last week in regard to Elmore County's roads, and wonders if Elmore Countians will have something to say about that, later. I don't think they will. They know it is the truth, and so would Percy, if he would only take his go-cart down there and bounce over the same streak of road I bounced over—and "bounced" is just what I mean, too. But I get a laugh out of Percy, too. He has the wrong pig by the ear, altogether. He thinks he is getting Editor Wyatt in bad with those Elmore County folks, all the time he is poking fun at my strip. Now, on that trip through Elmore, I was going to a football game. I like football, and go to every game I can, while Mr. Wyatt wouldn't give a plugged dime to see the Rose Bowl game. I just wonder if Mr. Taylor is as wrong all the time as he is sometimes. Maybe he is, and maybe that's the reason he has a column in the S. G. N.

Running True To Form

And now someone wants to know if the Democrats in charge of our government have not suffered an attack of insanity. I don't think so. They are merely running true to form—upholding the party record of making a colossal mess of things while they have the chance. Name a time when we had Democratic officials, and I can easily point to a time when there was h—l to pay and we all came through with our share of the debt. But the latter day Democrats have it all over the old gang when it comes to messing things up. They have been so well educated in the business that they make their forerunners look like pikers. When Cleveland was in conditions were fairly good—cotton was four cents a pound when the farmers could get somebody to buy it at all, and corn sold for 14 cents a bushel. Then came Wilson—the only thing we had to contend with then was a big war, in which thousands of Americans lost their lives, millions of dollars spent for guns and ships and other war material, and on top of all that the "wise ones" then at the head of the government loaned millions upon millions of dollars to European nations without the slightest assurance that it ever would be repaid. But what of the present regime of Democrats? We see thousands of homes being sold for their taxes, with each day bringing news of more taxes to be paid. We see wheat and corn destroyed while millions are hungry. We see hogs and beef cattle killed and tossed into the rivers. We have seen, right here in our own front yards, thousands of acres of cotton plowed under, while millions will shiver for lack of clothes during the coming winter. In short, we see refusal of the blessings of the Almighty, and wanton destruction of the provisions for life which an all-wise and provident God has seen fit to bestow upon us. And all this is done, folks, in the name of RECOVERY. The devil, himself, couldn't have figured out a better scheme to his own ends if he had been here, in person, to engineer the job. And, as for the Blue Eagle, there is a scrap on right now, between the Vatican at Rome and the heads of the "red" Communist movement, with each claiming the "honor" of having first advanced the idea. But there will be more about this next week—and "you ain't heard nothin' yet." No, I don't think the Democratic rulers have gone insane. Not by a long shot. They are merely upholding the party tradition of running things in a bad hole. They're only playing the old Democratic game, but according to 1933 rules. And, if you ask me, they're making a jam-up job of upholding the old party tradition.

Individualism

The powers that be say "the rugged individualism of America must go; we must all work and share alike." Yep, Jeems Henry, you guessed it the first pop. That is the soul of the Communistic policy, into which this nation is drifting under the present order. It holds no regard for the outstanding man nor his exceptional ability. What a great thing for this country that this idea came into vogue so late, for, had it come in the nation's infancy, there never could have been a Washington, a Monroe, a Lincoln, nor a Teddy Roosevelt. They never could have become the great men they did. They could only have been some of "the boys." They might as well have been born chipmunks or tom-tits, so far as their chances of leadership was concerned. Any person with a brain the equal in size and quality of a sound peanut knows that any organization—be it church, mercantile firm, county, state or nation—must have capable leadership to survive. Then, if our "rugged individualism"—the quality that has made the United States the greatest of all nations—is put down, where shall we look for leadership? If a man is not given a chance to show his ability, how can we know he has the quality of leadership. That's something to think about. The pope and the "reds" may be scrapping over the authorship of the blue eagle idea, but this plan to oust our individualism is the iron-clad patented idea of the Communists. There's no question about that.—Man in the Moon.

Tammany in Congress

Politicians in Washington are already beginning to speculate as to what will be the future effects on the nation's political history of the present mayoralty campaign in New York, which is now showing signs of great bitterness. The general opinion is that McKee, the independent Democratic candidate, backed by Postmaster General Farley, and the national administration will win, and that the effect on the future of the Democratic party will be considerable.

If McKee is elected the control of the New York City organization will pass from John Curry and the old Tammany leaders to Mr. Farley and his friends. This, it is expected, will assure the control of the New York delegation to President Roosevelt in the next Democratic national convention, although it is of course rather far-fetched to believe that Mr. Roosevelt will have any opposition in that convention. Mr. Farley, according to most political observers, wants the control of the New York machine to get for himself the Democratic nomination for governor of New York in 1936.

But speculation goes further than this and wonders just what will be the attitude of the old Tammany leaders if they are defeated in the present Democratic split in New York. That they will not take the defeat cheerfully, goes without saying. The first evidence of their feeling will probably come to light in the next session of Congress. There are at least twenty Tammany congressmen in the national house of Representatives. Just what they will do in the next session remains to be seen. The administration did not, of course, need their help in the last session, but the political honeymoon is now over and a considerable opposition to the administration's program may be expected to develop in the next session. When this comes, will Tammany in Congress join the insurrection, or will it stand by the president? Here is a coming development that will bear watching.

In addition to the disappointment in farm regions, because the farm program has failed to work up to this time, there is considerable disappointment in certain Democratic circles over the way patronage has been dispensed. There are three members of the official cabinet who cannot by any stretch of the imagination be termed regular Democrats, and some of the regular Democratic leaders are said to be chafing at the bit because their patronage recommendations have been thrust aside. Among the leaders who may be mentioned in this respect are former Governor Al Smith, of New York, and his good friend, Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts. And again Governor Ritchie of Maryland has not been heard from to any considerable extent in the new administration.

Word from Indiana is to the effect that there is considerable disappointment among the Democrats in the Hoosier state because the commonwealth has not received any great number of plums. Hoosier Democrats are said to feel that they have been left out in the cold and some of them attribute it to the fact that the state's delegation to the last Democratic convention was rather tardy in climbing on to the Roosevelt bandwagon.

All of which indicates that the next session of Congress is going to be an interesting one. The Republican opposition is of course comparatively small, but there are possibilities of grave dissention in the ranks of the majority party.

"The time has come for us to act, not to argue. When a man's house is on fire he cannot adopt a conservative attitude about it. He cannot stop to take time to balance the niceties and equities of the matter.—Senator Capper.

No, but he can afford to stop long enough to make sure that what he is throwing on the fire is water and not gasoline.—New York Times.

Isn't it strange that with every one asking who hit Huey Long no one seems to wonder why?

If every one should work 40 hours a week or even 35, production might be overwhelmingly enormous.

Speaking of a minimum hour week under the new recovery act, wouldn't it be terrible if mother went on a six hour day, with Saturdays and Sundays off?

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—and Some He Saw Not

Where Did They Come From?

Greatly increased enrollment in the schools of Chilton County this year has created something of a problem for administrative officials. Present facilities, already proven inadequate for some years, are straining under the pressure caused by many more children to be cared for. Reports from the schools to Superintendent Little will be available in a few days showing detailed statements of increased enrollment in all schools. Herein will doubtless be found the reason why Chilton County should be glad to accept the government's proposition for a loan of $70,000 for a school building program.

When the Roll is Called

When the Red Cross Roll Call is sounded on Armistice Day, November 11, it will be the signal for us of Chilton County to show how well we have remembered the great and magnanimous relief program extended to us by that organization following the disasters of 1932. Our response last year was fine, but short of what we were asked to do. We should tighten the lines this time, and answer the call fully and completely. Whether we ever have another disaster or not (and we certainly hope we do not) the Red Cross has already done its part by the folks of this county. We shall remain indebted to it even after we have answered scores of roll calls one hundred per cent.

Put Your Feet Under Pa's Table

Mack Broadhead, of Maplesville, has been in Clanton this week, serving as a juror in Circuit Court. His many Clanton friends were glad to have a chance to see him again. Since moving to "far off Maplesville," Mack is not often seen in Clanton. "I am glad to be back for a while," he said Monday. "I do not specially fancy the job of serving as a juror, but whatever displeasure or inconvenience it may cause will be compensated to me by the opportunity to put my feet under Pa's table a few times while I am over here." Indeed, Mack,, all of us will agree with you that there are two supreme delights for every boy. One is to return home and put his feet under Pa's table. The other is to go to grandma's and get the choicest jam and custard pie the cupboard affords.

Prize Winning Pheasants

Five first prizes and one second prize was the award received by Dr. Gragg's exhibition of pheasants at the Mobile Gulf Coast Fair last week. To begin with, pheasants are an unusual thing in Alabama. I doubt if Gragg's birds had much competition, but they are worthy of it just the same. Five first prizes awarded at the fair guarantees that those fine and very rare birds received the distinction which they deserve.

From 1902 to 1962

Many of us saw the year 1902, but many of us will not see 1962. Realizing that fact, perhaps, automobile engineers of today have decided to give us a chance to look at the automobile of 1962 before we cash in our checks. The future automobile, as they predict it, will be here tomorrow. Pan Am Gasoline will parade on the streets of Clanton the projected automobile (close akin to the airplane) of 1962. Along with it they will show us the Cadillac, vintage of 1902, just to refresh our recollection a bit.. The 1902 Cadillac is one of the the first horseless carriages ever put into general use. It will bring fresh memories of the funny looking machine which first appeared here, owned by I. Gordon. I think it was a product of International Harvester Company.

Cattle Sale November 17

Colonel Bob Little and Daddy Fox are very much enthused over prospects of their live stock auction sale to be at Maplesville, November 17. They have over 100 head of cattle listed for this sale. Others are coming in every day. The promoters hope to make this sale a forerunner of other such events in different parts of the county.

Meddling In Europe

Concrete suggestions for the rearmament of German forces have been submitted to the German delegation with the approval of British and American representatives at Geneva, according to a dispatch from Edmund Taylor, Tribune correspondent. What an American delegation has to do with the adjustments of land armament among the nations of Europe we are unable to see. We have read of the visitations of the President's emissary at large, Mr. Davis, to various European foreign offices and we are therefore not unprepared for Mr. Taylor's report. Nevertheless we had clung to the hope that the original intention of our government to restrict our diplomatis efforts to the problem of naval limitation might be revived by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull.

Our concern with naval conditions is practical and immediate, whatever may be argued as to the practicability or expediency of measures of limitation. But our intervention in the adjustment of land armament among the nations of the European continent is, in our opinion, an impertinence which rightly disparages our influence and promises nothing of benefit, but, on the contrary, considerable mischief to all concerned.

Neither Mr. Davis nor any other American diplomat that we know of is in such command of the complicated facts of the European situation that he can attribute much if anything of value to the solution of European military problems. But even if he were an authority in this field his participation in European counsels must imply an authority and an ability to back up his advice which the American nation has not conferred upon him. He, therefore, however amiable and enlightened his intentions, is in a position which no sensible man should assume, and, what is more important, can hardly avoid unauthorized implications which must reflect upon the good faith of the United States.

The American people have not authorized Mr. Davis or the State Department or the President to involve them in the responsibilities of European military adjustment. They have no stomach for playing the role of an international busybody and our delegation at Geneva should be instructed forthwith to limit their activities to matters in which the United States is definitely concerned. We have had enough and more than enough of attempts to pull other governments' chestnuts out of the fire.—Chicago Tribune.

"I want my husband to admire my skin"

A WIFE never forgets that a clear skin is irresistible and that some other woman might prove more attractive.

How can she have a clear skin, too?

There is one way which many have found efficient . . . by restoring deficient red-cells and hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) to the blood.

The right amount of hemo-glo-bin in the blood makes a vast difference in the way you feel and look.

S.S.S. Tonic has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring deficient hemo-glo-bin to the blood.

Tens of thousands yearly take a course of S.S.S. to pep up a lagging appetite, regain old-time vigor, restore color to the skin and to build up resistance to infectious diseases, pimples and boils.

Try S.S.S. yourself. You will be happy with the beneficial results obtained. At all drug stores. The larger size is more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

MILLER CAMPAIGN AT THE FOURSQUARE STILL GOING

The revival at the Foursquare church in Clanton is still going, with fairly good attendance every night.

Rev. Harry B. Miller, 19-year-old evangelist, is in charge of the meetings. The evangelist and members of the church extend to all a hearty welcome to attend.

Following are the topics which Rev. Miller will use during the coming week:

Thursday, Nov. 2—"What Time is It?" (Illustrated.)

Friday, Nov. 3—"The Two Knockings."

Sunday, Nov. 5—"Let the Lower Lights Be Burning.' (Illustrated.)

Monday, Nov. 6—"Dealing in Futures."

Tuesday, Nov. 7—"A Square Deal—When Do We Get It?"

Wednesday, Nov. 8—"A Kiss in the Dark."

Services will begin each night at 7:00 o'clock. There will be service on Saturday night, November 4. Sunday school at 9:45 next Sunday morning. Everyone invited.

OAK GROVE

We are glad to announce that our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are improving very much, and hope it will continue. We were glad to have Rev. Tunnell to render us a nice sermon after Sunday school. Also following B. Y. P. U. Rev. Bunyan Martin preached to us.

Remember that we have preaching here next Saturday night, also Sunday at 11 o'clock, with singing in the afternoon. We ask everyone to come and be with us.

A marriage of much interest was that of Mr. Tom Lessley of Oak Grove to Miss Mattie Scott of Thorsby. They were united in marriage by Rev. Monroe Honeycutt of Jemison. We wish them a long and happy married life.

Misses Pauline and Irene Lessley are spending this week in Birmingham visiting relatives.

The following celebrated their Hallowe'en by serenading a number of homes in this vicinity. They were: Misses Dorothy Dees, Nannie Sammons, Gladys and Roberta Satterwhite and Mary Joe Sutley, Mr. Ermon and Athine Sammons, Curtis Satterwhite, Charles and James Foy Nix.

Mrs. J. D. Sutley spent Sunday afternoon with her father, Mr. W. H. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay and little daughter, Nola Mae, spent Sunday in Calera visiting relatives.

Miss Gladys Satterwhite spent the day Sunday with Miss Mary Joe Sutley.

East View News

Miss Getalene Mims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mims, was carried to a Montgomery hospital Tuesday of last week, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Nute Vinson, Ealene Mims and Rev. and Mrs. Nelson were visitors to the hospital last Friday. They reported that Getalene was resting very well then. We hope she will soon be able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Cook of Billingsley were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rushing Saturday.

Mrs. Sallie Strength had for her dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rushing.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson motored to Seman, Ala., Sunday, where he conducted religious services.

Don't forget the working at the church Thursday, November 2nd. Bring tools to work with.

Our Christian Endeavor is putting on some real good programs now. The topic for next Sunday night is "The Awfulness of War." Mr. Silas Nelson will be the leader. Be sure to attend. The service starts at 6:30 p.m.

We have Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 a.m. We are always glad to welcome you into our services.

The motto of our church is:

No stranger shall remain ungreeted.
No unfortunate person shall go unfriended.
No invalid shall be unvisited.
No needy person shall be unassisted.
No bewildered person shall go unadvised.
No home of mourning shall be neglected.
No act of needed mercy shall be omitted.

Preaching services here every second and Saturday and Sunday. We are always glad to have visitors to worship with us.

Mrs. Frank Scott and son, John Ed, of Huntsville are spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renfro Mullins.

MRS. CORA LEE GENTRY DIED

Mrs. Cora Lee Gentry, widow of the late D. H. Gentry, died last Wednesday night at the home of her son, E. E. Porter. She was 55 years of age last March the 2nd.

Mrs. Gentry was twice married. The first marriage was to Mr. Edward Porter, and to this union was born one son, E. E. Porter, of Thorsby. Her second marriage was to Mr. D. H. Gentry and to this union was born one son, Sidney Gentry, of Birmingham, Alabama. There were three step sons and one step daughter who loved and appreciated her. Besides these she leaves a niece, Louise Bates, whom she has reared, and four grand children; six brothers, five half brothers, two sisters and one half sister; also a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Gentry was a faithful member of the Thorsby Baptist church and a member of Eastern Star of which she was Worthy Matron.

The funeral was held Friday, October 27, at Collins Chapel by her pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, and assisted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. J. E. Each. The order of Eastern Star held their ritual service at the grave in the midst of a large congregation of loved ones and sympathizing friends.

In the death of this good woman Thorsby has sustained a great loss for her's was a life of service and she was loved by all who knew her.

HIGHLAND NEWS

A large crowd attended Sunday school here Sunday. Everyone come back next Sunday and bring someone with you.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Baker and children spent a while Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Billingsley and family.

Mrs. Lillie Weldon had as her guest Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe and family.

Miss Lorena Billingsley returned to her home Friday night after a two weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Alice Limbrick.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billingsley had as their guests Sunday Mr. Jim Bice and daughter, Minnie, and Mr. and Mrs. Keen and family.

Mrs. Alice Limbrick and children were the week end guests of her parents, Mrs. G. B. Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Baker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Baker.

Mr. Newton Driver spent the latter part of last week with friends of this community.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE ISABELLA 4-H CLUB

Miss Ruth Pardue met with the girls of Isabella on Thursday, October 26, for the purpose of organizing a 4-H Club. The officers elected are as follows:

President, Lorene Lecroy; vice president, Avoline Jones; secretary treasurer, Elizabeth Mims; reporter, Louise Cox; song and cheer leader, Frances Sexton.

Thirty-seven girls signed their names as members of the club. This is the first time a club of this kind has ever been organized in Isabella community. So lets all get busy and make our club one of the best in the county. Our club will meet on the first Thursday in each month.

In our next meeting, which will be November 2, we will elect a local leader who will meet with us twice each month, for the purpose of giving demonstrations. The first phase of work which we are to take up is clothing. This phase includes the study of posture, construction of clothing and several other important things concerning clothing.—Reporter.

SINGING AT THORSBY

The United Singing Society will meet at Thorsby Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. An invitation is extended all singers of the county.

PAUL IN JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:1, 2, 22-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. II Cor. 3:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Settling a Dispute.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Only Way.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Looking to the Church for Guidance.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Heeding the Voice of the Church.

I. The Controversy in the Church at Antioch (vv. 1-5).

The occasion of the controversy was the return of Paul and Barnabas from their first missionary journey. Upon their return they gathered the church together and "rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles." The difficulty was a most serious one, for it threatened the disruption of the church into a Jewish and Gentile division. The point at issue was not the admission of the Gentiles into the church. That had been settled some years before when Peter received Cornelius and his household. The question now was: On what ground could they be received? Should Gentile converts be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation? That which brought this issue into prominence was the coming of certain men from Jerusalem who declared, "Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved" (v. 1). The problem was so difficult that Paul and Barnabas were unable to put these men to silence. The brethren at Antioch decided to refer the matter to the mother church at Jerusalem. Accordingly, Paul, Barnabas, and others were sent as a deputation to Jerusalem. On the way they passed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the news of the conversion of the Gentiles.

II. The Deliberations of the Council (vv. 6-21).

1. Peter's address (vv. 6-11). He argued that God had borne witness of his acceptance of the Gentiles by giving his Holy Spirit unto them as unto the Jews (Acts 10:34-47). Since, therefore, God had not put a difference, it would be folly for them to do so.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearse their experience (v. 12). They told how that God had set his seal of approval on their preaching of salvation by grace through faith apart from works.

3. The argument of James (vv. 13-21). He showed how the truth declared by Peter harmonized with the prophecy of Amos (Amos 9:11-15). He made it clear that the reception of the Gentiles was not in conflict with God's plan, but in strict harmony therewith. God's plan, as set forth in James' speech, is as follows:

a. God would visit the Gentiles to take out from among them a people for his name (v. 14). This is what is now going on—the worldwide preaching of the gospel and the calling out of the church.

b. After the completion and removal of the church from the world, Israel as a nation will be converted and restored to their land with all its privileges by the Lord himself upon his return (vv. 16, 17a). The building again of the tabernacle of David means the restoration of the Davidic throne. Gabriel, in announcing to Mary the birth of Jesus, said, "The Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David" (Luke 1:32).

c. This will be followed by the conversion of the world through the agency of converted Israel (v. 17b, cf. Rom. 11:15). He showed that there is no conflict when the Scriptures are rightly divided.

d. James' proposition (vv. 19-21). His judgment was that the Gentiles should not be troubled with the things which were Jewish, but should be warned against the perils of heathenism, such as meat offered to idols, fornication, from things strangled, and from blood.

III. The Decision of the Council (vv. 22-29).

The mother church accepted the resolution offered by James and came to a unanimous agreement. They not only sent a letter stating the decision of the conference, but took the wise precaution to send influential men along with Paul and Barnabas to bear the same testimony by word of mouth. This letter denied the authority of the Judaizing teachers (v. 24), and declared the method by which this decision had been reached (vv. 25-27). They wisely put the Holy Spirit first.

IV. The Decision Delivered to the Church (vv. 30-35).

The church at Antioch was called together to hear this report. Its reading brought great rejoicing.

The Abiding Presence

The promise of Christ that he would remain with his own, even to the end of the world, though given primarily to his apostles, was not for them alone, but for all who should believe in him through their teaching and that of their successors.

Meditation of Christ

Let it be today. Shut yourself in, sit down to think, and to meditate, and to read that which will assist your thoughts about him, and your meditations on him.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White have gone to Louisville, Ky., for a few days visit with Dr. Clyde Foshee.

SIXTH OF A SERIES OF ADVERTISEMENTS EXPLAINING THE EFFECT OF OUR NEW RATES

A conversation between MRS. GREEN (who is typical of a large group of our customers whose use of electricity has been averaging 400 kilowatt hours a month) and our REPRESENTATIVE who is explaining the effect of our new rates on her use of our service.

54% More ELECTRICITY for 6% More Money!

- REPRESENTATIVE: "Good morning, Mrs. Green. Have you heard about our new rates on electricity for home use?"
- MRS. GREEN: "Yes. We're already pretty large users of electricity in our home. Mr. Green and I figured on our bill last month. We used 400 kilowatt hours, and the bill was $10.85, or about 2¾c an hour. We've never complained about our rate."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "We appreciate your attitude, Mrs. Green. You won't complain about your new rate, either. It increases your bill 61c a month, or about 6 per cent, but it entitles you to use 219 more kilowatt hours of electricity per month—an increase of 54 per cent in your electric service!"
- MRS. GREEN: "But what can I do with 219 more kilowatt hours of electricity? I already have a range and refrigerator and numerous small appliances around the house. An electric water heater is about all I haven't got."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "I was going to suggest that very thing, Mrs. Green. I've already talked to several of our customers who've been using about the same amount of electricity as you have. Practically all of them decided to install a Water Heater. On your rate the operating cost would be only $1.40 a month more than you've been paying."
- MRS. GREEN: "Well, we need a water heater. But I'm afraid we can't afford to invest in any more equipment just now."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "You don't have to, Mrs. Green. We'll rent you one for $1.45 a month. The rent is all you contract to pay. It makes the total cost of renting and operating the heater only 10c a day!"
- MRS. GREEN: "That's cheap enough, all right. I guess we'll order one. But I'll have to speak to Mr. Green about it first. He may want to use the extra electricity some other way. Suppose you call again tomorrow and I'll tell you something definite."
- REPRESENTATIVE: "All right, Mrs. Green. I don't wish to hurry you, but we've got only 250 water heaters to rent and they're going fast. You've this extra electricity coming to you anyway, so I believe you see the wisdom of beginning right away to use it. Good day, Ma'am."

IF YOU, like Mrs. Green, have been using 400 kilowatt hours of electricity per month, you are in a position to use additional electricity for ¼c per kilowatt hour! There are dozens of ways this amazingly inexpensive service can be profitably employed in your home. Let us suggest some. Come to our office, or telephone and we'll send our Representative immediately.

IN MEMORY OF W. D. BURNETT

uOr hearts were saddened, and a very serious thought comes to us of the death we must meet when God calls us just as Mr. W. D. Burnett did by answering his Lord's call.

Some of us are saying to ourselves that we will take his death as a warning to us and we are going to give our hearts to God and accept Him as our personal saviour, because we love the Lord and Mr. Burnett also. We want him to join Him, the angels and Christ in a land where sorrow never comes. With the same farewell unspoken, we want to calmly enter into His mansion as Mr. Burnett did.

Some of us want to be ready to answer the call but not enough to try, pray, or be sorry for our sins. Still others are waiting till tomorrow but tomorrw may never come. Everyone should take warning.

We must not weep or wish him back with us, because it was the Lord's will for him to leave this world, but we must strive to meet him.

Among Mr. Burnett's friends, six of the older ones acted as pallbearers. They were: Messrs. C. D. Foshee, J. W. Cox, W. J. Moates, A. S. Johnson, G. B. Jones, O. H. Lawrence all of Billingsley.

Acting as flower girls were Mary Etta Lawrence, Louise Smith, Ernestine Johnson and Lera Mae Franklin. The beautiful flowers show the respect of Mr. Burnett's many friends. Let us not forget to give flowers on such occasions but also remember to give them to our friends while they are living and can enjoy them.

Mr. Burnett leaves to mourn his death, his wife, Mrs. W. D. Burnett, Clanton Route 3, three sons, Charlie and James of Clanton, five daughters, Mrs. Lena Beavers, Florida, Mrs. Bell Edwards, Clanton, Mrs. Mattie Wilkins, Billingsley, Mrs. Ernestine Turner, San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. Lillian Edwards, Clanton.

The remains were laid to rest in New Cedron cemetery. Rev. A. S. Bentley of Plantersville conducted the funeral, assisted by Rev. B. Lawrence of Clanton. The Concord choir was in charge of the singing. Spigener of Clanton was in charge.

SMITH INFANT DIED

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith, near Cooper, died Saturday night and was buried at Chestnut Creek cemetery Sunday.

NEW CEDRON NEWS

Our new pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, delivered three good spiritual sermons Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, which were enjoyed by a large crowd at each service.

We still have B. Y. P. U. each Sunday night and prayer service just before B. Y. P. U. except one preaching Sunday.

We have changed our preaching day from the fourth to the first and next Sunday will be our regular preaching day. We will have services Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We cordially invite everyone to come.

Rev. W. E. Robinson spent Saturday night with Mr. J. W. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. George Owen and family attended the birthday celebration of his mother, Mrs. Eff Owen, Sunday at her home near Kincheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Williams and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Lawrence Sunday.

Mr. Clarence Williams and Miss Vera Cox were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Allie Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Baker visited relatives in this community Saturday night and Sunday.

Rev. W. E. Robinson was the dinner guest of Mr. Edd Moates and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Williams were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. O. H. Lawrence.

Messrs. Lloyd Smith and John, Jr., Cox were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Irby Johnson.

Misses Esten and Eula Mae Brown were the Sunday dinner guests of Misses Marie and Vondell Penton.

Misses Louise Smith and Elsie Herrod were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Mary Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Louise Stroud were the Sunday guests of Mr. J. F. Devaughn and family.

Mrs. J. F. Devaughn visited her son, Mr. Harvie Devaughn Sunday.

Miss Pauline Collins was the guest of Miss Delene Owen Thursday night.

Mrs. Barney Wilkins and Miss Pauline Collins were the guests of Mrs. W. D. Burnett Friday.

Miss Delene Owen has returned from Wetumpka where she was visiting relatives. She reported a real nice time.

We are very sorry to learn that Mr. and Mrs. George Owen and family are going to move to Felix. We will miss them very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hill and little daughter, Irene, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Johnson Sunday afternoon.

Miss Pauline Collins was the guest of Aubrey and Edna Johnson Sunday afternoon.

Several from this community attended the Hallowe'en Festival at Isabella Saturday night. They reported a nice time.

We regret very much to learn that Mrs. Chandler of this community is on the sick list this week. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Moates spent the week end here in this community.

OAK GROVE B. Y. P. U.

The Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. will put on a program at Eanon in Shelby County Sunday night, November 5th. Rev. W. P. Lowery preaches at Eanon following the program.

A Serious Problem

On January 19, next year, the Hawes-Cooper Act, which was passed by the last Congress, will go into effect unless it is declared unconstitutional. This act empowers the individual states to legislate against the interstate shipment of prison-made goods. Already nineteen states have put the bars up against prison products. However, some of these states if not all of them, regret their hasty action and have applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for forgiveness.

There are about sixty-two thousand convicts gainfully occupied in penal institutions in America. They produce annually goods valued at approximately seventy-five million dollars. Sounds like a lot of goods and a lot of money. Let's see if it is.

Outside of prisons, in privately owned and operated industries, four million people work to produce the same character of goods as are manufactured in prisons. The estimated value of goods produced annually by these four millions of people is about four billion dollars. It does not require the talent of a Philadelphia lawyer to figure how little prison-made goods effect the outside market (one twentieth of one per cent.)

Sponsors of the Hawes-Cooper Act, inspired, no doubt, by political influence of outsiders, would take away from the convicts the privilege of keeping their minds and bodies busy at gainful occupation and subject them to idleness, which, as everyone knows, is not conducive to reformation. These unfortunate prison inmates are now being taught trades which they can and, in most cases do follow when they are set free.

They produce goods which, when converted into cash, saves the taxpayers of America seventy-five million dollars which ordinarily would have to come from the pockets of the already burdened taxpayers, in order to maintain the state penal and correctional institutions.

Alabama, unfortunately, is said to have the largest prison population in ratio of the general population, of all the states. The prison industries and farms now in operation in Alabama are not sufficient to give employment to all. Close down the two cotton mills and the shirt factory now in operation at Kilby and Speigner and the state's already serious convict problem will become more serious. Besides, the loss in revenue, every dollar of which is used in maintaining the prisons and prisoners, will entail an extra burden on the taxpayer.

Too few citizens appreciate the gravity of the convict situation now facing their government. Only those entrusted with the duties of caring for the convicts understand what it is all about and they are doing everything in their power to meet the situation to the best interest of the government and the public.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Sunday school convention for Clanton District of Unity Association will be held with Samaria church, next Sunday, November 5th, at 2:00 p.m.

2:00—Devotional, J. M. Parrish.
2:15—Why church Members Should Attend Sunday School, G. C. Armstrong.
2:35—"The Sunday school's Obligation to Reach Church Members," Luther E. Little.
3:00—Why Boys and Girls Should Attend Sunday School," J. Z. Mims.
3:20—Reports and discussions.
3:30—Adjourn.

The following churches are requested to send reports and representatives to this convention: Clanton, Concord, Providence, Samaria, Mt. Zion, Pleasant Valley and Floyd. All Sunday school workers are invited to attend and take part.—H. A. Harris, district President.

Jacob—Why did Ikey invite only married people to his wedding?

Abie—Well, in that way he figured that all presents would be clear profit.

Then there was the lazy street cleaner who started a big fire so that it would sweep the town.

Nobody has as yet, inside or outside of the state government, ventured to answer this question: "When these prisoners are denied gainful occupation, what will we do with them?" Even those who framed and sponsored the act of idleness cannot answer the question. They seem content to let the states solve the problem the best they can. Society, which sends men and women to jail, seems to forget them when they have been incarcerated behind prison walls.

Live Stock Sale At Maplesville

Will Be Conducted By Fox and Little on Friday, November 17th

Maplesville is all smiles over the big stock sale, consisting of over one hundred head of livestock, cattle, horses, mules, hogs and a nice lot of implements and household goods. Now is the time for every one having stock to dispose of to get a good price for it.

This sale first had about 65 head of stock listed. Now it exceeds a hundred. Col. Bob Little, born and raised on a cow ranch in Texas, schooled in auction sales of live stock from a boy, and afterwards connected with E. G. L. Harbour of Kansas, and Toots Peel of Oklahoma, is now with Col. W. W. Fox, of Clanton, who needs no introduction as an auctioneer, to call this sale.

Chilton County should be proud of this sale and help boost another. As one gentleman entering two car loads remarked, "Yes, it's our first, but it certainly should not be our last. We have everything to make it a regular thing, plenty of cattle, railroads to direct points, Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Selma, Montgomery and a straight shot over the M. & O. to St. Louis. Good highways (thanks to our next governor, Bibb Graves) for trucks all over the state. What is to keep it from going over with a bang, or I'll say two bangs?"

Come all you cow men, turn em into dough.
It will be a rough winter with lots of snow
Feeds all short, pastures most dry;
Milkers slow up, some may die.

Depression is gone, your cattle bring a price
Put your cattle in your pocket—ain't that nice?
So cashem in now you cowmen, if you want a winning hand
Then next spring, go to Maplesville and buy another cattle band.

To be honest is one of the greatest things we can do. The right thing is to be honest with ourselves, our teachers and our fellow students. We should want to do the best we can at all times and give the best of ourselves to the world.

These poems were composed by two sixth grade children in their study of language:

Hallowe'en Scares

Hallowe'en is a holiday
When we like to romp and play,
When we like to scare the people
Off the streets and up the steeple.

It gives to all so much delight,
Seeing every kind of sight.
They're the pumpkins in the windows
And the chimneys full of cinders.
Hallowe'en is full of fun,
To those who can play pranks and run.

—DORIS NEWELL.

Hallowe'en Fun

At Hallowe'en dusk
When gone is the sun,
You can see spooky spooks,
But you can see no one.
Early that night
When the moon comes out,
The children play tricks
And run all about.
Then late at night,
Away they go,
You can see something white
That appears to grow.
When the children knock
At your door and run,
You know they're happy
And just having fun.
For when they have
What they call work complete,
They go home to rest
Their tired little feet.
Then thinking of all
The good fun they've had
They turn off the lights
And crawl into bed.

—JIMMIE WYATT.

TIFFIN-KLINNER CABINET SALE

Begins Saturday, November 11 and Will Continue For Eight Days

"The encouraging trend in business activities is being experienced by our firm," J. B. Tiffin, manager of Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Co., of Clanton, declares. "Our sales are showing a splendid increase, and we anticipate steady improvement throughout the coming season."

In a gigantic merchandising program featuring Sellers Kitchen Cabinets beginning Saturday, November 11, the Tiffin-Klinner company expects to sell a solid car load of modern kitchen equipment within a single week. A large advertisement in this newspaper today carries full information concerning this special sales event.

A tremendous inducement for thrifty housewives is offered in the presentation of extra features included with each cabinet. The plan includes 19 pieces of pure aluminum ware, a 17-piece kitchen tool set, and an exquisite 32-piece set of dinner ware.

Sellers Kitchen Cabinets are nationally advertised and universally accepted as of paramount quality. Models displayed at Tiffin-Klinner's embrace a wide range of color selections, affording a design for every color scheme. All features of convenience are embodied.

D. C. Booth, factory representative of the Sellers company, will be here to assist with the sale. To enable housewives who have out-of-date kitchen cabinets to secure modern models, Tiffin-Klinner will maintain liberal trade-in allowances, Mr. Tiffin said.

For the convenience of those who can not come to the store, a courteous salesman will gladly call and explain features of the Sellers cabinets, and the wonderful extra opportunities of this special sale.

PLAY AT VERMONT JR.

Remember that on next Saturday night at 7:45, the laughable comedy-drama, entitled "A Poor Married Man," will be staged at Vermont Jr. High school. This popular little two hour play is brimful of fun and action. A sure cure for blues. A regular comical mix-up and misunderstanding. That awful mother-in-law is a riot and black Jupiter Jackson is a genuine African monkey.

A spicy little play, full of surprises and plenty of fun. A large number of people from Clanton, Isabella and Maplesville have sent word they will be here. You had better come early as the seating capacity is limited. The admission will be 10c and 20c.

Alabama Baptist State Convention

Meeting Will Be Held At Sheffield From November 14 To Nov. 17

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama Baptist leaders have reasons for believing that the Alabama Baptist State Convention in Sheffield, November 14-17, will be one of the best attended state gatherings in many years.

The fact that Sheffield is in the region of Alabama's most famous waters, Muscle Shoals, is proving attractive to Baptists of the entire state. Plans are afoot for giving to the visitors the privilege of viewing this much talked-of project.

This convention also comes after seventy-three district associations over the state have held possibly their most promising and enthusiastic meetings in many years.

Another drawing card will be the presence at Sheffield Convention of Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, one of America's leading pulpiteers. He will make one of the principal addresses. Rev. Jacob Gartenhaus, Christian Jew, will also be one of the special speakers.

There is among Baptist leaders over the state a hopeful seriousness that the 1933 convention will mark the beginning of the Baptist recovery program. The Baptist program in the state has met with some reverses during the world's depression. There are certain forebodings of better days, Baptist leaders say.

The convention program opens at 7 p.m., Tuesday, November 14, and concludes at noon on Friday. Beginning Monday night at 7 p.m., the Alabama Baptist Pastor's Council will hold its program.

Sheffield has proven a generous host to the convention, reducing hotel rates and providing special praking for automobiles. The First Baptist Church of Sheffield, Rev. E. Allen Burnette, pastor, will entertain the meetings of the convention. Members of the church, under the conventions pay plan, have opened their homes to messengers and visitors at a most nominal rate.

CERTAIN RETAILERS NOT EXEMPT IN SMALL TOWNS

Washington.—National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson issued the following interpretation designed to exclude from the exemptions allowed in the President's Executive order of October 23, employers located in towns of less than 2,500 population but whose operations extend "over a relatively wide area and include a number of communities:"

The Executive order of October 23, 1933, exempting from the provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement and from approved codes certain employers located in towns under 2,500 population applies only to employers engaged in trades or services of which the operations are customarily confined to local areas. It does not apply to those trades or services in which operations ordinarily extend over a relatively wide area and include a number of communities. The Executive order therefore does not exempt from the provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement and from the provisions of any code those employees engaged in selling at retail such products as lumber, building materials, building specialties, builders supplies and coal.

Legion Planning Fiddlers Show

Date and Program Will Be Announced In Papers Next Week

Chilton County Post of the American Legion will sponsor a fiddlers convention at the courthouse in Clanton in the near future. Preliminary details for putting on the show were drafted at the post meeting Monday night. A committee was appointed to handle all the arrangements. The members of this committee are Hosea Downs, Reuben Lowe and Jim Collins.

The progrim will be arranged to include fiddlers, string bands, quartets, vaudeville, dancing, monkey shines, etc. The very best talent in Chilton and adjoining counties will be assembled to put on the various parts.

The committee announces that there will be valuable prizes awarded to all contestants, and they say you can bet they will be prizes worth having too.

The price of admission will be set at 10 cents for children and 15 cents for grown folks. The purpose of the Legion Post in putting on this show is to start a permanent fund to be used in providing flowers for the funeral of any deceased ex-soldier in the county.

Full details of the program and the prizes and date of the entertainment will be made in the county papers next week. Any musician or entertainer who may be interested in entering the show should get in touch with Hosea Downs, Reuben Lowe or Jim Collins at Thorsby.

TVA PLACES LARGE ORDER FOR ALUMINUM CABLE

The Tennessee Valley Authority today awarded a contract for 675 miles of aluminum conductor cable, steel reinforced, to the Aluminum Company of America. The conductor is to be used in the construction of the tie transmission line between Muscle Shoals and Norris Dam.

The Aluminum Company's bid of $400,149.29 for the conductor and accesories showed a saving of approximately $278,000 over the next lowest bid. This represents a sum equal to the cost of operating the Muscle Shoals power plant for more than a year.

The acceptance of the Aluminum Company's bid was recommended by Llewellyn Evans, chief electrical engineer for the authority, and his recommendation was approved after extensive study by other engineers of the authority. The bid was accepted by the board after consultation with the bureau of standards.

In accordance with the standard practices of the TVA, all bidders were required to show compliance with the applicable rules and regulations of the NRA.

The tie transmission line is approximately 228 miles long and will pass within 23 miles of Chattanooga and about 18 miles of Knoxville. Acquisition of right of way for the line is already under way. Contracts for the clearing of the right of way and installing foundations will be let in localized groups so as to spread benefits over the entire distance traversed by the line.

NO COTTON LOANS SATURDAY

The office of county agent C. E. Stapp reported up to Tuesday night that a total of 1,083 farmers had borrowed $153,939.02 on 2,993 bales of cotton.

Owing to the fact that the banks will be closed Saturday, November 11, for Armistice Day, Mr. Stapp says his office will not handle cotton loans on that day.

Also Mr. Stapp states that after this week his office will handle cotton loans only on Saturdays.

All farmers of the county who are interested are requested to take note of these announcements, and be governed accordingly.

REPUBLICANS OF CHILTON COUNTY SHOULD BESTIR THEMSELVES NOW

(EDITORIAL)

There has been a few months of leisure in Chilton County so far as politics is concerned. Our people have thought of and discussed affairs other than county politics, and we are by politics as we are other affairs of life—we have a tendancy to grow indifferent and negligent. But it is now time the Republicans of Chilton County aroused from their hibernation and bestirred themselves to vigorous and untiring action.

Within three months we will be in the midst of a campaign leading up to a primary in our party. It is time now to inquire of and among ourselves, "Are we fortified and ready to enter the skirmish?" The Union-Banner will answer the question by saying "No, we are not ready." We have much to do before we are prepared to face the fight that is before us.

The first thing the Republicans of Chilton should look after is the registration of young voters who have become twenty-one since the last registering time. The board of registrars will be in session nearly every day somewhere in the county until the last of December. The time they will be in the various Beats will be found elsewhere in this paper. Find this list, clip it out, and when the registrars are nearest you, rustle up the young Republican voters and have them register. Remember that they can also register at the courthouse, but in no other Beat except where they live.

Another matter of equal or probably greater importance is the payment of poll taxes. This matter should be gone at vigorously and untiringly. A voter can do but very little for his party unless he or she has paid their poll tax.

At the meeting of the county executive committee last Friday a tentative organization was set up for the purpose of looking after registration and the payment of poll taxes among the Republicans. Let the members of the committee and all others assigned to these duties fall into the work right now and stay at it until the books close the last day. We have much to do, and we should not wait longer to begin. There is a hard fight ahead of us, and the sooner we realize the criticalness of our situation the better it will be for us. Let the Republicans of Chilton County not be over-confident, because we are going to fall short unless we have concerted action, consistent working and untiring effort. Let us make every minute and every opportunity count.

Our poeple have grown somewhat indifferent. But we have the same issues in Chilton County between the two parties that we have always had. We need not look afar off to see the complete failure of the Democratic party. Look at the state of Alabama, which has been under Democratic control from time immemorial. Do the Democrats of Chilton County point to Montgomery and say, "Look what we have done in our State affairs?" Are they proud of the accomplishments of the Democratic party on Goat Hill? Well, what more can we expect from them if they are given control of our county affairs? We have no right to look for anything except indebtedness, inefficiency and bankruptcy in Chilton County—just what the Democrats have given us in Montgomery. They have had a fair shake at it in our State—they have had a chance to do something if it was in them—but a more colossal failure was never made by any group of people. No Democrat will attempt to defend their party in Alabama; so pray tell us, how can they ask Chilton County to go Democratic now? But they are asking it, and it behooves us Republicans who believe in fair, representative government to answer, "We do not want the kind of management in our county that we have in our State, therefore, we do not want the Democrats to get control of us."

They may point us to the national administration as an example of their achievements. But you just wait a while before you pass judgment there. They have got a long way to go and their wires are awfully tangled. We all hope they straighten out things and give us good times, but they haven't done it yet. It looks like now, the way they are going, that when this administration is through at Washington about all this country will have left will be light wines and beer. Prohibition has been scrapped, and it seems as though the whole Constitution is in danger of being pigeonholed. Yes, we will have to wait a while and see a little further before we can place much credit for achievement to the national regime.

The Republicans of Chilton County must stick together. We must go into our primary without restrictions, as we have always done. Everybody must be permitted to run who wants to run; and then the party must unite solidly behind the nominees. We might as well resolve now to do these two things if we hope to win. We have too big a job ahead of us to lose time and energy in dissension among ourselves. We must present an undivided front, determined to stay together to the end, if we hope to come out victorious. And we should not be too sure.

We are proud of the accomplishment of the Republican party in Chilton County. The record that has been made is commendable and we are not afraid to point to it and let it speak for the future. It is true that we have had dissension in our party; we do not deny that. But we believe our people are big enough to overcome this pettiness, especially at a time like this when we have a common enemy to combat which demands all the strength that all of us have. Republicans, let us rally to the cause now and stay with it to the end. Failure to win will cost us too much.

KELLER SPOKE TO KIWANIS CLUB

The weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton last Thursday night was of particular interest. Those who attended had the privilege of hearing an address by Prof. James A. Keller, who is superintendent of Education of Covington County.

The speaker's remarks dealt with the subject of schools and education in Alabama, which subject he is eminently able to discuss. From a backwoods boy in Cullman County, Albert Keller has risen to a place among Alabama's foremost educators. There is not a man in the state who has a more practical conception of our school situation and its solution than he.

In addition to Mr. Keller, the Club had the pleasure of entertaining the folling guests at the Thursday night meeting: Rev. W. P. Reeves, Fred Bond, Judge F. Lloyd Tate and Mrs. Billy Smith.

Ten Car Loads Of Flour Each Month

The Taylor Grocery Company Handles Large Quantities of Food Products

When one hears Rowland Taylor talk about the business the Taylor Wholesale Grocery company is doing in terms of car loads of this and that, and so many car loads of certain things a month, it brings the conclusion that business indeed must be much better.

Mr. Taylor stated Tuesday that his house has already sold four car loads of seed oats and has the fifth car on the way to Clanton from Texas. This indicates that farmers of Chilton County must be planning to grow a big crop of oats next year.

The Taylor house is receiving this week their third car load of syrup pails for this season. These pails are being used like hot cakes to take care of the sorghum and sugar cane syrup that is produced here by the thousands of gallons.

But here is the statement that takes the cake, or better say takes the biscuit. Mr. Taylor stated that his wholesale concern sells on an average of eight to ten car loads of flour each month. That means that somebody is buying flour and not depending on the Red Cross.

Two car loads of salt pass through the hands of the Taylors each month. What in the world can folks around here do with two car loads of salt a month? No use to ask that question. Salt is salt, and nothing else.

These are just a few of the big items mentioned by Mr. Taylor in a few minutes conversation. There are hundreds of other commodities being handled in quantities that would be surprising to know. Looks like business must be getting better.

J. D. (LONEY) BARRETT DIED AT HOME IN COOSA COUNTY

Mr. J. D. Barrett, better known as Loney Barrett, age 74 years, died Friday, October 27, at his home in the Providence community, in Coosa county. Burial was at Providence cemetery Saturday, October 28. Funeral services were conducted by Ref. J. D. Hughes, of Verbena. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, the last rites of which were fittingly observed at his burial. Since early life Mr. Barrett had been a loyal member of the Baptist church, and was a devout Christian.

The deceased was one of the prominent cititzens of Coosa County. As one of the original settlers of the Hatchett Creek community, he lived for many years and reared a large family of fifteen children, all of whom survive him but two.

He is also survived by his wife, who, when she married Mr. Barrett, was the widow of Rev. Ben Hughes.

ORPHANS HOME PRODUCE CAR WILL BE HERE NOVEMBER 22-23

The produce car to be loaded and shipped to the Baptist Orphans Home at Troy, will be in Thorsby all day Wednesday, November 22nd. It will be in Clanton all day the following day. All churches are asked to take notice and make arrangements to get their stuff ready and get it to the car on these two days. H. A. Harris has charge of this work for the Unity Asosciation and J. D. Collins, Sr., has charge of it for the Chilton County Association.

No County Papers Before Thursdays

For reasons which we regard as sufficient, The Union-Banner and Chilton County News announce this week that in the future no copies of these papers will be available to the public before Thursday morning of each week.

As in the past, the papers will be delivered to subscribers at all post-offices and on all rural routes in the county on Thursday mornings.

Please do not ask us for copies of the papers on Wednesday afternoon, as will be forced to refuse your request. Thanks.

RED CROSS ASKS FOR 500 MEMBERS

Annual Roll Call Drive Will Begin in Chilton County On Saturday

The annual Red Cross Roll Call for Chilton County will officially open on Armistice Day, November 11th, and continue through Thanksgiving, November 30th, according to Billy Smith, Roll Call Chairman.

Chilton County has been given a quota of 500 memberships this year, and the prospects of reaching this number appears very promising, Billy Smith stated, as committees are being formed to carry out the campaign.

This county is in the foremost number of counties that have secured memberships to the Red Cross, rating seventh place from the top of the list in the state. That itself is a credit to the county.

Meetings will be held this week for workers in the Roll Call, and are to be announced by Billy Smith. Following is the list of those who have been selected as volunteer workers:

Publicity committee, W. M. Wyatt and J. Mell Martin; Group enrollment committee, Bill Barnett, W. M. Bean, J. Z. Mims and Luther E. Little; canvassers for business district in Clanton, Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mrs. Hance Alred, Miss Gladys Williams, Mrs. Julius Burnett and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt.

Special gifts committee, Frank Callen, J. Lee Smith and Dewey Rockett.

House to house workers in Clanton, Mrs. Grady Broadhead and Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer west side; Mrs. S. J. Ezell and Mrs. Dewey Rockett, east side, chairmen; Supply committee for county, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. Luther E. Little and Prof. Warr.

Chairmen of the various departments of workers over the county will be announced later.

Those chairmen of workers in the Beats over the county are, Beat 1, C. B. Cox and Mrs. R. D. Woodson; Beat 2, L. W. Allen and W. R. Clements; Beat 3, Earle Thomas and D. O. Manning; Beat 4, S. M. Devaughn, J. D. Collins, Lee Popwell, J. W. Hamilton and J. L. Smith; Beat 5, John Hollis; Beat 6, C. L. Wilkins and Ed Edwards; Beat 7, W. M. Oden; Beat 8, C. J. Mitchell and W. F. Reynolds.

Beat 9, Perry Gore and Alf Mims; Beat 10, Hugh Taylor and Harrison Smith; Beat 11, W. M. Cleckler; Beat 12, P. M. Martin and Posey Cleckler; Beat 13, B. M. Killingsworth and W. G. Shaw; Beat 14, L. G. Posey and B. F. Rasberry; Beat 15, George Sansam and E. G. Caldwell; Beat 16, Monroe Parrish.

Chilton County owes a debt of gratitude to the national Red Cross. It can be paid by showing up a splendid number of memberships in this year's drive. It must be impressed on everyone that the monies received by the local chapter of the Red Cross does not go to the national headquarters. Only fifty cents from each membership or amount contributed, goes to the national headquarters. The remainder stays in Chilton County, with C. Fenn Jones as treasurer.

Norris Dam Now Being Constructed

Preliminary Survey Made For General Joe Wheeler Dam on Tenn.

Preliminary surveys for the construction of the General Joe Wheeler Dam have been completed by the Tennessee Valley Authority and a small construction camp will be erected on the site, announces Chairman Arthur E. Morgan.

The site of the Wheeler Dam, sometimes referred to as Dam No. 3, is about 15½ miles up the Tennessee River from Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals, Alabama. The Wheeler Dam will be approximately 50 feet high and 6,000 feet—more than a mile—in length. Norris Dam, already under construction on the Clinch River, near Knoxville, will be about 236 feet high and 2,000 feet long.

General Joe Wheeler Dam will provide a reservoir of approximately 100 square miles in area. The Norris Dam reservoir will cover about 83½ square miles. The lake at General Joe Wheeler Dam will extend up the river some 80 miles to Buck Island. Buck Island is about five miles above Guntersville, Alabama.

Navigation locks at the Wheeler Dam are already under construction by army engineers. The War department estimates the cost of this dam, without the power house, to be in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

Construction of the General Joe Wheeler Dam will aid in flood control and navigation, in addition to providing a potential source of power when this is needed by the Authority.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The great need of America is for well balanced, middle of the road, consecrated Christian leadership.

The hardest job in the world is to remain in the middle of the road. This is just as true in the realm of religion as it is in any other realm. Someone has said that the road to heaven is walled in on one side by rationalism and on the other side by fanaticism.

God gave us our hearts and our heads. We should use both. If we overdevelop the head and underdevelop the heart, we become cold and cruel. If we overdevelop the heart and underdevelop the head, we become emotional and fanatical.

When Jesus was here he was condemned by both the Pharasees and the Sadducees. The Pharasees were the orthodox people and the Saddesees were the rationalists. Hair splitting orthodoxy and cold blooded rationalism united in persecuting Jesus.

A number of the students who attend the Bob Jones College are preparing for the ministry. I am always trying to get the idea over to them that if they keep their hearts warm while they are developing intellectually, they will be successful ministers.

Paul was a scholar. He had a trained mind but he had a heart so warm and fervent that he said he would be willing to be accursed for the salvation of his brethren. Jesus thought clearly always. The world wondered how He knew letters never having learned. But the heart of Jesus was so tender that He took babies in His arms. He wept with brokenhearted women at the grave of their brother. His heart was so tender that it broke on the cross.

Loved ones need you!

—you dare not fail them

IS YOUR appetite poor? If you tire easily what does it mean? . . . and how can you correct it? Do you lack resistance to infectious diseases—pimples and boils . . . what does this indicate?

These are symptoms which often harass run-down, anemic persons. It is in these complaints that S.S.S. is very useful.

Modern medical research stresses the need of building up, frequently, the blood's red-cells and their hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) content. The reason of this is that hemo-glo-bin carries oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin.

Don't take chances. Infectious diseases strike without warning. Loved ones need you! You dare not fail them. Keep up your strength and resistance thru the blood.

Farmer's Conference On 17th

The eighth annual negro farmer's conference convenes Friday, November 17th. The general subject of discussion will be the "Problems of Management" on the the farms. Many able speakers have consented to participate on the program of the day. Among the speakers are Mr. Earle Thomas, teacher of vocational agriculture, at Isabella High school; Mr. J. P. Montgomery, Jemison High School, and Dr. Fred D. Patterson, director of agriculture, Tuskeegee Institute.

It is a fact that this very problem has been the undoing of many a would-be farmer. Nothing should stand between the farmer and a better understanding of management. The time he spends out here Friday, the 17th, is sure to prove beneficial.

Special prizes will be offered for the best exhibits. As in other years, a big prize will be given the person who has the largest number of different farm products on exhibition. Anything made, raised, or grown on hte farm, may be exhibited. All exhibitions must be brought Thursday, November 16th, so that nothing will keep the program from going forward at 10 a.m. sharp.

Some Corn

You talk about corn, but this fellow Matthew Chatmman made it this year. I said, not long ago, that Richard Turpin made more per acre but Chatman had him beat as a whole. On 20 acres that followed winter legumes Chatman made 800 bushels. Don't ask me, I asked Mr. McCain. Go over to see Chatman, maybe he can give you a few suggestions as to how you may do the same thing.

Parents-Teachers Association

Continuing our membership drive, the local P.-T. A. held one of the best meetings ever witnessed last Friday. In the meeting two weeks ago the principal asked five persons to visit the school before the next meeting and report everything, good, bad, or indifferent that was seen while there. This report was made last Friday. You should have heard them. The conclusion was that every parent should visit the school.—Benj. Anderson.

1st Mother—I'll say this much for the last war.

2nd Mother—What is it?

1st Mother—It didn't last long after my boy got into it.

Lesson for November 12

PAUL IN MACEDONIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:9-15, 25-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. Acts 16:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Happy Preacher.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ambassadors for the King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding and Following God's Way.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel and World Peace.

I. Forbidden to Preach In Asia (vv. 6-8).

The inclination of the missionaries was to tarry in Asia Minor, preaching the Word, but they were hurried along, contrary to this inclination—a fine example of divine guidance. The Holy Spirit is just as active and faithful in closing doors as in opening them. "The stops as well as the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord."

II. The Call to Macedonia (vv. 9-12).

The time had now come for the gospel to begin its conquest of another continent. The crossing of the gospel from Asia to Europe determined the entire history of the church. Instead of being an oriental movement, it became mainly occidental.

2. The vision (v. 9). Paul being hemmed in on all sides, experienced a vision of a man of Macedonia pleading for help. This made clear the meaning of the closed doors about him.

2. The advance (vv. 10-12). As soon as the divine way was known they moved forward.

III. The First European Convert (vv. 13-15).

The Jewish element in Philippi was so small that they were unable to afford a synagogue. Therefore, the devout people were accustomed to worship by the river side. To this humble gathering Paul came and preached. Lydia, a business woman of Thyatira, believed his message and was baptized. The steps in her conversion were strikingly typical—

1. Attendance at the place of worship (v. 13). Usually those whom God is calling are found in the place of prayer.

2. Listening to the preaching of the Word of God (vv. 13, 14). The instrument used in the conversion of sinners is God's Word. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17).

3. Her heart was opened by the Lord (v. 14). When the gospel is preached the Spirit of God opens the sinner's heart for the reception of Christ.

4. She was baptized (v. 15). Confession of Christ in baptism is the natural desire of those whose hearts the Lord has opened.

5. Hospitality practiced (v.15). Those who experience God's saving grace are disposed to have part in his work by aiding his ministers.

IV. Paul and Silas In a Roman Prison (vv. 16-40).

1. The occasion (vv. 16-24). As the missionaries went to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young woman who possessed a spirit of divination. In the name of Jesus Christ. Paul commanded the evil spirit to come out of her. With the casting out of this evil spirit went the supernatural power which was a source of revenue to the syndicate of men who owned her. This so enraged her owners that they brought Paul and Silas before the magistrates on a false charge. Without opportunity to defend themselves Paul and Silas were stripped, beaten by the angry mob, remanded to jail, and were made fast by stocks in the inner prison.

2. Their behavior in jail (v. 25). They prayed and sang hymns to God. In spite of circumstances their hearts went up to God in joyful gratitude.

3. Their deliverance (v. 26). The Lord wrought deliverance by sending a great earthquake which opened the prison doors and removed the chains from off their hands.

4. The conversion of the jailer (vv. 27-34). What he heard of Paul's preaching and through his present experience, made the jailer a humble inquirer after salvation. Paul clearly pointed out the way of salvation.

5. The magistrates humbled (vv. 35-40).

a. The prisoners ordered released (vv. 35, 36). The earthquake produced fear in them, moving them to order the prisoners' release.

b. Paul's refusal to go (v. 3). The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated.

c. Officially brought out of prison (vv. 38, 39). Because these were Roman citizens, the officers removed them with fear for what they had done.

Power

When a man receives the Lord Jesus Christ he is to realize that he also receives the power of God to pass through all his being, and to be exhibited in the world for the glory of God and for the salvation of others.

Never Mind How Many!

It is fatal to all courage and energy to begin with counting our foes, instead of realizing the strength of our ally. Greater is he that is for us than they that are against us.—Dr. Alexander Maclaren.

Mr. Doy Gardner of Mobile, was in Clanton Monday on business.

OWENS FAMILY REUNION

On Sunday, October 29, the children, relatives and friends of Mrs. E. B. Owens gathered at the home of E. B. Owens, nine miles southwest of Clanton, to celebrate her 71st birthday. At 11 o'clock many useful gifts were given, after which a bountiful dinner was spread. The table was centered with a beautiful cake, bearing 71 candles.

There were sixty-eight present; ten children and 27 grand-children. All were present except one grandson, Mr. Charles Deason, of Wetumpka.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deason and children of Wetumpka, Mrs. Velma Carroll, Curtis, Mary Sue and Julius, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Owens and children of Cross Roads, John, Will, Mary Dean, Evelyn and Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. George Owens and children, Delene, Sheldon, Charles, James, Jettie Merle and Ray of New Cedron; Mr. and Mrs. Jean Mims and children, Christine, Mitchlene, Raymond, Ross, and Sarah, of Enterprise; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Owen and children, Woodrow, Annie Maude, and Bennie, of Bethsalem; Miss Ida Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Owens and little daughter, Louise; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Owens and children, Junior, Billie and S. A.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Owens; Mr. J. R. Owens and daughter, Esther; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Billingsley of Fairview; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Billingsley of Bethsalem; Mrs. Smith and daughter, Parrie Bee; Mrs. Bertha Tate and nephew, of Selma; Mr. and Mrs. Farley Mims and four children of Clanton; Mr. Leonard Henley of Fairview; Miss Elaine Deason of Enterprise; Mr. Clayton Puckett of New Cedron; Mr. Roy Dobbs, Mr. Oscar Baker and Mr. Jack Baker, all of Shiloh; Mr. Newt Driver of Highland.

The day was enjoyed by all who attended. They departed to their homes at a late hour, all wishing Mrs. Owens many more happy birthdays.

HOW WOOD PETRIFIES

Q.—How does wood become petrified?

A.—Petrified wood consists of plant remains in which the body tissue has been replaced by mineral matter. Petrification is produced by the infilteration of water containing dissolved mineral matter as calcium, carbonate, silica, etc., which replaces the organic material, particle by particle, sometimes with original structure retained. It takes thousands of years for wood to petrify.

LUMBER CODE REGULATIONS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 7.—In order to secure 100 per cent compliance with the lumber code in the Southern Pine Division and to cooperate to the fullest extent with President Roosevelt and the administration in their efforts to increase employment and purchasing power under the national recovery act, H. C. Bercks, secretary-manager of the Southern Pine Association, administrative agency of the code in the division, today issued the following statement to the press concerning the code's requirements as to minimum wages and maximum hours of labor in the Southern Pine industry:

Under the lumber code, which is now federal law, all Southern pine manufacturers must not pay less than the minimum wage of 24 cents per hour to any employee, and must not work any employee in such operations more than 40 hours in any one week, excepting night watchmen, Firemen and repair crews, who shall be paid time and one-half for every hour they work more than 40 hours in any one week. Executives, supervisory and traveling sales forces and camp cooks are exempt from the maximum working hours provisions of the code.

These requirements of the code as to minimum wages and maximum hours apply equally to all producers of Southern pine logs, poles and piling, sawn lumber and products of planing mills operated in conjunction with sawmills, shingles, lath, boxes and crates. No local or state board or committee of the NRA or President's Reemployment Agreement, or any other person or organization, has authority to grant exceptions to or exemptions from any requirement of the lumber code.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Health of this community is fine at present.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are improving, which we are hoping will continue. A fine program was rendered Sunday night by Group No. 2. The subject was "Motives in Church work." The subject for next Sunday night is "Young Womanhood at the Feet of Jesus." This is going to be an all girls program. We are hoping that this will be one of the best programs that has been rendered at this place. The names below are those who are on program Sunday night, "Jesus and Women" discussed by Mrs. Bertha Mitchell; "The Bethany Home," by Mrs. Reuben Devaughn; "Learning at the Feet of Jesus," by Mrs. Lillie Wilson; "Worshiping at the Feet of Jesus," by Evelyn Downs. Come and bring someone with you, for we welcome you at any time.

Remember the teachers training school started at this place Monday night, November 6th. Bro. Robinson of Birmingham is doing the teaching. We welcome those from other churches who wish to take the course. Come on and at the close you will say your time was well spent.

Mr. Cecil Dennis was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Davis Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Martin and children, May Earl and Willodean, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sandlin and baby, Clara May, and Mr. and Mrs. Kern Sandlin and baby, Billy James, visited Mr. and Mrs. Billie Sandlin Sunday.

Messrs. Arthur and Evan Mitchell spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Mr. Cecil Wilson was the guest of Mr. Evan Mitchell Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Oliver Glenn spent Friday night with Messrs. Audie and Phillip Brown.

Mrs. Reuben Devaughn spent a few days of last week with her mother, Mrs. Allen Brown.

Mr. Ernest Wilson was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. Lee Mitchell.

Several from here attended the singing at Mt. Pisgah Sunday.

Miss Lillie May Davis spent Thursday night with her cousins, Misses Jessie and Pearl Davis.

Mrs. Will Davis and children, Lillie May, Ruby, and Lester, spent Saturday night with her brother, Mr. Floyd Little near Lomax.

Miss Lera Mae Mitchell and Mr. Alton Harris visited Mr. and Mrs. Orville Popwell, near Lock 12, Sunday afternoon.

Come to Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. Sunday, and bring someone with you, for we need you and your help. You must not stay at home if it is cold. If everybody stayed at home because it's beginning to be cold weather, there would not be any services at all. Don't say, "Well, there isn't any use of going to Sunday school or B. Y. P. U. today, or tonight, because there won't be anyone there." If everybody says that there won't be anyone there. Instead let's all say, "I am going to church today whether anyone else goes or not." If we will all say that we will have a real large crowd each time. Sunday school at 10 and B. Y. P. U. at 6 o'clock.

GOOD SINGING AT CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH LAST SUNDAY

The local singing society held its regular meeting Sunday, November 5, with a large crowd of singers and listeners attending. The singing was handicapped because of the lack of proper books, although a number of spirited songs were directed from the church books. It was decided to sell 25 of the church books to another church and use the money in purchasing 25 of the Stamps books. We will have them for our next meeting which will be on November 19th. Everybody is invited to come and be with us and especially a few more directors. We have a crowd of little folks anyone would enjoy leading in singing.

Several visitors were with us last Sunday. We were glad to have them and want them to be back with us next time.—Yours very truly, W. W. Allen, Secretary.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, relatives and neighbors for their help, kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear little son and grandson, Jimmie Lee.

We especially thank Dr. Hayes. We feel he did all he could. He was just one of God's little angels and God saw fit to take him, but oh, how we do miss him. We also thank the nurses at the hospital for their kindness. We appreciate the beautiful floral offerings. May God bless everyone, is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. Mack Connell and Mr. and Mrs. R.

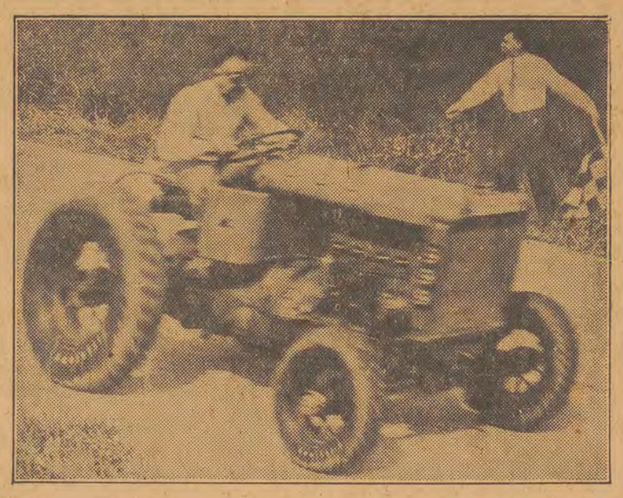
Air-Tired Tractor Sets Record of 68.28 m.p.h.



The practical value of air-tired tractors on the highway was demonstrated by an official A.A.A. record at 64.28 miles per hour established at Dallas, Tex., Oct. 17. The record was made by an Allis-Chalmers tractor equipped with Firestone Low-Pressure Tractor Tires and driven by Barney Oldfield. Since Firestone led the development and demonstration of these tires they have proven increased efficiency in the various farm operations—economy of fuel, lower tractor maintenance, saving of time, greater comfort—and make the farm tractor an all-purpose machine.

FARM ORCHARDS PROFITABLE

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 7.—Every farm in Alabama should have a home orchard for production of wholesome fruit that is so essential to good health, says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at Auburn.

"Many farm families," he explained, "are now enjoying the harvests from such orchards, but too many have neglected this important phase of farm activity."

According to Mr. Brown, Alabama is particularly fortunate in having a climatic condition suitable to the production of a wide assortment of fruit.

A desirable orchard planting should consist of a wide assortment in order to have fruits from early spring until late fall. In practically all sections of the state fresh fruits can be had from April to December. By properly drying and conserving the surplus, an abundance may be had throughout the year.

"Far too many home orchards are limited to peaches and apples. Many of the smaller fruits, such as grapes, both bunch and muscadine, berries, including strawberries, dewberries, and blackberries, figs and plums, should be planted to extend the harvest period. These small fruits can be grown more easily and require practically no pruning or spraying for quality production.

"Proper selection of fruits, good soil, and proper care are essential.

"Now is the time to begin planning for that home orchard. The trees should be set as early during the winter as possible. Selection of fruits and varieties and the area on which the planting is to be made should be attended to now. The reduced acreage to be planted to cotton provides an excellent opportunity for every farmer to plant about one acre of such land to fruits to supply home needs. Details concerning this plan will be announced within the next few days."

ORANGES PRESERVED WITH A COATING OF PARAFFIN

Oranges which have been dipped in paraffin to retain their freshness are one of the most recent accomplishments in the food marketing field. This method of bringing the fresh fruit to the table makes it possible for us to receive oranges which have been tree-ripened to ruddy perfection. And, in addition to retaining their freshness, oranges so treated are preserved from deterioration and contamination.

When the oranges reach their destination the paraffin skins are peeled off and the tree-ripened fruit is ready for use. What is more the paraffin process is liable to lower the price of oranges in eastern markets.

Report has it that this same process may soon be tried on lemons, limes, grapefruit and cantaloupe. If the experiment proves successful, our menus will then be enriched by the fruits which retain their full, fresh-picked flavor.

WORLD COTTON CONSUMPTION

World consumption of American cotton declined from August to September but it continued to run above last year, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service. The decrease from August was due entirely to a reduction of mill activity in the United States.

World spinning of American cotton in September is estimated by the exchange service at 1,193,000 bales, compared with 1,262,000 in August and 1,168,000 in September last year. Total consumption in August and September, the first two months of the season, aggregated 2,455,000 bales as compared with 2,235,000 last season. Domestic consumption declined from 572,000 bales in August to 487,000 in September, a decrease of 85,000 bales. Foreign consumption, however, increased 16,000 bales.

"EAT MORE HONEY" SAYS NUTRITIONIST

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 7.—Honey should have a more important place in the family diet because it is high in energy value, is palatable, and is easily assimilated, says Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"Formerly honey was considered a luxury but today it is relatively inexpensive and is being used more and more," she added. The twentieth century homemaker is using honey in her breakfast combinations, is dressing her luncheon salads with honey, is baking her ham for that company dinner with honey, and is surprising her evening guests with flavorful honey-nut sandwiches and delicious, crunchy, honey-cornflake maroons.

"Honey consists chiefly of a mixture of sugars. It is valued natural carbohydrate food of high calory content. Honey contains small amounts of mineral used in building and maintaining body structures."

According to a government publication, "honey is on of the best of the high-energy producing foods. Because it is composed almost entirely of simple sugars, it can be assimilated with ease. It is important where normal digestive activities have been impaired by disease or old age. Honey can be utlized by the body without placing much of a burden on an enfeebled dibestive tract and is also recognized as a valuable food for babies and young children."

STOCK SALE AT MAPLESVILLE

Maplesville is looking forward to a banner day, at its first big live stock sale, Friday, November 17, at 10:30. The sale will be held on the Potts Estate, just 1½ miles out of the city, on the main Clanton highway. A big arrow pointing to the grounds will direct those not fimiliar in this county.

Plenty of cattle, hogs, horses and mules will be offered, and the best pair of well broke steers you can find. Also will sell implements and furniture. The ladies will have their opportunity to bid too, several pretty spreads and scarfs will be sold.

The sale starts at 10:30 sharp, but come early and inspect the stock, as the grounds will be open from 6 a.m. until the stock goes to sale.

A few minutes will be taken at noon for the auctioneers to get a bite and all that are hungry can get real old fashion barbecue pork or beef as well as plenty of cold drinks.

Jesse C. Jones, who was carried to Birmingham and remained in South Highlands hospital for two weeks, with Typhus fever, was brought home Friday of last week. He is not well by any means, but is said to be gradually overcoming the effects of the peculiar malady. It seems that Typhus fever is a hard problem for the medical profession; they merely have to let nature do the curing, where the patient is sufficiently strong to counteract the deadly germs causing the disease.

An evelen-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lonza Robinson Monday of this week.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 7.—The 1933 hunting season has just opened, yet hunting accidents already have taken one life and resulted in the serious wounding of a hunter. Two other accidents, hardly within the scope of outdoor sport, have occured, one ending fatally.

In addition to impressing upon hunters the value of the "dozen don'ts" in handling firearms each year, the state game and fisheries department also keeps an accurate check on hunting accidents through its staff of district wardens.

Warden C. V. Hines reported that A. Watson, 32, Brewton, was fatally shot on October 24 while hunting deer with a party of friends in Escambia County.

A report from Wardens D. F. Odom and W. O. Williams state that H. D. Hall, of Slocumb, suffered the loss of his left hand when his gun was accidentally discharged while he was attempting to climb a fence during a hunt in Geneva County.

Warden A. Z. Oberhaus of Mobile, reported that M. G. Wilkins, who leases several thousand acres for trapping and hunting near Bayou Sara, received a charge from a shotgun in the face on the night of October 18 after he had pulled over to the edge of a woods to investigate a motorboat party coming downstream.

The warden said Wilkins attempted to extinguish his light but when it flickered, the shot was fired from the motorboat. Oberhaus said the man that did the shooting stated he "thought it was a varmint."

Melvin Dobbs, 30, of Bessemer, received a head injury that proved fatal when he was struck by a falling snag while fishing from a motorboat in the Warrior river. This accident occured on October 5, Wardens Ted Cotterel and Marvin Whatley reported, while a crew was shooting snags near Taylor's ferry.

Commissioner I. T. Quinn again urges hunters to take precautions against accidents and remember the "dozen don'ts" two of the most important being, "Never climb a fence with a loaded gun," and "Never shoot at a question mark—it might be a man."

NEW STATE PARK CAMPS ARE NOW IN OPERATION

Montgomery, Ala. Nov. 7. — Three companies of the Civilian Conservation Corps, consisting in all of approximately 550 workers, have been transferred from other regions of the United States to work in Alabama's state parks through the winter months, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. The camps were established late in October with a small number of enrolled men from the Northwest, and were brought up to normal strength through the arrival of replacements from the Second Corps Area on November 1 and 2.

Development of state parks is included in the President reforestation program in connection with unemployment relief. This branch of the work is administered from Washington by the Secretary of the Interior through the national park service. While Alabama has more state parks than the other southeastern states, no funds have been appropriated by the state in their interest and, prior to the organization of the Emergency conservation work, plans for their development could not be carried out. One State park conservation work camp was established last July in Geneva County on the Geneva state park near Hacoda, and the interest of the public in this project was so widespread that Colonel Bunker, who is in charge of state parks, took immediate steps to have more of such camps allotted to Alabama.

The new camps are located respectively in Talladega County near Munford, in Monroe County near Uriah and in Coosa County near Weogufka. To date the total area of the four state parks under such development amounts to 5,280 acres, eighty per cent of which was donated by public spirited landowners. Other existing state parks located in various sections of Alabama will be improved by the C. C. C. workers from forest E. C. W. camps in their immediate vicinities. It is evident that the values accruing to Alabama through this branch of the President's program would not have been realized for many years under normal circumstances.

POPLAR SPRINGS CLUB

The ladies of Poplar Springs Club met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Parrish on November 3rd. The club elected Mrs. Gertie Jones for vice president. Six members were added to the club, making a total of twenty members. Miss Ruth Pardue made a splendid talk on correct poultry. We also discussed remodeling old clothes. Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. N. A. Jones.—Mrs. J. K. Miller, reporter.

Superintendent Luther E. Little made a business trip to Montgomery Tuesday.

JACKSON CHAPEL

There was preaching here Sunday morning by Rev. W. H. Wilson. There will be preaching here again next Sunday at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. T. Daniel. Rev. William E. Robinson will preach Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to hear them.

There was a fine singing here last Sunday afternoon. Fonza Cleckler was chairman, and the following directed: O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Lillie Mae Weldon, Morris Cleckler, Ludelia Cleckler, Martel Blankenship, Mary Will Smith, Floyd Little, Rev. M. Lockhart, Johnnie Miner. L. T. Grant and O. L. DeDevaughn were called on the second time to direct, using the new Stamps books. The Liberty Hill quartet sung three special numbers.

The evening's service was closed with prayer by Rev. M. Lockhart.—V. G. Smith.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are still progressing nicely. We did not have quite as many as usual last Sunday morning. Probably this was due to the weather. We hope for a larger crowd next Sunday.

Next Sunday night the program in B. Y. P. U. will be, "Young Womanhood at the feet of Jesus." The captain of group No. 2 will have charge of the program. This will be an all girl program. Girls will be on the program and also have charge of the singing at the B. Y. P. U. hour. This should be very interesting.

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock the singing society will hold its first meeting at this place. It is hoped to have a good class as well as lots of listeners.

Thursday evening at 6:30 the Sunday school study class will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Jones.

Everybody always has an invitation to come to Poplar Springs and will always find a welcome.

What...RENT Hot Water for the Baby's Bath?

TIMES have certainly changed since your mother's day! You don't have to heat water on the stove for baby's bath—as your mother did for you. You don't have to wait a minute for it, thanks to modern electric water heaters. And, better still, you don't even have to buy an electric heater to have this wonderful convenience this winter, if you take advantage of our new—

Electric Stove and Heater

which is proving so popular with modern houswives in every section of Alabama. This Rental Plan makes it possible for you to rent a famous Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Electric Range or a Hot Point Automatic Electric Heater (either or both!) for a dollar or so a month. There is no obligation to buy; but if you should decide to do so, most of the money you have paid as rent can be applied to the purchase price.

Read the details of this amazing Rental Plan. Then phone or call at our office for your stove or heater at once!

Inquire of Us, or Ask Your Dealer

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Use More Electricity. . .
It Costs Less

Details of the RENTAL PLAN

PICK out a stove or heater. We will deliver it free. You pay only $2.00 a month rental on the stove. And $1.45 a month rental on the heater. Both of these monthly rentals get less each year for 5 years. If you should decide to buy the stove or heater, or both, at any future time, most of the money you have paid as rent will be credited to you on the purchase cost. This is a simple, straightforward offer, with no "strings" tied to it in any manner. If it interests you, we suggest that you take advantage of it at once, as only a limited number of stoves and ranges can be used for this purpose.

INK DROPS

from
COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

"The man who reaches the top is the one who is not content with doing just what is required of him. He does more."—Harriman.

Don't do just enough to get by. Anyone con do that, but do a little more than is required of you. In school, on the football field, in programs, in plays, in your business, in anything you take part in, do more than just what is required. No harm will ever come of this. You will always be ahead of the other fellow and you will always have the respect of your superiors. Some of us wait for the bell, Sunday and seventy." That's one of the reasons, if not THE reason for some disappointed students last month.

The Senior Class, with Miss Frances Gulledge as class sponsor, had as their guests all the Senior mothers on Tuesday of this week. This was a kind of a good-will meeting to arouse more school spirit among the parents. The mothers of the members of the Senior Class were given an opportunity to meet the teachers and discuss their children with them. This was a very successful meeting and it is expected that the students and their parents will now display that shut-in school spirit and do their part toward a prosperous and profitable school year.

On account of the lack of time the writer does not have a chance to see every home room teacher for news. He requests that each home room teacher would please see that all articles of interest concerning their home room are given to him before Monday afternoon of each week. This will enable him to present more news of the activities of the students to the public.

The Senior II Class, with Miss Margaret Kendrick, class advisor, elected the class officers for the oncoming year. These officers are as follows: President, Phillip Nelson; vice president, Sidney Reynolds; secretary and treasurer, Earl Gray. Hats off to these officers. The class made some wise selections.

At the joint meeting of the Senior Class mothers and the several members of the faculty, the officers of the Senior class took part in a brief program. John Ezell, president of the class, in a nice talk thanked the mothers for their interest which brought them. Jeanett Tiffin, vice president, in a brief speech, outlined the plays of the Senior Class for the year 1933-34, and Pauline Plyler, secretary and treasurer, discussed the purpose of the P.-T. A., and urged those who were not members to join.

Here comes the Jr. I with their class officers. Their president this year will be Sidney Nelson, the vice president will be Theda Wyatt and Ed Goodgame is secretary and treasurer. Miss Josephine Martin is their class sponsor.

The class officers of the Jr. II class, with Miss Sarah Colley as class advisor are; president, Demar McEathern; vice president, ? ? ? ? ? ?, and secretary and treasurer, Myrtle Lee Johnson.

This week the writer will give a brief biography of another member of our faculty, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, teacher of English, home economics and girl's basketball coach. Miss Griffin is the home room sponsor of the Senior I class. Miss Griffin was born in Lower Peachtree, Alabama, on February 16, 1910, to J. D. Griffin and Mary Lou Whittle. She finished her high school course at Marbury in the year 1926, at the young age of 16. Miss Griffin desired to broaden her education and better fit herself to life and studied at State Teacher's College at Troy, and at the University of Alabama. In the year 1934 she will be awarded her A.B. degree from the University. Miss Griffin has taught schools for several years. Isabella High, Cooper Jr. High and Culp have shared her ability as a teacher, and she left these places with an everlasting welcome awaiting her return. This is the third year that she has been teaching at C.C. H.S., and during these three years she has won the love of all her students, all her basket ball girls and others. Also she has deserved and won the respect and approval of all her fellow teachers. In college Miss Griffin showered her most interest in English, science and sociology. She has a major in English and minors in sociology and science.

Last Thursday Chilton County High was honored by a visit of three distinguished men. Dr. S. J. Ezell, accompanied by Dr. W. P. Reeves, who is conducting the revial at the Baptist church and Mr. Fred Bond who is leading the singing, were our guests at the eight o'clock period. Dr. Reeves gave an inspirational and very interesting talk which no doubt did a lots of good to the student body. He urged us to study, to grasp every opportunity and not to forget God in our youth. Mr. Bond entertained us with his talented singing which was greatly enjoyed by all. We thank these three men for showing their interest in us young people by coming and paying us a visit, and they will always find a welcome for them at any time they wish to come .

Winchell Whisperings: Several students were puzzled over who "a certain student" mentioned in this column last week was. One of the group will be surprised (maybe) when she learns she was reading about herself. . . . Where is our "Red Quartet"? They need those flaming red dresses to keep warm this cold weather and to awaken some—oh well. . . . A certain girl almost ruined her "opportunity" in the post office last Friday. . . . The writer was surprised very much at something he saw in a certain afternoon class between a Junior and a Senior. Pardon me, that is her business not mine. . . . These distinguished Seniors can really write notes and how! Ask a certain girl. She was mentioned last week, too. (It's not me). . . . These girls really talk about their fellows and other boys when they get together, and THINK no one is listening. Was my face red? . . . How would you like to know some of this lowdown?

We really do have a football team. Our boys held the highly touted and powerful Bibb County eleven to a score of 8 to 6 in their favor. Chilton scored in the first quarter, while Bibb did not make her touchdown until the third quarter. It was only through a tough break that Bibb won the game. Our punt was blocked behind our goal and recovered by one of our men. This gave Bibb 2 points. And everywhere you go you hear comments on what a good game Joe Moore played at right end and he deserved those comments too, because he really played last Friday. "Gabby" Tiffin tossed one of his famous passes to Sidney Reynolds and "Sid" crossed the goal line for our touchdown. Good work, boys. Play that good against Montevallo tomorrow and we will add another victory to our list.

ODD --- BUT TRUE

Annie Cordelia Smith

Tell the truth at all times. It is cowardly not to tell the truth. When a wrong has been committed, you make it easier for everyone concerned by telling the truth. Live the truth in your dealings with your teachers and your fellow students.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade girl in honor of Armistice Day, November 11:

Armistice Day

November 11, fifteen years ago
Our soldier boys were told they might go.
But not at once could they come
First a few, then later, some.
Far across the ocean wave
Came word for mothers to be brave.
Our hearts, in thanks, to God we raise
For peace in these, our childhood days.

—OPHIE LEE JONES.

Following is our enrollment for the month of October:

Miss Morris, 55; Mrs. Gandy, 38; Mrs. Martin, 23; Miss Sherwood, 28; Mrs. Burnett, 27; Miss Williams, 37; Miss Campbell, 50; Mrs. Thomas, 59; Miss Thomas, 51.

The percentage of attendance for each grade is as follows:

Miss Morris, 89.1; Mrs. Gandy, 87; Mrs. Martin, 88; Miss Sherwood, 93; Mrs. Burnett, 100; Miss Campbell, 69; Mrs. Thomas, 96.7; Miss Thomas, 93.3.

This poem was composed by a sixth grade boy in his study of language:

The Old Water Mill

By the old mill stream where the mill used to stand,
Just above where we boys used to play,
We shouted and laughed like the sound of a band
As we happily gathered each day.
The ox carts came rumbling down the long hill
With laughter and joy from all sides,
We gathered and watched from the low window sill
And gazed in the stream's sunny tide.
'Twas here the old miller stayed day after day
As he ground and worked with his meal,
But gladly on every seventh day
To his home on the hill he'd steal.
Now many's the day when I was young
That I visited the old gray mill
Just as my daddy before me had sung
The same songs as he climbed the hill.
Now I'm the miller who has the mill
And I watch the water as it rushes the wheel
Of the mill at the foot of that hill
And grinds the pretty golden meal.

We also express our thanks to Mr. Martin, who had charge of Bill's body. May God shed his richest blessing upon you all.—Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powell and family.

"SO THIS IS AFRICA"

A herd of seventy-five cows gazed contentedly across a meadow near Los Angeles near a Columbia Studio sound truck, which was recording the comic dialogue of the latest Wheeler-Woolsey comedy, "So This is Africa!" directed by Eddie Cline, and which will show at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday night, November 10.

Suddenly the cows and the company both were startled by a burst of flame and crackling of wood that shot up on a mountainside 500 yards away. A forest fire had grown suddenly avid for more than just the underbrush at which it had been nibbling quietly for two hours.

The cows shuffled away in confusion and fear, the company stopped working—Bob Woolsey reached instinctively for a bucket of water, and Eddie Cline began looking for Wheeler, who has a habit of sleeping between scenes on a cot off-stage. Wheeler couldn't be found.

Ten minutes later he shuffled onto the set in his strange costume of long nightshirt and hiking boots which he wears when he and his comedian partner, Woolsey, invade the darkest reaches of Africa.

"Hey, Wheeler," Cline greeted him, "there's a forest fire over there. Go put it out."

Wheeler sleepily but obediently picked up another bucket of water and walked toward a great cloud of smoke off to one side of the set. He doused the cloud of smoke, and when the atmosphere cleared there was discovered a bedraggled and sorry Bob Woolsey, holding in his mouth a now extinguished rope-like cigar which he had sent forth the billows Wheeler mistook for the forest fire.

In the excellent cast supporting the starring roles of Wheeler and Woolsey are Raquel Torres, an Amazon woman who captures Wheeler and takes him away to her tree-hut, Esther Muir, Henry Armetta, Eddie Clayton, 100 Amazon women and 100 Tarzans. "So This is Africa!" a travesty on all Tarzan pictures, was written by Norman Krasna.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gillespie, who have been living with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Jones, have moved into the house with Mrs. Tom Parrish.

PRODUCTION ALLOTMENTS FOR LUMBER TO BE MADE

New Orleans, La. Nov. 7.—Formal notice that Southern Pine production allotments to individual mills for December will be allocated the latter part of November, was sent out today by the Southern Pine Association, administrative agency of the lumber code in the Southern Pine Division. This notice was mailed to all known manufacturers of Southern Pine in the 17 producing states, H. C. Bercks secretary-manager stated.

Under the lumber code, the association points out, every manufacturer desiring to operate during December is required to register his application for a production quota with the Association on or before November 20. December production allotments, it is stated, will be made only to those mills which have their requests on file in the Association's office at New Orleans within the time limit specified, and any operation without registration and granting of an allotment will be considered in violation of the lumber code and subject to the penalties provided in the National Recovery Act.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Everybody is about through gathering. Some few lack their corn and velvet beans. Winter will soon be here.

The crowd at Sunday school was small Sunday owing to the rain. But we had our Sunday school just the same.

There were not very many at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. We were glad to have Mr. Charlie Childress and the Misses Willie C. Clements, Lucile Merchant and Mildred Yarbrough of Pleasant Grove with us. Come again.

Several from here went to Oak Grove Sunday afternoon to the singing. They said it was fine.

The singing at Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb's Wednesday night was well attended by Center Hill and Mars Hill folks. Also some from other places. Mrs. W. C. Erwin and daughter, Miss Lois, and sons, Eugene and Earl, of Calera, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lenoir, east of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott and Mr. George Thornbro spent the week end in Birmingham visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thornbro.

We are glad to see Mr. Herbert Watson back. He has been attending school at Goodwater, but on the account of the ill health of his mother he has returned home and will enter Jemison High School.

Miss Addie Collum spent the week end in Jemison with Miss Vonzell Atkinson.

Misses Gladys Cobb and Iva Campbell spent Thursday night with Miss Mable Cobb.

Mrs. B. O. Lowery and children, Dane and Delton, of Providence, spent Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb. She also visited her aunt, Mrs. V. T. Cobb, who is on the sick list.

Mr. Leo Cobb carried a truck load of Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. members to Eanon Sunday night, where they put on a program. He reported that it was fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudy Scott are moving in the house with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott, between here and Mars Hill.

Even if we are off the gold standard the Golden Rule has not been repealed, although a lot of folks seem to think it has.

Now that Adolph Hitler has left the League of Nations we suggest that the League sing, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?"

A California man filed suit for divorce because his wife served him nothing but bacon and eggs. Some men don't know when they are well off.

A woman writing to the editor of a Washington paper wants to know how she can escape being hit by an automobile. That's easy. Stay on the front porch.

After fourteen years the League of Nations has failed to measure up to what was expected of it. It has now lost Japan and Germany and of the great powers all that remain affiliated with it are Great Britain, France and Italy. As a guarantor of world peace the League has been shown to be impotent. The decision of the American people was to hold the United States aloof from it and events have demonsrated that this was the part of wisdom.

Get Him Out

The action of Germany in withdrawing from the League of Nations and the arms reduction parley is grave in the extreme. Conditions for a new European war are more alarming than they were in 1914, and it behooves us as a nation to be very careful as to what commitments we make.

One of the most astonishing diplomatic misfits is the roaming around of one Norman H. Davis, "ambassador at large," whatever that is, who is taking sides with England and France as to what extent Germany should be permitted to re-arm. The American people have not delegated any such authority to any person, and if Mr. Roosevelt is wise he will recall this man Davis and keep out of any meddling with European military affairs.

If there is a new war in Europe the United States should have learned by this time not to get mixed in it unless we are absolutely threatened by one of the belligerent powers. We sent millions of men to Europe only a short time ago to straighten out their affairs. Fortunately Germany collapsed before we lost many of the boys. Financially, however, we were raided to the unwales. About $22,000,000,000 war costs were saddled on to the American public, which has not recovered from the staggering blow yet. Presumably Europe is going to pay us about half of that sum in war debts, but Europe's credit is no good any more.

Isolation may not be the modern idea and it may not be in the teachings of college professors, but practically it will be the only thing for us to embrace if there is another European conflagration. We simply have not the means nor the men to put into another crusade "to make the world safe for democracy."

Get Davis out of this dangerous and unauthorized confab and send him home where he belongs. It is not up to us to mix in national squabbles 3,000 miles away. The sooner we get back to George Washington's doctrine of "no foreign entanglements" the better off we shall be.—Boone, (Ia) News Republican.

The Retail Code

The much discussed and debated NRA code affecting the retail stores of America has been completed and signed by the President. Just how well it will work remains to be seen. It is designed to eliminate price cutting and cut-throat competition, and just how effective it will be along this line remains for the future to determine. There was a great deal of difference of opinion concerning the "Sales at a loss" prohibition in the code. This prohibiting the practice of selling goods at a loss was designed to do away with the custom of certain stores in advertising a commodity on a particular day at a greatly reduced price in order to attract customers into the stores. It was first proposed that no article could be sold at less than ten per cent above cost.

Groups representing farmers and other consumers objected so strongly to this that the completion of the code was held up for several weeks while a compromise was sought. This compromise provides that goods cannot be sold at less than invoice price plus an allowance for store wages. Stores in towns of less than 2,500 persons were exempted from the provisions of the act. This is regarded as a further concession to the farmers.

It may not be favorably received by the National Retail Dry Goods Association which recently declared that unless the ten per cent mark up value was included hundreds of retailers would fail within the next few months. On the other hand, those representing consumers claimed that the provision of a minimum selling price of cost, plus ten per cent, would make prices higher and thus discourage buying.

Now that the code has been adopted and merchants are prohibited from selling merchandise at less than cost plus allowance for wages, it remains to be seen just how well the plan will work.

Price fixing has been tried since the days of Diocletian back in the Roman Empire and has never been a complete success. The laws of supply and demand have to be taken into consideration.

It is to be remembered however, that the new code provides against profiteering as well as price cutting. And a point to be taken into consideration in these provisions is that of the enforcement of the provision for equitable prices. Who is going to determine whether a merchant is living up to the provision of the code against illegal price cutting, or illegal price gouging? Who will see to it that a certain article is not sold below cost plus an allowance for employes' wages? Does this mean the coming of another army of inspectors, checkers and double checkers, or does it mean a case of permitting the merchant's conscience to be his guide? Only time alone can tell.

In the meantime the proponents of the code remind us that this is only one part of the scheme of planned recovery for the depression and that we must view the plan as a whole to see how it works. We will all hope that it works well.

It is said that gas is served to nearly 11,000,000 customers in the United States—without counting those who get the Congressional Record.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We have been told frequently of late that we have entered a new era; that the day of rugged individualism is over and that from now on we will have government planning and government control of industry for the benefit of the masses. One might think from some of the statements we have heard that individualism in this country has accomplished nothing for us and that we are groping about in the dark until the government commenced taking us in hand doing our planning and thinking for us. It is not to be forgotten however, that we have gotten along fairly well during our century and a half of rugged individualism. We have built the greatest and most propsperous nation the world has ever known. Nor is government control a spontaneous thing. We have had a steady growth of bureaucracy for years and there is some ground for believing that it may have a great deal to do with the economic plight in which we now find ourselves.

Former Governor Al Smith called attention to the facts in a charcteristic way the other day in an address in Chicago, at the Century of Progress Exhibition. Governor Smith told his hearers that there was a great lesson to be learned from the century of progress, and, he asked, "aside from the assistance of Divine Providence what has made this century of progress?"

Then Governor Smith answered his own question in part as follows, and his words are worth repeating and remembering:

"If you will study this fair, you will be obliged to come to the conclusion that this century of progress was brought about by individual initiative; by the strength, the power, the courage, the brains and the ability of the men and women of the republic of North America. Whether you point to progress in industry, science, invention, transportation, or the arts, what you see here is the triumph of the mind and the hand of free men, without dictatorship.

"Ninety per cent of the exhibits here mark advances in our civilization, due entirely to individuals, private individuals, working without inspiration, compulsion, control, or even suggestion, from the government itself. In fact, it is noteworthy that the government has done very little to contribute to this century of progress, while, on the other hand, much has been prevented, much has been thwarted, much has been hindered by the heavy, cold, clammy hand of bureaucracy.

"It may be and will be urged that private industry often labors for private gain. It may be that its ends sometimes are selfish. It may be that there are times when it needs the curb and the bit of governmental regulation. But it is still vastly superior to government planning and government control of business and of all human effort.

"Now let us not be too cynical about the motives that have actuated the men who have wrought the buldings, which house the miracles of science of invention. Pride of achievment, ambition to excel, love of work and art, have had more to do with it than the mere desire to make money or to exploit others. And it is a matter of common fact, it is something that can be spelled out of every line of our history, that government is at its best when it supplements and cooperates with private industry."

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

The Heart of Alabama

The Chilton County News blazed forth last week with an earnest appeal that a campaign be started to advertise Chilton County as "the heart of Alabama" to the world at large. I hope you noticed that word "start." Say, a campaign like that couldn't possibly be "started" now—that was started some several years ago, by the good old Union-Banner, and it has been carrying that slogan to its readers every week, all the way from our next-door neighbors to far-off China—all over the world. If you don't believe it, just look up in the corner of the front page of this paper and see for yourself. Then dig up all the old copies you can find for several years back—it's on all of them. But the News is not the first to copy it. The Sportsman's Magazine, in its issue of April, 1927, used as it's main subject Chilton County, and borrowed our little slogan to go with it—"Chilton County, the Heart of Alabama." Yep! We'll welcome the News in helping us advertise "The Heart of Alabama." And, another thing, someone around the News office ought to read our modest little sheet more often. They might find good ideas in it from which they could "start" something. Somebody else must have been hearing from "The Heart of Alabama," too. Recently, the head of one of the largest national advertising concerns in the country stated: "Alabama has some of the best weekly newspapers published in America. For example, The Union-Banner, of Clanton, and The Southern Star, of Ozark." And it must be remembered that this firm receives thousands of weeklies from all over the country and ought to be able to judge fairly well.

"Poor Old Elephant"

Not long ago some good lady cut loose with a long harangue in one of Alabama's big dailies, bewailing the condition of the Republican party, "the poor old elephant, whose bones are rattling,", to quote her own words, and extolling the virtues and exploits of the Democrats. She says the Democrats have done more for women in the last few months than the Republicans have ever done. I would like to ask: In what way? Did it help the women any to have the pensions of the veterans cut down, and some of them stopped altogether? Did the ladies want the young men out of their way, and so rejoiced when the government put thousands of them in the sapling-planting camps? Did it please the ladies to have the cost of living practically doubled, so that they could call on hubby for more dough so they could buy the necessary groceries? Maybe she liked to see the way the big spendthrifts threw the taxpayer's money to the four winds in their wild idea as to how prosperity should be coaxed around the corner. And, then, too, maybe some of the ladies wanted their "mug-'o-beer". Now, if the above is what the ladies wanted, then I would think they would be well pleased with the new administration, for that is their record of achievement since they have been in power. Another thing—one fellow says that the Republicans got us into this depression, and they might have the decency to try to help us out of it. All right, we intend to do just that, as soon as we get our big elephant back on the job. And, one more word—we may be dumb, but should we admit that if the elephant did bog down and stall, we fail to see how a half-starved jack-ass can be exptected to move the load.

Who Said "Nigger?"

Although most people have learned better, yet now and then some poor benighted boob perks up with the old thin-worn "nigger" accusation to throw at the Republicans. This is especially so if some negro is appointed to some little job in the North. And how the Southern papers do kick up a mountain over inconsequential mole hills. And how they rant about how the good old Democratic party never does anything toward improving the social status of the negro. For the benefit of any and all such loud-mouthed ignoramuses, I beg to point to just a few instances that should prove to anyone but a person with a brain shriveled with inborn prejudice, that right now the Democrats are kow-towing to negroes in no uncertain manner. Only a few days ago the Federal government (under charge of Democrats, mind you) launched a great campaign "to improve the economic and SOCIAL status of the negro race in America." And, again, Secretary Roper, a Democrat, from South Carolina, created a new commerce department, and appointed Eugene Kinkle Jones, a New York negro, to head it—a Southern man appointing a northern negro. And that isn't all—a few weeks ago Secretary Ickes, a northern Democrat, appointed another negro, from Atlanta, in this department, and Mr. Ickes had the following to say: ". . . the interior department of this new unit is concerned especially with social problems and obstacles of the negroes in our country." There's your "lily-white" Democratic party, and remember, this didn't happen back in the 60's, but in 1933. If that isn't catering to negroes in whoesale fashion, I'd like for sohmebody to tell us all just what it is. And that will not be the last they will do for the SOCIAL STATUS of negroes. Just keep an eye peeled and you'll see for yourself—this is just the beginning. Who said "nigger?"

Lest We Forget

Remember! Picture in your mind a pitted, bloody, torn field in far off France. In a trench on the fringe of "No Man's Land" American boys stand shoulder to shoulder in a determined stand that says "They Shall Not Pass." Their late buddies lie all about them—some dead—some worse than dead, as they suffer untold agonies. They are the pick of America. They are descendants of those gallants who fought with Washington for American freedom. And on the sea there is another picture. Death lurks for other American boys on the high seas. And many of their buddies, too, have "gone down to the sea in ships." They are descendants of those first liberty-loving Americans who rode "Old Ironsides" to victory in the first fight for liberty. It is November 11, 1918. And here comes the zero hour when there is no more war. At last the Armistice has been signed. What a day of rejoicing. And every year Americans do rejoice. But as we rejoice, let us not forget those heroes who fell in battle. The war is never over for them. And here at home, in hospitals and scattered throughout the land other heroes suffer yet from the ravages of war. Let's not forget them, either. Fifteen years have come and gone since the first Armistice Day, but Americans must always hold this day of all days sacred to the memory of all American heroes in all our wars. It is the least we can do. Let's not forget!

Gone To The Bottom

When the NRA business first set forth, I heard somebody say: "Now, the NRA is going to get to the bottom of things." Believe me, that Jason spoke more truth than he thought. For, just a few days ago, in one of the larger cities, a laundrymen's convention sent a committee before their local NRA board, asking that negro washerwomen be stopped from taking in washing without paying a heavy license and complying strictly with the code covering laundrymen. "Why," one of them said, "these negro washerwomen have gotten to be a real menace to our business. Some of them have enough business so that they have to hire help. Why not make them comply with the same rules we do?" Of course, the board voted in favor of the laundrymen. Now, that's going some, when a poor old negro woman can't get out and try to eke out a scanty living by taking in washing, without being hampered by government restrictions. Yes, sir, I believe you'll have to admit that they have gotten to the bottom of things. And how! It seems they can manage a negro washerwoman pretty well, but they don't have so much luck with a certain member of the automobile industry—one, "Hank" Ford.

The Prize Winner

Not so long ago, it seemed that there was some kind of race on, to see who could own the cow which raised the greatest number of twin calves. Mr. John Moore held that record for a while, but I believe S. V. Miller, of Clanton, Route 3, can safely lay claim to it now. He has a cow, eight years old; she has freshened six times, and is the mother of nine calves. The first two came one at a time, then there were two sets of twins, then another single, and just a few days ago, another set of twins came, both heifers. Mr. Miller tells me he paid $50.00 for her, that he sold her first seven calves for a total of $62.50, and now has the two latest ones, for which he has been offered $10.00 each, but they are not for sale. This cow is half Jersey, half Holstein. So old "Bossie" has really been worth more than her price, besides the milk and buteer she has produced. I think this record will stand for some time. If you know of any better records, let us hear from you.—Man in the Moon.

Not Aligned With Europe

President Roosevelt has reaffirmed traditional American policy regarding the reduction and limitation of armaments with a candor and clarity that will gratify the people of the United States and put the world on notice.

Speaking through his representative at the Geneva conference on armaments, Norman H. Davis, Mr. Roosevelt makes it clear that "we are in no way politically aligned with any European power," mendacious reports from Paris and London and other Old World capitals to the contrary notwithstanding.

"We are at Geneva,' 'declares Ambassador Davis, speaking under instructions from President Roosevelt, "solely for disarmament purposes.

"We are not interested in the political element or any purely European aspect of the picture.

"Such unitly of purposes as has existed has been entirely on world disarmament matters.

"Whether or not conditions are favorable to continuing the present disarmament effort is now a question for Europe, not the United States, to decide. During this week there will be consultations between the capitals of Europe. We do not wish to take an active part in these, as their implications are purely political."

This is timely and welcome reassurance that France and Great Britain are not going to get the assistance of the United States in their effort to discipline Germany and that Germany is not going to get the assistance of the United States in her effort to discipline France.

Unless the powers of the Old World can forego their political quarrels long enough to discuss the reduction and limitation of armamtnts on the same basis that these discussions were initiated between those powers and the United States, the Geneva conference no longer serves any useful American purpose.

It is fortunate for the Roosevelt administration that events in Europe have made an opportunity for the president to reaffirm at this time the adherence of his administration to traditional American principles as applied to armaments.

And departure from these principles would have shocked the American people who are more convinced today than ever that George Washington was everlastingly right when he declared:

"The rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible." — Chicago Herald-Examiner.

Soviet Russia will promise to trade with Uncle Sam so long as Uncle Sam will lend Stalin the money to do it with.

Remember the good old days when the fellow who owned a horse and a cow was considered well off?

One of our cynical bachelor friends says he wouldn't buy a marriage license even if you could get 'em on the installment plan.

Cheer up. The hard cider and pumpkin pie season is at hand. That ought to help any depression.

The governor of North Dakota puts an embargo on wheat thus assuring the state a real surplus.

The striking farmers ought to feel good over the prospect of recognition of the Soviets. Russia can send us a lot of raw materials to add to our surplus.

The farmers may plow up twenty-five per cent of their wheat and cotton, but we doubt whether this will help much unless we can get rid of about ninety per cent of the political farm "experts" at the same time.

A Michigan poultry expert says that if you feed a hen cod liver oil she will lay bigger eggs. Maybe we ought to give the cod liver oil treatment to some of those European nations which owe us money.

During the recent world series at Washington the newspaper reporters made considerable mention of a blue pigeon which kept flying down on the playing field during the game. We have information that it wasn't a blue pigeon at all, just the Blue Eagle which wanted to make sure that the games were being played according to the code.

Prepared for Thanksgiving?

This month of November closes out with Thanksgiving Day, Thursday the last day of the month. I think I see plenty of signs to indicate that I can and will make it truly a day of giving thanks. I have a coop full of possums, a sack of taters, a bucket full of chittlins and four pounds of sausage. In fact I am thankful right now, and I see no use in waiting to the last day of November to say so. I wish every person in the world might be able to take stock and realize a few things to give thanks for. Doubtless evreyone has something to be thankful for; but somehow it happens that one often fails to count his blessings and overlooks some or all of them. The world seems full of unrest and dissatisfaction. Lots of people are in distressing circumstances. But the biggest trouble is that so all-fired many of us who really ought to be thanking God for His kind providence to us have forgotten our blessings and are making a bigger racket with our kicking than are those who are much less fortunate. "Count your many blessings, see what God has done."

Politics Coming to Front

Well, the old game will be on soon. Before the flowers bloom again, we shall see a full crop of candidates bloom out. I notice the political spy glass of one of our county papers has been surveying the local field and mentions quite a few possibilities and prospects. The Democrats think they have a sure bet on routing the Republicans next election. The Republicans do not deny that they have a hard fight to hold Chilton County. The Republican cause is admittedly in a poor shape. There is discord both in the ranks and among the leaders, according to what one may hear on the corner any day. Some say the troubles can not be smoothed over by election day. Others point out that when the time comes, certain Republican leaders have an uncanny way of fixing things up so all will come out well. I hear lots on the corner. I could not stay in the county nor anywhere else if I should print all I hear.

Saturday is Armistice Day

Looking back down the road fifteen years from next Saturday we will see again the day when the great World War was brought to an end of actual hostilities. Distance lends enchantment to the view. Much water has gone over the dam or under the bridge since that day. One of the big questions of the present time is whether or not we have recovered from the great conflict. Are our present social and economic troubles rooted in the upheaval of the world from 1914 to 1918? I do not suppose anybody can answer the question. There are thousands of opinions. The world saw dark days during the war and people thought seriously and prayerfully. We have seen dark days since 1929, and have been seriously concerned. I believe the whole world got on a spree of carelessness following the war. We ran amuck with everything. Now we are back about where we were in the war. We must head back toward the days of world sanity before the war.

Wisely Timed

Someone showed wise attention to detail in placing Education Week early in the school year. It was discerning to invite parents to visit the schools in Alabama this fall, since after Christmas there will be in many sections no school for parents to visit.

All the politicians from Governor Miller down have paid fervent lip service to the schools but have done nothing worthy of mention to rescue them from their tragic plight.

W. S. Pritchard, president of the Jefferson County Council of the American Legion, made some strong points in his talk to the Birmingham city teachers Saturday.

Mr. Pritchard quoted a prominent educator as saying that, judged by the standards of education, the world knows four types of government. He enumerated them as follows:

"The ignorant leading the ignorant; tnis is tyranny.

"The ignorant leading the wise; this is a prelude to revolution.

"The wise leading the ignorant—dictatorship, or possibly a benevolent autocracy.

"Then we have the wise leading the wise, giving liberty, equality and fraternity to all the people. This is the ideal of democracy, the dream of our country's founders."

"If we hope to make the democratic experiment succeed, if we wish to avoid servitude in the future," Mr. Pritchard concluded, "it is imperative that the knowledge of the masses of the people as soon as possible begins to approximate the knowledge of the leaders."

In short, instead of letting our schools degenerate in times like these, we are under the greatest compulsion to make them stronger than before.—Birmingham Post.

Legion and the Schools

W. Arthur Abramson, state commander of the American Legion, declared in an address in Opelika Tuesday night that the main objective of the Legion in Alabama is to provide free educational facilities for the youth of the state. To that end, the legion will work with it's every resource; it will not bend an inch in its purpose, and will leave no stone unturned in its campaign.

The Legion's position in the school crisis is to be highly commended. Appeals have been made to Governor Miller to call the legislature into extra-session and make some provisions for the operation of the schools the full term. The governor, it is indicated, is either not fully aware of the seriousness of the situation or is indifferent to the possible consequences.

Failure to give thought now to a problem that will become very acute three or four months from now may work a terrible hardship on our children of school age, and those responsible for it cannot expect to win the gratitude of a people.—Opelika Daily News.

The State of New York has a native Indian population of five thousand persons, distriuited on ten reservations. This does not include the redoubtable Tammany tribe dwelling in the happy tax-hunting grounds of Manhattan Island.—Boston Transcript.

The French are said to be arranging to lend sixty million dollars to the new state of Manchukuo. The French government evidently works on the slogan "Millions to lend, but not a cent for payment."

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

This letter is devoted to the much discussed subject of rates.

We have pointed out in recent advertisements that the cost of electricity did not follow the rising trend of commodity prices during the boom years, and that it is actually much lower now than it was before the war. Probably you have no more than a passing interest in this fact. What you want to know is whether the rates you are now paying are fair.

Rate comparisons between two electric operations are not fair unless due regard is given to such factors as area served, number of customers per square mile, and character of territory (i. e., industrial or agricultural). You will therefore be interested in knowing that, although this company serves only 96,605 customers in the entire State of Alabama and that its investment per customer is therefore relatively great, it has the lowest state-wide residential rates in the country.

This company has always recognized the importance of low rates as a factor in industrial development, and in adding to the comfort and hours of leisure in the home. So far as our earnings will permit, we shall continue to work toward lower rates, so that more and more the people of Alabama can enjoy the full benefits of electric service.

Yours very truly,

President.

American Legion Has 1934 Program

The American Legion program for 1934, beginning at once, has just been compiled by National Headquarters and a copy received by the Chilton County Post of the Legion here.

It is described by Grover A. Bice, commander, as the most constructive and conservative in the history of the Legion. "No one can object to this," he said, "and every citizen of the United States can support it. The American Legion will have no difficulty this year. Every veteran of the World War should get into this work at once, because his help is needed. Our national commander, who is called the 'Abraham Lincoln of the Legion' in his home town, declares half of the men and women of the World War still living will join the Legion this year, and that it is up to each Legionaire to see that they do. Then we must have a unity of thought in each of these activities, unity of expression and unity of action. We can have such team-work under our national commander's leadership and cannot fail. Our first job is to thoroughly understand our program.

The major points of the program, in a nutshell, as outlined by national headquarters to the post officials, follow:

Restore those disabled in line of duty in the war to their status prior to March 20, 1933; hospitalize in government institutions all needy veterans requiring it; restore service connections for the disabled veterans if his case was so stated prior to March 20, 1933; and provide government protection for dependent widows and orphans of veterans.

Increase Legion aid to needy children of verterans which has been necessitated by economy reductions of benefits; ratify child labor amendment in states where this has not yet been done; promote legislation, state and nationally, to provide public health facilities, and conduct educational campaigns concerning child welfare conditions, facilities, mothers' aid and legal adoption of minors.

Protect our schools from undue economy slashes, advance patriotism character and health among students. Conduct youth activities including junior baseball, boy scouting, C.M.T.C., R.O.T.C., National boys week, junior rifle clubs and 4-H clubs. Participate in community service work. Sponsor reduction of immigration quotas by 90 per cent down to 10 per cent allowed under 1924 laws. Urge federal laws excluding alien communists, and expulsion of aliens who would overthrow our government or who are beholden to the third nationale. Continue principle that neutralized citizens must bear arms in defense of this country in an emergency. Oppose recognition of cummunist soviet Russia.

A law and order committee will be appointed by the national organization to study the problem of crime, and devise plans for state and national legion organizations to participate in curbing crime. Urge laws to end sale of machine guns and similar weapons except in military and law enforcement authorities.

Build up the navy from 3rd place, and the army from 17th place, to provisions of the London Treaty. Oppose cancellation of any or all war debts. Oppose the U.S. entering in to the League of Nations or to adherence to the world court, either with or without reservations.

Urge Boards of Review to make complete and conscientious consideration of all facts and circumstances pertaining to every claim of disabled veterans.

Support the NRA in the present emergency and favor a sound American dollar. Advocate a careful study by our government of the danger of inflation.

Demand an equitable distribution of the tax burden and the elimination of injustices brought about by tax exempt securities.

BRITISH SEE U. S. IS RULED VIRTUALLY UNDER DICTATOR

London, Nov. 6—Stanley Baldwin lord president of the council, asserted during a rally Monday that the "ordinary constitution" has broken down in the United States and that Americans are "practically under a dictatorship."

"It certainly would be interesting," he declared "to see what the backwash of America or Germany will be in 12 or 18 months. Thank God we are not an hysterical nation.

"The ordinary constitution has certainly broken down in the United States, and they are practically under a dictatorship. Great Britain is the sole guardian of democracy."

He spoke at a luncheon at which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and foreign secretary Sir John Simon also gave speeches on the achievements of the national government, on the eve of the reopening of Parliment, after a three months' recess.

British Situation Cited

Mr. Baldwin, declaring the British democracy is the most educated in the world, said:

"When you get deep enthusiasm with many temperaments it is not wholly removed from hysteria. I have seen manifestations of that in countries which shall be nameless. It is generated by the thought that if all pull together they can put things right in five minutes.

"The causes of the world's troubles are too deep seated for that. Many people here believe instinctively two years ago the financial position would be put straight and employment found for all in six, 12 or 18 months.

"You have always to look out for the backwash of that line of talk. It will be interesting to see what the backwash in America or Germany will be in 12 or 18 months.

"Thank God, we are not an hysterical nation. Long may we be preserved from it. We are now faced here with those on the extreme right and some on the extreme left who have given up all hope of democracy. There are people who trust to get rich quick or want a dictatorship. I believe that such a form of government would be absolutely alien to the character of our people."

Sir John said that Great Britain "is one of the few ancient countries in the world in which parlimentary institutions are actively operating with success."

"In Germany," continued the foreign secretary, "parlimentary institutions survive after a fashion, but only on the principle nobody should vote for anyone except the government candidate.

"The threat to parlimentary institutions by whatever name we disguise it is the threat of dictatorship, and that is the danger from which, the national combinations of parties has to save Britain."

FOURSQUARE REVIVAL TO CLOSE NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. Harry B. Miller is closing his revial at the Foursquare church next Sunday night. Special services are to be held this week end. Thursday night is Firemen's Night, and all firemen are especially invited to attend. Friday night is high school night, and all high school students and their parents are urged to be present. Eveveryone is invited for Saturday night, when there will be no preaching, but a singing service will be enjoyed. Singers everywhere are invited. On Sunday night a special Foursquare sermon will be delivered.

This revival has been fairly well attended every night, but last Sunday night, November 5, was best, when the church was packed to capacity to see and hear the illustrated sermon: "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning."

A baptismal service was held last Sunday afternoon, when nine were baptized at Mims Pond, east of town.

Rev. Miller and the church wish to thank the public for their attendance and good behavior during the revival.

Following is the program for the week end:

Thursday, Nov. 9—"Fireman, Save My Child."

Friday, Nov. 10—"God's Harp" (Illustrated).

Saturday, Nov. 11—Singing.

Sunday, Nov. 12—"What is the Foursquare Gospel?"

All services begin at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited.

PLAY AT SHOULTS SCHOOLHOUSE

There will be a play at Shoults schoolhouse Saturday night, November 11th. The title is "Two Days to Marry." There are seven characters —Mr. Dare, the wifeless heir, Lindsey McAfee; Mr. Blair A. Millianaire, Anglis Moore; Imogene McShave, the sweet young thing, Buzella Shoults; Mrs. Sadie L. Boise, a widow by choice, Allie Walker; Mr. Sawyer, a very good lawyer, Lavern Shoults; Miss Pink, blacker than ink, Lucy Walker; Simon P. Chase, black as his race, P. L. Williams. The play is two and one-half hours long. Come and see how to get a wife in two days. Admission will be 10c.

PLAY AT JEMISON SCHOOL

"Where's Grandma," an interesting and outstanding play, cast from South Calera and coached by Mrs. Sara Crim, will be presented at the Jemison High Auditorium Friday evening, November 10, at 7:30 o'clock. This play will afford each one an evening of real entertainment and the public is cordially invited. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the Jemison High School. Admission will be 15c and 25c.

The cast in the play are as follows: Grandma, Elva Barefield; Gretchen Blake, Mrs. Williams; Bob Blake, Orban Crim; Jack Worley, Cecil Ellison; Lucy King, Lillian Busby; Arline Truesdale, Mrs. Barnette; Carol Worley, Frances Killingsworth; Midnight, Harry Anderson; Dalilah, Evelyn Martin.

UTAH 36th STATE TO VOTE REPEAL

Early Wednesday morning it became certain that Utah had voted for repeal and became the 36th state to ratify the 21st amendment, removing from the Constitution the 18th amendment, and restoring to the states the right of liquor control. The vote was cast in Utah Tuesday.

On the same day when Utah became the 36th state to vote repeal, North and South Carolina became the first and only states so far to vote dry. It was a startling reversal in North Carolina. That state last year elected a wet U. S. Senator by a majority of 100,000, and on Tuesday the state voted against repeal by a majority of 150,000. The majority against repeal in South Carolina was very small, perhaps not more than 2,000.

Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky voted great majorities for repeal on Tuesday also.

Mrs. John Deramus and Junior have returned home.

J. F. Rawlinson of Pletcher was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

THIS AND THAT

By W. J. Baldwin
Montgomery, Ala.

Where were They?

A bit of interesting prison history is that there are no printers, reporters or editors numbered among the 4,000 convicts in Alabama's state prisons. A careful survey disclosed the fact that there is not a state or county convict in state prisons and camps who knows the difference between a "stick" of type and a side-saddle.

The Williamses Win

For once the Smiths lose!
The Williamses win!
The Jonses are a close second.

Wherever and when ever the cognomens of various units composing the human family are collectively paraded before the scrutinizing eyes of the public, the Smiths, almost without exception, outnumbered their neighbor Joneses. Look in any telephone directory printed in English and you will find the Smiths far in the lead.

But scan the roster of the Alabama State prisons and you will be surprised to find the Williamses far in advance of the Smiths and Joneses, and for once the Smiths have cause to rejoice in being tag-tail to their numerical rivals.

Of a total of more than 4,000 prisoners incarcerated in Alabama's penal institutions, 113 are named Williams. The Joneses are a close second with 88, while the Smiths have to be content with a mere 86. The Johnsons tally 84, the Jacksons 77; the Thomas and Davis families are neck-and-neck with 59 each. The Browns next with 56, while the Harris family does well to muster 38.

"Watch us!" proclaim the Smiths, "We'll beat 'em the next count."

"Luck to you," retort the Williamses and the Joneses.

Not only do the Baptists lead all other religious denominations represented among Alabama's state prison population, but theirs is the only denomination showing an increase in numbers during the period from September 30, 1932, to the same date, 1933.

Information compiled for the annual report of the state board of administration, due shortly from the press, shows there were 2,155 state prisoners professing the Baptist faith, as against 1,814 last year, or an increase of 341.

Methodists were next in numerical standing, with 856 convicts claiming John Wesley as their religious leader. This was a decrease of 95 over the previous year.

Catholics decreased from 313 to 87; Presbyterians from 116 to 38; Episcopalians from 59 to 14! Christian Scientists from 12 to 2; Jews from 3 to 2.

Eight other denominations were represented.

Nine hundred and ten were not affiliated with any church or denomination.

Three thousand and seventy of the total prison population of 4,182 were negroes, a vast majority of whom seem to prefer immersion to sprinkling. It was therefore, the colored adherents of the Baptist faith who were largely responsible for the "bad" showing checked against that denomination.

OAK GROVE

We are happy to announce the splendid success of the extension work that our B. Y. P. U. department rendered at Eanon Baptist church on Sunday evening, November 5. The juniors and intermediates were in charge of the first part of the program, followed by the seniors. A number of inspirational addresses were given as well as messages in song. After the program, Rev. Tunnell delivered a wonderful sermon. The vast audience was wonderfully blessed. We take great pleasure in thanking those who participated in the program. Everyone has a most cordial invitation to come to Oak Grove and worship with us in all of our services for Christ.

Miss Virginia Glass spent this week end with relatives and friends in Birmingham.

Miss Pauline and Miss Irene Lessley returned home Sunday after a week's visit to friends in Birmingham.

Miss Aileen Ellison of South Calera spent the week end with her grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Ellison.

Mr. Tom Lessley visited home folks Saturday. Since his recent marriage he is making his home in Thorsby.

Mrs. Nannie Sammons dined with Misses Roberta and Gladys Satterwhite Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay had as their dinner guests Sunday Mrs. Leonard Pierce and Mr. Labon Northcutt.

Mr. Grady Lewis and little diughter, Margurite of Marble Valley returned home Thursday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley and family.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION TO BE AT THOMAS JR. SCHOOL

On Friday night, November 10 there will be a fiddler's convention at Thomas Jr. School, just three miles south of Clanton. All fiddlers are cordially invited and especially urged to be present. A cash prize will be given as the first prize and other prizes will be awarded to all fiddlers present. A box of candy will be awarded to the prettiest girl and one to the ugliest man.

Each vote cast will cost a penny. Pretty girls come! Ugly men come! A guess cake will be given to the lucky person guessing what the cake contains. Admission will be 10c and 15c. Music and fun will begin promptly at 7 o'clock. So make your plans accordingly for this date and let's enjoy this musical event together.

Miss Glennie Mims is now rooming with Mrs. Lowery on Second Avenue South.

CONTRACT FOR BUILDING HIGHWAY IS AWARDED

The Tennessee Valley Authority has awarded the contract for constructing the heavy-duty reenforced concrete highway from Coal Creek, Tennessee, to the west abutment of the Norris Dam, to W. W. Boxley and Company, Roanoke, Virginia, C. A. Bock, secretary of the Tennessee Valley Authority, announced.

The amount of the award is $265,223,50, and the contract is to be completed within 69 days from date of execution of contract. Actual construction is expected to begin within a few days.

The new highway will be approximaely four and eight-tenths miles long with the right of way averaging 250 feet in width. The reenforced concrete pavement will be 22 feet wide. While it will be used first for transportating heavy machinery and supplies from the railroad sidings at Coal Creek to the site of the Norris Dam, this new road will later become one of the main arteries to the Norris Dam for automobile and other vehicular traffic.

The route selected leads through a rugged region of singular beauty and the new highway will wind around the mountains in such a way as to present an almost continuous panorama of beautiful scenery and affording certain points splendid views of the lake which the Norris Dam will form.

The highway will connect with the top of the Norris Dam at the west abutment. A roadway will be built across the dam which, in turn, will connect with another scenic highway that the Tennessee Valley Authority will build in cooperation with local authorities to Knoxville. At this point connection will be made with several main traffic routes which cross the state of Tennessee.

Along both sides of these highways the right of way will be planted with native trees and shrubs, and every effort will be made to retain the natural beauty of the country. Billboards and unsightly roadstands will be prohibited, and the only commercial buildings to be allowed will be automobile service stations, which will be erected according to plans to be approved by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

VERMONT SCHOOL

A Thanksgiving program is being arranged by the faculty members to be given on the afternoon of November 29. Songs, drills, stories, recitations and acrostics are a few of the varied features of the afternoon's entertainment.

The stage is now completed in our auditorium, in readiness for the play next Saturday night.

The faculty members attended Sunday school at Sardis church last Sunday. They will be at Antioch on next Sunday.

Misses Dorothy Manning, Ethel Cagle and Mr. Carson Williams attended a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning on last Saturday night. Mr. Earle Thomas was given the social in honor of his agricultural boys. Judging from the smiles of our teachers this week, it appears that they had a most pleasant time.

A large number of parents and friends have been visiting our school since the opening. We extend to all a glad welcome to visit us at any time.

Our P.-T. A. met at the building last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Johnson, acting as chairman, called the house to order. It was voted to elect new officers for the ensuing year. After a brief program by the first, second and third grades, the following were duly elected in their respective places: Miss Ethel Cagle, president; Mrs. J. N. Scott, vice president; Miss Bertie Grant, secretary and treasurer; R. B. Johnson, reporter. The following were appointed by the president to serve as committeemen: Membership committee, Mrs. Geo. W. Sansom, Mrs. H. L. Traywick, and Mrs. Homer Ratliff; program committee, Mrs. G. H. Gandy, Miss Dorothy Manning, and Miss Mary Owen; refreshments committee, Mrs. V. P. Buxton, Mrs. C. C. Klinner and Miss Annie Ratliff.

The entertainment committee will be appointed at our next meeting which will be Thursday night, November 16, at 6:45 o'clock. Thirty-one members have joined thus far. Several new members have pledged themselvse to join at our next regular meeting. Our goal is fifty members by Christmas.

The school is highly grateful to Mr. George W. Sansom, chairman of our board of trustees, for his untiring efforts in assisting in the erection of the stage, the installation of our water cooler, and lighting system, the purchasing of our athletic equipment, and many other worthy contributions which he has made in an effort to make our school reach a higher mark.

The boys basketball club is now ready to schedule interscholastic games with other Jr. High schools. Those schools interested in match games write to our principal.

Final preparations are being made this week for the girls basketball team. We have all our equipment in readiness to set up for practice. Any school desirous of games with the girl team are requested to write Miss Ethel Cagle, Maplesville, Route 2.

Just a few words from this place.

There was a good number at Sunday school Sunday and also at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. We were more than glad to have such a splendid program rendered at this place Sunday night by the Mineral Springs B. Y. P. U. It is useless to say that crowd of people is interested in B. Y. P. U. work. I am sure everyone present enjoyed the program and we feel like it was a great help to our B. Y. P. U. class to have the privllege of having such a strong B. Y. P. U. visit us. Those that missed it missed a real treat.

We were glad to have our visitors with us Sunday, it being Mr. Jim Powell and wife, of Sylacauga.

We are very sorry that the health of Mrs. Mollie Easterling has been fast going down hill, although we are in hope she will soon be improving and be well once more.

Don't forget Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. next Sunday. Come with a well studied lesson. Sunday school starts at 10:30 a.m., prayer service at 5:30 p.m., and B. Y. P. U. following.

Watch the Refuge News for announcement of our annual Thanksgiving program in the near future.

Cattle Linge—A delegate to the annual convention of the Southeastern Livestock Asosciation wrote to the Gay-Teague Hotel for a room reservation. Absent mindedly, he wrote for a room with a private dipping vat.

Mr. Reubin Willis, of Montgomery, was in Clanton Wednesday.

DENNIS-LENOIR

Of great interest to their many friends throughout the state, was the wedding of Miss Doris Dennis and Mr. B. C. Lenoir, which was solemnized at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Thorsby at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones. The nuptial vows were read by Rev. J. W. Jones in the presence of a few members of the immediate families and intimate friends. The bride was attrictively dressed in brown crepe, with accessories to match.

She is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Dennis of Jemison, Alabama. Miss Dennis was a very popular and highly respected young lady of her community, a leader in church and Sunday school work. She graduated from the Jemison High school with honors in the class of 1930.

Mr. Lenoir is a young man of noble character and high esteem. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lenoir of Jemison, Ala. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Lenoir will be at home with the groom's parents.

KIWANIS FAVORS RED CROSS WORK

Appeals To People of Chilton To Furnish Quota of 500 Members

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton, at its meeting last Thursday night, unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed the annual Red Cross Roll Call and authorized a committee of the club to gather certain facts and publish the same for the information of the people relative to operation of the Red Cross here.

In discussion of the subject the Kiwanis Club determined it would be well for the public to know what the funds of the local chapter of the Red Cross have been expended for during the past year. The committee was requested to secure this information from local Red Cross officials. Therefore, after due investigation, the following statement is authorized by the committee:

During the year ending September 30, 1933, the Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross received a total of $612.51 through membership in the annual Roll Call.

Funds expended by the county chapter during that period totaled $602.28, distributed among the following named causes:

For relief extended to people in the Helena storm, $38.44; for stationery, postage and supplies for operating the county chapter office, $80.50; for drayage in handling supplies distributed to the needy, $54.30; for membership fees sent to headquarters of American Red Cross at Washington, $219.62; for medicine, hospital services, crutches for cripples, and local relief measures for the poor in Chilton County, $209.42.

For the further information of the public, it is pointed out by the committee that none of the officials of the local Red Cross chapter drew any salary for their services or expenses.

Concerning the question of what is sometimes referred to us as "Red Cross flour and clothes," the Kiwanis Club committee points out that none of those items are paid for out of funds given through Red Cross membership. The Red Cross has only acted as distributing agents for the government in giving flour and clothes to the unemployed and needy. It is government flour and clothes given out through the Red Cross.

In view of these facts above set forth, and remembering with much gratefulness the great program of relief and rehabilitation by the National Red Cross in our county following the storms of 1932, the Kiwanis Club of Clanton sincerely urges all our citizens to rally to the support of the Red Cross this year by enlisting in the Roll Call.

Our county is asked for a quota of 500 members this year. We surely ought to reach that number. All but 50 cents of each membership stays in the treasury of the local county chapter, and will be spent for the relief of our own poor and needy people. Wherever disaster may lay the heavy hand of destruction and human suffering, we know that the Red Cross will be prompt, ready and efficient in meeting the needs.

Therefore, the Kiwanis Club of Clanton sincrely and most heartily urges our people to "Join the Red Cross Now."

Roll Call Needs More Workers

Chairman of Drive Asks For Volunteers To Solicit Memberships

The seventeenth annual Red Cross Roll Call is getting off to a slow start, due to the need of more volunteer workers over the county, according to a statement from Billy Smith, chairman of the Roll Call, who is urging all organizations throughout the county to name teams to participate in the campaign and calling for volunteers among others who want to share in a great humanitarian work.

All churches in the county are asked to observe the Red Cross Roll Call this year, and pastors are requested to remind their congregations of the campaign, which will continue to Thanksgiving.

In commenting on the drive for memberships, Billy Smith stated that "it will take five years for Chilton County to get even with the American Red Cross for the great work it has done in this county. This great organization lifted a burden from the shoulders of the people of this county in a time of needs, and we must do a little to show our appreciation."

The Clanton Kiwanis Club has urged everyone who can to join, and have prepared a statement of facts and figures which appears in the paper this week, showing where and how the money is spent here.

Those who wish to aid in this work may get in touch with Billy Smith, or if any memberships are secured they are to be turned over to Mr. C. Fenn Jones, of Clanton, who is treasurer of the local Red Cross Chapter.

ERNEST TODD KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION IN FORESTRY CAMP

Ernest Todd, age about twenty years, was killed in a federal forestry camp near Jacksonville, Fla., Friday, November 10th. The remains were brought to Cooper and buried in Chestnut Creek cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Reports say that a water heating outfit exploded and a large water tank fell on young Todd, killing him almost instantly. He is the son of Frank Todd, who lives near Robinson Springs down below Elmore station. Frank Todd lived on the old Driver place, property of Harley Calloway, near Cooper a few years ago. There are a number of relatives of the family in this county.

ORANGE TO PREACH AT SUNSHINE TABERNACLE

More Work Relief Is Being Planned

Tentative Program Outlined At Meeting Held Here Last Saturday

Plans have been started looking toward inauguration of additional work relief projects in Chilton County to take care of unemployed men during the winter. The initial step in this direction was taken last Saturday afternoon when there was held a joint meeting composed of county officials and city officials of Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison, Maplesville, and Verbena, together with other interested citizens.

The meeting was called by Miss Clyde Austin, director of work relief for Chilton County. Thad Holt, director of relief in Alabama had requested Miss Austin to call the meeting, and in the meeting work out with the officials a list of possible projects should available funds be provided upon which men might be employed, through civil works administration.

One distinctive feature of the new program that is being approached is the fact that the civil works program provides that one-third of the money appropriated for relief projects may be used to furnish materials and supplies for the jobs.

The projects listed at the meeting last Saturday are entirely suggestive. The listing has been turned over to Mr. Holt, who will carry it to Washington this week. No definite idea is available as to how many of the projects may be approved, or how much money might be available.

Following are the projects which were listed as possible for employment during the winter:

Six thousand feet of hard surfaced streets and 8,000 feet of sidewalks at Thorsby. Improvement of two miles of the road from Thorsby to Collins Chapel. Graveling and improving the road from Jemison to where the same intersects the Selma Highway at the Coburn place three miles east of Maplesville. Improvement of eight mlies of road from Maplesville to the Perry County line. Grading, graveling and improving the road from Verbena to Enterprise High School. Improvement of the road from Baker School to Billingsley. Grading, graveling and improving the road from Clanton to the old Higgins Ferry on Coosa River. Completion of the ditch and drainage projects in the vicinity of Clanton and in Oakmulgee swamp west of Maplesville.

OTHER ROAD PROJECTS SUBMITTED TO THE STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The Federal government has placed the State Highway Department in control of a huge relief work program on the roads of the state. Judge Reynolds has submitted to the state department a number of projects of lateral road improvements in the county which need doing and which will give employment to a number of our people not having work to do.

The projects submitted include: Six miles of improvement on the road from Thorsby to Mineral Springs by way of Collins Chapel church. Sixteen miles of improvement from Jemison by way of Macedonia, to the Cobern place on the Maplesville highway 2 miles east of Maplesville. From Clanton to Higgins Ferry, 8 miles. From Verbena to Enterprise, 8 miles. Baker school to Charley Foshee's place, 12 miles. Maplesville to Perry County line.

Some of these projects are in the relief program of Miss Austin, but it is hoped that these projects may be worked jointly. Five days a week will be permitted on these jobs. There will be money appropriated for materials to be used in this construction.

It is estimated that there are about 1,900 people without employment in Chilton County, and these projects when put into operation will create work for most of these people.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Mullins are the proud parents of a fine baby girl who arrived at their home early Wednesday morning. They have named her Sarah Madge.

Dr. and Mrs. Hughes Kennedy (Leona Pipes) of Birmingham are rejoicing with a new baby girl who arrived last Sunday morning.

W. B. McCAIN DIED AT ROCKFORD

Walter B. McCain, prominent citizen, business man, and banker of Coosa County died at his home in Rockford last Friday. He was buried last Sunday at Sears Chapel near Rockford.

Mr. McCain is survived by his son, George A. McCain, of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. Winston Stewart, of Rockford and Mrs. McCain of Georgia.

Walter B. McCain was one of the most widely known citizens of Coosa County, where he had been a leader in business circles for many years. His banking and business interests over a long period of time brought him into intimate contact with a great many people of Coosa and adjoining counties.

J. W. McEathern Returns To Hill's

Former Manager of Local Store Is Glad To Be Back On Old Job

The many friends of Mr. J. W. McEathern will learn with much interest that he has resumed his connection with Hill Grocery Company, and is again actively engaged as manager of the Hill Store in Clanton.

When the Hill Store was first established in Clanton in February, 1925, Mr. McEathern came here as manager. He continued in that capacity until about a year ago when he withdrew his connection and entered business for himself.

"I am glad to get back into the grocery business with Hill," he said on Monday morning, as he was busily engaged in making some changes to suit his taste at the store. "We have planned to enlarge the store so we can better serve our trade. Necessary changes will be accomplished this week, and by Saturday we will have a much different and better looking place of business.

"I extend an invitation to all my friends and former customers to continue to come to Hill's for their grocery needs. We started out here in 1925 to give the people of Clanton the best grocery store service possible. We now renew our pledge to them for the future. Hill's was the first to inaugurate the modern plan of grocery service in Clanton. We have led the field in the past, and we expect to continue to lead in the future. We know we are able to give our customers a measure of service that will merit our position of leadership."

While this reporter was talking to McEathern, a voice rose from behind a big pile of boxes in the corner. It was the ever jolly and genial Joe VanDerveer. He wanted just a little P.S. added to the story saying to his friends that he will continue at Hill's to put his efforts with the manager's "in order to make Hill's everything the public has a right to expect of the best grocery store in town."

PERRY GORE HOME BURNED

The home of Perry Gore, near Collins Chapel, was destoryed by fire Monday shortly after noon. The flame was discovered on the roof when it was small, but the high winds fanned the flames, and there being no ladder available, it was only a few minutes until the whole building was in flames. Only a portion of the household furnishings were saved.

REV. G. W. STEWART HERE

Rev. G. W. Stewart, of Andalusia, was a visitor to Clanton last week. He came here for a few days visit to friends, following his attendance upon the Methodist Protestant Conference in Selma. Mr. Stewart was formerly pastor of the Methodist church at Pleasant Grove, from where he went to Andalusia a year ago. He remains at Andalusia again this year.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

There will be singing at the court house in Clanton tonight, Thursday, November 16th, beginning at 7 o'clock. The new books will be used. Prof. O. L. Devaughn, the newly elected chairman of the Chilton County singing convention, will have charge of the affair. All singers of the county are invited. Remember, it is tonight, and be there ready to begin at 7 o'clock. Singing will last for about two hours.

FREE HOT BISCUITS ALL DAY NEXT SATURDAY

Mr. O. D. Deloach, manager of the Clanton Cash Store, announces a flour demonstration by mill representatives at his store all day next Saturday, November 18th. Free hot biscuits will be furnished to all who attend.

All customers of this popular store are invited by Mr. Deloach. He especially invites every housewife to attend and witness the cooking demonstrations and enjoy the finest hot biscuits in the world.

NEGRO HOUSE BURNED

Early last Sunday night the home of Mose Davis, negro, in West End, was destroyed by fire. Prompt and efficient work of the Clanton fire department saved the blaze from spreading to other houses nearby.

MORE CASH FOR COTTON GROWER

Option Plan Will Bring $80,000 More to Chilton County Farmers

The government's program to help the cotton farmer this week gave added stimulus to Alabama business with the announcement that farmers of the state would receive $4,500,000 within the next two weeks as their share of the option-rental method of payment for cotton acreage taken out of production this year.

This brings the total amount of federal funds available to Alabama cotton growers to approximately $48,000,000.

As applied to Chilton County, the following approximate figures are given out by county agent Stapp relative to the operation of the government's cotton plan:

The plow-up program brought to farmers of Chilton County about $201,000 in cash. The option rental method, affecting about 1,600 farmers, will bring in about $80,000 in cash. To date farmers have borrowed from the government $181,000 on 3,620 bales of cotton. This will make a total of around $462,000 which has come to the farmers of Chilton County through the government's cotton program.

Mr. Stapp says it will be about a week or ten days before he will be released to carry out the provisions of the option-rental plan with the farmers here. He will make announcement when he is ready.

Checks aggregating $9,000,000 already have been mailed the state's producers for participation in the recent plow-up campaign. They also have received more than $20,000,000 on the 10-cent-per-pound loan, with an estimated total of $15,000,000 in the unsold 1933 crop yet to be secured.

Approximately 225,000 bales of Alabama cotton are eligible for the option loans, C. E. Stapp, Chilton County farm agent, explained.

Under the government's plan to provide relief this past summer, the producer could plow up his acreage for a return of between $7 and $20 an acre, depending on the yield per acre.

As an alternative he could accept between $6 and $11 an acre and take an option on the amount of cotton this acreage would produce at a rate of six cents a pound, Mr. Stapp said.

Therefore, since the government is making loans of 10 cents a pound, the farmer who took an option on cotton this summer now has an extra four cents a pound coming to him, the county agent explained.

A profit of $20 a bale on this basis for the 225,000 bales of option rental cotton means $4,500,000 to Alabama, Mr. Stapp added.

New York Result Ends Honeymoon

Elections Last Week Are Said To Indicate A Sag in the Democratic Strength

Washington, Nov. 8.—The loss of the New York City election broke in as a warning note today while the Roosevelt administration observed the first anniversary of the landslide which restored the Democrats to national power one year ago.

From many parts of the country in scattered elections, came other signs of a sag in the Democratic strength. Results were viewed by some in Washington as marking the end of the Roosevelt honeymoon.

Farley's repeal campaign ran into trouble in the Carolinas. North Caroline was held by the drys and they put on such a close race in South Carolina that the result was in doubt for hours. Cleveland defeated Mayor Ray T. Miller, backed by Farley for re-election and chose a Republican, former Governor Harry Davis.

Loss of New York City was the first major defeat for administration forces, particularly for Postmaster James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman and Roosevelt political manager.

The magical success of Farley's prohibition repeal drive suffered an abrupt reverse in the Carolinas, though too late to check ratification of the 21st amendment. Farley spoke in both states last week. It was the first time he had failed to command outstanding victories.

This break in the phenomenal winning streak of the Roosevelt political manager came ominously as the administration headed into increasing opposition with its recovery program. The farm belt has revolted. General Johnson is in the midwest to rally public opinion against criticism of NRA. Republicans a few days ago launched their first broadside of criticism breaking the political truce which followed the Roosevelt inauguration.

HOME MAKERS CLASS MEETS

The Home Makers Class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday school meets at the home of Mrs. Loren Smith Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

FOURSQUARE CHURCH NEWS

The revival at the Foursquare church, conducted by Rev. Harry B. Miller, 19-year-old evangelist, closed last Sunday night, November 12.

During the revival, 52 people answered altar calls. At a baptismal service held November 5, nine were baptized, and others have made applications for baptism.

Rev. Miller used as his subject on closing night: "What is the Foursquare Gospel?" an illustrated message, enjoyed by a capacity audience.

Rev. Miller will be in charge of the church until the return of the pastor, Rev. H. H. Caswell, from Cleveland, O., when it is expected that approximately fifty new additions will be made to the church, mainly as a result of the recent revival.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend all our services.

Coach Searcy's tigers added another victory to their credit in the smashing defeat of the Montevallo eleven last Friday afternoon on the home gridiron. It seems that our boys really play during the last games of a season. Joe Moore, Carl Jones and Emanuel Cooper shown as our stars. Our captain, Jesse Frank Foshee, although hindered by an injured knee, should not be overlooked in listing those who played a great game Friday. "Gabby" Tiffin was there with those passes and line plunges of his. Our line is becoming a real line—a miniature Crimson Tide if I may say so. Keep up the good work, boys, and when you go to Holtville tomorrow, make Holtville look up to you again this year with a one-sided score like last year's score. Come on, Chilton.

Armistice Day was not forgotten at C. C. H. S. last Friday. A very splendid and educational program was presented by the students under the direction of Miss Sarah Colley. Scenes of the hardships, the suffering and other war scenes was enacted on the stage. The good spirit and unselfish service that the American Red Cross rendered during the World War was also pictured. One of the main features of the program was an inspirational talk by Mr. W. M. Wyatt, who represented the Chilton County Post of the American Legion. He briefly outlined and discussed the aims, organization and purpose of the American Legion. The students and other people who attend this program greatly enjoyed it.

The local Post of the American Legion will award at the close of this school term, a medal or a similar prize to the boy and to the girl in the Senior Class who have attained high marks and commendations in honesty, scholarship and achievement. This is indeed an honor to work for. This is being carried on in every high school in the state and it will be considered a high honor to be the recipient of this prize. You Seniors try for this, and attempt won't hurt us any way.

Miss Frances Gulledge, senior class sponsor and English instructor, is the next teacher who was interviewed by the writer. Miss Gulledge was born at Verbena, Alabama on May 25, 1907, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gulledge. Her high school days were spent at Verbena High and Marbury High, graduating from Marbury in 1923. She entered Judson College at Marion and in 1927 was awarded her B. A. Degree. While at Judson Miss Gulledge majored in English and minored in history. She also specialized in voice and art and received a diploma in the latter in 1927. In the year 1928 Miss Gulledge began her work toward a master's degree at Columbia University in New York. She also studied at Howard College for one summer. In 1930 Miss Gulledge went abroad and toured eight European countries from which she has received much enlightening and interesting knowledge. She had the privilege of visiting in Oberammergau, where the Passion Play is held, which she attended. Other schools which shared her versatile and intelligent personality were: Hayneville High School, two years, and Troy City High School, four years. This is Miss Gulledge's first year as a teacher at C. C. H. S. but during the few months that she has been here everyone has learned to love her. She has made many friends with her friendly personality. Praises and approvals have been given her and she has worked among her fellowmen.

The Senior Class opens its drive to earn money for their memorial with a new and gay type of entertainment, "The Pirate's Den," a cabaret, with its chorus girls, music, fun, mirth and palate tickling eats will be at the high school tomorrow night week. This promises to be something new in the entertainment line. Take it from me, it's going to be a knock-out and how. Save your money and be ready to enjoy an evening of sparkling, bubbling, musical and marvelous entertainment. Something new, something different! Watch for more announcements.

This week is national book week. It is being observed over all the nation. Along with this remember our new library books which will be placed in the library some time this week. This is indeed an appropriate time to enlarge our fine library. We students should turn over a new leaf and let the national book week start us off on more extensive and worthwhile reading.

Through the student's keyhole — What is it between a group of girls and boys about "penny, caramel candy and book?" . . . There was rather a mixup in our social life last Saturday night. . . . Too bad she missed getting in the front seat one day last week next to—, better luck next time. . . . Rumors are leaking out about some shrewd politics in class elections, who said we students were not smart. . . . Two football players like to have burst up their seemingly friendship the other day. Maybe they did. . . . Some of our students, especially some of the seniors are keeping their marks up high in spite of their love tangles, handsome rivals and other things. . . . Eating apples just to count the seeds, such people. . . . Watch for a startling surpise next week. Oh, my! too bad it can't be held any longer.

Don't forget the contest for the best essay on "Peace with Security" sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion. This is a statewide contest. The local chapter will award a prize to the best one submitted by students in the county. This essay will then be sent to the state contest for a try at the state prize. For other information see Mrs. Percy Pitts or Miss Josephine Martin.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Remember that our P.-T. A. meets tonight, Thursday, November 16, at 6:30 o'clock. Several matters of vital concern are to be discussed such as purchasing a piano for the school, promoting better attendance, introducing new members, and the appointment of the publicity and entertainment committees, etc. Set your plans now to be present, for the school needs your help and cooperation.

The play "A Poor Married Man" was presented last Saturday night to a packed house. Approximately four hundred people attended. Gross receipts from the entertainment was $43.50. This will be used in purchasing new equipment for our school. We were proud to see a large number of people from Maplesville, Isabella, Mt. Pleasant, Stanton and other adjoining communities present. We extend to you a hearty invitation to be with us again for programs later. We are sorry that seating accommodations were limited, but we placed as many seats as possible in the auditorium. Just another instance of a complete sell-out of tickets.

The school takes this opportunity to express thanks to Mr. W. W. Klinner for the use of his piano and other furniture necessary to stage the play effectively. We are also grateful to Sardis church for the use of the seats and lights.

Our boys basket ball team will play their first game of the season next Friday afternoon when they meet the Cooper Jr. High team at Coopea. Our team this year is composed of new and inexperienced players, but they are anxious to learn and are drilling faithfully in preparation for their opening game. The prospective players are as follows: Charlie Sansom, captain; T. J. Ratliff, Alternate captain; Sam Headley, L. D. Sansom, Raymond Hayes, Earlo Short.

Among the outstanding visitors, who attended the play last Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle and Miss Sue Sharp from Mitchell Dam and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt, Tom Frank Teel, Stewart Armstrong, and Erlic Eiland, of Clanton.

The faculty and student body regret very deeply the loss of their beloved school and classmates, Willie and J. T. Crane, who are moving to Plantersville. Our best wishes go with them.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

All fiddlers are invited to meet in a convention at Smith's schoolhouse in Beat 1, at 7 o'clock on Saturday night, November 18. Grand prizes are offered to the best fiddlers. Other prizes for those participating in the musical contest.

There will also be a voting contest for the prettiest girl and most handsome man. The winner in each case will receive a delicious cake.

Everybody come and let's have a evening of pleasure together and at the same time give a little lift to community that is trying to build it school. Admission will be 10c and 15c.

BAKER SCHOOL NEWS

We appreciate the people's kind help in our fire accident last Friday morning. We are very glad that we have it repaired and are ready to continue with school as we did before.

Miss Gladys Wyatt was the Thursday night guest of Miss Lucille Powell.

Miss Louanna Billingsley was the guest of Miss Min Lee Lockhart Friday afternoon.

Last Friday afternoon the boys of Baker went to Isabella and had a game. The score was 26 to 24 in favor of Isabella.

Wednesday, November 15, the Isabella boys will visit the Baker boys. Come on, boys and girls of Baker, and boost your team.

We are planning to put on a Thanksgiving program Thanksgiving. Watch the paper for the correct date.

SAMARIA BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be preaching services at the Samaria Baptist church next Sunday and Sunday night. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, will use as his subject Sunday morning, "NRA, BRA." This is quite an interesting topic and is of great importance. Everyone who can should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear it. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Lesson for November 19

PAUL IN ATHENS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:16-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. Acts 17:28.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshiping God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Preaching in a Famous City.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Do We Worship?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Seeking and Finding God.

I. Athens Full of Idols (v. 16).

Athens was the intellectual metropolis of the world at that time, the home of the world's greatest eloquence and philosophy. In spite of this fact the city was given wholly to idolatry, which so stirred Paul's spirit that he was there moved to preach the gospel.

II. The Parties Concerned in the Controversy (vv. 17-21).

1. The Jews (v. 17). True to his usual custom, Paul went into the synagogue and entered into earnest argument with the Jews.

2. The devout persons (v. 17). This doubtless included proselytes to the Jewish faith.

3. The philosophers (v. 18). From the Jews and devout persons he turned to such as were found in the market place. Here he came into touch with Epicurean and Stoic philosophers. When these philosophers heard his preaching they desired to know what new doctrine he preached, so they invited him to the Areopagus where he might speak to them. They inquired as to what this "babbler" might say. The word "babbler" means literally "seed-picker." They conceived Paul as a globe-trotter who had gathered up seeds of truth or error here and there over the world and that he was somewhat like themselves, interested in talking about that which he had seen and heard.

III. Paul's Address on Mars' Hill (vv. 22-31).

1. The introduction (vv. 22, 23). He introduced his discourse in a courteous manner, stating that he perceived that they were very religious. He did not accuse them of superstition as the A. V. would make it, but as the A. R. V., "very religious." He declared that as he was viewing their city he beheld an altar with an inscription, "To the unknown God." He proceeded at once to connect it with the idea of the true God, implying that this altar had been erected to him.

2. The body of his discourse (vv. 24-31).

a. A declaration concerning God (vv. 24, 25).

(1) The true God created the material universe (v. 24). This was a direct blow at the philosophy of both the Epicureans and the Stoics.

(2) God's spirituality and immensity (vv. 24, 25). Being essentially spiritual he demands heart-service, and being transcendent above all he is not confined to earthly temples.

(3) His active providence (v. 25). He gives existence to all things. He bestows needed gifts upon all creatures, and as sovereign directs all things.

b. His declarations concerning man (vv. 26-31).

(1) His common origin (v. 26). This was a blow at the foolish Athenian pride which supposed that they were superior to all other people. This proposition he proved from their own literature (v. 28). He argued that if men are the offspring of God and bear his likeness, it is utter folly to make images such as the idols were.

(2) Nations have their place by the sovereign purpose of God (v. 26). He argued that the position and mission of each nation is of God's appointment.

(3) Men should seek God (v. 27). His goodness and grace in supplying all human needs, and His sovereign ordering of the affairs of nations should move men to see and seek God.

(4) Pressing obligations to repent (vv. 30, 31). This was his supreme message. Though God had formerly passed over the idolatrous practice of the nations, he now calls all men to repent in preparation for the coming day of judgment, the guarantee of which is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

IV. The Results of Paul's Preaching (vv. 32-34).

1. Some mocked (v. 32). Men and women are today mocking the preacher who dares to preach the coming judgment.

2. Some procrastinated (v. 32). This is the common way of men. Many of them do not mock, but they hesitate to accept and act upon the urgency of the message.

3. Some believed (v. 34). Wherever the gospel is preached there are some who believe and are saved.

Commonplace Lives

The most commonplace lives have about them possibilities of romance, tragedy, and humor that discover themselves to the one who ministers to these lives with a brave and resolute heart.

Value of Prayer

Let us value prayer more! Let us use it more as a means! We can have the music of heaven falling down and filling our lives with the sweetest of melodies, of comfort and joy, if we will.

Mrs. Fenn Jones and daughter, Miss Frances Higgins, spent the week end in Birmingham.

OAK GROVE

Our B. Y. P. U. is getting along fine and we hope it will continue. Everyone has an invitation to come and be with us.

There were not many of our Sunday school members out last Sunday, but we urge each one to be out next Sunday, and on time.

Last Thursday evening the Intermediate Sunday school class of Oak Grove church enjoyed a social given at the home of Charles Nix. From the time the guests arrived until their departure games and contests were enjoyed by the following guests: Misses Gladys and Roberta Satterwhite, Onzell and Orell Littleton and Lay Mae Glass, Messrs. Ocie and Owen Littleton, Labon and Rip Northcutt, Marvin Sutley, Pete Glass, Frank Lessley, James and J. F. Nix, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay and the host, Charles Nix.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Webb and family have moved to their former home in Brighton. The community will surely miss this family as they were good in church work, Mrs. Webb being pianist. What's Oak Grove's loss is Brighton's gain.

Miss Johnnie Mae Martin of Woodlawn was the week end guest of Miss Thelma Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pierce and little daughter were week end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pierce.

Mr. Harry Martin visited friends and relatives here this week end.

Miss Gladys Cobb spent the week end with Miss Hazel Glass.

Mr. Marvin Sutley and Misses Roberta and Gladys Satterwhite, Mary Jim Sutley, attend church down at Union Grove Saturday night.

Several young people visited Miss Gladys Cobb Friday night.

JAMES THEODORE NIBLETT

James Theodore Niblett, age one and a half years, died in Mobile last Sunday. The body was shipped to Jemison and buried by Martin at Oak Hill cemetery Tuesday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Johnson, of Jemison. The deceased was the son of Mr. W. D. Niblett and Mrs. Ruby Campbell Niblett, of Mobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teel of Alexander City were in Clanton Sunday attending the birthday celebration and family reunion of Mr. Teel's father, Tom J. Teel.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries by taking this advice!

Can constipation actually be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets, or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can correct this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

This is the way many men and women have made their bowels as regular as clockwork in a very short time.

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as in the case of mineral drugs.

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. The dose can be measured, and the action controlled. Pills and tablets containing drugs of violent action are hard on the bowels.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like syrup pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in this Way

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box or 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

Oh! I Wish We Had Our Telephone Back

IT'S a lonesome, isolated kind of life, trying to get along without a telephone. Out of touch with friends—seldom invited out, and unable to call friends to invite them over for an evening.

"It just doesn't pay," said a customer recently. "I want my telephone back. The happiness and comfort we've missed was worth far more than the small amount we saved by trying to do without it."

When you compare the numerous advantages that a telephone in your home affords with the small cost you will probably agree, too, that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

You can afford the few pennies a day that a telephone costs. Order yours put back now. Just call the telephone business office or give your order to any telephone employe.

"All my friends notice that the last pimple is gone

—naturally, I am proud of my clear skin"

WHY shouldn't she be happy . . . it is everyone's right to have a clear skin . . . often it helps to hold old friends and make new ones.

What causes pimples and boils? Usually it is due to an abnormal condition of the system. What will correct this trouble? More red-blood-cells filled with that vital substance called hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) is what is usually required.

What does hemo-glo-bin in the blood do? It carries the purifying oxygen—so essential to the system's proper functioning—from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin. Also, it throws off the poisonous carbon dioxide.

And S.S.S. restores red-cells and hemo-glo-bin to the blood. Besides, it tones up the system . . . gives you an appetite . . . improves the digestion. Thousands have proven it . . . modern medical research has proven it . . . you can prove it, too.

Take S.S.S. just before meals. No need to change your diet . . . S.S.S. will not interfere with any other medicine you may be taking. You will be happy with the beneficial results obtained. Start taking it today. At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size is more economical.

STATE CHAMPION 4-H "HEC" GIRL IN LINE FOR A $400 SCHOLARSHIP

The chance to win a 5400 agricultural college scholarship will be held by the state's 4-H home economics girl, Zevie E. Sims, 17, Red Bay, Franklin County, when she goes to Chicago late this month to attend the twelfth national club congress, in connection with the International live stock exposition, December 1 to 9.

The girl's record will be judged with other state champions by a committee of state club leaders and the scholarship winner announced at a banquet of 1,200 club delegates and leaders. The trips to the Windy City and expenses while there, and the scholarship, are awards in a national home economics contest sponsored by Montgomery Ward and Company who will be host to the state home queens during their Chicago stay.

The state champion girl's record reveals high achievements in various home projects, according to the national committee on boys and girls club work which conducted the contest in cooperation with extension leaders.

Comparison of this year's records of state champions with last year's high average reveals even greater achievements. The 1932 state queens averaged six years of club enrollment, 12 projects completed, 75 exhibits made and contests entered, and an average gross return per girl well over $400.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB MEETS

The Midway-Mt. Creek Club met with Mrs. Charles Cooper on November 8th with Mrs. W. A. Adams, president, in charge. Miss Ruth Pardue our demonstration agent, and Mrs. L. T. Davis, one of the community leaders, gave us a talk on general care and renovation of old clothes. Miss Durbin, our district manager, met with us. She made a very interesting talk on club work.—Reporter, Mrs. Charles Cooper.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The religions of the world say do and live.

The religion of the Bible says live and do.

What we are is more important than what we do. Only good men can permanently be good.

Men are not liars because they lie. They lie because they are liars. Men are not murderers because they murder. They murder because they are murderers. Men are not thieves because they steal. They steal because they are thieves.

Wisdom is the ability to use knowledge to meet successfully the emergencies of life.

The trouble with many people is they sacrifice the permanent on the altar of the immediate.

You can't do wrong and get away with it. That is what the Bible says. But not exactly in these words. The Bible says, "Be sure your sins will find you out."

When I was a child I used to hear people say, "Sow your wild oats." If you will go to Hot Springs, Arkansas and some other places in America, you will find men reaping their wild oats. Not long ago a man took a gun and blew out his brains. That gun was loaded with wild oats.

Blot out God. Blot out heaven. Blot out hell and let this world be all and it will still pay to live a decent, upright, Christian life.

Math. Prof.—Now if I subtract 26 from 37 what's the difference?

Little Willie—Yeah, that's what I say. Who cares?

"WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND" A BEHIND THE SCENES EXPOSE

Never before in our national history has the American public been so critical of its political representatives as it is today, and now, with a stirring Presidential election very much in the forefront, Columbia comes along with "Washington Merry-Go-Round," advertised in advance reports from Hollywood as a daring expose of what goes on behind the scenes in the national capitol. It is coming to the Wadesonian Theatre Saturday and Saturday night, November 18.

The picture was directed by James Cruze, the man who made "The Covered Wagon," "Old Ironsides" and other splendid American films. The trend of "Washington Merry-Go-Round," it is said, is the Americanism of today—that critical brand which aims to right the wrongs which all intelligent citizens recognize as part of our political system.

Lee Tracy, that brilliant young actor who startled Broadway with his performances in those hit plays, "Brodaway," and "The Front Page" and who scored similar successes on the screen in "Blessed Event," "Night Mayor," "Doctor X," "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain" and other films, plays the principal role in the "Washington Merry-Go-Round," that of a young congressman. Constance Cummings, who appeared in "American Madness," "Movie Crazy," "The Last Man" and other films, is the heroine. A splendid cast of Broadway stage actors plays the other principal roles, Walter Connolly, Alan Dinehart, Arthur Vinton, Clarence Muse, Wallis Clark, Frank Sheridan, Samuel Godfrey and Ernest Woods.

The powerful realistic and dramatic story of the film was written by Maxwell Anderson, co-author of "What Price Glory." The picture was adapted by Jo Swerling, Eugene Thackeray, former Washington correspondent of the New York World, helped as being technical adviser.

Timeliness is stressed in this film, the Soldiers Bonus Army encampment at Anacostia Flats furnishing one of the atmospheric scenes of the capitol. Interesting shots of the White House and historic Washington buildings and monuments are included in the film.

IN MEMORY OF J. J. McDOWELL

On Tuesday at noon, November 17, 1933, the cold icy angel of death entered the home of J. J. McDowell and carried from it our precious father, at the age of 86 years. It was sad, so sad, to give father up, but not as sad as those that have no hope. He was ready, willing and wanted to die. He said he was going home to be with his dear companion, who answered her Master's call on Tuesday, the first day of November, 1927. Surely there was never a sorrow like parting with father and mother. The sadness of that one beautiful day, any soul shall never forget.

He was a faithful member of the Baptist church for 68 years, and he served his country 3 years in the Civil War. God knoweth best. He hears the sad cry of the grieved hearts that call. He leaves to mourn after him four children, two boys, J. W. and J. E. McDowell; two girls, Nancy McDowell and Arvazina Giles, thirty-seven grand children and thirty-five great grandchildren.

Dear father, we cherish sweet memories of you, not only because you taught us in early childhood to perform all duties of this life, but most of all because you taught us from God's great book how to prepare for a greater life, or the life to come. Your vacancy in this home can never be filled. Some day we will understand all things, when all will be glory with you in heaven.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, with Martin, the undertaker, in charge. Interment was made at Poplar Springs, Wednesday, November 8, at one-thirty o'clock.—One who loved him.

First—What do you think makes your room so cool these days, mister?

Fourth—Oh our radiators haven't thawed out from last winter.

Co-ed—Bill said that he was honest only because he didn't like jail.

Cadet—That was frank, wasn't it?

Co-ed—No, that was Bill.

Fun In Store For Boys

World adventure thrills are in store for readers of THE AMERICAN BOY—YOUTH'S COMPANION, according to word just received from the editor of youth's favorite magazine. From the Arctic to the jungles of Haiti, and from the plateau of Asia to the lion country of Africa, the editors have chartered a course of excitement and fun in the 12 issues of 1934.

Several years ago, THE AMERICAN BOY introduced to its readers the popular, black-haired Jimmie Rhodes, army aviator. Those who followed his adventures through Brooks and Kelley Field, and with the 94th Pursuit on cross-country hops, target practice, and formation flying, will be delighted to learn that Jimmie Rhodes has returned to the magazine. The new series takes him to Haiti, where a revolution is impending.

THE AMERICAN BOY — YOUTH'S COMPANION, filled with the adventure every boy craves, with the information he needs, and the advice on hobbies and sports he is always seeking, is the ideal present for that son, cousin, nephew, and chum. It's the kind of present that renews itself every month when the mailman lays a copy on the doorstep. Approved by teachers and educators, and endorsed by high school America, the magazine can solve your Christmas shopping difficulties.

The subscription price to $2.00 for one year. Until Juanary 1, you may take out a three-year subscription for $3.00, a saving of $3.00 over the one-year rate for three years. After January 1, this three-year rate will be withdrawn. Mail your order direct to THE AMERICAN BOY — YOUTH'S COMPANION, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. AGRICULTURE

The chief factors determining successful brooding are sanitation, proper temperature, plenty of room and good ventilation. In natural brooding, all of those are provided except sanitation, and this can be provided by keeping the hens dusted and free of mites, lice, etc., and by thorough disinfection of the brood coops.

Buying day-old chicks has, of late years, become very popular among poultrymen. Day-old chicks should be bought from hatcheries of known reliability, and, preferably, they should be bacillary white diarrea tested.

The following eight points should be observed in regard to sanitation in brooding: (1) clean chicks. (2. Clean incubator and eggs. (3) Clean brooder house. (4) Clean ground. (5) Clean litter. Change each week. (6) Clean feed in clean hoppers. (7) Clean management. (8) Clean laying houses. Poultrymen are coming more and more to realize the necessity of cleanliness in brooding.

Artificial brooding is considered to be superior to natural brooding by practically all poultrymen, due to the fact that the amount of labor is so greatly reduced. Most lamp brooders, usually burning kerosene, are hazardous sources of fire, hence should be attended with caution. It is advisable to place the brooder house at a safe distance from other buildings, regardless of the type of brooder used. Electric and coal brooders are coming more and more to replace the oil burners. Wood burning brooders are also being successfully built.

The brooding system should be tried before it is used. The proper brooder temperature should be attained before the chicks are placed in the brooder house. The floor should be covered with about an inch of litter (cut clover, alfalfa, straw, shavings, or if there is danger of fire, sand.) The temperature under the hover or around the stove should be the first week, 100 F., the second week, 96, third, 92, fourth, 88, then gradually reduced to none. Overheating is more dangerous than chilling.

Proper ventilation is to be provided in the structure of the house, for which plans may be obtained from the extension service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

It has been found by experiment that the more room chicks have the less the mortality rate and the better they grow. On the other hand, the larger number brooded together, the less the expense, therefore it is a question of the most economical number. This is said to be not more than 100 chicks to 25 feet of floor space.

Chicks may be brooded in confinement with a saving of labor and less danger of disease infection, by supplying necessary vitamin D, which is otherwise supplied by sunlight. This can be done by adding cod liver oil to the ration. Deficiency of vitamin D causes leg weakness. Chicks raised in confinement mature three to four weeks earlier. Toe picking sometimes occurs from overcrowding the confined chicks.

In rearing chicks after the brooding period, the main points to remember are to provide sufficient range, 10,000 square feet for each 100 chicks, provide plenty of good feed, stress cleanliness, provide sufficient shelter and remove inferior birds.

See Farmers' Bulletin No. 1538, "Incubation and Brooding of Chickens," and No. 1541, "Feeding Chickens". These may be obtained from Lamar Jeffers, Washington, D.C.

COLLEGE EXPENDITURES IN ALABAMA DROP 73 PER CENT

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 14.—In the reduction of funds for publicly supported institutions of higher learning, Alabama has probably fared worse than any state in the union, the office of the Alabama Education Association announced in Montgomery Friday. According to this announcement, the reductions in expenditures for this purpose in the state have dropped 72.9 per cent since 1929-1930, while during the same period similar reductions for the nation at large were only 15 per cent.

The above figures are based on a study recently compiled by Dr. R. L. Johns, of the school of Education at Auburn, who collaborated with the state department of education, the research division of the national education association and the office of education in Washington.

The 1930-1931 report of the state superintendent of education for Alabama shows that the total expenditures for 1929-1930 for institutions of higher learning were $5,675,511, of which amount $2,869,221 was for capital outlay.

Preliminary estimates by the state department of education indicate that for 1932-1933 there was spent in Alabama by the institutions of higher learning $1,539,000, of which $9,000 was spent for capital outlay.

Comparing these expenditures of 1929-1930 with those of 1932-1933, it is seen that the total expenditures for the institutions of higher learning in Alabama has been reduced 72.9 per cent. During the four years since the onset of the existing depression, capital outlays have suffered a reduction of 99.6 per cent, very little money being spent by the colleges of the state for this purpose.

SCHOOL NEWS

We want to remind all the parents to pay their incidental fees because there are several debts hanging over our school and there are also several more important things to be purchased. We want to remind them also that we haven't much wood and days are getting colder. We wish to thank those who have responded.

Our civics class is showing much interest since we have ordered a little note book entitled, "Our Progress Book in Civics."

All the girls are working hard to get the girls basket ball team started with their playing.

Coach Carl Glasscock is carrying the boys to Union Grove Friday afternoon for the first basket ball game they have played this season. To show that you have some school spirit, be there and root for your team.

Mr. W. L. Sanders, one of the members of the county board of education, also a patron of our school, visited us last Thursday. We are always glad to have our parents visit us in school.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday afternoon and made plans for a chicken supper to be given here on Wednesday night before Thanksgiving. Notice next week's paper for further announcements.

Our P.-T. A. holds its next meeting Monday, November 27, 1933. This is a very important meeting and all parents are urged to be present.

The meeting of the 4-H club was called together by our president, Ertice Riggins Tuesday morning, November 7, 1933. The minutes were discussed by our secretary and treasurer, Everee Smith. Plans were made for our year's work. There are 55 members enrolled thus far.

We are very sorry to say that two of our patrons, Mrs. Marion Nelson and Mr. Tom Burnett, are in very bad health at present, but we hope for them a speedy recovery.

We have four new members this week listed as: Julia Cox, Jr. I; Jesse Cox, sixth grade; Annie Ruth Pate sixth grade; Marguerite Pate, fourth grade.

East View News

The social and weiner roast given by the Christian Endeavor last Friday night was attended by a large crowd. Miss Marguerite Davison and Miss Dorothy Butler from Thorsby attended the social. Many games were played. The games were directed by Miss Davison.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson has been sick in bed since last Saturday.

Mrs. Clara Rushing has been sick in bed since last Sunday.

Mrs. Mamie Traywick has been suffering with a painful eye for several days. We hope for them all a speedy recovery.

Mr. Otis Coggins was a visitor here Sunday.

Mrs. Cornelius Coggins is spending this week with her mother, Mrs. A. C. Nelson.

Miss Eldora Hull was the Sunday dinner guest of Misses Mary Sue and Emma Dean Smith.

Mrs. Lavolia Williams of Montgomery is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Mamie Traywick.

The Christian Endeavor is planning a debate for the second Saturday night in December. The subject of the debate will be "Resolve that it is worse for a church member to sit down and do nothing than for them to try to rule or ruin." The public is cordially invited.

Miss Marguerite Davison taught a leaders and teachers training class here Monday and Tuesday nights of this week. She will teach here the same nights in next week.

She will teach at Mt. Springs church on Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week and next.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rushing and Mr. Silas Nelson attended the state conference of Congregational churches at Thorsby last week.

Mr. Bennie Guy of Mt. Creek spent Thursday night of last week with Rev. A. C. Nelson.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Our B. Y. P. U. is still improving. Those who missed the program Sunday night, missed a lot. As you know it was to be an all-girls program. The subject was, "Young Womanhood at the Feet of Jesus." Mrs. Alma Wilson directed the music and Mrs. Lester Downs acted as president, and those who were on the program were Mrs. Bertha Mitchell, Mrs. Reuben Devaughn, Miss Lera Mae Mitchell, Mrs. Emmett Wilson and Miss Evelyn Downs. The subject for next Sunday night is, "The Perseverance of the Believer." Young Christians ought to know what they believe and why; so you must come to B. Y. P. U. Sunday night and find out what you must believe and why.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. There will be preaching Saturday at 11 o'clock and Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock, Sunday school Sunday at 10 and preaching at 11, B. Y. P. U. Sunday night at 6 o'clock. Bro. Robinson will preach for us Sunday night after B. Y. P. U. Come and bring someone with you.

Mr. Oliver Glenn spent Saturday night with Mr. Raymond Kelley.

Mr. Lee Mitchell had as his Saturday afternoon guest Sanders Watkins.

Miss Lera Glenn spent the week end with Miss Lera Mae Mitchell.

Miss Berniece Devaughn spent Saturday night with Miss Merle Aldridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Downs of Birmingham were visiting Mr. R. J. Downs and family Sunday.

Misses Lera Glenn and Lera Mae Mitchell, Messrs. Alton Harris, Pete Wilson and O. L. Devaughn attended the singing Saturday night at the home of Mr. Abner Cox near East View.

Mr. Cecil Wilson had as his dinner guest Sunday Mr. Evan Mitchell.

Mr. Oliver Glenn and Mr. Raymond Kelley were visiting in Clanton Saturday.

We were glad to see Mr. John Dunlap back at Sunday school Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs had as their guest for the week end their grandson, Claude Downs, Jr.

Miss Marie Devaughn spent Wednesday night of last week with Miss Merle Kelley.

Miss Allie Davis spent Saturday night with her cousins, Misses Lillie May and Lois Davis.

Mr. Audie Brown had as his supper guests Sunday night Messrs. Oliver Glenn and Raymond Kelley.

Mr. W. F. Glenn visited in Cooper Monday.

No County Papers Before Thursdays

For reasons which we regard as sufficient, The Union-Banner and Chilton County News announce this week that in the future no copies of these papers will be available to the public before Thursday morning of each week.

As in the past, the papers will be delivered to subscribers at all post-offices and on all rural routes in the county on Thursday mornings.

Please do not ask us for copies of the papers on Wednesday afternoon, as will be forced to refuse your request. Thanks.

THE PUBLISHERS.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Our pastor, Rev. Cost failed to show up. We did not have preaching Saturday morning or Saturday night. Rev. Green of Jemison preached a wonderful sermon Sunday at 11 a.m. and another one after B. Y. P. U. Our B. Y. P. U. president, secretary and organist were absent Sunday night.

The many friends of Miss Maude Rogers will be sorry to hear of her death. Maude was raised here. She left here several years ago and went to Sylacauga, where she has been ever since. She later married up there, but the writer does not remember her husband's name.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sims of Sylacauga visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sims, last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Showalter Scott and baby, Perry Lee, of near Wetumpka were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott last Monday.

Miss Addie Collum entertained on Tuseday night with a party in honor of her spend the night guests, Misses Marion and Josephine Adams, Vonzell Atkinson and Roberta Fuller of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller spent part of last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller.

Miss Avon Thornbrough of Birmingham spent Wednesday night with her sister, Mrs. Russell Scott.

Little Leon Childress has been on the sick list, but is better now.

Mrs. Louis Gillespie and children from Clanton spent the latter part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb. While here she and her mother and sister, Imogene, visited her sister, Mrs. Franklin Lowery, of Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holsombeck, Mrs. J. D. Scott and Mr. George Thornbrough visited Mrs. Holsombeck's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Littlejohn over in Perry County Sunday. Mr. Littlejohn is real low. He has been sick for five or six weeks, and is not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Scott have moved into the house vacated by Mr. Claudy Scott.

Mrs. Lloyd Cobb and baby, Peggy Sue, are visiting here sister, Mrs. Guss Abston in Aldridge this week.

Messrs. Ben Tom Haynes, Leo and J. O. Cobb, Misses Irene and Olene Miller, Mildred and Berney Dean Cobb attended the singing at Providence Sunday afternoon. They reported a large crowd.

Say folks, come on and let's all try to come to Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. It's the fellow that stays away that misses something. Group No. 2 is in charge of the B. Y. P. U. program Sunday night with Group No. 1 in charge of the daily Bible reading.

We noticed several from Providence at church Sunday night. Glad to have you. Come again.

Rev. R. P. Cochran of Clanton is attending conference in Dothan.

THE LUMBERMAN'S PRAYER

Three sawmill men once hid themselves
Behind a slab conveyor.
And kneeling on their patched up pants
One offered up this prayer:

Dear Lord, I know we're crazy,
But we've always been that way.
And if it isn't against the law
There's something we'd like to say.

All through the winter we have run
The weather has been swell,
But we've made too many boards.
And the market's gone to hell.

Oh, can't you bring a snowstorm on?
Or can't you touch an earthquake off?
Or just a little flood?
'Twould do us so much good.

The order file hangs like a shroud
Upon the office wall.
The sidetrack's getting rusty,
And the piles are getting tall.

And we are getting older
As the years slip quickly by.
All we ask is to break even
Just awhile before we die.

Oh, give us trees with lots of clear,
And heavy to the acre.
And fill our sheds with high-priced stock
And then send on a taker.

Oh, fill our banker's hearts with love
And school them in affection.
And keep the sheriff and his gang
From coming our direction.

Now we're not asking very much,
We're used to being busted,
But lady luck has left us cold.
She's no more to be trusted.

And if you can't do all these things,
Please don't fool around,
But give us courage in our hearts
And guts to shut her down.

MARX BROTHERS ARE CRAZY OFF STAGE AS WELL AS ON

Simply cu-razy! Off stage and on!

The public, which knows the Four Marx Brothers for a thoroughly insane lot, principally through such pictures as "Horse Feathers," their latest starring effort, which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre Friday, November 17 and Saturday midnight, November 18, shares that knowledge with the quartet's best friends.

The latter know that in private the Marx boys are just as "batty" as they are on the stage or screen. Many a story about their mad off stage antics is going the rounds in a dozen cities in the country.

The Paramount studio in Hollywood is the least safe place in the film capital when the mad brothers are making a picture. Executives arriving at work one morning, for example, found the name plates from their doors had been shifted around, and no one knew which office was which.

"The Marx Brothers got here early this morning," they were informed, and that explained it.

Harpo, silent, red-wigged member of the Marx quartet, is given to chasing blondes across stages and screens to the delight of audiences. But he does it in private life, too.

When the Marx Brothers were making personal appearances in Cincinnati last season, a pretty golden-haired cigarette girl in the swank Netherland Plaza Hotel learned that fact.

She walked into a stately solemn restaurant where all was decorum, to discover Harpo at a table with his other three brothers. As she approached he made a lunge at her, as if to pursue her. She jumped.

Then Harpo sprang up and she fled in earnest. Between the tables, and around pillars she ran, with Harpo close on her trail. Dignified head waiters and startled guests looked on in amazement, too surprised to do anything. Then Harpo abandoned the chase and went back to his dinner.

THIS AND THAT

By W. J. Baldwin
Montgomery, Ala.

Well it looks like the Republican party is determined to make a jackass out of the Blue Eagle. And no few so-called Democrats applaud on the side. It's enough to make any Eagle blue.

One out of every three convicts committed last year to Alabama State prisons were unemployed at the time he was arrested. Five years ago, the ratio was one out of every seven. Crime increases with idleness. The first thing Alabama does to a convict is to clean him, then put him to work. When the prison industries are closed down under the Hawes-Cooper Act, there will be practically no vocational training for Alabama convicts. They will go back into the world to idle and commit more crimes, while the tax-payers dig into their pockets to fork up the money these convicts now earn for the state and which goes toward their maintenance.

She was almost as broad as she was long. After making several frantic efforts to get her avoirdupois inside the telephone booth in the Gay Teague lobby, she gave up in despair. When a womn gets that fat, there's no use talking.

Whenever I hear it argued that a man cannot succeed in business unless he starts at the bottom, I immediately wonder where that fellow is who made a neat little fortune digging wells.

It ought not to be difficult to recognize a country as large as Russia.

There was a time when a man using a horse and buggy could visit every county seat in Alabama in a few months. Today, with good roads and the automobile, he can visit them in a few days. It was an event in olden days when a farmer went to the county seat. Today, it's a mere pop of the finger. Just like that!

Dr. Henry J. Willingham was awarded a booby prize down in Coffee County, or elsewhere in those parts, for being the ugliest man at the awarding. Nobody but Bibb Graves knows the brand of tobacco he chews. Frank Dixon has read "The Clansman."

Things hard to understand—Why any man wants to be lieutenant governor. Who hit Huey-Long. Why spinach. How to spell asafoetida. Electricity. Contract bridge. Why the name Tchoupitoulas begins with a T. Railroad time-tables.

The depression certainly left an impression!

The train came to a sudden stop. Trainmen rushed to the vestibules, while passengers looked at each other in amazement. The engineer, fireman, conductor and flagmen were in a huddle.

"Get a crowbar, quick" shouted the engineer.

"Better get the jack," retorted the fireman.

"It moved" ejaculated the conductor as if highly pleased.

"All together now! Push hard, boys, I think it is going to work," chimed in the flagman.

"Ah, there it is," all four cried in unison as the Pullman window budged four inches.

Every prospective candidate for governor has discussed and advocated increasing the taxes of people and business. Not one has said anything about bringing in more industries and people to be taxed. Alabama could well afford, the Legislature permitting, to invest a portion of its income in an advertising campaign to increase our taxable wealth by inducing new people with new capital to locate here.

A. J. Gullahorn of Birmingham, was here Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Mary Gullahorn, who died in Jackson, Miss., Saturday.

Mr. John C. Page went to Nashville Monday night on account of the death of his aunt, Mrs. J. Robinson.

Rev. S. J. Ezell left Monday for Sheffield where he will attend the Alabama Baptist State Convention this week.

MRS. CORNELIA GULLAHORN

Mrs. Cornelia Gullahorn, age 84 years, died early Tuesday morning at the home of her brother, W. H. Wright, in Clanton. Funeral services were held at the Wright home by Rev. Cochrane Wednesday morning, after which burial was in Clanton cemetery in charge of Martin.

The deceased was the widow of the late E. Tom Gullahorn, and was a sister of Uncle Billy Wright. Another sister, Mrs. John Gullahorn, died at Jackson, Alabama, last Sunday, and was buried here Monday.

Hance Alred has been sick with flu for several days. He is reported better now.

Mr. M. Z. Atchison has moved his family into to the Lester Jones home in South Clanton.

Mrs. Bill Murphy and Mrs. Jim LeCroy of Lay Dam were visitors in Clanton Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Jesse C. Jones is able to be back at work in the Service Barber Shop, after an illness of several weeks.

J. W. P. Murphy of Providence, Beat 16, was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

BACKACHE, NERVOUS

Mrs. A. Watford of 1011 S. St. Andrews St., Dothan, Ala., said: "I was nervous, couldn't sleep, suffered from pains in my back and lost weight. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to restore my lost strength. I noticed a big difference soon after I started using it and I gradually became myself again." Sold by druggists everywhere.

ISABELLA F. F. A. NEWS

The Isabella F. F. A. chapter has started the work off this year better than ever before. The first action of the chapter was to set up "program of work," putting stress on the following points:

1. Have an active F. F. A. chapter with not less than four members holding the state farmer degree by the end of the state convention at Auburn in July, 1934.

2. Hold annual father-son and mother-daughter banquet.

3. Start F. F. A. library.

4. Sponsor live-at-home program by making a five-year plan to suit the need of the community.

5. Start some cooperative projects for the surrounding communties benefit, such as (a) community hot-beds; (b) rat killing campaigns.

6. Each F. F. A. member take a home beautification project.

7. Construct dressing room and a shower for the athletic department of the school.

8. Help to uphold the state organization by sending in suggestions for the improvement of same, and a number of others that we hope to carry out.

The F. F. A. boys were entertained last Saturday night with a party at the home of Clifford Manning. All the boys that attended seemed to enjoy it very much. They were entertained with games and contests after which they were served with a grape drink and cake. We are planning on having our annual banquet jointly with the home economics club on Tuesday night, November 28. Each boy and girl are to invite their father and mother. Some special guests will be the main speakers of the occasion.

One of the F. F. A. members has the privilege of attending the national F. F. A. convention at Kansas City. We hope that the boys will continue with the work as they have started it, throughout the year.

Be broadminded. Do not always be suspicious of your fellow students. Give the person you are dealing with the benefit of the doubt. We all make mistakes, and we like to feel that we have a chance to correct our mistakes. Give the other person the chance you would want.

Mrs. Browder's Lunch Room

If you want to be wealthy,
You must first be healthy,
So try the lunch room food.
It surely is nourishing and good.
You can not find at any time
So nice a lunch just for a dime.

The Clanton Grammar school P.-T. A. met Friday, November 10, at three o'clock. The following program was given by the pupils of the fifth grade:

Scripture reading, Lorene Bone.

Prayer, Nellie Grubbs.

"November," a song, a group of pupils.

Things I Am Thankful For, Mary Wyatt.

A Piano selection, Ann Ross.

Music is a Magic Thing, a group of pupils.

At the conclusion of the children's program, Mr. Little made an interesting talk on P.-T. A. work. Miss Mary England, of the state department, was present and encouraged the members to work in harmony and so have a live organization.

The fifth grade had the most votes from parents, and will therefore, get the half holiday.

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

There will be no preaching at the Congregational church next Sunday morning. In the evening there will be a song service after C.E., to which everyone is cordially invited.

The Lutheran Ladies aid social will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Nelson. Everyone is requested to bring her own cup and plate.

The womanless wedding to be given by the business men of Thorsby was postponed from last Friday night until this Friday night, November 17. It is to be given at the grammar school.

The state conference of Congregational and Christian churches, which was held in Thorsby last week at the Congregational church, was carried out finely. The program was good, the number of delegates at large and the speakers unusually fine. The entertaining of so large a crowd appeared somewhat difficult to the members of the church, but other ladies of the town generously helped out. Serving the meals at the church building and having the sessions in the Thorsby Institute auditorium proved very satisfactory to all concerned. Among the speakers on the program were President Henry C. Newell of Piedmont College, Demorest Ga.; Judge Louise O. Charlton, Birmingham; President William J. Campbell, Southern Seminary Foundation, Vanderbilt, Nashville; and Secretary A. W. Sparks, church extension board, Dayton, Ohio.

Mrs. Mary Prince, Miss Ruth Prince and Mrs. Anna Gardner and daughter of Alexander City were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Prince Sunday.

Thorsby Institute News

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson have very generously made for Thorsby Institute a rock garden and a pool beside it. Richard helped with the work. Mr. Peterson made a very pretty cement bench, placed near the pool. This gift is very much appreciated.

The glee club of Thorsby Institute made its first appearance this year on Thursday morning at the chapel hour. Dr. Ensminger gave a short talk on the modern conception of religion.

A program of recent music recital at Piedmont College shows that Lois Thompson, Katheryn Lenoir and Katheryn Foss, all Thorsby Institute graduates, took part in the recital.

A week from Saturday night, at 7:30 o'clock, will be the annual stunt night at Thorsby Institute. Everyone is invited. Admission is ten cents.

The sophomore class sang their class hymn, "Dare to be Brave, Dare to be True," at chapel Monday morning.

Two duets, "The Swan," and "A Polish Dance," were played by Jane Billingsley and Ruth Foss in chapel Tuesday morning.

REFUGE NEWS

FLORIDIAN IS KILLED IN ROAD ACCIDENT

R. C. Dick, 23, was fatally injured and a companion, Adrian Bell, both of Brooksville, Fla., was hurt when the truck in which they were riding overturned five miles South of Calera Thursday morning.

Both Dick and Bell were brought to South Highlands Hospital in Birmingham by a Ridout ambulance. Dick died several hours after being admitted to the hospital. Bell, hospital attaches reported, was not seriously hurt.

Bell stated that they were enroute to Birmingham from Brooksville with a truck load of oranges at the time the accident occurred.

Dick was a student at the University of Florida. Bell was a former student at the University of Alabama.

CORRECTION IN THE CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION MINUTES

To those interested, we wish to call attention to a correction in the Chilton County Association minutes. The name of T. W. Billingsley should have appeared under Licensed Ministers; and J. N. Scott, C. H. Lowery and W. T. Davis should have appeared under Ordained Ministers. The names are all in the minutes but are listed incorrectly.

These minutes are ready at The Union-Banner office, and all churches are urged to call for their portion at the earliest possible date.

MAPLESVILLE IS READY FOR A BIG STOCK SALE FRIDAY

Tomorrow morning (Friday) at 10:30 the big live stock sale at Maplesville will open with a bang. Daddy Fox and Col. Bob Little are all primed to prize the lid off at the appointed hour. Most of the live stock are on the grounds, and under the watchful eyes of competent help are quietly awaiting the opening of the sale.

Maplesville is to be complimented for putting on this great event. While it is only a small town in the western part of Chilton County, it has accomplished something to boast of. Her neighboring towns have discussed time and time again such an undertaking, but deferred and decided to wait till conditions improve. But Maplesville's idea was to get busy and thereby help improve conditions.

Few people realize fully the benefits this sale will create. Every farmer who wants to buy or sell can find something to interest him at this sale. The profits of the middle man will be marked off. Cattle can be sold here at a top price with no long haul to distant markets, no yardage or commissions to pay. In fact the sale is being promoted for the benefit of local cattlemen and farmers.

Daddy Fox and Col. Bob Little will call the sale. At noon a fine barbecue lunch will be served. Everybody is invited.

The most exclusive club in America is the one which limits its membership only to those who haven't lost anything in the stock market since 1929.

Tightness of credit is said to be one of the things which is lenghtening the depression. But so far as we are concerned it has always seemed tight.

Another reason we counsel peace in Europe a while longer is that it would be very foolish for anyone in Europe to start a war right when the United States is so hard up.

High Tariffs Ahead

Those of us who remember the flood of criticism which descended on the Smoot-Hawley tariff law during the campaign a year ago, and have not forgotten the promises made to change it in the interest of the "poor consumer" and to the detriment of the "plutocrats," have a right to be interested in the recent pronouncements from official circles at Washington to the effect that any import flood from the cheaply producing nations of Europe and the Orient will be met by tariff increases. A special order of the Chief Executive empowers the officials of the National Recovery Act to investigate any report that foreign goods are gaining the domestic market by underselling products of codified American business with its increased costs. The first step is to be an NRA investigation, followed by a Tariff Commission investigation which will put the matter finally up to the president.

That the provisions of the National Recovery Act have raised production costs is not to be denied. It was expected this would happen. Of course, with higher costs, American producers are less able to compete with foreign producers than before. Tariff increases must follow as inevitable as the dawn follows the darkness.

The significant fact is that the new administration, with its overwhelming Democratic majority, is being compelled, by change of circumstances, to adopt tariff policies which were so roundly denounced by the campaign orators supporting the present administration in the 1932 campaign.

M. S. Ruckeyser, financial columnist for the Universal Service, called attention to the present nationalistic policy on the tariff, recently, when he said:

"The business man should be cheered by the prospect that in the cost-raising process incidental to the NRA, he will be protected from foreign interests not subject to the same social standards. The president has the power under the national recovery act to put embargoes on competitive foreign merchandise and he could steady the nerves of the business community by indicating an intention to do so. There are indications from Washington that the President so intends.

"The main task of informed leadership is to reinterpret to the world our policy of intelligent economic nationalism as friendly and constructive. Our 'New Deal' experiment in controlled and planned economics must necessarily be carried out within national frontiers, since we lack the power to establish conditions of control beyond our borders."

All of which is fine and good. We heartily agree with a policy which would protect the American producer in his own market from cheap competition abroad. But we can't help wondering what that arch defender of low tariffs and tariff barrier elimination, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, thinks about this new protective policy. And there are others within the ranks of the administration forces ardent proponents of free trade in the past, who must wake up in the middle of the night and wonder whether it isn't all a bad dream.

Tariffs and Embargoes

One of the statements persistently made during the last campaign by the advocates of lower tariff and free trade agreements, was in substance that the protective tariff does not do the farmer any good. The American agriculturist, they declared, was compelled to buy what he needed in a protected market and to sell what he raised in the free markets of the world. Both ends of this argument are absurd. On the one hand, every commodity used exclusively by the farmer on the farm comes into the United States duty free, and on the other hand a great many products raised in American agriculture must be protected or the American producer will go out of business.

When the free trader talks about the farmer being compelled to take the world price for his produce he is thinking only in terms of wheat. But the farmers of America raise many other things, and some of the other crops have a greater aggregate money value than wheat. Even at that we are at times threatened with importations of that important cereal. At the meeting of Western governors the other day to discuss farm remedies one of the demands presented by the representatives of farm organizations was by the cattle and hog men that the government place an embargo on imported oils, fats and other farm products.

So it is evident that the Smoot-Hawley tariff which the speakers supporting the present administration denounced in 1932 as "iniquitous" and as placing "barber wire entanglements" around the country that "stifled foreign trade," is not even high enough in 1933, at least so far as certain farm products are concerned. Now even higher tariffs are being demanded and in some instances embargoes on foreign products.

It is a significant fact that in spite of all the denunciation of the Smoot-Hawley tariff in the 1932 campaign, nothing has been done toward repealing it and that instead of lower tariffs many pillars of the administration are now talking about higher schedules.

In such a situation what are the old-fashoined free traders of the so-called Jeffersonian school now thinking (although Jefferson in his life-time was a protectionist). Certainty at this stage of our national existence they are all dressed up with no place to go.

The New Plague

Ever since discussion of the NRA put the "boycotting" idea into the headlines, life the world over seems to have been one boycott after another. Of course it is not a new disease.

Appearing in America with a few attempted isolated cases of boycotts against those who failed to display the blue eagle, the plague became evident throughout the world.

Germany began her boycott against the Jews within her borders. The American Jews launched their boycott against Germany and Americans of German birth began to retailate by quietly but systematically boycotting the Jewish concerns in the United States.

The American Federation of Labor then announced at its recent national convention that it would boycott China, Russia, Italy and Germany because those nations have sounded the death knell of freely organized labor unions. The White Russians in the United States, of which there are hundreds of thousands, have announced that they will boycott Soviet Russia, American banks financing Soviet Russia or its trade, and firms purchasing Russian goods for sale in the United States. And Soviet Russia has boycotted Christ and His teachings.

The radical Milo Reno farm movement has announced a boycott on the American market until farm prices are raised. China has boycotted Japanese products, as has Russia, and to top the story off, the United States government has for a time "boycotted" the Ford Motor Co., preventing the various governmental departments from placing orders with that firm because it does not fly the blue eagle, although it claims to be living up to or beyond the requirements of the automobile code as to wages and hours of labor.

If the plague is to continue its devastating march, about all that remains now is for those who have not yet been affected by these actions to boycott one another. Then all of the wheels of progress will be at a standstill and we can go down for the third time with a scowl on our faces and resentment in our hearts.

Congress is scattered all over the country, wondering what it will do when it assembles again.

For a Republican instituton which the Democrats were going to abolish as soon as they got in office the R. F. C. seems to be a pretty busy concern.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Some newspaper men the other day, in commenting tersely on the differences of opinion which have grown up between Henry Ford and General Johnson, suggested that if everyone who is dissatisfied because the NRA has raised the cost of living more than it has raised his income, were to buy a Ford car, the famous Detroit manufacturer would not be injured to any great extent by a proposed government boycott of his product.

While there is neither the time nor the space available here to discuss the whys and wherefores of the controversy between Henry Ford and the NRA, it is undoubtedly true that a great deal of such dissatisfaction as may exist among the rank and file of our people today is due to the fact that generally incomes have not risen as fast as the cost of living. That is being the latest wave of farm discontent, and the complaint can be heard on the street corner in the city as well as in the rural district. While it is undoubtedly true that the recovery program in shortening hours and increasing wages has helped the workers in many industries, it is equally true that such workers represent only a small percentage of the great body of American consumers, even in the urban districts.

That the rise in the price of finished products has outrun the rise in the price which the farmer gets for his produce is undoubtedly true, and this furnishes the inspiration for a great deal of the present demand for inflation. In the towns and cities too there are many workers who have received no increase in wages commensurate with the increase in price of the commodities they have to buy, and there is another great class of consumers who live on fixed salaries or fixed incomes who are undergoing the same unpleasant experience. The government has sought to help the farmer with a processing tax on wheat and cotton, but up to this time the policy has only succeeded in raising the price of necessities in the city without aiding the farmer to any great extent. And the processing tax on wheat, for xeample, is not a sound method for increasing the consumption of flour, no matter how it may be viewed from other angles.

Evidently on the theory that the new farm recovery plan has not had sufficient time to work itself out, the government is going ahead with an extension of processing taxes. The latest announcement of Secretary Wallace is for an allotment plan for corn and hogs. The procedure is similar to that in the wheat plan for cutting down production, and to pay the cost of hiring the farmers to reduce hog production, a processing tax which will amunt to two dollars a hundred pounds by February 1, 1934, is to be levied on live hogs. Just how this will work out remains to be seen. It used to be the theory that when there was a surplus in the country one way to remedy the situation was to increase the demand. This is evidently not the present theory, however, as raising the retail price of pork in the markets of the country will not tend to inducee the ultimate consumer, who is already a little peeved, to increase his consumption of pork. And it is not to be forgotten that a tax of two cents a pound on live hogs is apt to be multiplied many times before it gets to the consumer.

One thing leads to another. Since they realize that higher pork prices may tend to induce people to turn to beef, some so-called economic experts are now suggesting a small processing tax on beef in order to "even-up" when the price of pork goes up, although it is generally admitted that there is no great surplus of beef cattle in the country.

The entire governmental recovery plan with its many ramifications has now become so involved that a great many students of economics are beginning to wonder just where we are going to come out. Some of them are wondering whether it wouldn't have been a better, as it certainly would have been a simpler recovery plan, to have passed minimum wage and maximum hour laws in the first place, subject to review and modification by competent authority, and let it go at that, trusting to the good sense of the American people to finish the work, aided as they would have been by federal construction and the natural forces of recovery which have been trying to improve the situation in America for several months now, just as they have been improving it in England, in France, in Germany, in Italy and in South America.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Our New Friend

Right now negotiations are under way, by which the U. S. Government will recognize the Soviet Russian government. Now, let's look the matter over a bit, and see just what we are recognizing. The new Soviet set-up in Russia is all-powerful, even worse than an absolute monarchy. Everything is controlled by the government, even down to the nursing of the new-born babies. First, in Russia, all churches have been abolished, and most if not all the church buildings torn down. Then, all commerce, all industry is under direct government control. Nobody works for himself. Everything is government property. A person does not take up the kind of work he likes best, but must work at the job he is assigned to. Let's take their farming, as an example. The government furnishes all seed, fertilizer, tools, etc., and the people are divided into work squads, to work when and where the overseers direct. A man (or woman, for the women must work same as the men) may work one day in one place, and the next day he may work miles from that place. If he is sick it makes no difference—he must be unable to stand before he is released from work for that day, and even then, if the overseer has an idea that man is trying to put something over, he may have his day's rations denied him. When the harvest opens, everything is gathered and stored in government warehousese, and the people come daily for their rations. There is no such thing as individual effort and gain—everything is in common. When a baby is to be born, the mother is placed in a government hospital; she is allowed to stay with her baby the first three months after birth, after which it is taken to a government-owned "baby farm," and the mother returns to her work in the fields. She may never see it again, and has absolutely nothing to do with its care. All marriages must be sanctioned by an official. Now, that is what our own government is getting around to when its officials say "the rugged individualism of America must go." That is the kind of government we are recognizing in Russia. And, of course, one of the terms of recognition which Russia will exact is that Russians be allowed to come into the United States. Once here, they will, of course, go about their business of preaching this kind of doctrine to our own people. In the South I have no fear that such Communistic talk would get very far, but in other sections of the country where there are already many foreigners, the seed will fall in rich ground. Is such as this good for America? I leave it to your good judgment, no matter what your politics. But, good or bad, that is what our high officials are inviting when they recognize Russia. Do we want like conditions? You can answer for yourself.

Looking Ahead

Ere long, announcements from the candidates for the several different offices of the county will be forthcoming. Almost every day I hear of some new hat that will be in the ring. If all reports are true, there will be a bumper candidate crop in 1934. And, then, from some I hear the wail, "We Republicans must get together." That is true, and the next question is: "How will we do it?" Every voter holds the answer to that question in his own hands. If a man is a REAL Republican he will abide by the decision of the majority of our voters in the primary. If he is not willing to this, he cannot be a true Republican. Let every candidate who wishes to announce do so, carrying his fight to the people on his own merits, and not on the demerits of his opponents. Then, when the smoke of the primary is settled, let every person who goes into our primary, whether candidate or not, dig in solidly behind the party slate and fight to a finish—as Republicans. For once, let's forget "wings, rings and cliques" and vote as Republicans. Let selfish interest and personal feeling be left out in the cold, and let's all gather in again for a good, old time family reunion—on election day. That's the solution to our party problem, and the only one. Mud-slinging is a dead give-away of selfishness, and we are all better off without it. Let's forget the past, and plan now for an era of Republican unity, which will result in carrying a full Republican ticket into office next year. The voters, individually, must decide whether we have a strong, united party. Let's have it!

This Salt Business

Somebody wants to know what is becoming of all the salt that is being sold in this neck-'o-the-woods. Taylor Grocery Co., of Clanton, has made some kind of a record on salt sales for the last year, in car-load lots, too, mind you, and it doesn't seem natural that this neighborhood could use that much salt. Here's a possible solution. You know, it is said that people take some things "with a grain of salt"—that is, it doesn't sound reasonable. Well, if you'll remember, a great flock of promises were made last year—maybe some salt was swallowed along with them. Then along came a few people with a big ballyhoo about what great things the new administration was and is doing—more salt, please. Then came beer, and that used some salt. And to cap it all, Congressman "Buck" Oliver was in the vicinity a few days ago, and spoke to a "full house" at the courthouse. (That crowd was there to listen to court proceedings, though, mind, you, and did not know that they would have to listen to "Buck.") Great gobs of salt must have been consumed along with his speech, too. If people really take things "with a grain of salt" now and then, there is no wonder there has been an over-consumption to go will all this Democratic tripe we have had to put up with. And I'm warning you now—if you want to be safe, lay in a good salt supply for the coming year, for 1934 is election year, you know. We'll need plenty of salt.

The Honeymoon is Over

History repeats itself. No question about it. Every honeymoon is followed by disillusionment. While the honeymoon is going on, all get along fine, living in air castles. Afterward, when the faults begin to show up, the old ship flounders helplessly, and sometimes wrecks. When there is no wreck, the principals settle down to make the best of a bad bargain, vowing to themselves to do better next time. The Democratic honeymoon is over, and the "cap'n" is having quite a time keeping his ship's crew in line. Every day "old-line" Democratic senators and state officials are swamping the administrative offices with grave warnings on account of the highhanded manner in which things are being handled. New York City, for the first time in years and years, has elected a Republican, LaGuardia, for mayor. The entire mid-west farm belt has revolted, and right now all the big guns are out there trying to smooth things out, including Mr. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, and the "big Bertha" himself, Hugh S. Johnson. Even down here in the "dear old solid South" there are mutterings, but they will pay no attention to the South, as usual, inasmuch as they know the South will stay solid no matter what is put on them. Yep! The honeymoon is over, and the rolling-pins are beginning to fly. Will Rogers says he can find at least one wise thing that has been done—Vice President Garner has been sent on a four-year fishing trip, and that will help some, having to put up with that much less muddling.

Take Another Look

In discussing European peace, Roger Babson, the economist, says that Uncle Sam is as much to blame for the present situation as Germany or France, and he adds: "The people of the United States must keep in mind that no great step toward peace, such as the League of Nations and the World Court, can amount to a row of pins if, for political reasons, we fail to cooperate."

It occurs to us that Mr. Babson ought to analyze his recent history more carefully. Under the last three of four administrations the United States has sought to cooperate with the League of Nations in every constructive effort that has been offered. We have gone as far as we could without involving ourselves hopelessly in foreign entanglement and violating every tradition of American policy. We even tried to join the World Court, but our application was refused because we saw fit to reserve to ourselves the right to adjudicate domestic questions.

The two great failures which have defeated the League of Nations have been its inability to cope with the Manchurian problem and with the disarmament question in Europe. In each instance the United States has given as much cooperation as is consistent with its place in international affairs. No more could have been accomplished had we been a member of the League unless we had agreed to furnish arms and money to wage war on Japan to compel it to leave Manchuria and to furnish money and a part of force for coercing Germany because she would not agree to the allied disarmament program. In all its dealings with the League Court, our government has had the support of both Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress. There is no political partisanship in the matter, and our failure to mix into the quarrels in which we have no business has not constituted failure to cooperate for political reasons.

Even if we had joined punitive expeditions against Japan and Germany, we doubt whether these would have contributed a great deal to the return to the peace and prosperity which Mr. Babson has been pleasantly and we hope soundly predicting for the past three and a half years.

Why is it still said that unwanted articles aren't "worth a Continental?" Because a "Continental" was inflated currency. Thus in our country, the past furnishes sad object lessons enough to prevent us from repeating past mistakes.

Thomas O. M. Sopwith, British sportsman, has challenged America for the Thomas Lipton cup. A sportsman with that name ought to challenge Huey Long for the dunking championship.

The average wife would be a lot happier if she could mend her husband's disposition as easily as she mends his clothes.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson declares: "The United States' best guarantee of peace is a treaty navy second to none." And every sensible American will agree that Mr. Secretary said a mouthful.

British representatives are here to talk about the war debt. No doubt the British would be willing to trade us Mahatma Gandhi for cancellation.

Maybe it would be a good idea for the administration to get Carl Hubbell to pitch a few innings against the depression.

The reason they call it hard liquor is that it takes a hard man to be able to drink it successfully.

Did the Governors Talk?

"The governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina—". Now, just what they said to each other no one knows, but they evidently agreed in all they said. The two states were to vote on repeal in a few days, North Carolina voting first. The "Old North State" threw a chunk in the wets' ever-widening river, and a few days later South Carolina threw in another. Of course this will have no direct effect on repeal of the 18th Amendment, but the Montgomery Advertiser says it will undoubtedly have some weight when some of the states go to the polls to vote as to local state procedure on the liquor question. No, we can't know what the two governors said to each other, if they talked, but it must surely have been some dry wit.

From Here and There

"Disgustus" comes forth to battle again—oh well, nothing new in that—if he must gripe at somebody, I might as well be the one as anybody—hot air doesn't hurt—it's hot water that hurts. Candidates for governor are announcing nowadays, and all of them are promising cheaper auto tags—fine. News comes that candidates will be numerous everywhere next year—Etowah County reports a bumper crop, Coosa will have quite a few, and dear old Chilton bids fair to show up with plenty. One man says there will be no need to ask farmers to plow up a third of their crops next year, as these candidates will attend to that little matter—they'll "stomp" down half of the crops trying to get to the farmers to talk politics. McEathern is back again as manager of the local Hill grocery store—good luck to Mac. Lots of money around since the cotton loan went into effect—"what a difference just a few cents make." Good pictures on at the Wadesonian. Nothing new from Percy Taylor—maybe he's down on that washboard road, bouncing around. Mr. Roosevelt will leave his work to rest a week down in Georgia—is it breaking the man down to keep tab on the "brain trust?" One thing that makes NRA officials so mad with Ford is that people are finding out that Henry's methods were the basis of the act, while these officials were letting it be known that they had "thunk up" something. The new mayor of New York is a Republican—wonder if they play "The Sidewalks of New York" nowadays? And, it's 'possum-hunting time again, complete with cane patches, and everything.—Man in the Moon.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Farmer's Condition Improved

We often see various opinions expressed as to whether the condition of the farmers is improved or worse. Bankers, merchants, editors, and others discuss the subject with varying ideas. What does the farmer himself say? Uncle Jimmie Dorminey, of Union Grove, while in Clanton Tuesday, had something to say on the subject that impressed me as worthy of listening to. He says he has seen some evidences that things are better for many farmers. "I know some up my way who have come clean out of debt this year," he said, "and that is something they have not been able to do in several years." We see no reason why farmers generally should not be in better shape with their business. With half a million dollars released to the cotton farmers of the county by the government, surely that ought to help things very materially. Furthermore, if cotton farmers do not use the aid of the government to overcome the cotton problem, we do not see they can ever hope to get the cotton business rectified.

McEathern Back With Hill's

Down at Hill's Grocery Store we see J. W. McEathern back at his old job as manager. He looks mighty natural. Mac came here as manager of Hill's when the store was first established in 1925. About a year ago he strayed off and went into business for himself. He has a great many friends throughout this territory, and all of them are glad to see him at Hill's again. He is a fine groceryman by natural ability and long experience.

No More Five Cent Meat

Obie Deloach insists this week that he has no more five-cent meat. In fact he did not have any last week, although it was so advertised in The Union-Banner. It was a mistake of the printer. As mistakes usually do, that one caused plenty of trouble. We had to do a lot of hustling to explain the error to many customers of the Clanton Cash Store, Peoples Cash Store and Thorsby Cash Store.

More Work Relief Planned

Plans are being made for further extending work relief to the unemployed in Chilton County. Several possible projects have been submitted to the civil works administration through Thad Holt, director of relief in Alabama. It is not yet known how much of the work will be approved or how much money will be allotted. Elsewhere in this paper will be found an article explaining the new proposed set-up.

Miss Pardue Retained

We are glad to learn that the County Commissioners have ordered the retention of Miss Ruth Pardue in the Home Demonstration work for Chilton County. This work has been in progress for the past six months, and appears to have met a very hearty response from the people of the county, especially the women and girls.

Extreme Dry Weather

It is not news to say that we are experiencing extremely dry weather right now. Everybody knows it. But it is so unusual that it needs to be put on record for future reference. The hazards of fire are intensified by such weather. Most anything in the world will burn when it is as dry as now. Much damage is being reported from forest fires in the hill country along the river. And even right here in Clanton the woods caught on fire this week, requiring a bit of hustling to get it under control. Rangers of the state forestry department have been in our county looking after fires, and we hope they may have accomplished something toward impressing the people with the destructiveness of woods fires. Be careful where you throw a match in this kind of weather.

It is said that a processing tax of two cents a pound on live hogs will raise the price of pork chops thirty per cent, and this time it will be the consumers who will do the squealing.

One thing which is not conducive to the popularity of any administration is a lot of official inspectors going over the country looking at everybody's books.

"After reading much of monetary theory," says Walter Lippman, "I feel sure that nobody can be perfectly sure." Didn't Walter ever hear of the Brain Trust?

That old superstition about a $2 bill being unlucky has lost believers in the last few years.—Helena (Mont.) Record-Herald.

Scientists declare that they will soon be able to photograph thought. Some lurid pictures, therefore, are apt to be expected.—Lowell Evening Leader.

Well, if anything the administration does, goes wrong, they can't blame it on to Vice President Jack Garner.

HOW TO KILL CORN WEEVILS IS TOLD

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 14.—Proper fumigation of corn in cribs to prevent damage from weevils will save Alabama farmers thousands of bushels of corn and consequently add to their profits, according to W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist of the Alabama Plytechnic Institute.

"It is wise to fumigate all soft-grain varieties as soon as placed in cribs," Mr. Ruffin said. "Hard-grained varieties usually are not so heavily infested with weevils in the field and fumigation of such varieties may be delayed until spring, April being preferred for spring fumigation. For either fall or spring fumigation the temperature should be around 70 degrees F.

"Tightness of the floors and walls determine largely the amount of carbon disulphide (high-life) to use. If the floors and walls are made of tongue and grooved materials, 10 pounds (or 5 quarts) is sufficient to fumigate 200 bushels of corn. Cribs that have fairly good floors and walls, but are not made of tongue and grooved materials can be fumigated but 16 pounds (or 2 gallons) should be used to fumigate 200 bushels. It is almost impossible to get the gas concentrated enough to be effective in cribs that have cracks in floors and walls.

"Carbon disulphide gas is heavier than air and it penetrates downward through the corn. Therefore, it should be placed in shallow pans on top of the corn, and then be covered with sacks. The fumigation should last 36 to 48 hours, after which the building should be opened and the surplus gas allowed to escape. Keep fire away."

ESSAY CONTEST IN STATE FOR HIGH SCHOOLS TO BE HELD

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 14.—A statewide essay contest for high school students has been announced by Mrs. I. T. Quinn of Montgomery, chairman of Fidac for the Alabama Auxiliary of the American Legion, as a part of her program for the coming year.

In view of present international complications, in which "Youth Movements" are of vital importance, Mrs. Quinn has chosen as the subject for the essay, "Young England." The contest will be open to all high school pupils and students of other schools with high school curriculums.

A prize of $5 will be awarded to the winner of the contest which will close on February 15. The essays must not exceed 1,000 words in length and may be sent either to Mrs. Thelma Morris Coburn, 114 No. 12th S. W. Birmingham; Mrs. C. S. Maas, Demopolis; or to Mrs. Quinn, 1140, So. McDonough St. Montgomery.

"This year more than ever Fidac is important because of the world movements," Mrs. Quinn said. "One of the most important of these is the so-called 'Youth Movement which Germany has utilized in such a destructive way. France, England and other nations, including Cuba, also are confronted with youth movements in great proportions.

"This year war clouds hang low on all sides. Predictions of international conflict within 18 months frequently are made. Fidac can play a greater part in the prevention of an unnecessary war than any other organization. England has been faced with a youth movement in the guise of the 'Oxford Oath' in which young men pledge themselves against war. The subject selected for this essay contest combines a study of the world youth movement with a study of the nation in which next year's Fidac Congress will be held."

A national essay contest also is being sponsored by Fidac, with the subject, "Peace With Security." This subject was submitted by the American Legion Auxiliary to the annual congress which met this year in French Morocco.

Last year Louise Williams of Mobile won third place in the national contest.

Fidac is an organization that joins the Legion and Auxiliary with veterans organizations in the nine other countries that make up the allies during the World War. It was organized 13 years ago and has become one of the greatest hopes for a sound and sympathetic understanding among nations.

Mrs. Quinn urged all Auxiliary units in the state to select Fidac chairmen and urged the chairmen to make plans immedately for Fidac programs throughout the year.

"This important post should be given to one of the unit's most untiring workers," she said. "A comprehensive program has been arranged and each unit chairman will have an opportunity for creative work."

COTTON GIN REPORT

Figures given out by B. L. Vance, cotton census enumerator for Chilton County, show that 11,679 bales of cotton were ginned from the 1933 crop prior to November 1, 1933, as compared with a total of 10,605 bales ginned prior to the same date last year.

POPLAR SPRINGS

On Sunday afternoon, November 12, the Poplar Springs singing society met and had their first singing after their organization. The class was called to order by the chairman, Prof. W. M. Devaughn, followed with a prayer by Mr. W. F. Gilland. The following directed: Mr. Zeb Mims, William Gilland, O. L. Devaughn, Joe Ben Downs, Amy Boswell, Emmett Wilson, Dewell Jones, Raymond Gilland, Floy Devaughn, Maston Robinson, J. B. Crew, Osmond Glenn. A quartet was arranged by O. L. Devaughn.

Pianists for the afternoon were: Amy Boswell and Rose Mary Pickens. We had several visiting singers, and we especially invite them back again on every second and fourth Sunday afternoons at 1:30.

A vigorous campaign to get congress to renew the seed loans to small farmers who cannot get credit elsewhere has been launched by Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, who writes Alabama farmers as follows:

"Please write your United States senator and congressman immediately urging them to make arrangements during the next session of congress for the government to continue making seed loans to small farmers who cannot get credit elsewhere. This is very important as this type of loan will be discontinued at the end of this year unless congress reenacts the crop production loan law.

"I am highly pleased with the machinery that has been set up to expedite and facilitate loans to farmers who can give security for the loans but am sorry that no provision has been made for the small farmer. A law permitting the government to continue making seed loans to small farmers should be the first legislation passed by congress after it meets in January.

"James H. Goodwin, supervisor of crop production loans in Alabama, reports that loans amounting to approximately $2,750,000 were made to 37,000 Alabama farmers during the past year. This is an average loan of $72. Last year 95 per cent of such loans were repaid with interest and present indications are that the record will be just as good as last year. This record explodes the argument that agriculture credit is a bad investment."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Prospect for a better balance during the year 1934 between the production of farm crops and livestock and the demand for those products is foreseen by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its annual report.

The largest beneficiary from the government's financial program is Lamb County, northwest Texas, near the New Mexico line. This county receives $1,438,046 for cutting the cotton surplus. Less than a decade ago no cotton was grown there.

In actual money, dairy products brought dairymen 90 million dollars a month during July, August and September compared with 70 million dollars in March and April of this year and 75 million dollars in August and September of last year.

Bread prices, according to statistics compiled by the consumers counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, rose from 6.4 cents a pound in February to 7.9 cents on September 26. But of this 1.5 increase only a half a cent was due to the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel levied on wheat. The remainder was due to increased costs of labor and other operating expenses.

TAX ADDS BUT LITTLE TO COTTON GOODS COST

The processing tax of 4.2 cents per pound of the net weight of raw cotton going into manufactured commodities accounts for only a small percentage of the cost of finished cotton goods.

Investigations in 10 major cities in the country made under the direction of Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers counsel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, indicate that clerks in some retail stores are still explaining price increases on cotton goods by citing the processing tax as the only, or at least an important cause.

"That the processing tax is negligible factor in the price mark-ups on cotton goods has been proved beyond quibble," said Mr. Howe in discussing the question, "Those who attribute an undue share of price increases to the tax are badly misinformed."

On a sheet, which usually contains a little less than two pounds of cotton, the tax amounts to just under 8 cents. On ordinary work shirts the tax is about 3½ cents. The same proportion holds for other cotton goods, depending upon the weight of raw cotton used in manufacturing.

Other costs than the processing tax contribute to price increases. Where operating and other costs have increased, they are adding to the selling price. The processing tax, itself, however, remains a minor factor.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 14. — With another quail hunting season opening Monday, November 20, Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries, has directed his staff of district game wardens to concentrate on licensed hunters and excessive bag limits.

The approximately 150,000 hunters expected to take the field on that date should find birds more numerous in Alabama than they have been in years, according to commissioner Quinn.

"When the hunter goes afield on November 20 he will find a plentiful supply of Bobwhites in Alabama," the commissioner said. "Approximately 150,000 guns, in the hands of hunter sportsmen will be shooting over the pointers and setters on that date. It is hoped that every man who goes afield to shoot quail, or any other class of game, will conform to the laws protecting Alabama's wild life, which include the purchase of a hunting license and observance of bag limits.

"While the sportsmanship of the hunter will never be questioned until there is just cause, game wardens in this state have been instructed to be on the alert for hunters without licenses and for game hogs."

The bag limit for quail in Alabama is 15 birds in a day.

The first marketing agreement and license for milk distributing agencies in any large city of the south was signed for New Orleans, October 27, by Secretary Wallace. Under its terms producers will receive a net increase of $1.15 per 100 pounds of milk.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In our last letter we pointed out the little known fact that the cost for electric service in Alabama is now less than before the war whereas the cost of food, clothing and other household necessities is approximately 30% greater. The following table shows the savings for varying amounts of electricity, typical residential uses by customers of this company, under different rates in effect from 1916 to 1933:

KWH. Consumed	Monthly Bill—5-Room House 1916	1920	1924	1929	1933	% Reduction 1916 to 1933
20	$ 2.16	$ 1.80	$1.80	$1.75	$1.30	39.8%
30	3.06	2.70	2.70	2.25	1.80	41.2%
50	5.10	4.50	4.14	3.25	2.80	45.1%
100	10.20	6.30	6.30	4.75	4.05	60.3%
200	19.20	10.76	7.88	7.75	6.55	65.9%

Our new A-4 rate, available to anyone who increases his use of electricity over that of last year, offers even greater possibilities for complete use of electricity at still lower cost. For example, an average customer with an electric range and a refrigerator would pay approximately 2½ cents per KWH for his electricity.

As pointed out in our last letter, this company has the lowest state-wide rates in the country.

Yours very truly,

President.

Floods of advertising matter are being scattered over the county telling about this unusual event.

Great crowds of buyers are expected and the sale manager plans to give them plenty of interesting opportunities.

UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS SATURDAY NIGHT

The Pilot Club of Clanton is sponsoring an entertainment by Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils at the court house in Clanton Saturday night of this week.

The program is said to be very highly entertaining with features of music, vaudeville and comedy. Everybody is invited to attend. The program will begin at seven o'clock.

TEEL FAMILY REUNION AND BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

One of the most interesting social features during the past week was a birthday celebration and family reunion Sunday in honor of Tom J. Teel, who celebrated his 87th birthday. More than fifty members of the family and friends gathered at his home in Clanton Sunday to join in the celebration.

Besides being one of the oldest residents in the county, Mr. Teel is prominently known through out the length and breadth of Chilton County.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tell and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moatts and family; Mrs. Callie B. Teel, and Byrdie, Tom Frank and Peggy; Mrs. Lizzie Teel and children; Claude Teel of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Duke; Mrs. B. Duke and family; Vernie Teel; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Taylor; Elder J. A. Murphy; Mr. Oliver and family of Alexander City; Mrs. Lindsey.

A bountiful dinner was spread at the noon hour, and the beautiful day coupled with the joy of friendships renewed made this an event long to be remembered by all present.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

Dr. Hosea Downs announces that the date of the American Legion Fiddlers Convention has been set for Saturday night, November 25, at the court house in Clanton.

Proceeds will be used to start a permanent fund with which the Legion will furnish flowers for the funeral of all ex-soldiers who die in the county.

Mr. Downs advises that a list of very valuable and interesting prizes will be offered to all fiddlers and entertainers who appear on the program. And it will be a varied program including all sorts of string bands, stunts, individual fiddlers, comedy, vaudeville, etc. Complete details will appear in the papers next week. Meanwhile everybody is urged to take note of the date and prepare to come and have a big time generally.

DOG FELL IN 25-FOOT WELL AND DIDN'T GET A SCRATCH

Joe Gore, who lives a mile north of Clanton, was fox hunting last Thursday night up on the river near Ed Mims's fishing camp. About 10:00 o'clock one of his dogs disappeared. His whereabouts was not known until Saturday night about 7:30, when it was found that the dog had fallen into an old well about 25 feet deep. There was no water in the well. Mr. Gore climbed into the well, got the dog under his arm and brought him to the top, without the aid of even a rope.

The dog was not hurt, and after being fed and given water, joined the other dogs in chasing the fox.

UNCLE JOHN VINES BURIED HERE ON LAST SUNDAY

Funeral services for J. H. Vines, age 88, who died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. S. Robinson at West End, Birmingham, were held at the home of his son, L. R. Vines, in Ensley, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock The Rev. C. B. Miller officiated. The body was brought to Clanton by Brown, and buried in Clanton cemetery late Sunday afternoon.

Surviving Mr. Vines are his son, L. R. Vines, and his daughter, Mrs. Robinson. For the past 15 years Mr. Vines had made his home with his son in Ensley. Before going to Ensley he was a resident of Clanton, where he ran a blacksmith shop for many years.

MISS PARDUE WILL CONTINUE HOME DEMONSTRATION WORK

By an order of the Commissioners Court this week, the work of Miss Ruth Pardue as Home Demonstration Agent, will be continued in Chilton County. This information will be received with gladness by the great number of people who are interested in the work Miss Pardue has been doing.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAM AVAILABLE

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 14.—Governor B. M. Miller has designated Friday, December 8, for general observance throughout the state as Arbor Day. The text of the governor's proclamation is as follows:

Whereas, the president of the United States in his foresight and concern for the permanent good of the nation has provided through his administration a large number of work projects devoted to the restoration and perpetuation of our forest resources; and

Whereas, America is striving to bring back prosperity and it is well known that Alabama's future depends to a great extent upon her forests; and

Whereas, the people of the United States use two-fifths of all the wood consumed in the world and being a nation of wood users should also be a nation of wood growers; and

Whereas, trees are our friends and we should cherish them as such by caring for them, protecting them from destruction and increasing their number by planting; and

Whereas, the observance of Arbor Day has become an annual occasion in community and school activity, now

Therefore, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, realizing the importance that trees have in our well being, do hereby designate and set apart the day of Friday, December 8, 1933, as Arbor Day and do recommend to all the people of the state that this day be observed by demonstrations of our appreciation of trees.

The State Commission of Forestry, according to custom, has published a phamphlet of suggestions for Arbor Day programs for the use of teachers clubs and other organizations interested in promoting the public welfare. It is very hard to estimate the number of such publications which will be requested by the various groups, and in order to eliminate waste caused by oversupply, or inconvenience on account of too few being printed, it is hoped that all individuals or organizations who expect to use the 1933 booklet will write to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala., by November 20, stating the number desired.

FIRE IN THE SWAMP

The Clanton fire department was called out early Monday night to quell a blaze that was raging in the swamp just south of the town. The extreme dry condition of the woods and a high wind blowing created danger of the fire extending to nearby buildings. It was kept under control by work of the firemen and no appreciable damage was done.

"SIGN OF THE CROSS"

Circle No. 2 of the Baptist Missionary Society will sponsor "The Sign of the Cross" at the Wadesonian Theatre, November 20 and 21. This is a great religious picture which it is hoped everybody will see.

Mrs. Anna Pierson of Plantersville was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday. While here she subscribed for The Union-Banner as a birthday present for her husband, Mr. W. T. Pierson, who is 83 years old. We hope Mr. Pierson enjoys his birthday gift as it comes to him every week, through the year, and we extend our best wishes upon the occasion of his anniversary.

SPECIAL ONE DOLLAR RATE EXTENDED THRU NOVEMBER

The Union-Banner will continue to sell for one dollar for a full year through the month of November. Less than a full year continues the old price—the rate of $1.50 a year. You are urged to take advantage of this special offer this month. The price of paper is advancing with everything else, and we will soon be unable to make any reduction in the subscription price. REV. REEVES HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Tuskegee Minister In Local Hospital Recovering From Injuries

Rev. W. P. Reeves of Tuskegee, returning home from the Alabama Baptist Convention at Sheffield last Saturday afternoon, happened to an automobile accident two miles north of Clanton. He had a very narrow escape with his life, and sustained minor injuries which put him in the hospital here for a few days.

Rev. Reeves was traveling alone in his Buick automobile. As he came around the curve at Fairview Service Station, just south of Lomax, his car skidded on the wet pavement, and swerved to the side of the road. As he pulled back into the road he lost control of the machine. It kept its course to the left, bearing away from the road, and jammed between a bank and a telegraph pole.

The car was totally wrecked. Mr. Reeves was rendered unconscious for a short while. Other cars passing along the road stopped and rendered assistance. The man was rescued from the wreck and brought to the hospital in Martin's ambulance.

Just before going to the state convention Mr. Reeves preached here in a ten-days revival meeting. His many friends here were much concerned over his condition Saturday night, and were glad to learn Sunday that the hospital authorities considered him not in a dangerous condition. He will be able to go home in a short while.

The Pirate's Den Tomorrow Night

Exclusive Night Club Is Sponsored by Seniors of the High School

Just what you have been waiting for—an evening of sparkling and delightful entertainment that will please everyone. The Senior class of the Chilton County High School open for your entertainment tomorrow night the exclusive night club, "The Pirate's Den." All kinds of palatable delicacies, drinks, candies will be offered to you at low cost, while on the floor you can witness a continuous floor show. Beautiful girls in a number of choruses will entertain you with their dances and costumes. Solo tap dances by a well known out-of-town master of tap dancing; a talented blues singer will offer her best; several well-know and popular musicians will perform with their instruments, playing pieces that will drive away all your cares and troubles. Decorations appropriate to pirates will adorn the hall to add a real atmosphere of blood thirsty pirates. Beautiful and charming cigarette girls with their wares, comedians with their unique and humerous acts. All these are just some of the performances you will witness when you attend "The Pirate's Den" at the high school tomorrow night. There will be two shows, one at 7:30 and one at 8:30. Door admission will be ten cents. Come on out and enjoy an hour of entertainment that will be different.

You just cannot afford to miss this splendid entertainment. Music that is music; choruses with dazzling and colorful costumes, songs, eats and drinks, beautiful girls, comedians and other good forms of real entertainment. Don't forget to come to the Chilton County High School tomorrow night, at 7:30 or 8:30 to enjoy a night you'll never forget.

BLALOCK-NIVENS

Announcement of the following engagement appeared in last Sunday's Birmingham News:

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Blalock, of Clanton, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Gertrude, to Houston Nivens, the wedding to take place at an early date.

M. C. CHILDRESS DIED

M. C. Childress, age 64, years, died last Sunday at his home in Pleasant Grove community west of Jemison. Burial was at Pleasant Grove cemetery Monday.

Fox and Little Had A Very Good Sale

Mr. Bob Little and Mr. W. W. Fox report that the cattle auction sale at Maplesville last Friday was a success from every standpoint. Around a thousand people attended during the day; and in relating the affair to a reporter Mr. Fox wedged in a word by saying, "Yes, and the barbecue was all right too. This part of the day was enjoyed by everyone."

Mr. Little instructs us to report that another sale will be worked up for some other section of the county in the near future. He says this is a good way for people who have stuff to sell to turn it into cash, and thus do just that much toward relieving our country of the depression. Read the papers for announcements of the time and place.

PAPERS COME OUT ON WEDNESDAY NEXT WEEK

On next Thursday, Nov. 30th, comes around another Thanksgiving Day, and as no rural carriers work on that day, The Union-Banner will come to you on Wednesday, rather than wait over until Friday for delivery on the routes.

All correspondents will please take note of this, and get your copy in at least a day earlier than usual. All that can be written and gotten to us Saturday of this week will be appreciated, which will make it much easier on us to get the papers to the subscribers as above stated.

PROMINENT MEN VISIT KIWANIS

Acker, Smith and Foster Discuss Proposed Airport For Clanton

Dr. V. J. Gragg had charge of the Kiwanis club program last Thursday night. For special discussion of the proposed airplane landing field in this vicinity the following visitors were present:

Steadman Acker, manager of the Birmingham Municipal airport; Major Sumpter Smith, chairman of the American Legion aviation committee for Alabama; and Mr. L. E. Foster, manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce.

Other guests at the meeting were Mayor J. Lee Smith, R. D. Woodson, of Lay Dam, C. D. Duke and J. C. Atchison, county commissioners. The addresses of Mr. Acker, Major Smith and Mr. Foster were very interesting. Mr. Acker and Major Smith confined their remarks strictly to various phases of air transportation, predicting a great future for the industry and pointing out the advantages that will come to communities which prepare in advance for this assured development.

Mr. Foster did not confine himself to the airport subject. He strayed off into the general field of community development and gave many very interstting and inspiring sketches along that line. He told in a very interesting way the story of what can be done by a town that is ready to fight for progress and development.

Illustrating the traditional fighting spirit of Americans, he told this story: Three Allied soldiers — a Frenchman, an Englishman, and an American slipped out of their trench on the Western Front one dark night and crept through the wire entanglements toward the German lines. Presently they heard someone snoring. Closer they crept until they came upon a shell hole. In it lay a dozen German soldiers sound asleep. What shall we do with them? Somebody asked. The Frenchman said let's shoot them. The Englishman said let's cover them with our guns and take them prisoners. The American said let's wake 'em up and have a fight.

The airport proposition has been under consideration here for some time by committees of the American Legion and the Kiwanis Club. It is hoped that the proposal may be listed on the civil works program now under consideration.

VISITS IN ATHENS AND DECATUR

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood of Clanton have returned home from a week's visit in Athens and Decatur. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams in Athens, formerly of Decatur. Mr. Williams is now cashier of Limestone County Bank.

In Decatur Mr. and Mrs. Wood attended the nurses graduation exercises of Benevolent Society Hospital, in which their daughter, Georgia Wanda, took part. Miss Wood, having completed her training, is now a graduate nurse and ready to serve and relieve suffering humanity. Miss Wood is one of our Chilton County girls, and we feel proud of her to know that she is doing so well in her life's career. We wish Miss Wood much success in her young career, just begun.

Cochran Remains Methodist Pastor

As a result of appointments made at the Methodist conference in Dothan last week Rev. R. P. Cochran remains here as a pastor of Clanton Methodist church for another year. This information was received with hearty approval, not only by the membership of his church but by the whole community of Clanton as well.

Other appointments of the conference in which people of Clanton will be interested are:

Rev. D. W. Haskew remains at LaFayette Street church, Dothan. T. P. Chariker was named as instructor at Duke University. Panama City, Fla., I. W. Chalker; Fairhope, J. O. Lawrence; Loxley, G. W. Jones; Trinity, L. H. S. Chappelle; Camden, C. C. Wilkerson; Lowndesboro, L. B. Green; Verbena, Cecil M. Ellison; Brantley, T. B. Jones; Midway, J. F. Chalker; Troy, E. A. Childs.

Legion Frolic Here Saturday Night

Interesting Program of Music And Entertainment at the Courthouse

The American Legion invites everybody to come to the frolic at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday night, November 25. All arrangements are complete for a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

About twenty prizes have been secured by the committee in charge of arrangements and it is assumed that every musician and entertainer will get a prize, either some article of merchandise or in cash.

All fiddlers, string bands, quartets, accordian players, yodlers and buck dancers are invited to come. Every one will receive a place on the program, which starts at 7:30 o'clock.

Admission prices will be 10 cents for children and 15 cents for grown people. Proceeds will go into the Legion fund to furnish flowers for funerals of deceased comrades.

The soldier boys will appreciate your attendance at this frolic and they will do all they can to make it worth your while.

Quilt Show For the Churches on Friday

There will be a quilt show in Clanton Friday and Saturday of this week, November 24th and 25th. Four cash prizes will be awarded. There will be a prize for the prettiest pieced quilt, one for the prettiest appliqued quilt, one for the prettiest bed spread, and one for the oldest quilt. There will be an admission of 10 cents each. Refreshments will be served free. There will be three judges all of which will be from out of town.

This show will be held in the building belonging to Mr. J. Q. Wade, formerly occupied by Durwood Broadhead's market. It is being sponsored by Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary Society and Circle No. 5 of the Baptist Missionary society. Quilts may be entered from enywhere, not confined even to Chilton County.

Courthouse Singing Next Sunday P. M.

The regular monthly singing will be held at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30. All singers of the county who do not have a local society meeting that day have a cordial invitation to attend. Both new 1934 books will be used.

Remember that this is the only regular meeting of the Central Singing Society, and is held every month under the auspices of the Chilton County Singing Convention. It is for all the societies of the county that can participate. Everybody try and be there by 1:30. Prof. Herbert Lowery will have charge of the program.

The singing at the courthouse last Thursday night was a good one. The attendance was small, but the singing was as good as is usually done by a much larger class. Prof. O. L. Devaughn presided.

Request For More Highway Surface

County Wants Six Miles Paved From Clanton Towards Selma

The approval of three miles of paving on the Selma highway west from Clanton, which was announced some time ago, will be stretched out to extend six miles, if renewed efforts of local county authorities in this direction are successful. Judge Reynolds stated Tuesday that application has been made for the additional three miles through the state highway department.

Other road projects which the county commissioners hope to get listed for improvement during the present vigorous work program are listed as follows:

The Higgins Ferry Road from Clanton to Lake Mitchell. The road from Thorsby to Collins Chapel. The Montevallo road from Willie Shaw's store to the Shelby County line. The Billingsley road from Baker school house to the Charley Foshee place.

Judge Reynolds stated that no definite information can be given out now as to these proposed projects, but that the commissioners are ready to take advantage of any and every opportunity to get work started.

James William Thacker, age 8 years, died last Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Thacker, Jemison, Route 1. Burial was at Jake's Chapel Monday. Funeral services conducted by Rev. Buford Lawrence.

Six Projects Asked For Each County

Washington. — As part of the plan to put 4,000,000 men now on part-time relief work on full time, under the new civil works administration, every state highway commission has been urged to find a minimum of 6 road projects in each of the 3,000 counties in the country on which road maintenance expenditures of not more than $5,000 each can be made promptly. If fully realized, this would mean some 18,000 projects involving potential outlay of $90,000,000. The cost is to be advanced in the proportion of 65 per cent from federal relief funds and 35 per cent from federal road aid to states. Highway commissions were asked to list immedately projects available in unemployed areas. The new civil works administration is conducted by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration with the same office force. President Roosevelt set apart for it $400,000,000 from the public works fund to hasten full-time workers now on relief rolls, with the purpose of making them self-sustaining. Meanwhile the road improvement plan is one of many to start the 4,000,000 to work and to remove them and their dependents from relief rolls.

Fortieth Anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Minor

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Minor of Maplesville celebrated their 40th anniversary Sunday, November 12th. There were twenty-five members of the family gathered at their home to join in the celebration.

Those present were: Their son, Clarence Minor, of Sylacauga; four daughters, Mrs. A. T. Carroll and two children of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ratliff and six children, of Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Giles and six children of Pletcher; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Riggs of San Francisco, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott and daughter, Adelle, were present at the celebration.

A bountiful dinner was served at the noon hour and enjoyed by all. Ottis Giles, their grandson, also celebrated his 12th birthday, november 12th.—A Friend.

Polk Will Show Farm Machines

Demonstration Will Be Held In Clanton On Next Saturday Afternoon

Polk Brothers Motor Company, local dealers in International Harvester farm implements, announce an event of great interest to the farmers of Chilton County for next Saturday, November 25th, when they will have a factory representative here to demonstrate the uses of Farmall Tractors, Hammer Mills, and other International implements.

The tractor demonstration will be held on the vacant lot south of W. M. Polk's home. Various types of plowing, harrowing, and other applications of the Farmall will be shown. Farmers will have a chance to see this wonderful machine in actual performance.

The demonstration of crushing by the Hammer Mill will be at the show rooms of Polk Brothers. Along with this machine, visitors will have an opportunity to see the entire line of International farm implements carried by Polk Brothers, including the famous Weber farm wagon.

Farmers of Chilton County are invited to attend these demonstrations. It is an opportunity which every farmer should take. The anvantage which Polk Brothers offers the farmers through sales and service of International implements is something that should be more fully realized by our people. It will pay you to come to this demonstration where you will see not only the Farmall and Hammer Mill in actual demonstration, but also the various other farm implements and machines that are offered by International.

Visitors Here From the Lone Star State

Mrs. Ludie Lenoir has this week visitors from Texas. They are Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Palmer of Sulphur Springs, the latter being the sister of Mrs. Lenoir. They arrived in Clanton Monday, after having spent two or three days with Mrs. Palmer's mother, Mrs. S. E. Malone, a sister, Mrs. Vanderslice, and a brother, J. L. Malone, in Selma.

Mr. Palmer is a brother of J. L. Palmer of Mulberry community and of Mrs. O. E. Latham of Clanton. Another brother is J. Frank Palmer, formerly operator of the Palmer Hotel in Clanton but now of Birmingham. Mr. Palmer was reared in the Mulberry community, and moved away from there 39 years ago. He has lived in Texas since then. Mr. Palmer was here a year ago, but Mrs. Palmer has not been here before in eighteen years.

NEW CIVIL WORKS PROGRAM WILL INCLUDE SEVERAL PUBLIC PROJECTS

Four Hundred Men Went To Work In County Tuesday Morning. Another 400 Will Be Put On the List By December 15th

Under the initial set-up of the Civil Works Administration 400 men began employment Tuesday morning on four projects in Chilton County. Between now and Dec. 15th, 400 more men will be added to the working list. The men so employed will work 30 hours a week. Those working on road projects get 30 cents an hour, and those on the swamp drainage project get 40 cents an hour.

Judge L. H. Reynolds received a telegram last Friday from Thad Holt, director of relief in Alabama, requesting him to bring the county leaders in R. F. C. work to Montgomery for a conference on the initial outline of the new civil works program. County Commissioners Duke, Atchison and Cobb, C. Fenn Jones, Frank Callen and Miss Clyde Austin went with Judge Reynolds to the conference Saturday.

They were informed that the R. F. C. Program would be discontinued after Monday, November 20th. At that time transfer of all work relief would be made over to the civil works division. When the list of Chilton County's unemployed was presented and available public works projects outlined, it was determined that 400 men could be put to work Tuesday morning, with 400 more to be added by December the first.

Under the civil works program there will be no more jobs of cleaning the leaves out of ditches and sweeping off graveyards. Only real constructive public projects will be undertaken. According to Judge Reynolds, the following program of work went into effect on Tuesday morning in Chilton County:

Eight miles of public road from Verbena to Enterprise schoolhouse to be graded, straightened and graveled. Sixty-five men went on this job.

Eight miles of public road from Maplesville to the Perry County line to be straightened, graded and graveled. Sixty-five men began work on this project Tuesday morning. Judge Reynolds states that the Perry County authorities have designated as one of their civil works projects the road from Marion to connect with this one from Maplesville at the county line, thus beginning what will ultimately be an improved road from Marion to Maplesville.

One hundred and twenty men began work Tuesday morning on the 16-mile section of road from Jemison and intersecting the Selma Highway three miles east of Maplesville at the Cobern place.

The swamp drainage project at Clanton is being continued under the civil works program with 120 men on the job Tuesday morning. Workers on this project get 40 cents an hour and will work 30 hours a week.

Records of the relief administration show that there are about 1,600 people on the relief list for Chilton County. The present set-up contemplates that half of this number will be employed by the first of December.

Those on the relief lists not immediately assigned to work on projects will continue to receive relief in cash or in kind in the amount certified by the director of relief.

OUTLINE OF NEW WORK PROGRAM

Rules and Regulations Governing Civil Works Administration in Alabama

Below we give the statement of general policy and provisions of the Civil Works Administration of Alabama, under which the program for Chilton County is being outlined and carried out:

1. The Alabama Relief Administration has been constituted the Civil Works Administration for the State of Alabama.

2. The director of the Alabama Relief Administration, in addition to his present duties, has been designated Civil Works Administrator for Alabama.

3. The State Civil Works Administration will set up the necessary organization separate and distinct from the Alabama Relief Administration, to administer the Federal Civil Works program in the state.

4. The present official local relief board or committee in each county is designated as the Civil Works Administration for that county.

5. There will be appointed a Civil Works Administrator for each county with duties distinct from those of the director of relief. All appointments will be made by the Federal Civil Works Administration and all appointees will be Federal officials.

6. Federal funds will be allotted to Alabama for the employment of a quota of persons on full time of not more than 30 hours per week by December 15th. Proportionate quotas of the state's total quota will be made for each county by the State Civil Works Administration.

7. Effective Monday, November 20, all "work relief" by local relief administrations is abolished. All work projects approved by the State Civil Works Administration will be transferred to the local Civil Works Administration and full time employment not to exceed 30 hours per week (except in the expositions) will be given all those assigned to these projects. Those on relief lists not immediately assigned to these projects will continue to receive relief in cash or in kind in the amount certified by the Director of Relief.

8. (a) The first one-half of each county's total quota for full-time employment of 30 hours per week will be selected immediately from the work relief list as of November 16th by the Director of Relief. The method of selection will be by choosing first those whose needs have justified certification for greatest number of hours and thus working down until one-half the otal quota is filled.

(b) The second one-half of the county's total quota for employment will be selected by the local office of the National Reemployment Service upon request of the local Civil Works Administration.

9. No applications for employment will be received by the local relief administration after November 16th. Applications must be made to the local National Reemployment Service.

10. Local work projects must be approved by the local Civil Works Administration and submitted to the State Civil Works Administration for final approval.

11. Authority for purchase of materials or equipment and expenditures other than for labor is vested only in the State Civil Works Administration or its specifically delegated authority.

12. The hours of labor, wage rates, etc., on Civil Works projects shall be fixed in accordance with the rules and regulations established by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, as per Section 11 of the attached sheet. The hourly wage rates to be paid on construction projects in Alabama will be not less than 40c per hour for unskilled andn $1.00 per hour for skilled labor.

Wage rates for road projects will be those fixed by the State Highway Department in letting emergency Federal aid contracts.

13. Plans for disbursing Civil Works funds in Alabama will be developed by the state disbusing officer of the Veterans Administration.

THOMAS JR. SCHOOL NEWS

Spectators were indeed treated to spectacle Friday afternoon when the Thomas Jr. Tigers were met on their court by the Enterprise Tigers, and their second game of the season was fought.

There seemed to be a great deal of friendly rivalry displayed between the teams; however, good sportsmanship and clean playing were prevalent throughout the game.

Enterprise held the lead for the first three quarters, but Thomas came to the front during the last quarter to tie the game 11 and 11.

The extra five minutes playing resulted in a victory for Thomas Jr. high by two points. The final score was 11 to 13.

The game between the Thomas girls and the Enterprise girls ended with Thomas in the lead 24 to 3. The faculty and pupils of Thomas wish to commend the Enterprise teams for their fine playing and spirit of good sportsmanship throughout both the games.

PAUL IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-17; I Cor. 1:1-2:8.

GOLDEN TEXT—For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified. I Cor. 2:2.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Care at Night.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Gets New Courage.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Work With Others.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Unity in Christ.

The establishment of the church at Corinth is an example of missionary endeavor for all ages. The method employed and the message delivered which resulted in success then will result in success now.

I. The True Missionary Method (Acts 18:1-3).

Paul came to Corinth a stranger in a strange city. His method of gaining a foothold was.

1. Finding a home (v. 2). This he found with Aquila and Priscilla who had recently been expelled from Rome. Being of the same nationality, there was a natural affinity with them.

2. Toiling for daily bread (v. 3). Paul was of the same craft as his host. Every Jewish child was taught some trade by means of which he could gain his livelihood, should occasion require. Missionaries should not be above honest toil.

II. Preaching in the Synagogue at Corinth (Acts 18:4-8).

1. Compelled to toil for a living (v. 4). Though compelled to toil for a living, he did not lose sight of his main work. He reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, persuading the Jews and the Greeks.

2. His activity increased through the coming of Silas and Timothy (v. 5). This was caused by.

a. Favorable report from the church at Thessalonica. This report put new vigor into his labors.

b. They brought pecuniary gifts from the Macedonian church (Phil. 4:15; II Cor. 11:9). Being now free from the necessity of toiling for a living, he could devote more time and energy to preaching the gospel.

c. Silas and Timothy became helpers to Paul in the work.

3. Increased opposition (v. 6). Paul's increased activity met with increasing opposition.

4. Paul announces his purpose to turn to the Gentiles (v. 6). This was necessitated because of the opposition and blasphemy of the Jews.

5. Paul in the house of Justus (vv. 7, 8). He remained sufficiently near those whose hearts God had touched that they could easily find him. His success here was such that Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, was converted. Paul departed from his usual custom and baptized Crispus.

III. Paul's Vision (Acts 18:9-11).

This vision was for the purpose of giving encouragement to Paul at this time. His experiences in Europe were most trying.

1. "Be not afraid" (v. 9). The one who is doing the will of the Lord need not be afraid.

2. "Speak, and hold not thy peace" (v. 9). The one who has heard the voice of God cannot refrain from speaking.

3. "I am with thee" (v. 10). All who faithfully carry out the divine commission can be assured of the divine presence.

4. "No man shall set on thee to hurt thee" (v. 10). No harm can come to the Lord's servant until his work is done.

5. "I have much people in this city" (v. 10). The one who goes forth with the divine message can be assured that his ministry cannot fail.

IV. Party Spirit in the Corinthian Church (I Cor. 1:10-18).

In this church rival factions were contending against each other. Some were for Paul, some for Apollos, some for Peter, and some for Christ. The cause of this threatened division was failure to see the true headship of the church. Christ is the one and only Head, and the members composing his body cannot be divided. Membership and interest all center in Christ. By one Spirit all were baptized into the one body (I Cor. 12:13). Sectarianism is an evil to be deplored. The factious spirit in the church mars its testimony and retards its growth. Those who understand the oneness in Christ will be joined together in the same mind.

V. The One Supreme Message of the True Preacher (I Cor. 2:1-8).

It is Jesus Christ and him crucified. Prejudice and human limitations prevent men from seeing eye to eye. Christian unity is possible only as the members of his body grow up into Christ.

Christ Uses All

It is amazing what use Jesus makes of frail mediums. None of the Twelve appears to have been a man of outstanding position until Jesus took them and made them men of might and vision. That is what is continually happening.

LEE STAMP ASKED

Baltimore, Nov. 19. — The United Daughters of the Confederacy Saturday voted to petition the United States Congress to put upon one of its postage stamps the portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee, commander of the army of the Confederate States of America.

As precedent for the proposed honor to the leader of an army which battled the United States for four years, the Daughters will point out the Stone Mountain Memorial 50 cent pieces, which bore images of Lee and other "rebel" leaders.

The Stone Mountain coin drew fire from Grand Army of the Republic camps in many sections of the country.

The daughters decided to seek the Lee stamp during the closing day of their annual convention here. During the afternoon session they heard a greeting from President Roosevelt, read by Mrs. William E. Byrne, of Charleston, W. Va., the retiring president general.

"Please convey to all the participants in the convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy my very sincere appreciation for their loyalty, support and cooperation, and express to them my personal greetings," telegraphed Mr. Roosevelt.

The convention closed with the installation of Mrs. William E. Massey, of Hot Springs, president general, and other new officers.

"I am so happy my skin is now clear"

● And it is all so simple.

It only seemed yesterday she felt discouraged and so conscious of a pimply skin . . . now to have it clear . . . why, of course she is very happy.

A friend had urged her to do as she had done . . . reasoned that the "trouble" probably came from within the body—the blood.

She followed her advice to take S.S.S. Tonic . . . what happened? First, she felt better. Pep replaced a tired-worn-out-let-down-feeling . . . she awoke every morning more cheerful and gradually her skin took on a clear, healthy tone. Then when she added powder and lipstick . . . what a difference! Do you wonder she is happy? No more open dates now.

You owe it to yourself and associates to try S.S.S. Tonic . . . a very old, acceptable, successful product. It will not interfere with any other medicine you may desire to take at the same time.

S.S.S. is obtainable in any drug store . . . it is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

We invite you to take a course of S.S.S. Tonic . . . its positive action, demonstrated by modern scientific methods, is your guarantee of satisfaction—its benefits will surprise you.

Jesus taught by word and example that the cause is everything. He told His disciples, "I send you forth as lambs among wolves." Get the picture: Here is a patient, tender, loving, compassionate shepherd. He takes a lamb in his arms and puts it down with a pack of wolves.

A God-sent man has always been hated by selfish men. An unselfish man who is sent out by Almighty God is a reproach to selfish people. They wish to destroy him and they often do it.

God never offered any man an easy place in this world. God doesn't want messengers who want easy places. Such men are not dependable. When the crisis comes they always save themselves. God wants men who will sacrifice themselves for the sake of a cause.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

MRS. CLYDE WHITE DIED

On Monday afternoon, November 6, at 2:40, the spirit of Mrs. Lila Green White returned to the God who gave it. Lila was born at Jacksonville, Alabama, August 15, 1905. She grew into young womanhood and joined the Ohatchie Baptist church, there being baptized on her fifteenth birthday. She graduated from the Jacksonville High School there in 1924; also the state normal in 1929. Later she attended the state teachers college there. She taught in the public schools of Autauga County for nine years, being principal of the Billingsley elementary school the past four years.

The funeral service was held Wednesday at three p.m. in the Jones Baptist church at Jones, Alabama, with the Rev. A. S. Bentley and the Rev. Joe Moore officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the Jones Baptist cemetery with Brislin of Selma in charge.

The active pallbearers were Messrs. L. C. Taylor, Jr., John McCullough, Willie Ousley, Theodore Ousley, and Payton King. The honorary pallbearers were Messrs. Robert Oglesby, J. L. Eason, Henry Gaines, Will Johnson, Lesley Walker and Bob Walker. The deceased is survived by her husband, Clyde White, her mother, Mrs. J. C. Green, two brothers, Elbert and Clarence Green of Detroit, Michigan, and one sister, Mrs. Ruby Cobern of Mt. Creek, Ala.

Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer was shopping in Birmingham Thursday.

Our P.-T. A. met on last Thursday night. After the devotional exercises and preliminary announcements by the president, a brief and interesting program was rendered by several of the students. The question of purchasing a piano for the school was put in order. After a round-table discussion of the matter, it was voted to select one or a committee to locate a good piano, reasonably priced. Plans and suggestions were then offered as to the best possible way of paying for it. Under the supervision of Miss Manning, the ladies will make a quilt to be given to the holder of some lucky number. Another plan was offered when Mr. Frank Giles, member of our board of trustees, presented the school with a pig, which will be fattened by the scraps from the children's lunches and then sold at the close of the school term. We hope to realize several dollars on the above plans. We will have the Liberty Hill quartet to present us a program when our new piano is installed. We were proud to see such a large number at our last meeting. Eighty-one were present. Let's go, Vermont parents, and make it a hundred at our next meeting, which will be on next Wednesday afternoon, November 29, at 2:00 o'clock. A Thanksgiving program will be staged by a number of the pupils and the business of the meeting will be held afterwards.

Our boys basketball team journeyed over to Cooper Junior High school last Friday afternoon, and after a wild scramble on a dusty court, came out with an 18 to 10 verdict in their favor. This was their first game of the season. The Cooper boys played a nice game, but being so enthusiastic, they faltered in their pass work, which led to their defeat. The score was 7 to 5 at the half in Vermont's favor but soon after the beginning of the second half, Sansom, captain and center of our team, broke away through the Cooper defense to net three field goals for 6 points. This lead was gradually increased to 18 by the end of the game. The Cooper team was unable to crack the tight defense set up against them the last half, the results being one field goal and three points from foul shots. Both teams were guilty of excessive fouling, this being accounted to the fact that the players on both teams are inexperienced and have not yet mastered the art of guarding without personal contact. Cooper will return the game on Friday afternoon, December 8th. Keep this date fixed in your mind and be there for it. The teams are evenly matched and a good game should be played.

The entire Vermont faculty spent the past week end at their respective homes.

We were proud to see several loads of good pine coming in last week. Let's have several loads of oak and hickory wood and we'll be all set for cold weather. Remember we have four large heaters, and it takes a large amount of fuel to keep them fired up.

A large number of the students are out this week suffering from colds. We hope a speedy recovery can be effected and they may get back into their studies and not get behind in their class-work.

The girls are busy practicing basket ball. Miss Cagle and Miss Manning are drilling them in pass-work, goal shooting and dribbling, etc. After a few more days of practice, we expect to match them up against the girls team of other schools. We are going to set up another court for the Jr. team of boys within the next few days. This will give them an opportunity to learn the science of basketball playing as well as the development of the physical side.

Mr. W. W. Klinner, another member of our board of trustees, went to Birmingham last Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Bud Shoat.

This week brings us to the close of the second month of school. Examinations are in full sway. We trust that every pupil has so applied himself or herself that they will not feel the fear of facing an array of geography or history questions, or a series of mathematics equations.

Folks, you should come up and listen to Miss Grant's rhythm band. Gee, but those youngsters have a real snappy rhythm, using all those horse shoes, drums, horns, bells, etc. They are going to present a program to our P.-T. A. before long.

Try always to be clean. A person will not catch as many diseases if he is clean. A person owes it to himself, to his teachers, and to his fellow students to be clean.

Much interest is being shown in better attendance by the fifth grade. At the end of the month a prize is to be given to the row of pupils having the best attendance record for the month.

The pupils and teachers of our school are putting forth an effort to gather clothing for the needy. They especially desire that no child shall remain out of school because of the lack of clothing. The latter part of next week, the articles contributed will be carried to those whom they will best serve.

Probably you have stored away sweaters or other articles which you have forgotten. Please help see after these needs if convenient, for any help and encouragement given us will be appreciated.

Our school wishes to express thanks to the Thursday Sewing Club and the Presbyterian church for buying lunches for the children who need it.

Guy H. DeShazo Advises About Chilton Politics

To the Republicans of Chilton County:

If the editor of The Union-Banner will indulge with me for a little while I would like to say a few words to the Republicans of Chilton County, as well as to each and every voter of the county, regardless of political affiliation.

Within a very short time and with the coming of the new year, will be launched a campaign in Chilton County, the outcome of which next November will be vital to every man, woman and child in the county. People are inclined as a rule to forget a great many things in the course of 18 years. I ask the people of Chilton County, and especially the Republicans, to refresh your memory relative to the conditions prevailing in the county some eighteen years ago when the government of the county was wrested from the hands of the Democratic party. Just what was the financial condition of your county at that time? I will tell you what it was: Your county was in debt over $260,000 and your county warrants and court certificates were worth less than fifty cents on the dollar. Your 1,400 miles of public roads were virtually a mud hole 1,400 miles long and your county had no credit and was virtually bankrupt. Compare these conditions with those of today, after almost three full administrations of Republican efficiency.

Today you find your county not owing a dollar that could not be paid if it were possible to redeem the remaining outstanding time warrants before maturity. The credit of your county is excellent and when you attend court, serve at elections or do a piece of work for the county, you get your money at once and one hundred cents on every dollar without having to discount your warrants to some money-lender who gets rich at the expense of the common people. Compare the condition of your roads now and a few years ago. Today there is hardly a mile of public road in the county that cannot be traveled with ease with a car every day in the year—could you have done this eighteen years ago?

Who ran Chilton County into this enormous debt? Who so muddled up the business affairs of your county to the extent that the county had no credit? Who tangled up your road laws and system of road work to such an extent that you had no roads? I will tell you who did it—the Democrats.

Who has paid off the largest part of the $260,000 debt? Who has laid aside sufficient money with which to pay the remainder of the debt today, could it be done? Who has straightened out the road affairs of the county and freed the men and boys of the county of compulsory road duty and road tax? Who has made your county warrants worth their face value? I will also tell you who has done all this for you — the Republicans.

I have always believed that the greater majority of the people of Chilton County are intelligent and able to think and do what is best for themselves. With thte coming election just around the corner, I admonish you to start doing a little serious thinking — ask yourselves this question: "Would I be satisfied to have conditions return to the same status as of 1916; am I willing to take fifty cents on the dollar for my county warrants and court certificates; am I satisfied to have the roads of Chilton County turned into mud lanes? It you would not be satisfied to have these things happen in your county and mine, then you should begin right now making every possible effort to see to it that there is no change in the administration of your county government in November of next year.

The Republicans of Chilton County have a battle to fight and it will take the full support of every loyal Republican in the county to win this battle. We cannot afford to have a single slacker in the ranks. Let's forget all these petty differences of opinion among ourselves and form a solid line of battle against a common enemy—Demacratic rule and ruin.

The Democrats will be all swelled up and pointing with much pride and a loud noise to the accomplishments of the Democratic administration in Washington—telling you that they will do the same thing in Chilton County if they are given an opportunity.

I should like to call your attention to the fact that it is not the Democratic party which may be credited with whatever measure of success may be accredited to the present administration in Washington. What success is a ROOSEVELT success. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, although adhering to the general principals of the Democratic party, does things in a ROOSEVELT manner and not a Democratic manner. Those of you who are old enough to do so, reflect back to the days of Theodore Roosevelt and his BIG STICK methods. He ran the affairs of the nation the way ROOSEVELT wanted them, and not as the party wanted them in every instance. So is the case with the present man in the White House.

When the Democrats of Chilton County begin making loud noises and pointing with a long finger toward Washington, just ease up to them and quietly ask them what the Democrats have done for the dear old state of Alabama. They have placed the state of Alabama in even worse condition than they did Chilton County. Who gummed up the school system of the state so that your children are deprived of their rights of education in adequate and full term schools? The Democrats of course. They have no alibis there. Who raised your tax levies to a point beyond the ability to pay, and reduced the benefits to be derived from these taxes? The Democrats.

I do not believe that the thinking people of Chilton County care to have the affairs of the county return to the condition in which the Republican administration found them eighteen years ago.

The best way for the Republicans of Chliton County to avoid a repetition of the last Democratic administration in Chilton County is to put their shoulder to the wheel and see to it that L. H. Reynolds is reurned to the office of Probate Judge for another six years next November. He has been tried and found not wanting. When you have a good horse whose qualities are good and one which you have tried and always found ready and willing to pull his share of the load and more, why trade him off for a strange animal of which you know nothing. Turn a deaf ear to the silver tongue of the horse trader—the Democrats. This is no time to swap horses.

Respectfully,
GUY H. De SHAZO.

We want to urge the members of our B. Y. P. U. to wake up and help us make it an A-1 union. Every member be out Sunday night and on time.

On Tuesday, the three departments of Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Martin at their home. Miss Mary Jim Sutley was in charge of the amusements, assisted by Mrs. Leonard Pierce. Contests were enjoyed until a late hour. The Senior union were led into the dining room where the dining table was artistically arranged with stick candy, centered with large letters, B.Y.P.U. The other departments were served later. The spirit of B. Y. P. U. is growing large every day. We welcome visitors to attend our weekly meetings on Sundays at 6:30 p.m.

We invite other unions to come and present us programs. If any union sees a time they can accept our invitation, send your acceptance to Charles Nix, Sr., president or to the church at large, Address Jemison, Ala. Route 3.

Mr. Grady Lewis of Marble Valley stopped in a few minutes Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley after a brief visit to Nevada. He told of the wonderful sights seen on the tour. The one most interesting was the great Boulder Dam now under construction. Another sight was the seem-to-be moving mountains covered with sheep. Their movements produce a moving appearance. We were glad to have such a distinguished visitor in our community.

Quite a number from Oak Grove attended the singing at Mars Hill. They reported a nice time.

Mr. John Middlebrooks, his daughter, Penola and son, Jack, and some of their friends visited Miss Mary Jim Sutley a while Sunday afternoon.

Misses Estelle and Anne Belle Lesley of Calera visited friends and relatives the past week end.

Mr. J. F. Nix returned home Sunday afternoon after a visit with friends and relatives in Birmingham.

Mrs. W. I. Lessley and Mrs. J. C. Seay visited Mrs. J. D. Sutley Sunday afternoon.

A group of young people from here attended a singing at Center Hill community. They were as follows: Misses Nannie Sammons, Loy Mae Glass, Dorothy and Lillian Dees, Roberta and Gladys Satterwhite and Messrs. Frank Lessley, Rip Northcutt and Sam Collins.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley had as her dinner guest Sunday Miss Gladys Satterwhite.

SCHOOL BOOKS LOST

When the schoolhouse at Baker caught on fire a while back, the principal rushed into his car and came to town to get the fire department.

On his car at the time was a satchel of books belonging to Jesse Knight, a student of the school. The satchel, books and all were lost on the road between the school and town. Part of the books have been found.

The satchel and a spelling book are still missing. If anyone has found them, please return to Jesse Knight, son of Mr. John R. Knight.

CAUGHT A POSSUM IN A WELL

Following up the story of last week about the boys rescuing a fox hound from an old well, now comes Jesse Mitchell to relate his own experience in catching a possum. Says he:

"My dog treed something in an old abandoned well about fifteen feet deep. When I came up to the place the dog was running around the old well curb, indicating to me that his quarry was in there. I shined my light into the well and saw some limbs or branches of a tree that extended from the top of the well to the bottom. I pulled these out and with one of them I brought out a fine possum. Evidently Mr. Possum, pressed by the scarcity of water on the surface of the ground, had been forced to go down into the well."

WITH ADVANCES CERTAIN NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY

"In every line of industry and trade higher wages are operating to increase production costs. Things are going to be more valuable than money, and at such time free buying is the part of prudence.

"There is in this country an enormous latent buying power. Alongside it is an even more enormous latent demand for things. Our clothes are shabby, our automobiles rattle, our houses need painting. We need nearly everything, and for 4 years we have been buying the very starvation minimum. We were afraid to buy because prices had steadily fallen and we were afraid of losing our jobs. It was the thing to go down in a downward spiral. But it is not the thing to do when everything is going the other way. Lower prices, unemployment, save. Higher prices, reemployment, buy. That is good sense and good business."—General Johnson.

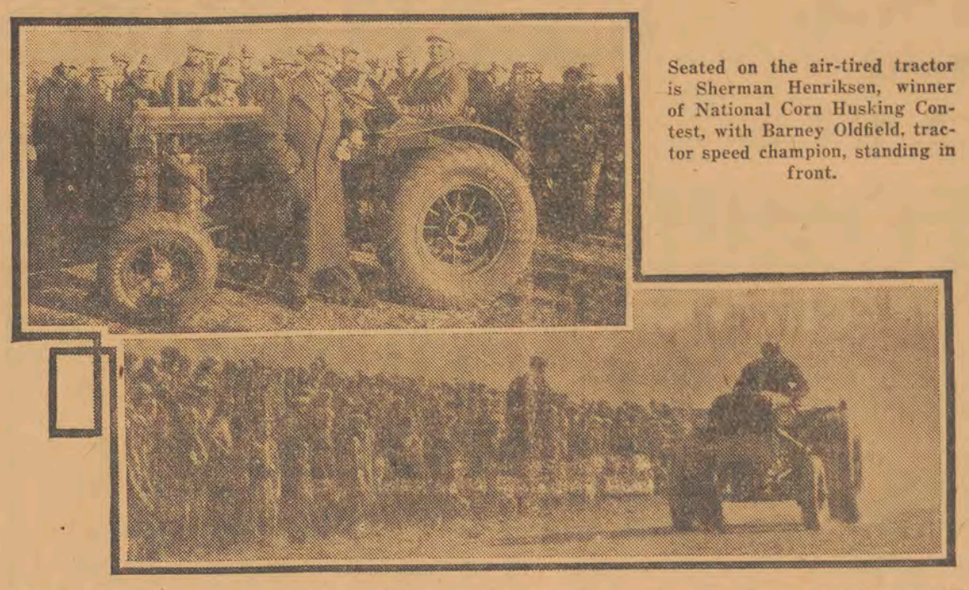
Tractor Speed On Air Tires Thrills Thousands At National Corn Husking Contest



Seated on the air-tired tractor is Sherman Henriksen, winner of National Corn Husking Contest, with Barney Oldfield, tractor speed champion, standing in front.

At the National Corn Husking Contest at West Point, Neb., Nov. 9, the most spectacular feature was the demonstration of air-tired tractors. The climax of the day's events was the record of 65 m.p.h. by a Firestone equipped Allis-Chalmers farm tractor driven by Barney Oldfield, veteran race driver.

The thrilling speed demonstration showed the practical value of these tires for highway use in addition to their advantages for all farm operations. The 25,000 spectators, who crowded the sides of the gravel road a half hour before the speed event started, went wild as the tractor roared past.

Sherman Henriksen, of Lincoln Nebraska, shown seated on the tractor, was the Nebraska entrant in the National Contest. He husked 27.624 bushels from standing corn in 80 minutes.

You Know The Price of Sin but —"WHAT PRICE INNOCENCE?"

Mrs. Harper was a contented woman. Her son's and daughter's friends were dancing in the next room while she and her husband played bridge with the Bennetts. Living in constant fear that her children make objectionable friendships, she was always pleased when Ruth and John were within the sound of her voice.

She did not know that the young folks in the next room were taking advantage of the occasion to demonstrate their ability at fast strutting. Everyone took turns showing how hot they could shake their hips. Soon the dancing became more objectionable than any permitted on a dance floor.

And Mrs. Harper did not know that the youthful guests had been dissatisfied with the fruit punch she had provided. It lacked kick, they had complained. But that fault had been easily remedied. A few bottles of bootleg gin had been added and the punch transformed into a beverage more to their liking.

Ruth's mother would have been horrified if she had learned that Tommy had led her daughter out on the back porch to cool off after a dance. It wasn't long before his arms were around his partner and he was showering Ruth with kisses. And Ruth didn't have the strength to object.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by O. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TERRACING PLAN GETS ATTENTION IN STATE

Dadeville, Ala., Nov. 21.—A five year plan on terracing now being executed in Tallapoosa County under the leadership of County Agent Fletcher N. Farrington offers a suggestion that may be helpful to other counties in solving the knotty problem of soil erosion.

Farmers of the county are cooperating with their county agent and county commissioners in a self-liquidating program which is expected to result in the proper terracing of all farms in the county in a five year period.

The program is cooperative in nature. Though farmers of the county are paying the entire cost, the work is made possible through the assistance and initiative of their county government.

The county has made provision for four terracing machines, each consisting of a powerful tractor and terracing machine. At present each of these outfits is terracing approximately 10 acres a day. It is expected that other outfits will be added and that before this season is over around 4,000 acres of land will be protected from washing by good terraces.

Farmers who wish their land terraced apply to the county soil erosion club. When the job is finished the landowner is charged with the total cost, including labor, fuel, and depreciation on the machinery. In this way the program is made entirely self sustaining.

The charge varies from $1 to $2.50 per acre. County agent Farrington estimates that good terraces enhance the value of land by $5 to $10 per acre.

Twenty-six licensed terracers of the county are assisting Mr. Farrington in giving expert assistance in running terrace lines and supervising the terracing.

SALES SHOW INCREASE IN THE FARM INCOME

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 21.—Increased farm income in Alabama is being reflected in greater sales of miscellaneous commodities which farmers buy. On some types of sales the volume is more than 25 per cent greater than a year ago, according to reports received by Dr. L. N. Duncan director of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Some reports indicate that the volume of purchases has risen much more than this, not only in Alabama but to the south as a whole, because of the sharp rise in farm income from unusually low levels. This improvement in the south was due in large part to the cotton and tobacco adjustment programs. Similar effects are being noted as benefit payments reach communities in the wheat and corn-and-hog belts, Washington releases say.

Much of the increase in farmers' income is due to the benefit payments made by the government in consideration of their cooperation in acreage reduction programs. Benefit to farmers during the five months from August to December will be equivalent to a 20 per cent increase over the cash farm income for the same period last year.

The increase in prices of agricultural commodities has been uneven, according to the agricultural adjustment administration. Thus far price improvement has benefitted wheat, cotton, and tobacco most, dairy and hogs somewhat, and a number of farm products very little. Prices of wheat, cotton, tobacco and wool are now higher than they were last March because of the depreciation of the American dollar in foreign exchange, speculative activity, reduced supplies, and a higher level of industrial activity and consumer purchasing power. The regional differences also stand out in farm income, with cotton and grain income showing the greatest gain compared with income from livestock and their products.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Loans of 4 cents a pound are to be made on options being held by farmers as part of their benefit payments for helping in cutting the cotton surplus.

Cotton growers have received an average of more than 9 cents a pound for their cotton practically all the fall as compared with an average of 6½ cents for the whole of last year.

The world supply of all cotton rose from 37 million bales in 1930 to 41 million bales in 1932. It is now above 41 million bales and would have been nearly 46 million if it hadn't been for the cotton adjustment program.

The initial processing tax, now in effect, of 50 cents per hundredweight upon the actual killing of all hogs slaughtered for commercial trade channels accounts for less than three-fourths of one per cent per pound of the average value of a finished carcass.

The price farmers have to pay for what they buy have remained quite stable during recent weeks at about 117 per cent of the pre-war level. The prices of things farmers sell stood on November 1 at 70 per cent of the pre-war level. The aim of the govnment's farm adjustment program is to bring these two figures closer together.

POST OFFICES TO SUPPLY NRA COMPLAINT FORMS

Washington. — The National Recovery Administration has sent to the postmasters forms for the use of the public in reporting to complaint boards all cases of violation of codes of fair competition or the President's Reemployment Agreement. In the public announcement it was stated: "This action was taken following receipt of thousands of letters complaining of 'chiselers' and code violators. In order to discourage 'spite' complaints, space is provided on the printed forms for notarization or certification by one or more witnesses familiar with the facts."

ALABAMA STUDENTS ATTEND SESSIONS

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 19. — Twenty-three student leaders in Y. M. C. A. work from the University, Birmingham-Southern, Howard, Auburn and the Jacksonville and Florence State Normal Schools gathered here Friday evening for the first session of the Fall meeting of the State Student Council Y. M. C. A.

The first address was given by J. Ward Nelson, of Birmingham, state Y. M. C. A. secretary, in which he discussed the work of the association in assisting the students in making the proper transition from high school to college. Claude Nelson, of Atlanta, regional secretary, discussed the value of helping the college student place the proper values on the various phases of college life.

Tom Forrester, president of the Howard Y. M. C. A., was appointed secretary for the three-day meeting which was concluded Sunday morning.

WORLD COTTON NINE PER CENT GREATER

The world production of cotton during the current year is now estimated at 9 per cent greater than the previous year, but is nearly 3,000,000 bales less than 1931, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal statistican of the department of agriculture.

The Alabama crop is estimated at 938,000 bales which is about 40,000 bales more than were harvested last year.

Alabama farmers this year produced 38,687,000 bushels of corn, according to the November 1st crop report which placed the sweet potato production at 6,225,000 bushels, syrup at 6,005,000 gallons and pecans at 2,850,000 pounds.

"Fifty-eight per cent of the cows in herds were being milked on November 1 and the average per cow milked was 1.46 gallons," Gist said.

"Egg production amounted to 21.6 eggs per 100 hens. This is about in line with the seasonal average."

FOREST FIRES NUMEROUS

Montgomery, Ala. Nov. 21.—Many fires are springing up over the state during the present fall drought, according to the State Commission of Forestry. In general the damage has been comparatively slight, but in some instances the losses have been quite severe.

With numerous recreationists in the woods, many of whom build warming fires, the danger to the forests is quite acute. The forestry authorities are urging that every fire built be surrounded by a cleared strip while burning and completely extinguished before left. A bit of carlelessness can easily cost some citizen thousands of dollars.

Like plowing, logging and the suppression of the boll weevil, the protection of lands against fire is a responsibility of the owner. The number of forestry agents working in the counties is greatly reduced on account of the financial condition of the state. However, the few men remaining are doing their utmost to coordinate and assist the efforts of landowners.

Prevention of fires pays the best but, in case they actually start, the landowner and his family, employees and tenants should immediately and energetically proceed to extinguish them. This it not a difficult matter if the fires are attacked at the beginning. Later the task involves more labor but can easily be handled by common sense and active methods.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 21.—An appeal has been addressed to sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations by I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, to encourage the purchase of hunting licenses among the hunters of the state.

Game is plentiful, Commissioner Quinn pointed out, but the hunter that goes afield legally unprepared more than likely will run afoul the law. The wardens have been instructed to be on the alert for the unlicensed hunters.

Commissioner Quinn said the cost of either a state or county hunting license is small compared with the privileges it affords and declared there is no reason why every hunter should not be equipped with one.

"It is wiser to pay from $1.00 to $3.00 for a hunting license than to pay from $10 to $25 for not having one," the commissioner warned. "If the hunters and fishermen of the state expect better protection for our wild life resources, they must realize that revenue is necessary to provide it."

In getting this idea over, he believes the sportsmens organizations can be of great help by pointing out to those that hunt and fish that "it is the sportsmanlike thing to do, the economical thing to do and the wisest thing to do."

He urges that a campaign be started by them to increase the purchase of hunting licenses.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

The health of this community is good at present.

Rev. A. S. Bentley spoke to us Saturday p.m. on the subject of "The Duty of A Christian," with a very good crowd.

Our Sunday school met Sunday at 1:30 with a good attendance. We had some visitors with us, which we were glad to have, and hope they will come back and be with us again.

Our pastor spoke to us Sunday p.m. on the subject of temptation, and how we could be led off from our duty.

Our Sunday school meets next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We invite everyone that will to come and be with us. We hope that some day we can get the fathers and mothers to see their duty to their church. Children, always remember that you are always welcome and wanted in our church.—A Reader.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large attendance. We were glad to have Mr. Emmett Wilson, who taught a singing school at this place the past summer, present. We were really glad to have all the visitors, and invite them back again.

Directors for the afternoon were: Cornelius Hand, Miss Lorena Billingsley, Miss Gladys Wyatt, Herman Culpepper, Soverign Dickey, Miss Mildred Coe, Miss Rubye Weldon and Mr. Emmette Wilson, of Maple Springs; Mr. Minor of New Salem; Mack Durbin of Pleasant Grove; Marvin Lowery of Liberty Hill and Mr. Leonard Culp and Mr. Hiram Littlejohn also of Liberty Hill. The Liberty Hill quartet sang several selections for us, which were greatly enjoyed.

Organists for the afternoon were Misses Alma Jones, Dessie Wyatt and Mrs. Eddie Bell Wright.

We are sorry our chairman of the singing society, Mr. G. B. Billingsley, is moving away. We will miss them very much.

Don't forget, next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

Don't forget we have our singing every third Sunday afternoon. Everybody come and be with us. You are always welcome to Highland.—Gladys Wyatt, Secretary.

Misses Dorothy Sessions and Mabel Harris, students of Alabama College, spent Sunday here with their parents.

CHICKEN SUPPER AT CONCORD JR. HIGH, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 24

In addition to the chicken supper Friday night, November 24, a program has been arranged for the young and old to enjoy. During the evening negro spirituals, quartets and stunts will be given. Instrumental music is also included on the program.

A feature that will interest all is the pretty girl cake. Boys, don't forget to bring your best looking girl and win that cake. A small sum of twenty cents will be charged for the plates. The entertainment is yours for the coming.

L. T. Reeves of Birmingham spent the week end here with his brother, Rev. Reeves, who is in the hospital suffering from bruises received in a wreck Saturday afternoon.

SINGING AT CHESTNUT CREEK

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon at Chestnut Creek church, Cooper. We sure had a fine singing. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. We wish to thank the singers from Clanton for helping us out. Mr. Jesse Jones, Mr. Herbert Lowery and Mr. Jean Wyatt. We appreciate your help and invite you back any time on the first and third Sunday afternoons.

We have bought some new books for the society, so if you that belong to Chestnut Creek church and are interested in our young people, who are trying to learn to sing, will come out and help them out, you will get a blessing, especially you that profess to know how to sing. The singing was opened by the chairman, L. D. Hughes, who led two songs; prayer by Jesse C. Jones. Directors for the afternoon were Clayton Miller, Orvid Hughes, J. B. Crew, Raybon Crew, Dewell Jones, one song each. Herbert Lowery, Jesse Jones, Jean Wyatt, I. D. Huett, S. M. Yates, Archie Jones, son of Arthur Jones, two to three songs each. The Clanton quartet rendered two songs and the frisky four rendered one song. Closing song was by chairman. Prayer was led by S. M. Yates. Everybody is invited to come back on next first Sunday afternoon.

INVITATION TO NAZI ENVOY IS DEFENDED

New York, Nov. 19. — Dr. Hans Luther, the German ambassador to the United States, has the assurance of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, that he will be received "with all the courtesy due his rank" when he makes an address at the school December 12.

In a letter made public Sunday, Dr. Butler refused to comply with the request of the Social Problems Club of Columbia University to cancel Dr. Luther's address.

The club threatened to hold an anti-Nazi demonstration November 15, the date on which the German ambassador was originally scheduled to speak. Dr. Luther canceled the engagement because of illness.

Dr. Luther, President Butler wrote the club, is the "official diplomatic representative of the government of the United States on the part of the government of a friendly people and is entitled to be received throughout our country with hte greatest courtesy and respect.

"Whenever he is invited to be the guest of Columbia University and whenever he accepts such invitation he will receive a welcome appropriate to his distinguished position."

HUNTER IS SHOT

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 19.—Accidentally shot while on a hunting trip with friends, Robert Allen, 21, was brought to Garner Hospital here Sunday in a critical condition.

Hospital attendants said he received wounds in the side and head. David Young, Jr., a member of the hunting party, told officers that Allen was wounded when a member of the party fired at a rabbit.

SLAYING VEILED AT TRIAL

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 19.—The Lily Gaines murder case entered its second week Sunday with the state more than half done with its attempt to convict her of shooting her husband, Dr. James I. Gaines, well-to-do sportsman.

Although more than a score of witnesses have told their stories, much of the mystery that hid the assailant and the motive for the slaying still clings to the case. Gaines was killed Aug. 15.

The state's theory is that the Mrs. Gaines, who lived with the physician for four years before they were married in 1932, was driven to shoot her husband by the thought that he intended to divorce her and by his attentions to other women.

BANKHEAD TO SPEAK

U. S. Senator John H. Bankhead will speak at the luncheon of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club at 1 p.m. on Tuesday at the Tutwiler Hotel. He will discuss the benefits to Birmingham of the present efforts of the government in behalf of cotton farmers.

A special musical program, under direction of Walter R. Heasty, will also be a feature of the meeting, it is announced by John Parks Newsome, chairman of the program committee.

$30,000 PAID FOR TAGS

Athens, Ala. Nov. 19.—Nearly $30,000 was paid by automobile owners of this county for tags for the new year, it was found when the deadline was reached.

AFTER FLU

Miss Lillie May Lyles of Route 3, Florence, Ala., said: "I had the 'flu' and pneumonia and everyone thought I was going into a decline, I was so poor. But after taking a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I was sound and well — felt better than I ever did." Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice. New size, tablets 50c, liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. "We Do Our Part."

Womanless Wedding

A humorous and entertaining event of the past week was "The Womanless Wedding" sponsored by the P.-T. A., and presented by the business men of Thorsby last Friday evening at the grammar school. Some of the impersonations were: The bride, John Childress; the groom, Hubert Reinhardt; ring-bearer, Mr. J. L. Mixson; train-bearer, Mr. Tom Robinson. Some of the invited guests were two flappers, Lloyd Howard and Ralph Pate; Rev. and Mrs. Each, impersonated by Mr. M. E. Willis and Mr. Davis Cleckler; Rev. and Mrs. Jones, by Mr. G. F. Harper and Mr. V. H. Sutlive. There were several bridesmaids and groomsmen, and a wonderful variety of guests. Mr. Rascoe Maddox, as butler, announced the guests as they arrived. After the wedding a "Fashion Show" was presented, when each member of the wedding party were exhibited in their costumes for the judges to decide which should have the prize. The bride was the one chosen.

Freedom Of The Press.---

There is some indication that we may yet have raised in the United States the issue of the "free press." The basis of the issues is, of course, the much discussed code for the American newspaper under the NRA. Many newspaper publishers have been insisting that there be placed in the code a clause safeguarding the right of the editor to express his own free opinions without interference by the government. Some of the administration representatives helping to promulgate the code had replied that such a clause is unnecessary because the freedom of the press is guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States.

To this has come the inevitable reply that since things are now being done which seem to stretch some of the provisions of the constitution, and if the clause of a free press is unnecessary, it is certainly not harmful, and that it ought to be agreed to. The very fact that there is some opposition to the insertion of a clause on the subject of freedam of the press has in itself given rise to suspicion, whether well founded or not, that there is a "nigger in the wood pile" somewhere and that some newspaper at a date in the future might find itself deprived of its right to operate, if those in charge of the code did not like the editorial policy of the paper.. Licensing of radio stations, it is pointed out, has not had a tendency to increase the freedom and independence of the broadcasting companies.

One of those predicting "freedom of the press" as an issue in 1934 and 1936 was former Senator Watson of Indiana, who declared recently in an interview in Chicago that the question would be whether or not the government could attempt to impose war-time regulations upon public discussion in time of peace.

"While the press has not been very friendly to me at times," the former senator said, "in my judgment a vigorous attempt on the part of the government to censor editorial comment would lead straight to revolution."

He said the depression has left the people of America in a daze and that they are willing to try almost anything as an experiment, but that they would not consent to any attempt to abridge their right to speak out their sincere convictions.

"At no time in the history of this country, as I see it," he said, "was an absolutely unHe said the "talk about newspapers being disloyal and unpatriotic at this time is all poppycock."

He added there were times when he felt like curbing one or two newspapers, but that he had the remedy of the libel laws if he had cared to use them.

"When I hear people talking about unrestrained license of the press," he said, "I know they are talking through their hats. It is just as unlawful for a newspaper to utter a libel as it is for any citizen. We ought to be done with the sophistry that criticism, based on reasoned judgment, is a libel or an unpatriotic thing."

He said he believed Washington was making some grievous mistakes and that "they probably will make some more."

"And I propose," he added, "like every other citizen to say what I honestly think. And if I know anything at all about the editors of this country . . . . there will be many of them laying in on the experimenters in Washington pretty heavily before many moons.

Anyhow, it can be said in passing, that those who feared there might be a dearth of issues in the next campaign, can now cease their worrying. The campaigns of 1934 and 1936 promise to have as many issues as would ordinarily supply a half dozen campaigns.

In the presence of a sweeping breakdown of democracy on the European model, the people of the United States are today, in our judgment, more devoted to the institutions of an American democracy than ever before. They are asking for no dictator. They propose to remain a free people, and the administration would be wise to confine its efforts for recovery within the limits of American constitutional government. — Chicago Daily News.

A Code For Mothers.---

What if a code should be fixed for mother? Suppose she were allowed to work but forty hours a week.

She rises with the mocking birds in the morning, wakes the family, gets father off to work, washes six or eight necks and twice as many ears and starts the youngsters off to school.

After the breakfast dishes are polished, she gathers up the family linen—or cotton—for the wash. She indulges in both suds and song and soon the line of garments is bulging in the breeze. Before she knows it, a hurrican of children burst into the house for lunch at noon.

Then she straightens up the house, looks after several thousand odds and ends until it is time to go to the market for meat and vegetables for dinner. She is chief chef, dishwasher and nurse girl for the evening. Along about midnight Billy wakes up with the croup or something and mother gets the cold compress, the camphor and vaseline. Father saws wood all night without thought of a code!

Next day is ironing day—and the next is is mending day—then comes cleaning day—and Saturday she has to get ready for Sunday. And so on and on and on and on and on.

Mother puts in sixteen to eighteen hours a day and uses up her code in a trifle over two days with five more to go.

What to do! Father roars around about the NRA and wants his competitor yanked up for not putting on more workers and giving shorter hours.

But how in heck could we put more mothers on the job?—Los Angeles Times.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The elections held in November this year seem to have resulted in something like a "dog fall" so far as partisanship in politics is concerned. The Democrats lost New York City to Major LaGuardia running on a fusionist ticket. The Republicans won the mayoralty contest in Cleveland, usually Democratic, and were successful in Springfield, Mass., an important New England city. But they lost in Philadelphia where a fusionist candidate smashed the Vare machine and also in Pittsburgh where the first Democratic mayor in a generation was chosen. The Republicans gained in the New York assembly and the Democrats gained in the New Jersey legislature. Rather than a victory either for the Republicans or Democrats, the results in most of the large cities indicated a defeat for the political machines. Since 1930 the people have been voting against the "ins" and in favor of the "outs." This is an infallible sign of public discontent, and the fact that the trend continues the same way this year indicates the public is still dissatisfied. What result this will have on the state and the congressional elections next year remains to be seen.

Perhaps the reason the results were so mixed from a partisan standpoint lies in the fact that the elections generally were fought out on local rather than national issues. The only instance where the election had a national flavor of any kind was in New York, and this was due to the fact that Postmaster General Farley, generally regarded as the political spokesman of the national administration, brought out Joseph McKee under a "Recovery" party label, in opposition to Major LaGuardia and Mayor O'Brien, the regular Democratic candidate. President Roosevelt made no statement about the election, but the fact that Farley was active in behalf of McKee gave the election a national flavor. The defeat of McKee, who barely ran second, is certainly a blow to the prestige of Mr. Farley, who has been regarded as well nigh invincible politically, since he became the Roosevelt manager in the pre-convention Democratic campaign in 1932. Mr. Farley gained a reputation for great political wisdom when he led the successful movement to nominate Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago. Although the election of Mr. Roosevelt was a foregone conclusion from the start, and he would have won without any national chairman, the results added to the reputation of Mr. Farley who held that exalted political office. The result in New York is the first instance in which Mr. Farley has guessed wrong, and this error of judgment may have far-reaching results.

Already the Tammany leaders have issued a savage blast against Mr. Farley, intimating that he ought to resign as Democratic state chairman of New York. In a lead editorial, full of fine sarcasm, the Democratic New York Times which supported Major LaGuardia, suggests that Mr. Farley is too busy with the burdens of his various duties and ought to step out as state chairman, before the state committee removes him. Just what will develop remains to be seen. The Tammany Tiger has had his claws clipped, but is still able to do some scratching. The Republicans feel that their chances of carrying New York in 1934 have been strengthened. It his been a long time since they have had any encouraging news from the Empire State, so we can countenance their indulging in a few quiet chuckles.

But, although New York looks a little brighter to the Republicans just now, the situation in Pennsylvania is not so hot. In this G. O. P. stronghold the voters smashed the Republican machines in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The Democrats could not have done it without the aid of Republican votes, any more than Major LaGuardia in New York could have been elected without Democratic votes. The Republican ballots which helped Democratic plans in Pennsylvania were furnished by the faction of which Governor Pinchot is the head. Governor Pinchot is credited with having ambitions to run for the Senate next year against Senator Reed. Here is a chance for plenty of trouble, and a widening of factional lines. However as in the case of New York where the Democrats are in the worrying seat, it is impossible to predict very far in advance. The political situation has a very changing over night, and the present liquid state of affairs generally is not conducive of political stabilization.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

What is Inflation?

During the last few months we have heard much about "inflating the currency." Time and time again I have heard people ask: "What do they mean by inflating the currency?" That is a short question that requires a long answer to explain thoroughly. Roughly, it means that when our dollar's gold content is cut down to 50 per cent, that the producer will receive two dollars for his produce where he would have received only one dollar. The contention is that the buying power of the nation is doubled under this new order, but the prices of finished products would of necessity have to be doubled to keep step. If this is a fact, then how is the buying power doubled? If the farmer receives five cents a pound for cotton, and pays $2.00 for a pair of shoes, with other necessities of life in like ratio, and later receives 10 cents a pound for cotton, and those shoes advance to $4.00, which they must do, as must other necessities, just what is gained by the new move. All well know that when money is cheapened, credit is weakened, and, also, when we consider that over 75 per cent of the world's business is by credit and on paper, it is easy to see that the net result of inflation (money weakening) is world-wide credit weakening, and a dangerous move toward a complete and substantial break-down of business structure. To get a complete and easily understood explanation of this whole inflation business, you should read Bernard Baruch's article in The Saturday Evening Post for next Saturday, Nov. 25. If you are the least bit interested in what may happen to this country, beg, borrow or steal a nickel and buy a copy of this issue of The Post. You can get it at either of two places in Clanton—Mack's Place, or at Alred's news stand. Remember, Mr. Baruch is one of the powers in the treasury department at Washington and should be in position to know what he is talking about. His article is simply written in every day language that anyone can understand, and his explanation is full and complete. Get this magazine, read this article, and keep it for future reference. It will open a lot of sleepy eyes.

A Turtle Race

With the coming year, with its many elections of one kind and another, we already hear numbers of names mentioned as possible and probable candidates. So-and-so will run for probate judge, as will another so-and-so, but now and then we hear such as this: "He'll not get far. Everybody knows he has been mixed up in this, that, and the other, and his opponent is sure to throw that at him." Such as this may be heard in regard to all the races. Such as this is just what should be kept out of the campaigns, for it smacks of mud-slinging, the worst thing that can be brought into a political campaign. After all, campaigns only last for a few months at the longest, but personal enmity, which mud-slinging engenders, is, in most cases a life time proposition. I have seen men—the best of friends—enter political races, only to have a little of this mud-slinging creep in, causing fights, personal hatred and the like, which will never be erased. Remember, when turtles race—if they do race — they take the shortest possible course. They crawl through mud, if necessary, to reach their objective. In crawling through mud, some of it is sure to stick, and old Mr. Turtle has no way of getting it off. Remember, too, that SOMETIMES these mudders get so bogged down in their mud that they, themselves get all stuck up and are beaten in their race by the smarter opponent, who refuses to be led into a mud hole, but sticks to the high road. All in all, it is better for all that all stay out of the mud. Then, when the race is over, all will be as clean as when the race began. Of course, only one can win, but one man can, at least, be as clean as the other. Let's make the coming campaign a clean race—a man's race—not a turtle race.

Cry of the Minority

Not so long ago, I was one among a number of interested spectators at a street corner scrap. It seems a little fellow, a kind of "city smart guy and wise cracker" had followed a good old slow-going, sturdy son of the soil all over town that day, poking fun at him for his awkward walk, his patched trousers, and long hair. At last the boy from the sticks got enough of it, and turned and wiped the street up with the city slicker. Even after that, though the slicker could not refrain from poking fun at the awkward fellow. And, again Jeems Henry set in to teach the city lad better manners. As the big fellow began limbering up and advancing to give the lad the licking that was coming to him, a bunch of the city lad's friends gathered around to look on. "Slicker" had a pretty good idea what he had coming, and as the scrap got under way, he yelled thus: "Are all you guys going to stand there and let this big hunky beat me up? Can't you see he's bigger than I am?" Now, that editorial on the second page of the Chilton County News last week made me think of that "slicker's" wail. Knowing only too well the sound thrashings the Republicans have given the Demmies in the past, the News wants to know if everybody is going to stand by and see the same thing happen again. Knowing full well that there are not enough Democrats in Chilton County to carry the coming election, they, themselves, are sending out the SOS (Save Our Skin) call to Republicans to come in and help them. Talk to one of them and they exude a smug sense of security that they are "sitting pretty" but that begging editorial of last week is a dead give-away that they are whistling in the dark to hide their inward fear. Why should Republicans help the Democrats? Have they ever shown anything that merits the support of Republicans? Will a sane man load his enemy's gun, so that that enemy may shoot him? I don't think so.

Needed—A News Gatherer

Another thing, somebody around the Chilton County News ought to read the papers sometimes. Things are happening, but they don't seem to be aware of the fact. A few days ago the City of New York elected a Republican mayor, the first of the kind they have had in many years, but the News didn't hear about it. Strange—passing strange! All the big dailies heard about it, but if the News got any inkling that such a catastrophe (to them) had taken place, they failed to mention it. It's a funny thing—during a Republican administration if any official gives a negro a water-boy's job, these Democrats hear about that right off the bat, and even go to the trouble to find all about that boy's family tree all the way from A to Izzer, and have it all published, too. But the Democrats can create whole new government departments, like they did only a few weeks ago, and give those new departments whole negro official outfits, but the Democrats around here never hear about THAT, and if you ask them about it, they look off into the distance and mumble something about like this: "Well, I reckin they know what they're a-doin'. You know the big fellers air mighty smart." Yep! Mighty smart! But why not come clean and tell all that is happening—it MIGHT be interesting reading, even if it isn't encouraging.

The Tigers of '33

I have watched teams come and go at Chilton County High School for the past several years. In fact I saw the first football team Chilton put on the field. I think that was in 1916. That team carried Rockett, Popwell, Williams, Palmer, Pinckard, the two Lowes, the Dormineys, Curlee, Burnett, and others. Since that first year there have been many good men to wear the orange and blue for Chilton. Orr, Duncan, Collins, the Sims boys, Kemp, Daniel, Thompson, Jones, Hayes, Gore, the Sanfords, Parrish, Riggins, Higgins, Wagoner, Rutherford, the Reynolds, Littlejohn and scores of others have come and gone, leaving memories of hard-fighting elevens. Every year sees some new high light on the athletic field. To pick the "best" would be well nigh impossible. But every year has seen a group of real fighters take the field for Chilton. I think old Chilton High can boast of an enviable all-time record. And now, a few words in regard to our "Tigers of '33." Let's name a few of them—Joe Moore, Cooper, Wilder, "Sid" and "Ted" Reynolds, Baker, Cecil Jones, Carl Jones, Foshee, Tiffin, and others whose names I can't remember. Give credit to all the fellows for one thing, if nothing else—there're fighgters—every inch of them. There have been bigger men at Chilton, bigger squads to pick teams from, maybe there have been better teams, but there has never been a team at Chilton who fought harder nor more cleanly than Coach Searcy's team of 1933. And they have a good record for the year. I just wonder how many teams in the state of their weight and experience can look back on a season with as much satisfaction as our boys. All the year they have carried the fight to teams much heavier and more experienced than they, yet their year's record is not to be ashamed of, but an occasion for pride. This team closes its season here Friday afternoon with Isabella High School. Last Friday they went to Holtville, and rated as the under-dog by two or three touchdowns, yet they came home with the game with these highly-touted Holtville Bulldogs in the bag. If you like to watch a good football team work—if you like clean sportsmanship, see the game Friday, November 23, at the High School Park, at 1:30 p.m. Some of Chilton's lads will be playing their last game for Chilton. They'd like to see you there.—Man in the Moon.

The Forgotten Man.---

In commenting on the failure of the visit of the Western governors to the white house in putting over their program and in expressing his disappointment as to the result of his conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace, Governor Langer is quoted as saying:

"It is a 100 per cent failure. I am very disappointed and disgusted. The farmer is the forgotten man. Everybody else has been here before him, the banker, the insurance man, the railroad man, and got all the money. There is nothing left for the farmer."

Without going into detail as to the soundness of the policies of this and the preceding administration in the matter of "rescuing the farmer" it might be well to reflect for a moment on the justness of the good governor's statement quoted above. Is the farmer indeed the forgotten man?

In a recent issue, the New York Times, a newspaper noted for the accuracy of its reporting, called attention to the fact that an official survey of what the government in recent years had done for the farmer indicated that since July, 1929, more than two billion dollars has been advanced to the farmers by the various government agencies who have been seeking to help him become prosperous. And this staggering sum, it is pointed out, does not include the $360,000,000 expended by the farm board in its effort to peg the price of wheat and cotton so that the farmers might get a higher price for his produce.

But this total, nearly two and a half billions, is not the end. Another quarter of a billion has been made available for a loan of ten cents a pound on cotton in an effort to peg the price of this product, and the extension of loans on other farm commodities are to follow so that during the next year it is believed that another billion will be loaned for this purpose. In the program for production control, the government is now extending further benefits to the farmers in the sum of another billion dollars. The government hoped to get this back through the processing tax, making the consumer pay it, but if the amounts so raised are not enough Uncle Sam will be holding the bag as usual.

The Agricultural Department is one of the most expensive branches of the government and whether we agree with its policies or not, its sole aim and intent is to help the farmer. It may be argued that in spite of all the help intended the farmer has not yet been made properous. Perhaps that is true. Very few of us are enjoying that very enviable state of well being today. But the record of the past four years certainly does not bear out the assertion that the farmer is the forgotten man.

Everybody sympathizes with the farmer and his troubles and everyone hopes he will soon be restored to a state of prosperity, because it is known that no nation can be well off with nearly half of its population in the doldrums. It is barely possible that the task of bringing prosperity to agriculture is one which cannot be accomplished in its entirety by legislation or government fiat. It is faintly possible, too, even if the good governors had arrived at Washington before somebody else "got all the money" and had returned to their homes with a trunkload of assistance, that the farmer might not have been rescued.

No matter how unfortunate he may be, the American farmer is not a forgotten man, if for no other reason than that the professional agitators would not let us forget him even if we wanted to, which we do not.

Just at present if we may be permitted to offer our humble opinion, it is the poor taxpayer who is the forgotten citizen in America.

Today Bill Taber and wife, and daughter-in-law from Big Creek section visited the county seat. Mr. Taber reports the new deal on cattle is not helping in his part of the county. He sold two heifers and five steers for $24 and it took all of them to pay his taxes. He told us a neighbor sold a good cow for six dollars.—Taney County, Mo., Republican.

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

J. N. Ervin of Randolph was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday. He reports that forest fires during the past few weeks of extremely dry weather and high winds have swept over thousands of acres in West Chilton with terrible destruction. The same story of devastation is true of the hill section of East Chilton from Lay Dam to Mitchell Dam. Fire damage in the county has been many thousands of dollars. Recent showers have checked the fires somewhat.

Uncle Henry Armstrong of Beat 14 was seen around the courthouse Saturday. He seemed to be in his usual happy disposition with a cheerful greeting for all his friends. He brought greetings from my good friend Zack J. Jones, whom I am always glad to hear from.

As one greets the passing throng nowadays, an occasional potential or prospective candidate comes down the line. Last Saturday I found that Will Deshazo of Beat 3, has been looking with some degree of anticipation toward running for Commissioner in the Second District. Perry Gore is mentioned as a candidate also. Since Mr. Gore ran for that place before, the other prospects regard him as having the inside track, so to speak.

Here is a man who is not concerned about political campaigns. He is Uncle Billy Headley, of Pinedale. What he wants is a mule. If he were thinking of politics, he would perhaps desire an elephant. But he wants a good gentle mule that would be suitable for work by the widow and children of his brother, the late Arthur Headley. If you know of a good mule that can be bought cheap, you might strike a bargain if you will get in touch with Mr. Headley.

Newton Minor of Thorsby was here Monday to attend the tax sale. He had his eye on a piece of property he might buy. The sale was held by Will Culp, Tax Collector. About half the property advertised was sold to local bidders. The other half was bid in for the state.

C. R. (Lum) Wells was in Clanton Monday. He does not come to town so often as he used to when he was younger and in better health.

L. A. Butterfield was back in Clanton Monday. While stationed here in the Seventh-Day Adventist work he made many warm friends who admire his fine friendly disposition and his keen intellect. Was glad to shake hands with him once more.

Hunter Burnett, representing Congressman Oliver in veterans affairs, was here a short while Monday. He took up several matters of importance to local veterans through the service officer of the local post of the American Legion. Mr. Burnett works hard in the interest of claims of veterans in the Sixth District. He has some fine results to show for his efforts too.

E. L. Manning, of Beat 5, was among the visitors to Clanton Monday. Mr. Manning is getting up in years, but he appears to be in fine physical condition.

A sign on the window of Hayes Chevrolet Co., says "Hold the Deal. The new 1934 Chevrolet is coming out soon." Such is life. Just as I got my old bus patched up so I thought I could make out with it, here comes a new model Chevrolet that is going to make me want to swap so awfully bad.

Loans on cotton to date through the County Agent's office total $177,716.91. About 3,500 bales of cotton are represented in these loans to a total of 1,255 farmers.

Mr. Robert Williams, former County Commissioner of Mulberry community, was in town Monday. Mr. Williams was Commissioner when Judge Deason was in the probate office.

I hear some political gossip from Stumps Hills which says Fate Littlefield and Posey Cleckler are likely to be candidates for County Commissioner in the first district next year. Posey has been a candidate before. Friends of ex-commissioner John Bean wonder if he considers the race again. Present commissioner Joe Cobb certainly will have to be reckoned with in that race unless he decides to shoot at something higher. I have heard him mentioned for probate judge.

Sheriff Gillespie says that law violations have increased one hundred per cent since the country went wet. Practically all restraint has broken down, declared the sheriff, and folks seem to think since the prohibition amendment is doomed for repeal, they can cut loose. But when they cut loose in Chilton County, they are most likely to find that we have a sheriff who is determined to enforce what law there is left.

Harmon Headley the "big" peach grower from Pleasant Grove was here Monday.

Everything was in a stir on Tuesday morning as arrangements were being made to put 400 men to work under the new Civil works program. Another 400 will be put on by December 15th. They work 30 hours a week and draw 30 to 40 cents an hour.

The R. F. C. has been abolished by the federal authorities. Taking its place is the Civil Works Administration with a wider and more permanently effective scheme of work relief. Under the new order, only permanent public projects will be done. No more such stuff as cleaning leaves out of ditches by the side of the road or sweeping off graveyards.

Rev. W. P. Reeves of Tuskegee, spent ten days in Clanton a while back preaching at the Baptist revival. From here he went to the state convention in Sheffield. Returning to his home from the convention, he had a horrible automobile wreck two miles north of here. Now he is in Clanton for a few days again—this time in our hospital. We are glad to have this good man in our town, but sorry he has to be in the hospital. We will take good care of him, however, regardless of the circumstances which keep him here.

Presley Cochran will be with us another year as pastor of Clanton Methodist church. We are glad of it. He is a good man, a good preacher, and a good pastor. His contributions to the uplifting and upbuilding of our community through his church work, the Kiwanis Club, and otherwise makes us love and admire him. He is already well broke in here—which is not said as a pun—his folks pay his salary, I am sure. I mean he is acquainted with the field after a year of service, and thereby is able to do better work in the coming year.

Gentlemen:

Our special sale on Sellers Kitchen Cabinets has been a decided success. So great is the demand for the new model SELLERS it has been necessary for us to order additional stock from the factory.

We have carried a liberal advertising space in your newspaper for several weeks heralding this event, and we take this means of expressing to you our most sincere thanks for your co-operation in planning and helping carry out this marvelous selling event.

Women seem to be more interested in the kitchen than in any other room in the house. The kitchen is fast becoming the most colorful, the most stylish, and the best looking room in the house.

It may interest you to know that we have sold more than seventy-five of these fine cabinets since we started this special sale about ten days ago. Also that in the past four years we have sold over three hundred Sellers Kitchen Cabinets in Chilton County.

Again we say we appreciate the fine results we have obtained through our advertising in The Union-Banner. The assistance and cooperation of your splendid newspaper has enabled us to make November, 1933, the largest business month in our entire history.

Yours very truly,

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

We are sure the great majority of you have felt in recent years the burden of mounting taxes which the citizen everywhere is required to pay to sustain the constantly increasing cost of government—municipal, county, state and national. We wonder, however, what you will think when we tell you that the taxes of this company have increased 1300 per cent within the short period of ten years.

In 1922 our taxes amounted to $2.54 for every $100 of revenue collected. In 1928 we paid out for taxes $7.55 for every $100 of revenue collected. In 1933 we estimate our taxes will be $14.25 for every $100 of revenue collected. Let us state it in another way: In 1922 we paid $7.65 in taxes for every customer we served. In 1933 we estimate we will pay $22.60 in taxes for every customer we serve.

You can see, therefore, that our tax problem concerns you as much as the problem of taxation generally concerns the citizenship of every community.

The taxes we pay constitute a considerable part of our operating cost and as such are recovered from the revenue we receive. In the end our customers pay our taxes.

The total local, state and federal taxes of the company from 1922 to 1933 inclusive are as follows:

1922	$ 151,943.04
1923	579,305.27
1924	694,387.76
1925	788,551.40
1926	837,382.27
1927	1,067,002.10
1928	1,379,849.54
1929	1,669,811.15
1930	1,982,309.79
1931	2,019,678.28
1932	1,981,661.45
1933 (Estimate)	2,200,000.00

Municipal and government-owned plants pay no taxes. If this company which provides you with electric service could escape payment of taxes it would be able to reduce the cost of electric service to its domestic, commercial, power, and other users by $2,200,000 annually or almost 15 per cent.

Yours very truly,

THOMAS W. MARTIN,
President.

Letter No. 5.

INK DROPS
from
COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL
By Dan Smith

Time flies fast. This week closes the third month of school. Only six more months left; and they will pass just as quickly. Let's realize this and get to work. According to the grades this month lot of us are falling down and its due chiefly to the lack of study. We have down here a school well equipped with teachers, books and other materials. The teachers are more than ready to help us. The books are at our disposal. Therefore, there is no reason why one should fail if he will buckle down and do some real work. Then when the month comes around and he sees the A's on his report card he will be proud of them. And his parents will not be of the opinion that their efforts to keep their child in school are fruitless.

This week's column, the writer humbly dedicates to the Chilton County High School football squad; the captain of the team, Jesse Frank Foshee, and their coach J. T. Searcy. Tomorrow the Chilton Tigers will play the last game of the season. This game against one of our foremost football rivals, Isabella, is also the last game that some of the players will play as a high school player. They have promised to make it their best game. And looking back over the previous games at their playing which has been superb and deserving of all praise we wonder what in the world they will do against Isabella. They will have to be better than the best to be up to standard in the past games. Captain Foshee who plays his last game in high school tomorrow says that he and his fellow team mates will show Clanton some real football tomorrow, and they will, too. The Blue and Gold Tigers will close a very successful year tomorrow. They have lost three games, which doesn't compare to the five they have won. Only one team has kept Chilton from scoring against them. It is with great pride that we students, the members of the faculty and citizens of Clanton praise our football team. They have merited it with their clean and sportsmanlike playing, their undying spirit, their brilliant and marvelous football tactics, and their excellent and admirable teamwork.

There will be a special pep meeting tomorrow. Everyone come and let loose that leashed spirit that you have held back so long. Tomorrow is our last game and let's show Coach Searcy, Captain Foshee and the team that we are really proud of them.

Joe Moore, Carl Jones, Emanuel Cooper, James Tiffin, Carson Eiland, Cecil Jones, Osmond Glenn, U. L. Baker, D. H. Wilder, Grady Reynolds, Jr., and Jesse Frank Foshee will play their last game tomorrow and each one has said that he will play as he has never played before. It's going to be a game and how?

End up the day tomorrow by coming down to "The Pirate's Den" at 7:30 or 8:30 for an evening of unexcelled entertainment. Music, eats, choruses, comedians, costumes. The admission fee is ten cents. Bring along extra money for some real palate tickling eats.

There will be a surprise for the foot ball boys. You had better be there fellows.

Miss Margaret Kendrick, Sr. II class advisor and English teacher, is the subject of this week's short biography. Miss Kendrick, one of the best loved of the faculty, was born to Dr. and Mrs. B. M. Kendrick at Luverne on November 21, 1908. She spent her high school days at the Luverne High School and graduated from there in 1926. The same year Miss Kendrick entered Woman's College in Montgomery and in 1930 she graduated with a B. M. Degree. One year later she was awarded her B. S. Degree by this college. Miss Kendrick began her teaching career in 1930 at Chilton County High School, where she is teaching her third year. Besides her two degrees, Miss Kendrick has also studied extensively while not teaching to earn higher awards. She has studied one summer at Florida State Teachers College for Women at Tallahassee and one summer at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa. During her first year as a member of our faculty she displayed her sterling qualities of a lady that won the admiration and respect of all those who were fortunate in knowing her. All her pupils during their struggle to gain an education have loved Miss Kendrick for her unselfish aid; her ready smile and sense of understanding of their problems, and for her unfruitless efforts to make them better girls and boys.

Lloyd Howard and his accordian will be at the high school Friday night; also Aubrey Robinson of Verbena with his educated toes, and Helen Rainer, a popular blues singer will be there too.

We are sure that everyone enjoyed the brief talk of Dr. Walker, general secretary of the Temperance League last Monday morning. It is hoped that all the students benefited by his telling of the curses of whiskey. It was a wonderful sight to see all our students stand up when he asked for all those who would never touch whiskey.

Remember, all the students can attend the game Friday. Through the efforts of our cheer leaders it has been arranged so that the entire student body will be out at the game Friday. The game will be called at 1:30 and the busses will not leave until 3:15. This will give thansient students plenty of time.

Let's all be out there and end the football season with a record attendance and backed up by your cheer leader with some real loud and lusty yells.

Edwards—Do you know at what age a baby begins to think?

Benner—Certainly. Mine began to think that I ought to walk the floor with him the first week he arrived in the house.

BAPTISTS TO RAISE $25,000.00

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary-treasurer of the executive board, in his report to the Alabama Baptist State convention meeting in Sheffield, November 14-17, recommended raising $25,000.00 Christmas cash offering for the support of the children in the home. The unanimous approval of this recommendation by the convention is highly pleasing to all the friends of the children, the trustees and the official staff. With that amount of cash the management of the home can pay all current debts and have a neat sum with which to start the new year.

This can be done, it is believed, but it will take careful organization and hard work on the part of all who are interested in the welfare of dependent children.

FOOTBALL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The local gridiron will be the scene of one of the greatest football battles Clanton has ever seen next Friday when the Chilton County High school team meets the strong Isabella team. This promises to be and will be one of the best football games of the season for several reasons. One is that Chilton and Isabella have for many years been bitter rivals in football and both teams are determined to leave the field with a victory in their belt. Both teams have expressed themselves saying that they were going to win the game Friday. This game is also the last game that ten of the Chilton players will ever be in as a high school football player, and they have promised to play as they have never played before. The game will be called promptly at 1:30 and the admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents. Don't miss it.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Farmers Conference A Success

The most successful negro farmers conference of the past three years was held at the County Training School last Friday, November 17th. The negro farmers from various parts of the county were present with a good representation of what they have been doing since the last conference. Exhibits along practically all lines pertaining to what can be grown or made on the farm, as well as poultry and livestock were to be seen.

As compared with other years, there were more livestock and poultry, and a greater variety of farm produce on display. Among other things on exhibit were fancy cakes, canned fruits and vegetables, cured meats, fresh meats, dresses, quilts, bedspreads, embroidered scarfs, handkerchiefs, pillow cases and many other serviceable articles, made by the housewives on the farms.

Everybody, seemingly, had one purpose in mind, namely, that of making this conference more interesting,—a bigger and better one than in previous years. A number of prizes were awarded to the persons having the first, second and third best exhibits. Some prizes were in cash and others in merchandise.

The general subject for the day was "Farm Management." Those taking part in the discussion were Messrs. Earle Thomas, J. P. Montgomery, teachers of agriculture at the Isabella and Jemison High school, and Worthy Hughes, farm demonstration agent. The conference was addressed by T. D. Patterson, director of agriculture, Tuskegee Institute.

Among out of town visitors were Elder Mitchell of Montgomery and Prattville and Rev. Tarrant, supervisor of the Lutheran school.

I wish to take this method of thanking all the merchants and business men in Clanton, Verbena, Jemison, Maplesville and Riderville, who so willingly contributed money or wares to be used as prizes.—Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

MT. PLEASANT
SCHOOL NEWS

What? Chicken supper. Where? Mt. Pleasant. When? Wednesday night, November 29, 7 o'clock p.m. til 10:30. Who goes? Every body. Price. 25 cents per plate, for benefit of the school.

Menu: Chicken and dressing, fried chicken, creamed potatoes, cold slaw, gibblet gravy, cranberry sauce, crab-apple marmalade, cake and coffee or cocoa.

The junior high department have on display tickets for the plates. To show that you have some feeling for your school, buy a ticket from someone and help make our supper a success.

The P.-T. A. meets Monday, November 27. All parents are urged to be present.

Mrs. Marion Nelson, one of the patrons of this school, is in the Clanton hospital in a very bad condition. We hope for her a very speedily recovery.

Mr. Tom Burnett, another patron of our school is just back from the hospital. We also hope he will stay on the path to recovery.

Those who have withdrawn from our school are Morris Woodfin, seventh grade; Lloyd Traywick, seventh grade; Marvin Vines, seventh grade; Ralph Price, seventh grade; Roline Woodfin, first grade; Kermit Collins, fourth grade; Bobbie Carter, fourth grade; Verma Collins, fourth grade.

One new pupil has been added to our school this week, Hazel Cox, second grade.

Mt. Pleasant boys defeated Union Grove Friday afternoon by a very small margin, the scores being 18 to 17. The game was interesting throughout, never being more than five points difference. Coach Glasscock used his second team the first quarter.

Mt. Pleasant players are going to play Union Grove at three o'clock Friday. Everybody come and cheer for your team.

The boys and girls are in a race known as the chicken race. The boy or girl who brings the most for the chicken supper will be awarded a half-day picnic.

CHILTON HIGH DEFEATED HOLTVILLE HIGH, 26 to 21

The Chilton County High football team went to Holtville last Friday and defeated them, 26 to 21. The Chilton team threw a scare into Holtville on the very first play of the game, Tiffin shooting a long pass to Joe Moore, who let it slip through his fingers.

But the fierce attack of the Clanton boys had its effect in a very few minutes. After an exchange of punts, Chilton took the ball on Holtville's 35-yard line, and marched down to the one-foot line, where the Holtville team braced and held, but not for long. Holtville kicked out of danger but here Chilton opened up with a whirlwind of passes that bewildered Holtville, and scored, when Reynolds took Tiffin's pass on the 10-yard line, and scooted across for the touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

On the first play, after Chilton kicked off to Holtville, Whitaker cut loose for 70 yards and a touchdown, adding the extra point to lead Chilton seven to six. However, within three minutes, Chilton had again gone into the lead, when Tiffin passed to Cecil Jones over the goal line, and then added the extra point. Chilton 13, Holtville 7.

The Chilton lads kept up their brilliant air attack in the third quarter, scoring two more touchdowns, all by the air route, Cecil Jones snagging another, and Joe Moore taking the last. Chilton 26; Holtville 7.

In the last quarter, Holtville took the wraps off a speed merchant, Whitaker, who raced the ends like a whirlwind, and scored two touchdowns. The game ended with Holtville in possession of the ball on Chilton's 30-yard line.

Spectators at this game were loud in their praise of the beautiful passing game Chilton displayed, Tiffin and Foshee alternating in rifling pass after pass into the arms of receivers.

Out of 19 attempted passes, Chilton completed 13, four fell short, and two were intercepted. Holtville completed three out of eight attempted. Following is the way the pass receivers were taking them in: Cecil Jones caught five out of six; Joe Moore six out of eight; Carl Jones one out of two; and Sidney Reynolds took his one pass over for a touchdown. Chilton could not do much with the Holtville line, gaining a few times, when the secondary defense was drawn out of position, trying to stop the passing attack.

Whitaker, with his running plays, was easily the outstanding man for Holtville, while it would be hard to pick a star for Chilton—they were all good.

Chilton was rated the under-dog by at least three touchdowns, and predictions of a 30 to 0 Holtville victory were to be heard everywhere.

Coach Searcy deserves much credit for the manner in which he has brought the team along since he took over the coaching duties. They are an up-and-going team, well deserving the support of Clanton people.

THIS BANK has the distinction of being the first bank organized in Chilton County. It was in the beginning the financial center for the then little village of Clanton — it has become outstanding in Central Alabama.

It's history embraces seasons of panic and pestilence, good times and bad times, war times and peace times; but from the time of its beginning to this day of grace — over a quarter of a century — it has discharged all trust and met all obligations with absolute fidelity.

All churches are asked to take notice and make arrangements to get their stuff ready and get it to the car on these two days. H. A. Harris has charge of this work for the Unity Asosciation and J. D. Collins, Sr., has charge of it for the Chilton County Association.

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER

Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollars—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government, which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural.

"The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,380,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter.

"The Government also supervises 4,600 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this takes no account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises.

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidations should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. As a permanent solution this arrangement i too closely bound up with politics.

"A better scheme would be to create a finance corporation under Federal charter to take over either the agricultural finance activities of the Government or all its leading agencies.

"The Government's financing and banking activities should be kept severely apart from subsidy and other schemes for raising the prices of farm products. One is business, the other is major political policy. The advantages of the corporation over bureau control for the business functions are real and significant."

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kitchen have moved into the house belonging to J. W. Cagle across the creek on the Lay Dam Road.

NINE INJURED IN ALA. STORM

Tornado Hits C. C. C. Camp Near Anniston; Wounded Treated at Ft. McClellan Hospital

Anniston, Nov. 21.—Nine youths were injured by a tornado that struck a Civilian Conservation Corps Camp six miles east of Oxford early tonight. Reports received here said several were seriously hurt.

Three of the more seriously injured were brought to a hospital here. They were Cecil Ford and Gilbert Taylor of Birmingham and James Peek of Bradford, Ala.

Other injured were being taken to Fort McClellan, near here, for treatment.

The tornado struck the camp shortly before 7 p.m. and most of those injured were trapped in the wreckage of the mess hall, which was demolished by the winds.

Peek, from his cot in the hospital here, said the storm struck with devastating fury, and that he lost consciousness a few minutes after he aided in bringing two companions from the building as it collapsed.

Names of the injured at Fort McClellan had not been determined a short time after their admittance.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Rev. A. C. Nelson filled his regular appointment here Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, with three very interesting sermons.

Our Christian Endeavor was well attended Sunday night with a splendid program. We were glad to have with us Mr. Herbert Lowery. He sang two beautiful solos, which were enjoyed by all. We especially invite him back at all times. After Christian Endeavor several songs were sung, led by Mr. Lowery and Mr. Bailey. Mrs. R. A. Teel will be leader next Sunday night. The subject will be: "What have we to thank God for"? There will be interesting letters to read. Everybone is invited to come.

Miss Marguerite Davison will be with us again Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The Ladies Aid society of East View met with the Ladies Aid here Tuesday afternoon and we had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Fred P. Ensminger from Birmingham, who is the state president of the women's work. We were also glad to have Dr. Ensminger with us.

The Mt. Springs community wishes Mrs. A. C. Nelson, of East View, who is ill, a speedy recovery.

Mr. Charlie Foshee has purchased the old Joe Gore home and place from Mr. and Mrs. Lonz Parrish. There are six acres of land and two dwellings on the place.

Walter P. Reeves, Jr., student at Gulfport Military Academy, is in Clanton for a few days with his father, Rev. W. P. Reeves, who is in Central Alabama Hospital with injuries sustained in an automobile wreck last Saturday.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK SUNDAY

Robert Roseberry Died Instantly. Barney Patterson Expired Tuesday Morning

Robert Roseberry, age about 25 years, was killed instantly last Sunday afternoon in an automobile wreck which occured about a mile west of Maplesville. Two other boys, Barney Patterson and a son of Mr. Ernest Mims were with Roseberry when his model T Ford roadster turned over. Patterson was seriously injured. He was brought to Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton by Dr. J. J. DuBose, of Maplesville, for treatment. Hospital authorities held little hope for Patterson's recovery. He suffered injuries in the chest when he was crushed in the wreck. Young Patterson is 18 years old, a son of Mr. Henry Patterson, of Clanton, Route 6.

Patterson Boy Died

The Patterson boy mentioned above died at Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton at 6:15 Tuesday morning. Burial was by Martin at Poplar Springs Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Besides his father and mother, Barney Patterson is survived by two brothers, Obie and Thurble, and one sister, Mrs. Evelyn Mims.

The funeral was conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell of Clanton.

There were ginned in Chilton County 12,126 bales of cotton of the 1933 crop prior to November 14, as compared with 11,487 bales ginned prior to the same date in 1932. These figures were given out Saturday by B. L. Vance, cotton census enumerator for Chilton County.

GOOD SINGING HELD AT THE COURTHOUSE SUNDAY P. M.

The courthouse was filled with listeners and singers at the monthly afternoon singing last Sunday. As per announcement, Herbert W. Lowery presided. Owing to the long list of directors, each leader was allowed only one song. Several quartets were sung by the Frisky Four of Cooper and the Clanton Quartet.

J. Z. Mims was appointed to preside over the next regular singing at the courthouse, which will be held the fifth Sunday afternoon in December. All singers are urged to bear this in mind and try to attend this singing. Remember that these singings at the courthouse, although sponsored by the Central Singing Society, are held under authority of the Chilton County Singing Convention, and the promoters will welcome the support of all singers who feel disposed to come.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Sanders are the parents of a baby girl who arrived at their home on Thursday night, November 23rd. They have named her Mary Ann.

LEGION FROLIC DREW CROWD

Old Time Fiddlers Provided Full Score of Stunts On Saturday Night

The fiddlers convention at the courthouse last Saturday night, sponsored by Chilton County Post of the American Legion, brought out a record attendance of spectators and contestants. The house was filled to overflowing. The program had to be made long in order to give all the entertainers a chance to perform.

At the close of the program the judges awarded cash prizes to the following: First, Orrville's three-piece band, $3.00; second, Henry Cleckler, fiddler, $2.00; Third, J. W. Smith, fiddler, $1.00. About twenty other prizes in different articles of merchandise were awarded to others who rendered numbers on the program.

Following is the list of those who rendered the program: Kermit Lowery, guitar; W. J. Bice, two-piece band; Tug Willis, buck dance; Dr. C. O. Lawrence, solo; Howard Lee, two piece band with home-made fiddle; Harlan Popwell, two-piece band; W. W. Jones, two-piece band; Lavolia Roper, dancer; Dalton Cooper, three-piece band; Jack Wise, three-piece band; Orville Wright, three - piece band; J. H. Wright, three-piece band; Samuel Cleckler, two-piece band; Percy Pitts, solo; J. P. Hayes, fiddler; Archie Cleckler, fiddler; Kermit Lowery, band; R. C. and James Veazey, duet with guitar and mandolin; J. C. Riggins, fiddler; Roland Ellison, yodeler; Lloyd Howard, accordian; I. O. Blalock, fiddler; Jackson Cleckler, dancer; Joe Terrill, Ace Smith, L. E. Blalock, Charley Robinson, Archie Deloach, Armon Mims, Lexie Mims, fiddlers; Odis Ellison, yodler; J. W. Smith, fiddler, Henry Cleckler, fiddler; N. A. Smith, buck dancer; and Bruce Blue, harmonica.

The program was called by Jean Gore. Judges were G. W. Willis, Joe Berry Jones and J. M. Wyatt.

Just as the program was concluded, an awning on the courthouse caught on fire, and created a little further excitement.

E. L. KLINNER ANNOUNCES CHRISTMAS SALE SPECIALS

The E. L. Klinner Furniture Company of Clanton this week makes announcement of a special Christmas sale of furniture and household furnishings, which will be of interest to many people throughout this section.

Realizing that the season from now until Christmas is a time when many people will want to add to their home furnishings, both for comfort and convenience, Mr. Klinner assures his friends and customers that he has arranged an opportunity for them that will fully meet their needs.

He says, "Due to the fact that our purchases for his special Christmas Sale were made in large quantities for several stores, and every advantage of cash discounts taken, we are able to pass these savings on to our customers in the form of low prices on high grade merchandise.

Many people will doubtless be interested in seeing what Mr. Klinner has to offer in this sale. For their information we remind them that the E. L. Klinner Furniture Company is located in the new Mullins building on the highway next to the Exchange Hotel. The management of this store will be glad to have everybody visit them, look over their stock, study the prices and compare the quality of their merchandise.

BOYS MEETING AT JEMISON SCHOOL

Gathering Included Vocational Students From Chilton Bibb and Shelby

A great meeting was held at the Jemison High School last Friday night when 130 boys from the vocational schools of the three counties of Chilton, Bibb and Shelby, came together for a banquet. With the boys were about ten other guests made up of prominent citizens and agricultural leaders from the three counties. Congressman W. B. Oliver, of Tuscaloosa, was honor guest of the occasion.

The meeting was presided over by Marvin Durbin, who has been one of the outstanding leaders in F. F. A. work in Chilton County in recent years. A fine program was rendered by the boys.

Congressman Oliver was introduced by Marvin Durbin in a very masterful and impressive manner. The Congressman was presented with the key to the F. F. A. organization, after which he made a short address fully appropriate to the occasion.

The Congressman outlined a plan which he has instituted that will create a very great interest among the vocational students of the three counties during the coming year. He will give a cash prize of $50 each to the vocational boy and girl who makes the most outstanding record of work for the year. Also he will award to two boys and two girls a free trip to Washington with entertainment by a chaperone for a week in the Capitol City of the nation.

County Agent C. E. Stapp was named by Mr. Oliver as chairman of the committee which will pass upon the contestants for these honors. As soon as possible this committee will be organized and make full announcement of all details of the plans.

All of the vocational agriculture schools in Chilton, Bibb and Shelby Counties were represented in the meeting Friday night by a group of their boys and their vocational teachers.

FREDERICK W. JOHNSON DIED

Mr. Frederick W. Johnson, age 81 years, passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, of Verbena Route 1 (Enterprise) last Saturday. Funeral services were held last Sunday at Bethsalem Baptist Church. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

He is survived by seven daughters, Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, Mrs. Arthur Green, of Selma, Mrs. Sam Wilkins, of Clanton, Mrs. A. M. Mims, of Billingsley, Mrs. M. H. Gray, of Greensboro, Mrs. R. N. Mims, of Clanton, Mrs. Will Mims, of East Tallassee. Three sons, L. K. Johnson, of Carrollton, L. H. Johnson, of Eufaula, and W. K. Johnson, of Billingsley.

FIRES DURING PAST WEEK

The Clanton Fire Department has been called upon to attend several threatening blazes during the past week.

Last Thursday at noon fire broke out inside Elmore's store, but was promptly attended by the firemen. Little damage was done.

Saturday night they extinguished the fire that burned an awning and window frame at the courthouse.

Sunday afternoon a fire threatened Rockett's Planing Mill and was put out by the firemen without damage.

Sunday night the firemen were called to Concord Church, two miles east of town, where they averted the destruction of the building by extinguishing a blaze on the roof.

Monday night the call was sent in from the home of Mrs. Mamie Bates in the Friendship community. Firemen went to the place with the truck, but were unable to save the home. It was completly destroyed, with most of the contents.

$40,000 FOR CIVIL WORK PROGRAM

Work On Roads and Swamp Drainage Will Be Continued. Number of Employed Will Be Extended to Full Quota of 804

Judge L. H. Reynolds returned Monday night from Montgomery where he spent the whole day conferring with state civil works directors about the continuation of the re-employment program for Chilton County. Upon his return here Judge Reynolds called a conference of local authorities at which time he stated he had received assurance in Montgomery that the program as outlined tentatively last week would be followed out permanently here.

He stated that the state directors had approved an allotment of over $40,000 to be spent through the county civil works administration during the next five weeks to keep 402 men employed on the approved projects. Of this amount $20,415 is alloted to the project of completing the swamp drainage near Clanton. The balance will be spent to hire men to work on the road projects from Verbena to Enterprise; from Jemison to the Cobern place; and from Maplesville to the Perry County line. Common labor on all these jobs will be paid 30 cents an hour, and will work not over 30 hours a week. A total of 402 men will be kept on these jobs until about the middle of December, when the number of employed will be increased to 804 men.

The Child Welfare Board is the Civil Works Administration for Chilton County. It will be the duty of this board to consider and approve projects for work in the county and forward the same to the state civil works administration. The following persons compose this board: L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, chairman; Luther Little, county superintendent of education; C. C. Conway, chairman of the County Board of Education; C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstrator; C. D. Duke, Commissioner; Mrs. A. C. Wells, Jemison and Mrs. Sophie Jones, Clanton. The executive committee of the board is composed of L. H. Reynolds, chairman, C. D. Duke and C. E. Stapp, who have authority to act in the absence of the entire committee.

Mr. C. Fenn Jones has been selected by the state re-employment authorities to give an opportunity to all who want to work to register. He has opened his office up stairs in the courthouse. Up to Monday night Mr. Jones reported that 1,500 men have already been registered by his office.

Mr. Jones states that he has instructions relative to the work which says that ex-service men with dependants will be given preference in re-employment, but that they must register and state their dependents. No person under 16 years of age will be allowed to register, according to instructions given Mr. Jones by the higher authorities.

Mr. Jones further states that many men who are too old to do heavy manual labor and also with physical defects which unfit them for heavy work have registered. He says he has no authority to refuse them registration, but he does not know what provisions will be made to employ men who are too old or otherwise physically unable to do hard work.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, director of social work, was instructed by the state authorities last week to select 400 men from the R. F. C. list of workers to go to work on projects which the board had selected. Sixty-five men were put to work on the road from Verbena to Enterprise; 65 on the road at Maplesville; 60 on the road near the William Walker place; 60 at Jemison; and 120 in the swamp drainage work near Clanton; 30 women in the sewing room at Clanton. All of the above work began last Tuesday. Judge Reynolds received assurance while in Montgomery Monday that these projects will be continued with the number of men now on them.

Further employment on these projects will be extended in a few weeks to take in another 400 men who will be selected from the registration list now being compiled in the office of Mr. Fenn Jones.

People who are concerned with this work are reminded of the fact that none of the county officials have anything to do with selecting labor that will be used on these government projects. The county commissioners will, of course, continue to select the men who draw pay from the county, but that is entirely a different thing from the work that is being done under the civil works program and the government re-employment agencies.

Judge Reynolds concluded the interview with the request that this statement be made from him:

"I wish to have everyone realize that the federal re-employment and relief measures are not political. There is not any politics in the allotment of work and employment of men on these projects. President Roosevelt and his administration have made possible this money for the relief of the unemployed, regardless of politics. We must not think of politics in regard to this great and wide-spread effort to minister to the wants of suffering humanity. If anyone in our county would inject politics into the administration of relief measures, we should find it out and get rid of such persons at the outset."

James A. Keller Enters Race For State Supt.

Superintendent In Covington County Presents A Record As Educator Which Commends Him for Highest Office of Schools

J. A. Keller, superintendent of Covington County schools, and former president of the Alabama Education Association, announces for state superintendent of education.

J. A. Keller was born and reared in Cullman County, Alabama. He received his elementary and high school education in that county, and his college education at the State Teachers College, Florence, Alabama and Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. He holds a B. S. Degree from Peabody College, and has recently done advanced study in that institution.

After six years of successful teaching in the schools of Cullman, Mr. Keller was appointed superintendent of education of the county schools. The appointment came as a surprise to him, as he was not an applicant for the position. After serving one term in that capacity he was offered the superintendency of the Covington County schools, which position he accepted and has held for the past thirteen years.

His work as a school administrator has been outstanding and has attracted attention throughout the state and even beyond the confines of Alabama. For several years he has served as a member of the National Committee on Rural Education. Last year he was selected as the principal speaker for the Louisiana State Teachers Association, and was invited to address a department at the last convention of the National Education Association.

Mr. Keller's splendid work as superintendent of education of the Covington county schools, and as president of the Alabama Education Association, should commend him to the voters of Alabama. He has demonstrated unusual ability as a leader and practical business man. In fat and lean years alike he and his board have lived within the county's educational income, and have brought up to a high standard all phases of educational activities in the county.

Mr. Keller is an over-seas World War veteran, past president of the Andalusia Rotary Club and delegate to an International convention of Rotary, past president of the state organization of county superintendents, former president of the Alabama Education association and member of the Executive Committee, Shriner and active church layman.

Mr. Keller is held in high esteem by the people of his county as is evidenced by the following editorial taken from the Andalusia Star: "Superintendent Keller is a man who never shirks a duty nor responsibility because they entail hard work. In fact he is a man suited to a big job. The bigger the job and the harder the going, the more energy Mr. Keller displays. He has never been a piddler. He considers a situation only with a view to tackling it and improving it. There is no part nor parcel of the school system in Covington County, a county which he has served for thirteen years as superintendent, that does not show improvement. Like leader, like teacher and school officials. The stamp of efficiency, of sacrificial devotion to duty, has permeated every school.

His influence in Covington County is today more potential than that of any other citizen simply because his service to the people has been recognized as being all-exclusive, because he has benefitted the school children in every corner of the county by an enlightened and progressive school program which has been reflected in better attendance, better teachers, better school spirit, more sanitary conditions in and around the school buildings, better care of health among the pupils, better physical training, and better school work, and to all this may be added a whole-hearted cooperation with the school program on the part of the patrons.

MRS. FRANCES HAMILTON DIED

Mrs. Frances Hamilton, age 78 years, died last Friday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. E. Jones, Clanton Route 4. She was buried by Martin Saturday afternoon at Union Grove. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. E. Davis.

The deceased was the widow of the late H. Clay Hamilton, who died about five years ago.

JIMMIE TAYLOR WAS IN WRECK SATURDAY NIGHT

Jimmie Taylor, of Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, was the principal performer in an automobile wreck last Saturday night on the highway at the Joe Ben Downs place south of Clanton. The new Chevrolet he was driving was completely demolished. Mr. Taylor was fortunate in the fact that he was not injured.

At the time of the wreck Mr. Taylor was returning from Wetumpka, where he had been at work Saturday. Blinded by the lights of an approaching car, he failed to see a third car that was parked on the side of the pavement. His machine sideswiped the parked car, whereupon he lost control. The Taylor car turned over, and was totally wrecked.

The car which was parked by the road was only slightly damaged, and was soon repaired and ready to proceed on its journey. Jimmie Taylor took another car Monday morning and went out on his route as traveling representative of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company.

BOX SUPPER, JACKSON'S CHAPEL

There will be a box supper at Jackson's Chapel schoolhouse Thursday night, November 30. The entertainment is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association. Proceeds will go to the school. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

MOSES SIMPSON DIED SATURDAY

Death Caused From Pneumonia After Short Illness Of Only a Week

The entire community of Clanton was sadly surprised last Saturday morning when it was learned that Hugh Moses Simpson, one of Clanton's sterling young men, had died during the night. He had been sick about a week with pneumonia, but his friends had not realized that his condition was so serious.

A great gathering of friends and acquaintances attended the funeral services at the Simpson home Sunday afternoon. Amid a pall of sadness the last respects were paid to him in many expressions of sorrow and grief. A profusion of flowers expressed the sentiments of many of his admirers.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. P. Cochran, of Clanton Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, of the Baptist church. Burial arrangements were in charge of Martin, at the family lot in Clanton cemetery. Active pallbearers were J. L. Teel, Reese Mullins, J. P. Jones, Courtland Rutherford, J. P. Lawrence and Tom Frank Teel. Honorary pallbearers were Joe Venable, George Polk, C. E. Stapp, Earle Parrish and J. L. Johnson.

Mose was just a few days over 25 years old. Surviving him are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Simpson; two brothers, William and Charles Simpson. William is a twin brother of the deceased.

MRS. MARTHA BRYANT DIED

Mrs. Martha Bryant, age 60 years, died at her home two miles south of Clanton last Thursday. Burial was at Samaria Friday in charge of Martin. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery. She was the wife of Mr. C. A. Bryant.

ENTERTAINMENT AT THORSBY

The Manless Wedding will be presented at the Thorsby Public School Friday night of this week at 7:30. A short play will be presented before the wedding. Come and bring your friends. Admission is only ten cents.

NOTICE TO THOSE INTERESTED IN THE PEOPLES TELEPHONE CO.

The old Board of Directors and all people interested in the Peoples Telephone Company are hereby called to meet at The Union-Banner office in Clanton on next Saturday afternoon, December 2nd, at 2 o'clock p.m. The purpose of the meeting is to make some disposition of the old poles and lines in the corporate limits of Clanton, as the same have become dangerous. Anyone wishing to submit bids for the poles and wire are asked to be present and put in their bids. Some disposition must be made of these poles and wire at once.—Jesse Baker and T. E. Wyatt.

A marriage of interest to friends and relatives is that of Miss Margaret Gertrude Blalock and Houston Nivens, which was solemninzed Saturday, November 25, by Rev. J. A. Raines of Verbena.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Blalock of Clanton, Route 4. She graduated from Chilton County High school with the class of 1930. She is a popular member of the younger set in the community in which she lives.

Mr. Nivens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nivens of Clanton. He also graduated from the Chilton County High school, with the class of 1927. He holds a responsible position with the Alabama Power Company, where he has been connected for six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Nivens will make their home for the present with the bride's parents. Their many friends join in wishing them much happiness and success.

KIWANIS GUESTS FROM FAIRFIELD

Program By Dan Waite Presented Interesting Speaker and Entertainers

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton enjoyed a rare mixture of fun and wisdom in a program rendered at the weekly meeting last Thursday night, under direction of Dan Waite.

For this occasion Dan had selected a group of his friends and former associates at Fairfield, together with special music by Kiwanian Percy Pitts, accompanied by Mrs. Pitts at the piano.

The visitors from Fairfield were Prof. F. M. Cook, principal of the Fairfield High School; Mrs. Allyne Weldon, director of public speaking and expression at the Fairfield High School; and Mr. and Mrs. George Looney.

Mrs. Weldon rendered a group of humerous readings which were received with much applause. She proved to be the most gifted artist we have ever had the pleasure of hearing her.

Prof. Cook was on the program to speak on the subject of Leisure Time and how to use it. In his address the speaker deplored the commercialization and debauchery of the playtime of the American public. Betting and gambling, he said, have crept into our national sports to such an alarming extent that patrons of those games do not get the pure spirit of play out of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Looney did not appear on the program. They came in the pure capacity of visitors, along with Prof. Cook and Mrs. Weldon. It was a delightful gathering, further ripening the spirit of good feeling and neighborliness that has for a long time existed between many citizens of Clanton and Fairfield.

BANNER DECLINES TO PUBLISH LETTER FROM MR. J. H. JACKSON

Mr. J. H. Jackson of Lomax, Ala., was in The Union-Banner office Monday morning of this week and handed us a letter and asked us to publish it if we saw fit. After reading over the letter, the following reply was mailed to Mr. Jackson:

"Clanton, Ala., November 27, 1933. Mr. J. H. Jackson, Lomax, Ala. Dear Mr. Jackson: I am returning your letter, which we decline to publish.

"We believe that the Republican Party can best serve the interests of the people of Chilton County. Therefore, as in the past, we will strive to build up rather than tear down the Republican Party in Chilton County. Yours truly, The Union-Banner by T. E. Wyatt."

THOMAS JONES DIED IN DOTHAN

Former Clanton Man Was Son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jones of Jumbo

Funeral services for Thomas A. Jones, 34, former resident of Chilton County, who died last Thursday morning at his home in Dothan, following an illness of two weeks duration, were held Saturday at 11 a.m. from the home of Dave Cody, 105 Montesuma Road, Montgomery, with Dr. Richard Wilkerson, rector of St. Johns Episcopal church, officiating. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Jones was a native of Chilton County, having been born and reared in the Jumbo community. He was a graduate of the Chilton County High School and later attended the University of Alabama. Shortly after finishing school he removed to Montgomery and was engaged for several years as a cotton buyer by the Weil Brothers firm.

He removed to Dothan five years ago, where he was prominently known in both business and social circles. In 1926 he was married to Miss Effie Tuttle, daughter of Mr. Mortimer Tuttle and the late Dr. Mortimer Tuttle.

Surviving Mr. Jones are his widow, two children, Effie Tuttle Jones and Thomas A. Jones, Jr., of Dothan; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jones, of Clanton; and two sisters, Mrs. C. L. Shaw of Clanton and Mrs. Sara Jones Hadder, of Birmingham.

HINKLE AND GRAGG ARE THE FIRST CANDIDATES

The ice was broken last week when two doctors, P. T. Hinkle and V. J. Gragg, a physician and surgeon, became the first to announce as candidates in the primary of Chilton County next year. Dr. Hinkle will seek the Democratic nomination for Probate Judge. Dr. Gragg bids for the Democratic nomination for State Senator in the district composed of Shelby, Chilton and Autauga Counties.

Both of these gentlemen have had a fling at politics before. Hinkle was the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge six years ago, while Dr. Gragg was candidate for the same office at Senator four years ago. They are both good men of the highest type of character and good citizenship. They have a large following of friends who will support them with zeal and fidelity.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

HAVE FRESH FRUIT ALL YEAR

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 27.—A list of fruits and vareties best adapted to home orchard planting in Alabama, named in order of their ripening dates,, was given by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The list follows: apple: early harvest, Red Astrachan, Carolina Red June, Hackworth, Delicious, Golden Delicious, Stayman Winesap, Winesap, and Yates.

Muscadine Grape— Memory (black), Thomas (black), Scuppernong.

Peach, Mayflower, Uneeda, Arp Beauty, Carman, Hiley, Georgia Belle, Elberta.

Plum, Methley, Red June, Abundane, Shiro.

Pear, Garber, kieffer, pineapple.

Bunch Grape, Moore's Early, Lutie, Deleware, Niagra, Concord, Dr. Collier, Herbemont.

Blackberry, Mersereau, Eldorado, Blower.

Strawberry, Klondyke, Missionary, Aroma.

Dewberry, Young, Lucretia.

Fig, celeste, brown turkey.

Cherries, Early1 Richmond, Montmorency.

"It is quite essential that only those fruits and varieties adapted to a particular locality be planted," Mr. Brown said. "All of these fruits and varieties will not succeed in every locality. For example, cherries will not succeed in the central and southern section of the state. Apple growing in the southern counties must be restricted to a few of those varieties most resistant to fire blight. The peaches, plums, grapes, and berries listed can be grown in practically all sections of the state. Of the pear varieties the Kieffer and Garber should be grown in the northern half of the state, while the pineapple or sand pear, because of its resistance to blight, will prove most productive in the southern counties, but will not succeed in the northern half of the state.

"Through proper selection and care, fresh fruits may be had in any section of the state from April until Christmas day. See your county agent for recommendations for your particular locality before you plant.

WOMEN ASSIST COTTON PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 27.—Homemakers of Alabama and the south are organizing to take a full and active part in the great program of agricultural adjustment which is to center around the cotton production-control plan.

State agents in charge of home demonstration work in 13 southern states, including Miss Helen Johnston of Alabama, met in Washington recently with officials of the agricultural adjustment administration to take the first steps in mobilizating the women of the cotton belt, particularly in the rural sections.

Opportunity for every farm home in the south to understand the significance of the cotton adjustment plan in its efforts to raise the price of cotton, increase farm buying power and improve standards of living will be the chief aim of the movement.

National and international problems, as they relate to agricultural readjustment, will be studied. Obligations in connection with the use of the "contracted" cotton acres, in order to prevent over-production in other lines, will be considered.

The growing and preservation of home food supplies, wise spending and general economies in buying, and other important features of a general campaign to maintain a satisfying standard of living for the family will be included in the program which is being launched.

The 768 county home demonstration agents in the southern states will be the field lieutenants in active charge of the work. In Alabama, the home demonstration agents will conduct the educational work through the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

Although as a result of the depression the company has sustained large losses in income due to the necessity for thousands of customers to discontinue the service and the necessity for thousands who remained customers to cut down on the use of electric current, we have not ourselves cut down on the quality of the service rendered. On the other hand we have endeavored to improve it.

If it were possible to operate our plants three or four days a week as our manufacturing customers have been doing or to supply part time electric service, we could have made substantial savings in operating expenses since 1929. That is impossible because we must supply you with electric service day and night, twenty-four hours each day, for use whenever you see fit to turn on the switch or start a motor.

Electric service is so necessary in present day industrial and living conditions that it must be available constantly for every need at all hours of the day for every day in the year. Therefore, we cannot secure economies in operation by reducing the working days per week or the number of hours we operate per day. We are unable to store our product and await your needs. It must be provided ready to serve you as you need it and it must be used the moment you demand it. As a result, our plants, our lines, our system can never be idle.

In rendering you constant service of a uniform quality we require more than 330 automobiles and trucks, more than 1800 employees with an annual payroll of $2,700,000—all of which is in the State of Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 6.

FORESTRY WORKERS GATHER TREE SEED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 27.—A considerable quantity of tree seed has been gathered by the Civilian Conservation Corps at the various E. C. W. Camps, states Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. Approximately 1,000 bushels of Long-leaf Pine cones, 200 bushels of Black Walnuts, 20 bushels of Cypress Balls, 15 bushels of White and Red Oak acorns together with smaller quantities of other species, have been collected. The seed will be shipped to the state forest nursery which is located near Livingston, Alabama, where it will be cleaned and stored until spring.

Due to limited seed bag space the seed will not be planted until spring although for some species, particularly Black Walnut and Long-leaf Pine, all planting is prefeable. In lieu of fall planting, Black Walnut seed must be stratified in sand until planting time, for dry storage may delay germination until the second year. Long-leaf Pine seed should also be planted in the fall, if practicable, to avoid loss of vitality and lowering germination per cent which results from storage. With this one exception, pine seed is very easily stored, providing it is placed in airtight containers which prevents desiccation. In fact, some species of conifer can be stored indefinitely without serious loss of germination power.

The seed gathered by the C. C. C. will be used largely in producing tree seedlings for planting on state land and distributinon to private planters under the usual regulations governing distribution of nursery stock. Any surplus seed will be used for direct seedling experiments on the state forests.

STATE 4-H QUEEN TO CHICAGO

Four-H club friends and coaches of the state 4-H style queen, Catherine P. Agee, 15, Monroeville, Monroe County, Alabama, are giving her final training for the national title contest to be held at the 12th National Club Congress in Chicago, December 1 to 9. Should she be successful it will help to interest other girls in 4-H clothing and home projects, say club leaders, and be a fine recognition of the state program.

The state champion will model her dress in a revue of state champions which will be a feature of a Chicago banquet of 1200 4-H club delegates and leaders. Judges of national reputation will name winners in each of four types of dresses. They are the cotton school costume, tailored costume, afternoon costume, and informal party dress.

A national champion will be chosen from the four first place winners. She and the next highest ranking girl and chaperones will receive a 4,000 mile tour next summer to Shrines of American History with all expenses paid by the Chicago Mail Order Company, sponsor of the contest for the third season. High grade watches will be awarded the six next highest ranking girls.

The style contest, an outstanding event of the year for 4-H clothing club girls, is conducted by the National committee on Boys and Girls Club Work in cooperation with the state and local leaders. Last year's national class winners were Helen Clarke, Portland, Ore., Margaret Franklin, Leesville, La., Mary L. Chambers, Moundesville, Ohio and Mildred Startup, Silver Lake, Kansas, who was national champion.

LIGHTNING STRIKES HOME BUT OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

Alexander City, Ala., Nov. 24. — Lightning last night struck and damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams but did not injure any of the six occupants who were asleep at the time.

The bolt scorched the roof, forced nails from the door-facings, knocked several fuses from an electric switch, and splintered the door of a small house in the rear.

"Senator, you promised me a job."
"But there are no jobs open."
"Well you said you'd give me one."
"Tell you what I'll do; I'll appoint a commission to investigate why there are no jobs, and you can work on that."

Wifey—Frederick, can you tell me where you were in 1920?
Frederick—No. Why?
Wifey—Well I'm worried. I just read that in 1920 one person out of every 750 was in prison.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

It is expected that production credit needs of farmers for the next crop year will be supplied in part by production credit associations organized under the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans, which was set up to serve Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

Aggregate net income of the 236 industrial companies which thus far have reported for the first nine months of 1933 reached $183,400,000, as compared with $17,313,000 in the corresponding period of last year, says the Standard Statistics Co., of New York.

Sales of a large mail order house for the first week of its eleventh period, from November 6 to 13, were 40 per cent larger than a year ago. The sales in the four weeks of its tenth period were 20.9 per cent above the total a year ago, the best year-to-year gain since December, 1929.

Former Senator Smith W. Brookhart predicts that a potential annual trade of $520,000,000 will grow out of Russian recognition. He asserts that if adequate credit can be arranged, the United States faces the opportunity of making these sales to Russia in the "very near future." From $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 in raw cotton; up to $30,000,000 in livestock products; more than $30,000,000 in cotton textiles; up to $300,000,000 in heavy machinery; about $100,000,000 in railroad equipment.

ALABAMA FARMERS RECEIVE COTTON REDUCTION MONEY

Alabama farmers have received 5,068,000 for plowing up about 25 per cent of the state's cotton crop in accordance with the acreage reduction campaign during the past summer, and stand to receive approximately $3,900,000 additional, according to F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture.

Destruction of 817,000 acres of growing cotton resulted in a jump of $13,624,000 in the farmers' buying power, including the additional four cents per pound to be received by those who chose the option plan in preference to the non-option plan. Mr. Gist declared that farmers planting 74 per cent of the total acreage this year engaged in the plow-up effort.

"It is estimated that the total number of bales taken out of production by plowing up acreage was 333,000, of which 195,000 were under the non-option plan," Mr. Gist said. "The total amount of cash paid to the farmers in the state was $9,724,000, of which $4,656,000 was paid under option contracts and $5,068,000 under non option contracts.

Mr. Gist said he had been advised by the U. S. Department of agriculture that four cents per pound would be advanced to those holding option contracts.

"This is the difference between six cents a pound, the price at which the option cotton was valued in the contracts, and 10 cents a pound, which is now the approximate value of the cotton," the statistician stated. "This advance will add to the cotton holders in Alabama $3,900,000, bringing the total amount received by Alabama farmers to $13,624,000, or a fraction less than $17 per acre for the acreage plowed up."

SAVING MANURE IS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 27.—Every farmer knows from experience that stable manure ranks at the top as a fertilizer for cotton, corn, and other crops grown on Alabama land; and this experience is confirmed by tests conducted by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Therefore, J. C. Lowery, Auburn extension agronomist, urges that farmers use sensible and effective means of saving this valuable product.

"Supply bedding of leaves, pine needles, or grain straw for comfort of animals and to absorb valuable liquid manure, thus keeping the manure wet," he said. "The animals, by tramping, keep the manure packed, thereby reducing to a minimum loss from 'fire-fanging,' a process occuring in loosely-packed dry manure. As soon as manure is removed from stables, scatter it over the fields. Do not place it in small heaps in the field to be scattered later. This may result in almost complete loss of nitrogen.

"By keeping halls in the barns, the sheds, and the barnlot well covered with litter, leaves, or straw, much valuable manure can be saved in addition to keeping the lot from being unpleasant for walking.

"If the barnlot is too large to cover with bedding, build a pen of rails or logs and cover the bottom with 12 to 15 inches of litter. Use sufficient litter to absorb the water from usual rainfall to prevent loss from leaching. Rake up the droppings from the lot and throw them into this pen until almost one foot deep. Then add another layer of litter. Build up in alternative layers until about six feet high."

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our school dismisses today, for the Thanksgiving holidays. Work will be resumed on next Monday. A program will be presented by the student body this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged. After the program the P.-T. A. will hold a brief business meeting.

We are proud to learn that our school and classmate, T. J. Ratliff, has about recovered the ill effects of a severe cold, which has kept him absent from school the past several days. We sorely missed him on the ball court last Friday afternoon when Maplesville played our boys, but Osmond Deason, a new-comer in our school, filled his place in a most credible manner.

Misses Bertie Grant, Ethel Cagle and Dorothy Manning spent the past week end at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning, of Isabella community.

Both the boys and girls basketball teams went over to Maplesville to play last night, but at this writing the writer has not been able to learn the score.

Miss Cagle: (To her Jr. 3 English class)—Charlie, what is love, a common or proper noun?

Charlie—It's both common and proper.

Mr. Earle Thomas is moving along nicely with his night class. He is giving some mighty good instruction relating to the selection of seed, the proper care and breeding of livestock and poultry, the proper way to build up the soil so as to conserve the moisture and plant food, the beautification of the home environments, and a large number of other helpful topics which will be of great value to the present and future farmers. Arouse yourself and attend one of these classes for we feel sure you will be a regular attnedant afterwards.

Our basketball team won another rousing victory last Friday when they hurled the Maplesville Jr. High team down to a 14 to 2 defeat. This game was one of the most checkered ones the writer has ever seen. It was fast, rough, slow, furious, tame and interesting—in fact it had almost all the elements of both dullness and interest that might be crowded into a game. Both teams were entirely too keen, which caused many crip shots to be missed; numerous fouls to be committeed, and a large colume of faulty passwork. The Vermont boys were sadly off form in shooting in the first half, but showed a slight improvement the second half. The Maplesville boys made several daring and pretty breaks through the defense set up by our players, but their eyes for the net were too, suffering from inaccuracy. Their two lone points came by four foul shots.

MUCH ADO ABOUT MONEY

The problems of monetary standards—which in its latest stage is characterized by the start of the United States' vast gold-buying campaign —will unquestionably be brought further into the limelight when congress meets again.

It has become apparent that the world's business cannot be operated wholly on gold. It may always be the backbone of money—but it cannot live up to the job of being the heart and the tissue and corpuscles, too. It needs an ally. And silver, the poor man's gold is eminently fitted for that position.

The monetization of silver, in the opinion of a great many economists, industrialists and agricultural authorities, would be a tremendous step, not only toward recovery, but toward achieving permanent stability. If that is true, the sooner it is achieved, the better.

The friends of Mr. W. I. Mullins will regret to learn that he is ill at his home.

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN- to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

Why Children Need a Liquid Laxative

The temporary relief children get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may cause bowel strain, and even set-up irritation in the kidneys. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be corrected in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children—and grown-ups, too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need.

JUDGE TATE AS SEEN IN CLANTON AND MONTGOMERY

Victor Norris, in his column in the Chilton County News, issue of November 16th, said: "A record of twenty years standing was broken during court last week, when Judge Tate overruled an agreement between the circuit solicitor and attorneys defending Johnnie Plier, charged with embezzlement, for a continuance in the case. A coincident was that J. B. Atkinson, prospective candidate for circuit judge, was one of the defendant's attorneys."

And in the same paper, issue of November 23rd, Mr. Norris has this to say: "Thanksgiving is usually considered the dead line for football. But the 'political eleven' (eleven candidates for each office) are just getting down to good hard scrimmages. Fake passes are usually the favorite play.

"Right now every indication centers around the Johnnie Plier case as the big game of the season. It seems to form the basis for the strong 'kick.' In fact it's just about all kicks.

"The game got under way about ten days ago, when Judge Tate overruled an alleged agreement between defendant attorneys and parties of the prosecution for a continuance in the case. Right there a record of twenty years was broken, but while the referee was down studying the rules in an effort to try to find out what to do next, a political angle began protruding. It was remembered that J. B. Atkinson, defendant attorney, is likely to be a candidate for circuit judge.

"The next play came from the city administration of Clanton, prosecutors in the case, when they published a statement declaring they were not parties to the agreement. It seems, however, that certain city officials, including the city attorney, were present when the announcement was made by the solicitor that such agreement had been made, and no protest was made until the political atmosphere became evident.

"So it's a matter of conjecture whether the next play will be a 'kick' or the proverbial fake pass."

Atticus Mullin Praises Tate

Only a few days ago, Atticus Mullin, the famous political observer and noted authority on Alabama politics, had the following to say about Judge Tate in his column in The Montgomery Advertiser:

"Our old friend, Judge F. Lloyd Tate, of Wetumpka, was a visitor to the Capitol Thursday afternoon. It is always a pleasure to meet and greet Judge Tate. He presides over the circuit in his judical district and the lawyers are saying that he is doing just what those who know him expected him to do—making a fine judge.

"Judge Tate is a learned lawyer and was one of the outstanding members of the Alabama bar before he went on the bench. He has served as Attorney General of Alabama. He has been a lifelong Democrat and has always been ready to serve his friends. He is a man who will do to tie to, clean, honorable, upright, courageous, and able. His judicial circuit is fortunate in having such a man on the bench."

TRANSFER OF TEACHER RELIEF TO CWA URGED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 27.—A joint telegram was forwarded Wednesday to Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator at Washington, by the state department of education and the Alabama Education Association, urging the transfer of relief for unemployed teachers to the CWA program. John E. Bryan, president of the A. E. A. announced in Bessemer Friday. The telegram further urged, Mr. Bryan explained, that salaries paid teachers thus employed equal the wages paid skilled labor under the CWA, namely, $1.00 per hour for time spent in teaching and the necessary preparation, the total of both not to exceed thirty hours per week.

It is estimated that at least 1,000 teachers in Alabama without employment should be placed immediately, Mr. Bryan added. Continuing he said, "Teaching is a type of work that meets adequately the two requirements of the CWA: That the work be socially and economically desirable and that it be undertaken immediately."

The matter of public relief for the teachers brings to the front the low salary scale that is this year being paid teachers throughout Alabama," Mr. Bryan said. A recent carefully prepared estimate released from Washington by the National Education Association shows that there are more than 9,000 rural teachers, or 55 per cent of the number of teachers employed in Alabama, who are receiving salaries below the minimum wages fixed by President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement, or blanket code. This means that this number of teachers receive less than $750 for a year's work.

In addition, there are approximately 4,700 rural teachers, or 44 per cent of the number of teachers employed in Alabama, who receive less than $450 for a year's work. Estimates for the nation at large show that half of the rural teachers in the nation are receiving an annual salary of less than $750 and one in every five is receiving less than $450. Even when city teachers are counted, it may safely be said that at least one in four is receiving annual wages below the minimum provided for a factory hand in the blanket code.

NEW SALEM

We wish to say that the singing that we had Sunday afternoon was real good. The house was called to order and after one song a prayer was offered by A. H. Glasscock, after which J. E. Miner was elected chairman for the evening.

Directors for the evening were as follows: W. G. Culp, A. H. Glasscock, L. F. Cleckler, Akins I. Collins, E. L. Glasscock, W. L. Sanders, Harry Parker, James Marler, Mrs. L. F. Cleckler. With all of those good directors we had the Liberty Hill quartet with us and did some good singing, which was very much enjoyed by all. We also want to say that we had several visitors from other communities which we were very glad to have. The pianists for the evening were Miss Edna Gore, Mrs. Akins I. Collins, and Mr. W. G. Culp.

We want to thank one and all for coming and helping as they did, for we feel that there was some good derived by our coming together and having a song service like this.

We hope that each and all feels like that it was good that they were here and that they will come back on the next fourth Sunday afternoon and let us have another good singing together. We were closed with prayer by Mr. Harve Mims.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A great deal of discussion is now being had in the newspapers and among politicians, as to what subjects will form the issues of 1934 and 1936 campaigns. All of the speculation is of course, more or less idle, as conditions are bound to change considerably within the next few years and this will vitally affect the political issues. There is one issue, however, which will be upon the country before the next election, in fact, within the next few weeks, unless the signs go astray, and that is the issue of inflation. Unless all signs fail the problem will become acute when congress meets the first of the year, providing, of course, it is not settled in the meantime. One prominent news service is authority for the statement that inquiries reveal the fact that more than a majority of the members of congress now look with some favor on the inflation idea, and that comparatively a small percentage of the members are willing to go on record as opposed. Quite a few of the statesmen, of course, are not ready to make any public statement of their position.

Already organizations are being formed in various parts of the country to oppose inflation. How successful they will be remains to be seen. One of the most convincing arguments to date against inflation was made recently by Dr. W. S. Landis, a prominent American business man, who recently returned from Europe and has studied the effects of inflation in the various European countries which have experienced it in the past. According to the New York newspapers, Dr. Landis in a recent address to employees of his company, expressed the opinion that there are same erroneous impressions abroad in America concerning inflation, and he added that monetary inflation, judging from the experiences of countries across the Atlantic, does not in the long run reduce debt, aid industry and boost the value of common stocks. These countries found, he said, that while the debts of governmental units and various enterprises were cut or cancelled by inflation, they had been forced to borrow additional sums to carry on because of the increased costs incident to inflation, and the interest cost of the new debts was greater than that of the old.

Dr. Landis said that he believed that in America the new debts made necessary by inflation would exceed those which might be wiped out by reduction or cancellation. A study of the course of 300 stocks in France during the period of inflation, the speaker declared showed that at the end of the inflation period they had only reached one-half of their previous gold value, and this, on the average, only during the 1929 stock boom.

"Investment in common stocks is extremely hazardous in an inflation period," Dr. Landis is quoted as saying, "because of the tremendous mortality in business. This, in turn, is due to the shrinkage in the value of the working capital, the added cost of operation, and the tendency to the overissuing of securities."

Speaking of the effect of inflation on wages, Dr. Lanids declared that in France, while the wages of the working man seemed to be going up they were actually being cut in half, while in Germany the plight of the workers during the era of inflation was desperate. In addition, inflation in France and Germany cut the value of inusrance and companies bank deposits, trust funds, mortgages and bonds. Dr. Landis also pointed to the fact that inflation in the United States would greatly reduce the value of the securities which the various state governments require savings banks to invest in.

It is easy to see that inflation is not a quick and easy way of reducing or paying debts. In deed it is apt to have the opposite effect on the total indebtedness, and to wipe out the savings of the thrifty, while at the same time bringing intolerable hardships to those who work for a salary or a daily wage. Certainly, in handling inflation, now is the time to "stop, look and listen."

The New York Herald-Tribune, in its issue of October 30, devoted some space to a radio address of Col. Louis M. Howe, secretary to the President, on the subject of "retail price gougers." Colonel Howe, according to the newspaper, told how the public could institute an inquiry into price gouging and quoted the law to the effect that "No retailer shall increase the price of any merchandise sold after the effective date of this code over the prices existing June 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by the amount of increase in production, operating replacement or invoice costs of merchandise or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the national industrial recovery act or the agricultural adjustment act since June 1, 1933, and in setting such price increases retailers shall give full weight to probable increases in sales volume. It is provided, however, that if any price on June 1, 1933, was a distress price, an equitable adjustment may be made."

This, the colonel is quoted as saying, means that if a customer feels that he is being charged too much for an article in the store he can file a complaint and find out about it. Mr. Howe believes that in most cases it probably will be found that the price rise is beyond the retailers control, and he assumes that if the customer, after investigation, finds he had not been gouged, the investigation will work to the advantage of the retailer.

In the filing of a complaint, Colonel Howe is quoted as making this explanation:

"This is what you do. You feel that you are charged ten cents too much for a toothbrush as compared to what you paid before. You march down to the postoffice and say: 'Give me a blank.' They give you a blank, and you merely write on it something like this: 'I went into the such and such store yesterday. They charged me sixty cents for a toothbrush which last week cost only fifty cents. Please have this investigated.' You then march yourself back to the postoffice, hand in the complaint and the machinery starts to move automatically and will never stop until it has run down the reason for this price increase, if it has to go clear up to the manufacturer himself before it finds the answer."

All of which is decidedly interesting and opens many possibilities. Of course if this practice of filing complaints is indulged in to any great extent it will mean a great deal more investigation work for the government to do, and this in turn ought to result in employment for many thousand additional hungry political laborers who up to this time have not been properly recognized.

And as nearly every community we know has at least one person who makes a hobby of complaining at retail prices, comparing them with the prices in surrounding communities and in the mail order catalogues, just think how much fun these folks are going to have in using the postoffice pens, filling out the blanks and watching the wheels of the government grinding in an effort to chastise Mr. A. or Mr. B. for his asking price on a bottle of olives or a cake of soap.

We can see only one additional step necessary. If we are overcharged ten cents for a toothbrush and get the dime back, that is one thing. But suppose the price is all right but the bristles fall out of the brush even before they have a chance to turn pink. What is the government going to do about that, and where do we send our blanks?

Federal and State Red Tape

Thoughtful citizens can not fail to look with concern upon the ever increasing tendency of governmental agencies to restrict and "regulate" our daily activities, which are becoming more and more enmeshed in a maze of red tape.

Practically every new law passed by congress or state legislatures is designed to further extend this paternal supervision by innumerable commissions, boards and bureaus many of which have no valid reason for existence, except that they make jobs to fatten the public payroll.

Among the many persons of prominence who have protested against these indefensible encroachments upon the liberties of the people is former Governor Theodore Christiansen, of Minnesota, who said:

"I emphatically disapprove of the numerous and petty regulations with which little bureaucrats in Washington annoy and harrass business big and little."

The fact is that these burdensome regulations are not the result of any demand on the part of the public, but are originated by politicians who seek the limelight and are ambitious to have their names identified with restrictive laws on every conceivable subject.

The Surest Way

We still believe that the surest way out of our present difficulties is to leave people alone to run their own businesses, for we believe that the man at the helm understands his business and its problems best, and is better equipped to meet whatever problems come. The line should be drawn at the point where one business may begin to interfere with the rights of another. At that point government should step in and prevent imposition upon the innocent party. This is the extent to which government has any business interfering in the affairs of the people who compose that government. The sooner we require our government to get out of the meddling business, and to attend strictly to the business of governing the sooner we shall begin to emerge from our present difficulties. Government meddling at its best is tremendously expensive, and the cost must be borne by the citizens who comprise that government. That means more taxes, and taxes are to a large extent stifling our people to death.—Unionville (Mo.) Republican.

The United States has no aggressive designs on anybody, but it does need a navy able to defend its shores beyond any question. It has no desire to initiate a naval race, but it cannot afford to be caught napping if any other nation insists on starting one.

Unable to make ends meet as a preacher a Minnesota pastor resigns to become a florist. There was, it appears, no jack in the pulpit.

More and more we are coming to believe that God created earth in six days, largely because he didn't have a lot of experts hanging around.

After the government slaughter of 4,000,000 pigs, the price of live hogs hit a new low since May, in the early part of November. Evidently destroying wealth does not always create wealth.

Senator Fletcher proposes a government bureau to guard the people from being fleeced. Nobody ever seems to think of trying to instill in the sheep enough sense to stay away from the "big bad wolf". That's one way to keep from being hurt.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

We All Want To Help

A few days ago a good friend of mine came to me and said: "I don't think you ought to say so much about conditions. Even if they aren't any better, we all hope they will be, and we ought to talk better times." Now, I think I've been misunderstood again. Goodness knows, nobody wants to see better times any more than I do. If there should be anything that I could do to bring them about, I'd be more than glad to do it. But I believe everyone has a right to his own ideas, and for the life of me, I can't see anything bright in the future. Sure, there are many men going to work. I am glad to see that, too. Anything in reason to get something for people to do so that they can make a little money. But it is well that we look further than an inch in front of our noses. If one continues to pump water from a well, no matter how much it may have in it, sooner or later it is bound to dry up, and then a new well must be dug. Now, in this case of the national treasury, if the present method of pumping money from the treasury is kept up, it must surely dry up after a while. And in this case we can't dig another well. And, sooner or later, all this money must be paid back by the taxpayers. We should look forward to this time, too. So, when I say that all this reckless expenditure is bad, it is not because I hate to see men get jobs. On the contrary, I am glad that they can have jobs—the more the better, but on the other hand, let's look where it is all leading to. Let's not pump the well dry.

Living At Home

One day last week I saw a man enter a grocery store and ask the price of meat. I supposed that he wanted to sell some, maybe in the near future, as he was a farmer. But no, he wanted to buy meat. He finally bought a few pounds of sow-belly and then proceeded to let the crowd in on his system. "I never raise any hogs," he said. "I don't plant much corn, just enough to feed work stock and furnish meal. The most of my land is planted to cotton. I have decided that I can raise cotton and buy meat better than I can raise hogs." Asked if he couldn't raise and fatten hogs on scraps, and so raise his meat at very little cost, he replied: "Scraps? There ain't no scraps at my place. We eat all the crumbs and we don't peel the potatoes, so what kind of scraps would I feed a hog on?" Another man in the crowd—just one—agreed with him. Said he: "If a man values his time at anything, he can spend enough time carrying feed to hogs to more than pay for them." What a system for farmers to follow.

The Grand Experiment

In a recent speech, President Roosevelt scored critics of his policies and rebuked them for criticizing his "experimental" methods. He pointed to the forming of our government in the beginning, terming it "the great experiment." It is true that the formation of our form of government was an experiment, and a highly successful one. But there have been many, many governmental experiments before and since that time that turned out failures. Our own government has tried many experiments, but we have never had one to succeed as well as the first one. It must be remembered that about nine out of ten experiments fail, and the experimenter should go slow, so that if he sees his tests failing in any degree, he can stop before it is too late. He may, then, take up established and proved methods, from which he can proceed with a new experiment. But the present "experiment" does not run along this line. This whole nation's future has been thrown into one big experiment, "whole hog" and is being pushed in so far that should the experiment fail, there would be no chance to discard it for another. It's a case of sink or swim—if we swim, it's fine; if we fail, then it's just too bad. If Mr. Roosevelt thinks the Constitution was such a wonderful experiment (as he so rightly believes) it seems he might stick to it more closely. So far, from the very beginning, he has treated our Constitution as just another scrap of paper. So far as his system is concerned, somebody could burn the "great experiment of American government, the Constitution," and we'd never miss it.

What Price Recovery

Right now everybody, big, little, old and young, are all concerned in the matter of recovery. We are willing to sacrifice, to work hard and long, and we don't mind stretching our imagination some to bring about recovery, or at least make ourselves believe we are on the road to recovery. But, being only human, the most of us like to see SOME results of all this sacrifice and what not—encouraging results. If we can see just a little good that we are accomplishing, we are willing to go on with the fight. But let's check on what has been done in the name of recovery, and balance it against the results attained. (1) All the powers of Congress have been surrendered to the president, making him a supreme dictator—a direct violation of the Constitution of the United States. (2) The veterans skinned out of $300,000,000, and thousands of them left to "root hog, or die"—they were promised that their case would be attended to—it has, and how! (3) The veterans' money has been spent on planting saplings, of was to be used in that way—news from reliable sources goes to prove that no actual planting has been done, but the money is being spent any way. (4) A farm relief bill passed, and the only thing wrong with it was that the farmer was not relieved. (5) Industry has been "eagleized"—and darn near paralyzed. (6) Millions of hogs and cattle have been killed off, and thousands of acres of cotton destroyed, with millions starving and without sufficient clothes. (6) Billions of dollars in bonds have been issued, bringing the national debt to 27 billion dollars, on which, dear ones, the American taxpayers are paying a DAILY INTEREST OF TWO MILLION DOLLARS. (7) The 18th Amendment has been repealed, and we have beer again. (7) We have recognized Russia. And the net result of all this is that a PART of the unemployed have found jobs, with no assurance of how long they may be able to keep them. I leave it to your own good judgment as to whether we have paid too much for those new jobs.

Red is Red

As you well know, the national flag of the Soviet Russian government is a plain red one—just a red rag. I am sure, too, that you have seen men working on roads and streets, making excavations, etc. When these men are at work, they surround the danger zone with red flags, which mean DANGER. Now, the story goes, that, when Premier Litvinoff and his aides arrived in Washington for their talkfest with the president, they came to a place in the street, while on their way to the White House, where a crew of men were working on a sewer in the middle of the street. The place was surrounded with danger flags—red ones. And when the illustrious premier and his men arrived on the scene, each and everyone of them very ceremoniously doffed his top-piece in honor of the red flag. The very color of the Soviet flag is very appropriate. It is red, and red means danger. A red flag makes even a bull want to fight. One would think with all the bull we have had around in this country during the last few months enough of it might have soaked in to make us resent the red flag.—Man in the Moon.

The Agricultural Dilemma

The speech delivered by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, at Muncie, Indiana, the other evening, is worthy of some study. The secretary stated that the farmers of the nation either must cut their output, until they get on a domestic consumption basis, or we must lower our tariffs, let in a flood of foreign goods, depending on foreign nations to take our farm surplus. The important thing, according to Mr. Wallace, is to adopt a program and stick to it.

"If we follow the international program," he continued, "we absolutely must receive great quantities of goods from abroad and must not be disturbed by the clamor of the people hurt thereby. If we follow the national program, we must resolutely plan to keep 50,000,000 acres of land out of use, no matter how loud may be the outcry of certain carrying, handling, processing and exporting interests."

The two alternatives proposed by Mr. Wallace are by no means happy, viewed from any standpoint. There can be no denial of the fact that we have too much agricultural produce in the country, but it must not be forgotten that part of this condition may be due to underconsumption. Perhaps a great deal of our unprofitable land should go back to the public domain or be converted to other uses. Surely, there would seem to be little sense in reclaiming new land for agriculture when we appear to have a surplus.

Perhaps the first thing to do would be to stop up the leaks in our tariff walls now. At present we hear complaints about the importation of rye, and other foreign products which compete directly with the American farmer. Stopping this would at least help a little.

We can see little remedy in the international proposal which Mr. Wallace offers. To lower our tariffs in the hope that foreign nations would take our crop surplus is indulging in a vain hope. Such a procedure would put us in severe competition with Australia, Canada, Argentina and other agricultural nations which can undersell us anywhere because of their lower costs of production, and would put us in agricultural competition in the home as well as the foreign market. And the flood of imports, coming in the shape of manufactured goods, would undoubtedly destroy what market there was left in America for the farmer's product.

Certainly it would seem to be a question of reducing the farm surplus by crop control and greater consumption at home. Whether the plans Mr. Wallace has put into effect, with the agreements and processing taxes, will work satisfactorily remains to be seen.

Mr. Wallace devoted part of his speech to denouncing the policy of the Harding and Coolidge administrations in lending foreigners American money with which to buy our goods. We have never been in favor of lending huge sums abroad, to South America, Western Europe or Russia. But to cite our foreign loans as the chief cause of our depression is certainly not sound logic.

For example: the author of the "Topic of the Times" column in the New York Times recently pointed out that while out of our total of $8,000,000,000 in foreign bonds, about one fourth is in default the senate stock market investigation disclosed that the book value of one domestic corporation in August, 1929, was marked up from $2,225,000 to $28,500,000—more than a thousand per cent! And this was but one example of the extension of our domestic liabilities. Surely a great part of the 1929 debacle was due to the desire of millions of Americans, big and little, to acquire riches by some short cut to wealth.

Did You Vote For REVOLUTION?

Evidences multiply that we are in the presence of a real national crisis, and it behooves us all to give more thought than we have been accustomed to give to the fundamentals of both our government and our social order. Clear thinking requires that the administration and all those in authority distinguish between "recovery" and "reconstruction" of our institutions.

The mandate of the people was clearly for recovery. There was no suggestion then of "reconstruction." All these "reconstruction" theories are inventions of the president's various advisers. What the people voted for, and empowered the president to attempt, was recovery from the depression and restoration of good times.

None of these various "reconstruction" proposals was even suggested in the campaign last year. Moreover, if we are to attempt any "reconstruction," it should be attempted only after careful study and by due parliamentary processes, with the minority party taking full part in the debate. It is only out of the clash of freely expressed opposing opinions that sound policies can come. This is no time to risk delays, or even a new smashup, in order to allow theorists to experiment on us. Moreover, the entire trend of the reconstruction policy of the doctrinaires who surround the white house is socialistic. How many votes did the Socialist party get in the last election? Does this insignificant number of votes provide a mandate to the administration to try out the vague forms of semi-socialism in the name of reconstruction to the detriment of recovery?

One of the principal spokesmen for the administration, Professor Tugwell, said in Chicago last Sunday: "We are passing through a fairly sensible mass of revolution." The right of revolution is inherent in human nature. No one can, or does, deny that right to the American people but in the very nature of things there is no such thing as a confidential unconscious, popular revolution. Before popular revolution becomes real it must be conscious.

Apparently the only people who are conscious of the revolution to which Mr. Tugwell alludes are a small group of doctrinaires in Washington. Most certainly the American people did not vote for revolution last fall. They did not vote to change their institutions. They voted to change their leadership and overwhelmingly they wanted a change in leadership in order to recover from the depression. They did not vote for a socialized state then, and they have a right to vote before a socialized state is imposed upon them.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Andrew J. Davis, of Collins Chapel, was circulating among his friends in Clanton last Saturday. He admits that he is a prospective candidate for Commissioner of the Second District. At the proper time Mr. Davis expects to make his announcement and get into the race.

Edwin Sundberg has been in the hospital several days suffering severe cuts received in an altercation with his brother-in-law, Jace Price. He received four serious cuts, one of which disemboweled him, according to the doctors who attended him.

The many friends of Reedie Taylor were glad to see him upon a visit to his old home town last Sunday. Mr. Taylor is now engaged in the mercantile business at Lafayette, in Chambers County. He reports that he is doing well with his new venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barnett announce that they will move to Gulfport, Miss., in the near future. Their friends regret to know that they are to leave Clanton. For the past year Mr. Barnett has been here in the capacity of suprintendent of Alabama Mills.

Hance Alred is reported much better this week. He has been confined to his home for several weeks with flu, pneumonia, and malaria. Jerry said her daddy has him a walking stick and is able to go back and forth in the house.

Mr. C. Fenn Jones has been the center of attraction during the past week. Registration of workers for the re-employment program has been assigned to him. His office is up stairs in the courthouse. Up to Monday night he had registered over 1,500 men of all ages from 16 to 85. When his office was opened it received a grand rush. A few fights and faints were noted among those who were pressing toward the entrance.

J. Monroe Smith, of Thorsby, was among the visitors to Clanton Monday. In the rush we we failed to get a chance to see what was on the mind of Mr. Smith. He usually has something of interest to tell about Thorsby. He is one of the business executives of Thorsby Fruit Growers.

Who is going to be our candidate for Sheriff? This question is on the minds of many Republicans of the county. We hear one ask about it most every day. One man said Monday if we don't get out a good man for this place, we may see Boockholdt or Hardy elected next November.

Many farmers attended the machinery demonstration held by Polk Brothers last Saturday. They were very much interested in the performance of Farmall Tractors, International Trucks, and Hammer Mills. The latter is a wonderful little machine that will eat up anything from flint rocks up or down.

I went to the hospital Monday night to get the news. While Miss Robinson was telling me about a young lady who had been brought in from a wreck an elderly gentleman nervously paced up and down the hall. When I had finished and started away, the gentleman called me back to the door. He said for purely personal reasons and the interests of his family, he must request that I do not publish information about that accident. "It is my daughter," he said. You need not look for that item in the paper.

Secretary Wallace admits to the Mid Western governors that the job of fixing agricultural prices by the licensing system is too big job even for the A. A. A.

So great a clamor has been raised for credit expansion, the bankers can hardly make themselves heard when they explain that they are asked to lend other people's money.

World's fair officials have decided to reopen the fair in 1934. We presume this means that Sally will have to go shopping for a new fan.

Maybe, if other remedies fail, the Brain Trust will come around to the idea that after all what Uncle Sam needs is the gold cure.

There may be several ways of reducing the corn surplus, but it would occur to us that the way NOT to do it would be to slaughter four million young pigs, who might have had a good time eating it.

We are wondering how the government will continue to save all the people when there is no more money to be distributed.

We can't see the consistency of the government's paying a farmer to destroy part of his crops and then giving him free seed and loans for fertilizer in order that he can raise bigger crops.

It is said that more than 4,000 North Dakota people study college courses by mail. So there is no danger of the Brain Trust running out of replacement material.

A lot of military experts are of the opinion that what Uncle Sam needs for defense is more air power. We might keep congress in continuous session.

General Johnson had a lot to say in his Chicago speech about throwing dead cats but he forgot to mention the four million dead pigs. Who threw them?

Remember the good old days when the average farmer was too busy in the fall cleaning up his fence to go on a strike?

There are a lot of comedians on the radio but none of them are as funny as the fellows who recite the radio advertising.

When we have universal fingerprinting it will go hard with the small boy who samples the jam.

Science says the mocking bird can change its tune eighty seven times in seven minutes. There are several birds in politics who will regard this record with envy.

A Chicago policeman gave a bandit a shove across the state line into the waiting arms of Indiana officers. After reading so much about the pull criminals have in Chicago, it is a relief to hear of one getting a push.

OAK GROVE

There will be preaching at this place next Saturday night, December 2; also Sunday at 1:00 o'clock, and preaching following B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. There will be singing here Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. We invite everybody to come out and be with us.

Several from Oak Grove attended the singing at Center Hill Sunday afternoon. They reported a very good singing.

Mrs. John Glass and daughter, Lay Mae, and Mrs. W. J. Northcutt spent the day Monday with Mrs. Bill Martin.

Mrs. John Avery is very ill at her home, but we hope she will soon be better.

Mr. Burmon Cobb and Mr. Ted Northcutt have returned from Florida, where they reported they had a splendid trip.

A wedding of much interest to the friends and relatives of Oak Grove, was that of Miss Perisa Lessley to Mr. Bob Owens of Calera. We join hands in wishing them a long and happy married life.

The B. Y. P. U. gave a round table discussion at our weekly meeting on Sunday night. Topics were taken from the quarterly and made as practical as possible. The Senior department is growing very rapidly. We have instituted new rules and regulations, and we find them to prove very satisfactory. Our grades are very much improved from last quarter, however, we are not A-1. We are going to start at the beginning of the year and push forward to our goal.

The Oak Grove dramatic club, under the direction of Miss Pauline Lessley, will stage the play, "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," in the near future. Further details will be announced at a later date.

Mr. Charlie Sear of Longview was the guest of relatives the past Sunday.

Miss Gladys Cobb was the week end guest of Miss Hazel Glass of Minooka.

THANKS FROM SIMPSON FAMILY

The family of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Simpson express their most profound gratitude and thanks to their neighbors and friends who were so kind and sympathetic to them during the recent illness and death and burial of their son and brother, Hugh Moses Simpson. Everyone of the many expressions of their friends were noted with heartfelt appreciation.

Q—What would be the proper thing to say if, in carving a duck, it should skid off the platter and into your neighbor's lap?

A—Be very courteous. Say, "May I trouble you for that duck?"

INK DROPS

from

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

Gazing about among the students, one will see that our new books are being put to use. This is fine, the school now knows that the money expended for these books was not thrown away. Nearly everyone has taken a revived interest in reading, and every where one goes here he will see a student with a library book.

Isabella surprised us last Friday and held the Chilton Tigers to a 7 to 7 tie. This was a great game in every way and the attendance was one of the largest we have had in years. Since the game was called at 1:30 all the students were able to attend.

The entertainment given by the Senior Class last Friday night was indeed a success. The Senior Class wishes to express their appreciation of the help given by students and to thank all those who were present and remind them that more entertainment is on the way.

We closed our football season last Friday. The Tigers have a fine record, five victories, three defeats and one tie. Several players will be awarded their letters in a few weeks. These letters were earned too, and we know that the wearers will be proud of them.

Who will be our captain next year? We hope that he will be as good as Jesse Frank Foshee, captain for the 1933 team. The writer wishes also to say a few words about a boy that receives little public praise, yet he is very loyal to his school. None other than Dan Sanford, who was the dependable manager of the Tiger Foot ball squad this year.

After some unavoidable delay the Senior Class rings will be seen on many fingers in a few days. The Seniors will be proud of their rings because they are one of the rewards of twelve years of hard study and work.

Form your opinions: Stopped in the drug store the other day and lo, and behold, who was seen looking at some beautiful and not unexpensive gifts for the fair lady? The writer was very much surprised, especially when this Senior I revealed his intentions. He fell at last, or maybe he was pulled off. . . . Seems that several of our Senior II's would like to have a course in the arts of self defense. . . . Some girls really love caramel candy . . . Amazing! Startling. Punchie walked down the hall without a letter in his pocket. Maybe it wore out. . . . A certain Senior acting unlike a gentleman has caused some people to dislike him. To make it worse he knew it was an ungentlemanly act. . . . A certain boy had better watch his possessions in the Sophomore class and a certain other boy should remove his ships from in front of his rivals harbor, or else he may not have any. . . . Don't like him but I'll never let her have him." She had better not talk so loud next time.

Only one more month left in this semester and all of the students have turned their thoughts to the next semester. Will we have nine months of school this time? If not, will there be a private school run as there was last year? It is not known yet whether the state will run the schools nine months or not. But it is known that if we have only four and one-half months, great hardships will be pushed onto the students.

The Junior I Class won the cake given by the P.-T. A. for the room having the largest paid up members at the November meeting of the P.-T. A. This cake was sold by the class and the proceeds were donated to the school to aid in buying library books.

Miss Josephine Martin, Jr. I Class advisor, and teacher of Jr. High subjects, will be the subject of the biography this week. Miss Martin was born on January 24, 1910 at Seale Alabama to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin. She entered the Troy High School and graduated there in 1926. Miss Martin studied at Troy State Teachers College and finished there in 1928. She has been teaching since then. During the summer months she has furthered her studies, having studied at Birmingham Southern, University of Alabama and Columbia University. This year begins her fourth year as a teacher here. Before coming to this school she taught school two years at Butler County High in Greenville. Miss Martin can boast of having descended from a long line of successful educators. Members of her family have been leading educational people in Alabama, North and South Carolina and Virginia. The members of every Jr. I Class have gone up to the higher grades always carrying deepest respect and love for Miss Martin, who was their friend and teacher during the first years among the high school students. Miss Martin is upholding the standard of her family as school teachers.

Mrs. Louise Higgins, proprietor of the Louise Higgins Beauty Shoppe, is ill, and will not be able to operate her beauty parlor until the latter part of the week.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Sunday School Convention for the Clanton District will be held at Providence church next Sunday, December 3, at 2 p.m. The program will be as follows:

2:00 Devotional by W. J. Billingsley.

2:15 The Bible; its place in the Sunday School, by G. G. Williams.

2:35 The Place of Lesson Literature in the Sunday School Plan of Bible Study, by Luther Little.

2:50 Why Church Members Should Attend Sunday School, by H. S. Shaw.

3:00 General Discussion.

3:15 Reports and business.

3:30 Adjourn.

Clanton, Samaria, Concord, Mt. Zion, Pleasant Valley and Floyd are asked to be represented.—H. A. Harris.

Uncle John W. Hayes passed through Clanton Monday. He had been in south Alabama, and was enroute to Birmingham.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Health of this community is very good at present.

Our Sunday school met last Sunday with a very good crowd. Some were absent. We hope they will soon come back to Sunday school. We meet next Sunday at 10:00, and we want everyone to come and be with us.

Our Sunday school convention will meet with Jones Baptist church next Sunday, at 2 p.m.

We hope to have a good crowd from here to go. We feel like it will be a good one.

Mr. S. B. Elliot of this community is going to move away soon.

Come and be with us at Sunday school next Sunday.

Mr. Aubrey Taylor is home for The Thanksgiving holidays. He is attending college at Auburn.

Pink Martin of Beat 12 was in town Tuesday to attend the meeting of the Commissioners Court. He brought allong two subscriptions for The Union-Banner.

CHICKEN SUPPER

There will be a chicken supper at Mt. Pleasant Schoolhouse Wednesnight, November 29. Plates will be served at 25 cents. Everybody is invited to attend.

Rev. Horace Nabors and W. J. Vinzant of Union Grove were visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

NO USE

"Aren't you waiting up for dad, tonight, mother?"

"It's no use. With this cold I can hardly speak."

And we are pleased to learn that the child-labor laws will present no difficulty in the radio comedians' code. They will continue to employ only jokes over sixteen years of ago.

"He made a small fortune selling short."

"Oh, in Wall Street."

"No, in a filling station."

CHILTON COUNTY HIGH AND ISABELLA HIGH TIE 7 AND 7

With both teams fighting with a determination to win, Chilton County High fought to a 7 to 7 tie at Clanton last Friday afternoon. This game was the annual game between Chilton and Isabella, who have been spirited football rivals for a number of years.

Isabella has been the underdog most of these years but they came back Friday with superb playing that held the mighty Chilton eleven to a 7 to 7 tie. Both teams played the hardest, the fastest, the most thrilling, and the best game of the season, this being the last game for Chilton.

Chilton played true to form during the first quarter. On a short pass from James Tiffin to Joe Moore, netted the first score. And the attempt for extra point was good. The remaining part of the first quarter was filled with many thrilling plays which kept the spectators, a record crowd, on their toes. In the second quarter, Parnell Ratliff, end for Isabella, broke loose on Chilton's forty yard line, outsprinted several Chilton men for Isabella's first touchdown. Bucking their way through the heavy Chilton line, Isabella gained the extra point, making the score 7 to 7.

Both teams had each other's goal in grasp several times during the third quarter. Chilton's line refused to give in and Isabella, with the same determined spirit, refused to let the plunging backs of Chilton through.

In the third quarter the two teams resorted mostly to a passing attack that gave the crowd many thrills when the ball would soar for twenty and thirty yards, to be jumped at by two or three men.

Cecil Jones, right end for Chilton, starred along with his other teammates. His tackles were numerous and hard. His pass catching was beautiful and the team would have been lost without him on the end. James Tiffin, Chilton half, wrote football history with his long beautiful passes and his yard gaining end runs. Captain Jesse Frank Foshee played a wonderful game at the fullback position, hitting Isabella's line all through the game. His blocking for teammates was laudable. Sidney Reynolds and Carl Jones, half and quarter for Chilton, displayed good football in many fine plays. Chilton's line won the approval of all who witnessed it push forward when they had the ball and held like a brick wall against their foe. Joe Moore at left end; D. H. Wilder, at center; Grady Reynolds, Jr., right tackle; Osmond Glenn at left tackle; Emanuel Cooper at Guard; Gillespie at end and the others played marvelous football on the line.

Starring for Isabella were Martin, halfback; Morgan, quarter, who tossed a number of beautiful passes; Ratliff, end; Jones, halfback and Chambers, left guard.

This game closed the season in a big way. Both teams were determined to win, therefore, they fought to a tie.

ALABAMA GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 27.—I. T. Quinn, state conservation commissioner, who also is president of the Southern Association of Game and Fish Commissioners, has announced that the annual meeting of the association will be held at Pennsylvania Hotel in New York on January 22nd.

This meeting will be held during the 20th annual session of the American Game Conference which Seth Gordon of Washington, president of the American Game Association, has announced will be held at the same place January 22, 23 and 24.

At the call of Commissioner Quinn, members of the Southern Association met recently at Columbus, Ohio, to approve and recommend plans for wild life development in the Tennessee Valley.

Under a tentative schedule, it is planned to devote the opening day of the American Game Conference to wild life research and game breeding, the second day to waterfowl problems and the third day to outstanding topics of general interests. The annual banquet will be held either the second or third night, depending upon the availability of certain important speakers.

To build up the best possible program, the committees in charge of arrangements asked for the outstanding developments of the year in every state and province on wild life research, game breeding, game management, farmer-sportsmen co-operative projects and any other important wild life developments.

The Tennessee Valley project is expected to receive the consideration of the conference. Wild life motion pictures will be used to illustrate some of the projects to be discussed at the conference.

Lesson for December 3

PAUL IN EPHESUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:8-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 5:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Praising God With Our Gifts.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Asia Hears of Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Meet Opposition.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Facing Conflict for Christ.

I. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish synagogue (v. 8). He was permitted to preach here for three months. His preaching was characterized,

(a) By boldness. He realized that God had sent him and that he was backed by divine authority.

(b) By reasoning. God's message is in accord with the highest reason.

(c) By persuasion. It is not enough to go boldly with a reasonable message, it must be accompanied by persuasion.

(d) By speaking "concerning the kingdom of God." He did not discourse on current events, philosophy, or literature, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the school of Tyrannus (vv. 9, 10). The Jews were only hardened by Paul's earnest preaching. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the school of Tyrannus.

II. God Works Miracles Through Paul (vv. 11, 12).

As Christ's messenger he needed credentials. If Paul's ministry was to be successful here, God must, in an extraordinary way, put his seal upon his work. So wonderfully did he manifest his power that even handkerchiefs and aprons which had been in contact with Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits from those who had been made wretched by them.

III. Paul's Work Imitated (vv. 13-16).

Seeing the marvelous power operating through Paul, certain Jews who went about the country practicing magical arts at the expense of their poor unfortunate fellow countrymen, undertook to use the name of Jesus in their deceptive work. Knowing that the connection with Jesus Christ was but pretense on the part of these Jews, the use of his name by them only enraged the evil spirits who sprang upon and overcame them.

IV. A Glorious Awakening at Ephesus (vv. 17-41).

1. Fear fell on all (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It brought to the front those who professed faith in Christ while not living right lives (v. 18). They believed on Christ but had not broken from their sins.

3. They gave up the practice of black arts (v. 19). This means forms of jugglery by use of charms and magical words. No one can have fellowship with God while practicing these arts. They proved the genuineness of their actions by publicly burning their books.

4. The uproar of the silversmiths at Ephesus (vv. 23-41).

(a) The occasion (vv. 23, 24). This was the power of the gospel in destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his fellows. They were not particularly interested in the matter from a religious standpoint, but because it was undermining the principal business of the city.

(b) The method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, whose business was the mainstay of others of a similar nature, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his fellows on the ground:

(1) Of business (v. 27). The world is willing to tolerate any kind of religion so long as it does not interfere with its business or manner of living.

(2) Of religious prejudice (v. 27). He became quite religious when his business was being interfered with.

(c) The issue (vv. 28-41). The speech of Demetrius gained his end. The crowd was enraged and cried in unison, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" (v. 28). This method of proving a point seems quite modern. The mob was quieted by the tact of the town clerk (v. 35).

First, he rebuked them for yelling for two hours to prove a point which everybody admitted (vv. 35, 36). Second, he showed that Paul and his companions were not guilty of any criminal act (vv. 37-39). Third, the people were in danger of being called to account for this riot should it come to the ears of Caesar (vv. 40, 41).

The Way of Life

It is wholly impossible to live according to divine order, and to make a proper application of heavenly principles, as long as the necessary duties which each day brings seem only like a burden grievous to be borne.

Cultivate Quietness

Cultivate the quietness as a means to the abiding in Christ! Expect the ever deepening quietness and calm of heaven in the soul as the fruit of abiding in him!

Mr. Hoyt Reynolds of Tuskegee spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

THOMAS A. JONES DIED

Thomas Applewhite Jones, age 34 years, died last Thursday morning at his home in Dothan. The body was brought to Montgomery and buried Friday. A number of friends and relatives from Clanton attended the funeral.

Mr. Jones is survived by his wife, Mrs. Effie Turtle Jones, and two children, a boy and a girl, ages 4 and 6 years.

The deceased was born and reared here. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bird G. Jones of Mt. Zion community. Several year ago he went to Montgomery where he was for some time connected with a cotton brokerage concern. In recent years he has been a traveling salesman out of Dothan. For several months he suffered ill health said to have been the result of scarlet fever when he was young.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday, November 26th at 1:30 p.m. the singing class of Poplar Springs met for the regular fourth Sunday singing. Even though the crowd was small, everyone seemed to be in the singing spirit and we put it over in a big way. The class was called to order by Mr. W. M. Devaughn, followed with a prayer by Mr. W. F. Gilliland. The following directed in the singing: Latham (Pete) Wilson, Gerthie Easterling, W. F. Gilliland, Velma Jones, Floy Devaughn, Myrtice Smith. A quartet was arranged by W. M. Devaughn. Folks, we are not going to let this society die, so come on and help us next second Sunday. We especially invite all singers and visitors.

BAKER SCHOOL

There will be a Thanksgiving program at Baker Junior High School Thursday night, November 30th, at 7:00 o'clock. Every body come and bring someone with you and enjoy the program. Admission will be ten cents and fifteen cents. We shall have special string music.

From the Editor of The American Boy

In wild Mongolia, Roy Chapman Andrews, famous scientist-explorer, digs up the bones of monsters dead millions of years. In the Zululand of Africa, Carl von Hoffman, Russian adventurer, sets a trap for a lion. The gripping experiences of famous men will be part of the reading diet in store for boys in 1934, according to word just received from the editor of THE AMERICAN BOY — YOUTH'S COMPANION.

The issues of 1934 will be crowded with adventures. With Connie Morgan in the Arctic, with Douglas Renfrew of the Royal Canadian Mounted, with Jim Tierney, the retired detective who can't stay retired, the American Boy subscriber will enjoy the new experiences of his favorite fiction characters.

Stories that help prepare a boy for college and for business, helpful articles on hobbies and sports, and interviews with famous men, will help round out a record-breaking year for the magazine's readers.

THE AMERICAN BOY — YOUTH'S COMPANION costs just $2.00 a year. Until January 1, 1934, you may obtain a three-year subscription for $3, a saving of $3.00 over the one-year rate for three years. If you wish to take advantage of the saving, be sure to get your three-year subscription in before January 1. Thanksgiving Day is at hand so it is thought appropriate to give you a little history of how it came to pass.

History of Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is a national harvest festival fixed by proclamation of the president and governors of the states which is set apart as a legal holiday for giving thanks. In 1621 after the first harvest of the New England colonists, Governor Bradford made provisions for the rejoicing of the people by setting apart a day for prayer and praise which was repeated often during the following years. During the Revolution a day of national Thanksgiving was annually recommended by congress. Washington appointed such a day in 1789. The last Thursday in November has been appointed to be the Thanksgiving Day and has been followed.—Lewis Gandy.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is a holiday,
That comes in dear November,
Although I go to school that day,
I always can remember.

That day in sixteen twenty-one
When Thanksgiving Day was first begun
The Pilgrims only hit this land
When Bradford gave his good command.

That was a grand old celebration,
And worthy quite for our grand nation,
Now we're called "Red, White and Blue."
So let's give thanks and be kind and true.

—SARAH TYUS.

My Bible

My Bible's the greatest book I've found,
With great truth and maxim it's pages abound,
Where'er I shall roam, with me it'll be found,
For I love the sweet stories with doctrines so sound.
I take down my books and glance through them all,
But I'll choose my dear Bible from the stand in the hall.

When late in the evening I decide to go on a walk,
With those grand characters I roam and talk,
But if it is my room I choose to stay
Some Bible games I'll probably play,
But sweeter to me, and best of all
Is my dear old Bible on the stand in the hall.

At night when I sit on my mother's knee,
Gently and sweetly she reads to me
Whence comes those stories that entrance me so,
And why do they sweeter and dearer grow?
Why, they're from that book, the best of all,
My dear old Bible on the stand in the hall.

—HELEN MAHAN.

F. F. A. NEWS

On last Friday evening, November 24, the F. F. A. students of Isabella, Columbiana, Centreville, Vincent, and Jemison High Schools held a joint banquet in the auditorium of the Jemison High School.

The students of the various schools gave a splendid program. They discussed different phases of their vocational training. Mr. J. O. Thompson, a successful farmer of Centreville, emphasized the value of evening school work with adults in vocational schools.

Mr. Marvin Durbin of Isabella High School, who holds the degree of American Farmer, the highest degree offered by F. F. A. Chapters, served as toast master. Mr. Durbin acting as a representative for the 5 schools presented Hon. W. B. Oliver, member of the House of Congress from this district, an honor guest, with a State Farmer Key, thereby making Congressman Oliver an Honorary State Future Farmer. Mr. Durbin stated that this key which is emblamatic of the splendid services performed by Mr. Oliver to both the agricultural and industrial people of the State of Alabama.

Mr. Oliver then addressed the boys and visitors. He encouraged the boys in their school activities, urging that they fit themselves for useful Christian services. He offered very generous and outstanding prizes to vocational students, boys and girls, in his district who do the best vocational work. Congressman Oliver's address was very interesting, among the main points of his discussion was the U. S. Government's plan to of establishing farms in Alabama and elsewhere for people, who for various reasons could no longer work in industrial centers. He stated that he would like to see some of this rehabilitation work located in counties in which he represents.

Mr. Oliver has many friends in Chilton and other counties that are proud of his record in Congress.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Recently I heard Judge Allen, the only woman federal judge in the United States, address a large audience of school teachers. She gave a most wonderful message. She said in substance, "The trouble with America is that we have "scrapped" many things we should have kept."

Judge Allen was right. You can't scrap eternal principles and get away with it. Right is right and wrong is wrong. Justice is justice and mercy is mercy under all flags in all countries. It is wrong to oppress the poor. It is wrong to make money out of human weakness. It is wrong to appeal to passions and prejudices. You can't make wrong right.

I had my fiftieth birthday recently. There have been many changes in my lifetime. Automobiles were unknown when I was a child. We had no radios, no flying machines. The world was not as complex as it is today, and yet comparatively speaking, I am still a young man. But there have been more changes in the moral world than there have been in the physical and material world. When I was a boy lying was considered a terrible sin. Slander was unpardonable.

Somebody asked me recently if I was glad that I didn't live in the day when men used to fight duels. I don't know whether I am or not. Of course, dueling is wrong, but men used to fight to protect their honor. Honor was considered valuable. I sometimes wonder if we have much honor now to defend.

Is the world getting better or worse? The question is often asked. Jesus said, "The wheat and the tares will come to a head and then we will have the harvest." Both are heading up. The world is getting both better and worse.

SINGING AT JACKSONS CHAPEL

There will be a singing at Jacksons Chapel Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. Everybody is invited to come. We will use both books. Everybody be sure and bring your books.

May—So Ann's divorced her parlor magician? Couldn't he pull enough rabbits out of his hat to keep the pantry filled.

Belle—Yes, but he couldn't pull enough hats out of his pocket to keep her wardrobe filled.

East View News

The teachers and leaders training class taught here by Miss Marguerite Davison was enjoyed and appreciated by all who attended the school. Two new classes were organized for the Sunday school—a primary class and a young married people's class. We welcome every one to join our Sunday school. We need you and you need to attend Sunday School.

Mrs. A. C. Nelson, who has been ill for about two weeks, is still very sick. We hope she will soon recover.

Mrs. Estell Rushing, Mrs. Mamie Traywick, Mrs. Ester Moore, Mrs. Nolia Parker, Mrs. Ethel Rushing and Mrs. Clara Rushing all visited Mrs. A. C. Nelson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Nelson dined with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gray Sunday.

The Christian Endeavor rendered a good program Sunday night, led by Silas Nelson.

The topic for Christian Endeavor next Sunday night is "The Cause and Cure for Poverty." Mr. Aaron Parker will be leader. Be sure to attend. We are expecting an interesting program.

Mrs. Mamie Griffin visited Mrs. Mamie Traywick Saturday night.

Mr. Tim Smith and family visited Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith Sunday.

Mr. Otis Coggins is moving onto Mrs. Clara Rushing's place.

MRS. SARAH RHODES DIED

Mrs. Sarah Rhodes, age 50 years, died last Saturday afternoon at her home two miles east of Thorsby. Burial was at Cane Creek Sunday afternoon in charge of Martin. The funeral was conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish. The deceased was the wife of Mr. Jim Rhodes.

IT'S A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kemp announce the arrival of a fine baby boy at their home in Clanton on Friday night, November 24.

T. E. LUCAS DIED

News has been received of the death of Mr. T. E. Lucas on November 15th, at Springville, Ala., where he had lived for the past two years. Mr. Lucas was a former resident of Thorsby. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Vivian Grady, of New Jersey; Clara, of Springville, and four sons, James Werness, Grover and Robert of Springville, three sisters, Mrs. Bert Bosworth, of Birmingham; Mrs. Sherry, and Mrs. McMillan, of Pennsylvania. Funeral services were held at the residence with the Rev. Tyler of Trussville in charge.

EZELL MAY GO TO ENTERPRISE

It became known to the public Tuesday that Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, is considering the matter of moving to Enterprise, in Coffee County, to accept the pastorate of the Baptist church there.

A petition was being circulated on Tuesday directed to the Board of Deacons of the Clanton Baptist church, requesting that body to use every effort and means to retain the services of Rev. Ezell with the Clanton church.

So far as is known there is not anybody in Clanton or Chilton County who wants to or is in any sense willing to give up the services of Brother Ezell.

In the absence of an interview with him on the subject, we are unable to say what has brought about the suggestion of Rev. Ezell's change of pastorate. Doubtless, however, it is because Enterprise has need for a good preacher and a good pastor, and knowing the ability of Rev. Ezell, have decided to make a bid for his services.

It is reported that Mr. L. A. Calloway is ill at his home in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ellis of Mobile returned home Sunday after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Cary Baker of Birmingham spent a few days recently with relatives in Clanton. Mr. Baker paid a pleasant call to The Union-Banner office while here.

WORK ASSURED FOR 1,000 IN ALABAMA

Washington, Nov. 24. — The Civil Works Adminisration today announced allotment of $174,272 for Federal projects in Alabama on which 1,000 jobs will be available.

The largest single allotment, $99,672, was for improvements at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, under the supervision of the War Department. This project will employ 210 men. Other Alabama projects were:

Coast and geodetic surveys, $44,600, with 420 jobs, national forest work for 200 men; improvements at Fort McClellan, Anniston, $10,000 and 20 jobs; work under bureau of plant industry, clearing land near Fairhope, for experimental plot, $20,000 with jobs for 120 men.

PREACHING AT COOPER

There will be preaching at the Baptist church at Cooper Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones. The church is well organized and is doing good work. Large congregations are attending the services and a cordial invitation is extended to all in the vicinity to attend and help in doing even greater things for the Lord and His kingdom.

CLIFFORD MANNING ATTENDED CONVENTION AT KANSAS CITY

Clifford Manning, student of Isabella High School, returned last Sunday from Kansas City, where he went last week to attend the national convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Clifford made the trip by automobile, together with five boys, who were carried by Mr. Hall of Russellville. He was one of the two delegates from Alabama.

Mr. Manning will write the story of his trip for publication in The Union-Banner. The first installment of this story will be published next week.

Rev. H. H. Caswell came to Clanton Saturday night, preaching at Foursquare Church Sunday morning and night. He returned to Cleveland, Ohio on Monday morning. Rev. Harry B. Miller accompanied him as far as Dayton, Tenn., but will return to Clanton after a few days.

Miss Ellen Stanley of Birmingham is the guest of relatives here for a few days.

Mr. Edward Mullins and Mr. Joe Moore spent Sunday in Mobile.

PEOPLE WANT TO KEEP MR. STAPP

Question Waits Before Commissioners Court For Determination

Over two hundred representative farmers and business men of Chilton County met with the Commissioners Court Tuesday morning at ten o'clock to consider the proposition of releasing County Agent C. E. Stapp, in order that he might accept an offer to serve as county agent in Dothan.

The question was brought about through the offer that has come from Houston County to Mr. Stapp whereby he would receive an increase in salary to the amount of $96.25 a month.

The meeting was started off by a report of Mr. Stapp covering his past year's work in abbreviated detail. The figures he gave showed that he has been a very busy man, and has done a tremendous amount of work in serving the interests of the farmers and business people of Chilton County. He expressed his hope that some arrangements would be made whereby he could stay in Chilton County and carry on the work he has started here.

After Mr. Stapp had completed his report, a flood of speeches broke loose from many citizens, expressing their approval and appreciation of the work of Mr. Stapp. Among those who joined in the discussion were John Hollis, Sam Ezell, J. N. Dennis, Earle Thomas, J. C. Page, E. H. Culp, J. R. Mullins, W. L. Popwell, Buford Lawrence, L. E. Diefenderfer, Marvin Durbin, Glenn Sessions, Frank Callen, J. R. Robinson, Percy Pitts and others whose names we did not get.

Emmett Sizemore, director of Extension in this district of the state, took the floor and outlined the plans and purposes which moved the extension department in asking for Mr. Stapp to go to Houston County. He said the farmers of Houston face a problem that requires the best county agent in Alabama to solve it, and for that reason they wanted Stapp to get them out of rouble.

Whereupon, in the words of Enoch Culp, it was the unanimous expression of every man in the meeting that we need Stapp to keep us out of trouble just as much as the people of Houston need him to get them out. And a motion was made, seconded and unanimously carried by rising vote, requesting the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to appropriate the increase necessary to keep Stapp on the job here.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Oh yes, I was just too slow last week. The mail carrier came before I got my news written, so we just didn't have any news.

Sunday school was good Sunday. B. Y. P. U. did very well Sunday night.

The singing Sunday afternoon was not much—too many bad colds.

Mr. Jack Freeman of Ensley spent the latter part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mrs. Ewell Ray has been confined to her bed with a sprained ankle. We hope her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Frances Hudmon is on the sick list. She was greatly missed Sunday at Sunday school, as she is one of the teachers.

Mr. J. E. Cobb and son, J. T., Mr. B. L. Cobb and son, Leo, and Leo Collum, attended the banquet at the Jemison High School Friday night. The banquet was given by the F. F. A. boys. They reported a fine time, and said these boys and their teacher and especially Miss Newell and her home economics girls were to be complimented.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw has returned home from Ensley where she spent the past week visiting her brother, and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nix.

Mrs. Louis Gillespie of Clanton spent part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mrs. Rufus Childress spent Thursday with her mother, Mrs. J. E. Cobb.

Mrs. Bob Trudie spent Thursday with Mrs. Lonnie Cobb.

Mrs. Jackson Scott and children spent Wednesday in Birmingham.

Mr. Russell Sutley and Miss Irene Dennis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb.

Mr. Auburn and Miss Eula Langston of Mars Hill were the dinner guests of Miss Addie Collum Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Scott visited Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller Sunday.

Mr. V. Miller and Miss Mildred Cobb dined with Mr. Leo Cobb Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw and son, Sidney, of Providence visited Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Cobb Sunday.

Messers. V. Miller and Leo Cobb and Miss Lucille Merchant were the supper guests of Miss Mildred Cobb Sunday night.

Mr. Arnie Smith of Mars Hill and Miss Gladys Ferguson of Randolph were married Saturday afternoon, November 18, by Judge B. L. Cobb, at his home here in the presence of several friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott went over to Perry County Sunday after his mother, Mrs. J. D. Holsombeck, who has been over there for some time with her father, Mr. Littlejohn, who died last week. She stayed on a few days after the funeral. The family has our deepest sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox attended the funeral of Mr. Tom Jones in Montgomery Friday.

Mesdames Willie P. Jones, Arthur Johnson and Mr. Joe Hall Johnson motored to Montgomery Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Lamar of Montgomery is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

Smith—You had better protect your overcoat from moths during the summer.

Brown—Oh, I don't think moths will hurt it.

Smith (feeling it)—How about the boll weevils?

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Do You Know Rev. N. C. Shepard?

Well, he is one of the most outstanding persons among our groups in Chilton County. He is a minister 'tis true, but if you inquire of him around Maplesville, you will find that he is a carpenter, a brickmason and a farmer. When it comes to preaching, he is one of the first magnitude, and in other lines named he is by no means incompetent. He is well thought of in his community and elsewhere.

I went down to Maplesville to canvass for prizes to be given away at the Farmers Conference. After getting the assistance of Rev. Shepard, not a single person refused us, or him, I should say. This I considered, was due largely to the good, business-like manner of Rev. Shepard. Hats off to Rev. Shepard. We need more men like him.

Thanks to Mr. Ward

The faculty and student body of the Chilton County Training school wish to express their gratitude to Mr. Ward for his kindness in coming out to the school, cutting a new road by which one may enter the grounds, and grading the back of the school ground, which was recently extended. Mr. Ward came to us some time ago and did some work of the same nature. We thank him again for coming to our assistance when it was so very much needed.—Benj. Anderson.

Mr. Sam Matthews of Birmingham is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. O. E. Latham.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Mitchell of Verbena visited here Friday.

Miss Marie Powers of Thorsby visited friends here Friday.

Mrs. A. S. Prince and son, Wilbur, were shopping in Birmingham Saturday.

ELLY DANIEL FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Principal of Maplesville High School Wants To Be County School Head

This week The Union-Banner carries the announcement of J. Elly Daniel for nomination for County Superintendent of Education, subject to the action of the Republican primary to be held next spring.

Mr. Daniel was born in Coosa County, the son of J. Tom Daniel. He came to Chilton County at the age of ten years, and has lived near Lomax for 20 years.

He graduated from Chilton County High School in 1923, and was one of five out of a class of 23 who graduated with an average above 90 per cent for the full four year high school course.

His next step was graduation, after a four year course, from the College of Education at the University of Alabama; a "B" average for the full college course was attained. His main college course at the University of Alabama was supervision of Schools and School Superintendency.

Following this, Mr. Daniel took a special one year course in the department of County and City School Superintendency at the State Teachers College at Jacksonville, graduating in that department.

Next came a six weeks post-graduate course in the department of County and City School Superintendency and School Administration at the University of Texas.

All told, Mr. Daniel has had five years and three months special work and study in special school administration.

He has taught nine years in the schools of Chilton County. Four of these years were spent as Principal of the Mt. Pleasant Junior High School. The last three years he has been Principal of the Maplesville High School, and during his supervision, this school has been put on the list of fully accredited high schools in Alabama.

The above should convince anyone that Mr. Daniel is fully qualified to fill the position for which he asks. In fact he is one of the best qualified for the job of Superintendent of Education in the county. He is young enough to appreciate modern ideas and methods in school management, yet he is old enough and experienced enough to cope fully with any responsibility that may be his if elected to the office. His special training eminently fits him for this particular position. This is a day of specialization, and Elly Daniel has made every effort to especially fit himself for school supervision and superintendency, and has made a record that the voters of Chilton County would do well to consider in their selection of a County Superintendent of Education.

Consider Bridge Across The Coosa

Commissioners of Two Counties To Meet at Log Cabin Beach on Friday

Many people in Chilton and Coosa Counties will welcome the news that agitation is being made of a movement to put a bridge across Coosa River on Road 22, below Mitchell Dam.

Mr. C. E. Gulledge of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday, and reported that he had already carried the matter before the State Highway Department at Montgomery, and the plan has already been laid before the board of county commissioners of Coosa County. Mr. Gulledge wanted to take up the matter with our commissioners here, but on account of other pressing matters the commissioners could not take the matter under consideration just now.

However, a joint meeting of the commissioners of the two counties has been called at Log Cabin Beach for Friday of this week to go further into the consideration of the matter.

In figuring over the matter with the State Highway Department Mr. Gulledge arrived at an approximate cost of the project, which will be about $150,000. This money can be borrowed from the Public Works Administration; only 70 per cent of that amount, or $105,000, would have to be paid back to the federal government by the two counties. This amount would have to be paid back over a period of 25 years; each of the two counties would have to pay about $3,500 a year. This, of course, would make it a free bridge.

If the two counties should decide to make it a toll bridge, 10 cars crossing the bridge a day at 25c per car would more than pay what both counties would have to pay over the 25-year period. The counties would have to pay 5 per cent interest on the $105,000 for the 25-year period.

The building of this bridge would open up a passage-way between the two counties and would greatly facilitate auto travel from our county to all eastern points. Also the construction of the bridge would afford work to hundreds of people for several months.

New Agent at The L. & N. Depot Now

Mr. Dan Hogan, of Prattville, has come to Clanton, where he will be engaged as agent of the L. & N. Railroad Co., succeeding J. A. Hester, who has been placed on the company's retired veterans list. Mr. Hogan and his family have taken up their residence in one of Tom Rockett's new houses on the Curry lot.

Further back than many of us can remember, Uncle Joe Hester has been the depot agent at Clanton. A little over a year ago his health forced him to give up active work. Tom Curlee a young man, son of the late J. M. Curlee, of Clanton, was placed in the temporary vacancy caused by Uncle Joe's disability. Mr. Curlee has held the position for the past fifteen months.

With the coming of Mr. Hogan as agent, Mr. Curlee takes up a shift as telegraph operator, in place of Mr. M. L. White, who is off for a few weeks on vacation.

GROVER BICE FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

Former Postmaster at Thorsby Is Candidate For Republican Nomination

Mr. Grover A. Bice, former Postmaster at Thorsby, announces this week that he is a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican Primary election to be held next May. Former announcement of Mr. Bice as a candidate was filed in the Probate office Monday, at which time he also authorized his announcement through The Union-Banner.

Mr. Bice is well known in Chilton County, where he has lived all his life. He is the son of the late Jonathan Bice, who was prominent in county politics for many years, having served as County Treasurer for a long time.

For the past three years Grover Bice has been postmaster at Thorsby. Only a few weeks ago he was replaced as postmaster by the temporary appointment of E. N. Bentley, a Democrat.

Mr. Bice saw a long and honorable period of service in the army during the World War, as a member of the Rainbow Division in its campaigns on the western front in France. At present he is Commander of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion. "I have no full statement to make at this time," he said as he filed his announcement. "I will outline an address to the Republican voters in the near future. All I will say now is that I am getting into the race for Circuit Clerk, determined to do all in my power to win the nomination, honorably and fairly. And further than the attainment of the nomination, I am committed to a determined effort to help accomplish the success of the Republican ticket in November, whether I am nominated or not."

RETURNED FROM HOSPITAL

Claud Headley returned last week from the veterans hospital at Tuscaloosa, where he has been receiving treatment for the past two weeks.

Upon his return Mr. Headley was feeling fine and declared that his condition was much improved. He wants all of his soldier buddies to know that the veterans hospital is a fine place where the patients are given the very best treatment and attention.

County Agent Not Yet Determined

Question Before Commissioners Court Again at Meeting Wednesday Afternoon

At the time we go to press the question of a county agent for Chilton County remains undetermined. Several developments have taken place since last week, but none of them have resulted in anything definite being accomplished.

Last Wednesday the commissioners, following the meeting of citizens at the courthouse urging them to retain Mr. Stapp, had an executive session and offered to increase Stapp's salary $500 a year if he would consent to remain here. Mr. Stapp declined to accept the offer, in view of the fact he has been offered an increase of $1,000 a year in salary if he will go to Dothan.

The next step was taken Monday when Emmett Sizemore, district agent, brought Mr. Hugh Sexton here to consider a proposition accepting the job at the offer made to Mr. Stapp. The commissioners were not in official session at the time Mr. Sexton was here.

When the court came into session again Tuesday another angle to the case was developed when consideration of Earle Thomas and J. P. Montgomery for the place of County Agent was broached.

At this writing the matter stands as stated above. Possibility of a trade with Sexton, Thomas or Montgomery is before the court when they meet Wednesday afternoon.

Elijah M. Jones Died Suddenly

Prominent Business Man Expired At Home in South Clanton Saturday Night

Elijah Miller Jones, age 53 years, died suddenly at his home in South Clanton about 7:30 o'clock last Saturday night. Apparently in his usual state of health, Mr. Jones was seized with a sudden attack as he and his family were enjoying the radio in their home after supper. A doctor was summoned, but was unable to relieve him and he died in a short while.

Funeral services for Mr. Jones were held at Chestnut Creek church Sunday at 3 p.m., conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton Baptist church, assisted by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby. Burial arrangements were under direction of J. Mell Martin & Sons.

For many years Mr. Jones has been a prominent business man, merchant and lumber manufacturer of this county. Together with his brother, J. Renfroe Jones, he has been interested in the Farmers Hardware Company of Clanton for several years.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Jessie Gray Jones; nine children, Mamie, Lester, Odis, Amon, Flora (Mrs. Lonnie Richardson), Grady, Brady and Clyde, one brother, J. Renfroe Jones, of Clanton. He was the son of Joe Jones of Cooper communfroe Jones of Clanton. There are five sisters—Mrs. Jesse Miner, Mrs. Jesse Thornton and Miss Elvira Jones of Poplar Springs community; Mrs. William Nobles of Sylacauga, and Mrs. Dock Bone of Autaugaville. He was the son of Joe Jones of Cooper community.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 5.—The regular quarterly dividents on its $6 and $7 preferred stock, payable on January 2nd next, were declared at a meeting of the board of directors of Alabama Power Company today, Thomas W. Martin, president, announced.

The dividend on the Power Company's $5 stock, payable February 1st, 1934, will be acted upon at the January meeting of the board, Mr. Martin stated.

These dividends will approximate $585,000, and dividend checks will be mailed by January 1st, for the $7 and $6 stocks.

DR. MASTIN ESTABLISHES HIS OFFICE HERE AGAIN

Dr. O. C. Mastin has this week removed his office from his country home to the new Hayes building in Clanton.

His announcement states that he will devote special attention to chronic diseases and diseases caused by infections and toxemias; blood poison, inflamations, etc.

33 Negroes Hurt In Truck Wreck

Accident Happened At Mt. Creek Early on Morning of Thanksgiving

Sixty Negroes were scattered over the landscape last Thursday morning when a forestry corps truck left the highway near Mt. Creek attempting to straighten out a curve in the road. Thirty-three of the number received all degrees of injuries, and were piled into another truck and brought to Central Alabama Hospital.

It was a gruesome spectacle when the men, all bloody, cut, scratched, broken up, and moaning with intense pain, were taken from the truck and stretched out in the hospital for medical attention. Three doctors gave them first aid treatment as quickly as possible. None of the number died, but it was at first thought several were fatally injured.

The group of sixty, members of a forestry conservation unit in Barbour County, were on their way home in North Alabama for the Thanksgiving holidays. They were traveling in a trailer attached to a truck driven by a white man.

As the truck, coming north, approached the railroad bridge at Mt. Creek, the coupling pin of the trailer came out, plunging the cargo of sixty Negroes down an embankment. Martin sent three ambulances to the scene, but the injured men had already been loaded on a freight van when the ambulances arrived.

The injured men were removed from the Clanton hospital Friday to the army hospital at Fort Benning, Georgia. Those who were not injured continued on their trip to north Alabama.

Cooke Players Here At the Wadesonian

The many people of Clanton and Chilton County who like good drama, comedy and vaudeville entertainment, will be pleased to learn of a return engagement of the famous Cooke Players to the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton, for one week beginning December 18th.

Mr. Pamplin, manager of the troupe, was in Clanton a few days ago making preliminary arrangements, and he stated that his show was better than ever this year. A number of new players and brand new attractions have been added; which will take the audiences by storm, according to Mr. Pamplin.

COME IN AND GET THOSE CHILTON COUNTY MINUTES

There are some 20 churches of the Chilton County Association that have not called for their minutes for 1933. These minutes are not doing any good lying here in The Banner office. The clerks or someone else will please call and get your share within the next few days.

Taylor Wholesale Grocery Gave A Banquet For Store Employees

A get-together and get-acquainted meeting of the employees, executives and managers of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company and their ten associated retail stores was held in Clanton last Tuesday night, with a banquet dinner served at the Exchange Hotel.

The purpose of the meeting, as outlined by Mr. Roland W. Taylor, toastmaster of the occasion, was to bring together all the men in the organization and give them an opportunity to get acquainted with each other; to discuss their various business ideas and purposes; to exchange opinions and plans about business policies and development.

With the majority of our 50 white employees in attendance at this meeting, Mr. Taylor said we feel that it was the most valuable occasion we have ever sponsored.

In addition to the representatives of ten Taylor stores, Mr. R. B. Clark, of Birmingham, special representative of Stokely Brothers, was a special guest for the occasion.

The men met at the Taylor Wholesale House at 7:30 o'clock. From there they made a visit to Chicago Sales Company for about twenty minutes. Then they joined the Clanton Cash Store force for about ten minutes. From there the entire group went to the Exchange Hotel for the banquet and a delightful turkey dinner.

Mr. Roland W. Taylor presided as toastmaster. When all were assembled around the banquet table, prayer and invocation was offered by Rev. Nunnally, of Alabaster.

The toastmaster extended a cordial welcome to all the visiting employees, and assured them that every effort was being made by the Taylor organization to make their gathering both pleasant and valuable to each and every one.

Each store manager was called upon to introduce his employees and associates present, whereupon the following list was recorded in attendance:

Clanton Cash Store, O. D. Deloach, associate owner and manager; Eli Moates, J. A. Nivens, Jack Mims, Leo Brewster, Jr., and Marion Thompson.

Peoples Cash Store, Clanton, W. J. Billingsley, manager; Grady Taylor.

Chicago Sales Company, A. E. Reagan and W. A. Kemp.

Thorsby Cash Store, C. R. Foss, manager; Jim Bosworth, Walter Parnell.

Columbiana Cash Store, J. R. Edwards, manager; Mason Edwards, Carl Edwards, Beston Robinson.

Alabaster Cash Store, John Denham, manager; Rev. Nunnally, John Kroell.

Helena Cash Store, Jim Brasher, manager.

Wetumpka Cash Store, Rupert Ingram, manager; John Square Dennis, Phil Enslen, Hon. H. S. Taylor.

Tallassee Cash Store, David Vines, manager.

Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co., R. W. Taylor, T. M. Taylor, Hugh Jones, Aaron Dennis, Jimmie Taylor, Clyde Mims, Sidney Davenport, Buddy Ellison.

Centreville Cash Store, Leo Brewster, manager; Mr. Fred McGee, county commissioner, of Bibb County.

After thoroughly enjoying the most delightful and bounteous turkey dinner, the toastmaster conducted a round table discussion of matters of business interest to the organization.

Concluding the dinner session, Mr. R. B. Clark, the Stokely representative carried the entire group to the Clanton Cash Store, where he had on display a full demonstration line of Stokely's products.

Mr. Clark entertained the men for several minutes with a most educational and interesting discussion of Stokely's foods, the Stokely plan of merchandising and advertising. Several of the men asked questions about various phases of the Stokely program.

Following this discussion it was announced that all the Taylor Stores will observe Stokely week from December 4 to Saturday, December 9, with special sales effort and advertising devoted to Stokely products.

The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock and all the guests departed for their homes feeling that they had been privileged to take part in a most worth-while business gathering as the guests of Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company.

Dixie Volunteers To Be Here Friday Night

The famous Dixie Volunteer Quartette of Birmingham will put on a program in Clanton Friday night of next week, December 15th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The program will consist of sacred and popular songs, spirituals, comics and jokes. There will be one and a half hours of fun and entertainment, and the admission will be 10 cents and 15 cents. Part of the proceeds will go to the Home Makers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church, who are sponsoring the program. It will be at the courthouse.

The Dixie Volunteers are well advertised and have been favorably received wherever they have performed, which has been a number of places over the state. Those who like good quartette singing and high class clean entertainment will enjoy their program.

ALABAMA MILLS PROPERTY SOLD

Clanton Industry is One of the Ten Plants Involved in Recent Deal

Alabama Mills, Inc., acquiring properties of the Alabama Mills Company Inc., bankrupt, was Monday morning in charge of operations of the 10 cotton mills and properties throughout Alabama, the sum involved in the purchase at auction in front of the Federal Building in Birmingham Saturday and approved by the referee in bankruptcy, being $1,350,000, payable in securities of the new corporation.

Alabama Mills, Inc., is officered by Paul A. Redmond, who was receiver and trustee of the Alabama Mills Company, Inc., as president, E. J. Heitzberg, Nashville, vice president, and W. E. Hendrick, secretary-treasurer.

Reorganization of the old Alabama Mills Company, Inc., has been under way for some time, since filing of petition in bankruptcy and request for appointment of receiver and trustee several months ago was recorded.

The new corporation will have 214,000 shares of common stock issued and retained besides income debentures.

The 10 cotton mills included in the corporation are located in or near Winfield, in Marion County; Wetumpka in Elmore County; Aliceville in Pickens County; Dadeville in Tallapoosa County; Clanton in Chilton County; Greenville in Butler County; Jasper in Walker County; Russellville in Franklin County; and Haleyville in Winston County.

The 10 mills have been in steady operation for some time and are still going at almost capacity with prospects bright for the future. More than 3,500 men and women are given employment.

No changes in personnel are proposed. Mr. Redmond had no information as to future plans to announce Sunday beyond the fact that operations will continue as in the past and that prospects were bright.

SELMA BAND AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

The Selma Band will put on a program at the county high school auditorium Friday night of this week, December 8th. The program will begin at 7:30, and the admission will be 10 cents and 15 cents. It is being sponsored by Circle No. 6 of the Clanton Baptist church.

Plan For Giving Out Pay Checks

New Order Announced For Those Who Are On Civil Works Pay Roll

Since a large number of people come to Clanton on Saturday to get their checks and to do their trading, it has been decided to arrange a different schedule for the distribution of relief checks. Beginning Saturday, December 9, the checks will be delivered in Clanton at the courthouse on Saturday except in certain remote sections of the county.

All people on relief who have been getting checks may get their checks at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday except those who live in the places listed below. The regular schedule will be followed at these places:

Saturday, December 9th.

Maplesville, 9 a.m., Shoults, 10:30 a.m., Stanton, 1 p.m., Riderville, 2:30 p.m., near Crayton Lenoir's, Beat 3, 2:00 p.m., near Rasberry's store, Beat 14, 2:30 p.m.

The checks which are not called for in Clanton on Saturday will be distributed at the following places on Monday:

Beat 12, near Robinson's store, 9 a.m.
Beat 2, Jemison, 10:30 a.m.
Beat 13, near Shaw's store, 12:00.
Beat 15, Pletcher, 12:00.
Beat 9, Thorsby, 9:00 a.m.
Beat 10, Cooper, 9:00 a.m.
Beat 5, Verbena, 10:30 a.m.
Beat 5, Mt. Creek, 12:00.

400 MORE MEN CALLED TO WORK

Bringing County Up to Full Quota of 800 Will Add More If Possible

According to advice received Tuesday night through the employment office of the civil works administration of Chilton County, a call has been made and approved to put on 400 additional men to work on civil works projects in the county at once. It was stated that an outside man will be sent here to select the men to be assigned to these jobs, and he is expected to make the selection immediately and place the men on the jobs.

This assignment will bring the total of re-employed in the county up to 804, which is the total of the present quota assigned for the county. To date a total of 3,000 men have been registered for re-employment by Mr. C. Fenn Jones, in charge of registration. It is hoped by local authorities that Chilton County's quota can be increased above the present figure of 804.

It is stated that the following projects have been given approval of the state civil works administration for Chilton County, and that final approval, in all probability, will come thru from Washington immediately:

The public road from Verbena thru the neighborhood of the graphite mines, and extending to the Elmore County line.

A new schoolhouse for the Cooper district, to be built of native stone.

The old Higgins Ferry Road extending east from Clanton for a distance of eight miles, to the old Lonz Bates place.

The road from the Autauga County line at Billingsley, for a distance of eight miles toward Clanton.

The road from Jemison to the Cobern place three miles east of Maplesville, to intersect the Selma Highway.

The road from Thorsby to Mineral Springs Church.

The road from Jemison to Union Grove Church.

The road from Willie Shaw's store toward Montevallo to the Shelby line.

The road from Maplesville to the Perry County line.

The drainage projects in swamps north and south of Clanton.

Construction of an auditorium as an addition to the school building at Collins Chapel.

Construction of a negro school building near the William Walker place.

Mr. R. L. Pittman, an engineer, from Birmingham, is in Clanton, as acting director in charge of the construction projects in Chilton County.

As an additional project concerning both Chilton and Coosa Counties, the erection of a bridge on Highway 22 across Coosa River at Log Cabin Beach is being considered. A joint meeting of the Commissioners of the two counties has been called at Log Cabin Beach for Friday of this week to consider this project.

Masons Thank Oliver For His Donation

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren of Verbena Lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 754:

Whereas, our most worthy and esteemed brother, Hiram Bentley Oliver, being moved by the noblest impulses with which mankind is endowed, has seen fit to confer a most needed and valuable benefit upon our fraternity and likewise, upon our community, in that he has donated a permanent home and has made it, the property of this lodge by deed of gift, to-wit: the building and grounds upon which it stands and,

Whereas, we feel that we cannot do less than to endeavor to show our appreciation by appropriate expression of our thanks and gratitude to him,

Therefore be it resolved, first, that we thank him from the depth of our hearts and that we enjoin our brethren to endeavor to emulate the spirit he has so graciously manifested and thereby show to him and to the world that we, too, nurture and cherish a like spirit of brotherly love, and that we, henceforth, make greater efforts to walk and act in a manner to demonstrate this spirit.

Second, that this resolution be read in open lodge and a copy hereof be spread upon our minutes and a copy furnished our esteemed benefactor.—Respectfully submitted, R. L. Duffy, Q. C. Meroney, J. C. Pattillo, committee.

Mr. John J. Turner Died Suddenly

John J. Turner, age 63 years, died suddenly at noon last Friday at his home in the Littlejohn community. He was engaged in cutting stovewood when he suffered an attack that resulted in his death a few minutes afterward.

Funeral services were held at Liberty Hill Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. H. Limbrick. Burial arrangements were in charge of J. Mell Martin and Sons.

Mr. Turner is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Turner, and several children. He was born in Autauga County, but had lived in Chilton County for many years past.

DEMOCRATS APPEAL TO McCORD TO MAKE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 5.—Judge Leon McCord, democratic national committeeman for Alabama, is being bombarded with appeals from Alabama democrats to become a candidate for governor. Since the state-wide movement to persuade him to run was started two weeks ago he has received telegrams, letters and telephone calls that run beyond 2,000. Every county in Alabama is represented in the appeals.

McCord has been unable to make a personal reply to each communication, but has promised a statement about the time the state democratic executive committee meets on December 16 to make plans for the primary elections. He has persistently declined to give any indication that he is interested in the campaign, but has made the promise to several delegations that he will keep an open mind until the survey now being conducted by his friends can be reported to him.

Hundreds of the requests have come from North Alabama, where McCord is known to almost every voter. Scores are from the eighth district, which recently elected A. H. Carmichael of Tuscumbia to congress to succeed E. B. Almon, deceased. A McCord-for-governor boom was started in that district at the time Judge McCord persuaded the state democratic executive committee to permit democratic voters of the distrist to name their own nominee for congress in primary elections. By McCord's positive action a plan to give the nomination to a man picked by the eighth district members of the state committee was defeated. In that campaign McCord was quoted as urging the state committee to recognize the right of the democratic voters to name their congressman and all other state and ounty officials.

Judge McCord has told hundreds of personal friends that he does not want to run for governor, preferring to remain in his position as circuit judge of Montgomery County, to which he can be returned without opposition next year. The movement to put him into the race for governor was started without his consent.

He was elected democratic national committeeman over two opponents last year. Since that time he has been called into the east and middle west to make speeches for the democratic party. He made several speeches for President Roosevelt and the ticket in Ohio and other middle western states prior to the election last year. He has also been designated as the personal representative of the democratic national administration on a number of occasion since March 4. One notable instance was when he delivered the message for Roosevelt and the party of voters of Florida to the election on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Friends of Judge McCord have urged all voters who believe he should be a candidate to communicate with him prior to the meeting of the state democratic executive committee December 16.

POPLAR SPRINGS CLUB

On December 1, the club met at the home of Mrs. N. A. Jones. The club was called to order at 2 p.m. by the president. After the business meeting a club song was sung. Three new members were received, making a total of 23 members. Five visitors were present. Miss Pardue made a talk on how to keep your record. It is hoped that each lady will keep an accurate record. We studied blocking hats. Several hats were blocked. We also discussed Christmas gifts. Our next meeting will be January 5th at the home of Mrs. W. A. Foshee.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for the kindness shown us during our recent bereavment, due to the short illness and death of our beloved son and brother, Barney. We want to express our thanks for the beautiful flowers. Especially do we want to express our thanks for the kindness shown us by Dr. Dubose of Maplesville, Dr. Gragg and nurses of Central Alabama Hospital and Mr. Martin, who had him in charge for burial. We wish to express our appreciation to the lady near Maplesville who was so kind to Barney after he was injured in the accident; also the man who carried him to the doctor. May God bless each and every one.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson and family.

Mrs. Tam Miller was carried to a Birmingham hospital Monday of this week for a tumor operation. She is said to be improving fast.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

NEW CREDIT PLAN FOR AGRICULTURE LAID OUT

Auburn, Ala., December 3.—Under the new laws governing the work of the Farm Credit Administration, machinery is being set up for the handling of production credit loans beginning with the 1934 season. Alabama farmers will handle their own credit needs with the aid of the Production Credit Corporation recently set up in New Orleans.

The new plan provides for farmers to secure adequate and permanent credit for producing crops, breeding, raising and fattening livestock and for the production of poultry and all livestock products.

The Production Credit Corporation has a capital stock of $7,500,000 and will organize, provide the initial credit for and supervise the operation of local production credit associations in all communities where the need exists.

It will be the duty of these associations to make loans directly to farmer-borrowers and the associations will in turn discount the farmers' notes directly with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, New Orleans. If ten or more farmers manifest an interest in forming an association, the New Orleans Corporation will send a representative to the community to help arrange the matter. County farm agents will also help.

These associations are not to be set up to provide an easy way for farmers to go into debt but to help them get out and stay out of debt, credit officials explain. They say that anyone desiring definite information about how to organize one of the associations should talk over the matter with his farm agent or write directly to the Corporation at New Orleans, La.

It is the belief of the extension authorities that this new plan will be found more satisfactory in the long run than the old seed loans of the past.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Loans of 4 cents a pound on cotton options held by farmers who participated in the 1933 emergency cotton control program will result in the distribution of $3,900,000 to Alabama producers.

Factory workers of the United States got $150,000,000 more in September than in February, reports the Consumers Council of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. That is an increase of 44 per cent.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ending November 18 exceeded loadings for the previous week by 2,618 cars and the corresponding week of 1932 by 26,666.

With merchants in many sections of the country closing the most successful fall season in four years, efforts are being concentrated on the promotion of Christmas merchandise, and in many family groups the first real Christmas since 1929 will be enjoyed, comments Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

"Practical Pointers on Making Creamy Butter in the South," is the title of a new bulletin published by the United States Department of Agriculture. F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman, and A. D. Burke, head of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, are co-authors.

WILL PUT ON A B. Y. P. U. PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

The Concord Baptist Young Peoples Union will put on a program at Friendship church next Sunday night, December 10th, beginning at 6 o'clock. This program will be followed with preaching by the pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. The public is cordially invited to attend.

WILL LAUNCH NEW COTTON PLAN SOON

Auburn, Ala., December 3.—The effective strat made by the 1933 plow-up campaign in adjusting cotton production, to cut down the runious surplus and restore a fair buying power price, will be continued and expanded by the new program soon to be launched in the South, according to Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

A potential crop of 17,500 bales, if there had been no reduction campaign this past summer, would have added greatly to the already heavy cotton surplus and made cotton price recovery impossible. Through their plaw-up cooperation, growers of the Cotton Belt took 4,400,000 bales out of the 1933 crop, cutting this much from the anticipated surplus and making possible an almost doubled price for cotton.

Continuation of this vital adjustment effort is the keynote of the new cotton program. If the goal of an approximate 40 per cent cut in acreage is reached, cotton farmers will have taken the next and longest step in the fight to bring cotton supplies in line with effective demand and stabalize the cotton producing industry.

Cotton growers who have studied events since the plow-up have been gratified at the results. Total income from the expected 17,500,000 bale 1933 crop, with cotton at five cents, would have been $437,500,000. The reduced crop, estimated at 31,100,000 bales after the plow-up, would bring a crop income of $589,500,00 with cotton at nine cents. Add to this the $112,000,000 of adjustment payments which growers receive for cooperating in the emergency program, and the $48,000,000 of estimated profits from options taken by growers as part of the plow-up compensation, and the total income figure for growers from the 1933 crop runs to $749,500,000.

This increase of $312,000,000 in actual income from cotton, as compared with what the full crop would have brought without the adjustment campaign, constitutes final and indisputable evidence of the success of the emergency program.

VERBENA NEWS

Mr. Dewey Hughes, president of the P.-T. A. and Miss Myra Moore, secretary, are running the association well this year. At the last monthly meeting, the first, second and third grades were in charge of the program. Miss Elizabeth Hubbard's grade won the picture for the month as there were more parents and friends present to vote for her class than for the others.

Colonel Gordon Catts and Mrs. Catts of San Antonio, Texas are visiting Mrs. Mary Catts.

The many friends of Rev. Ellisor are glad that he is to be pastor of the Methodist church another year. With his inspiring sermons and friendly personality he has won his way into the hearts of the people.

Prof. Hiten is proud of the record his high school football team made this year. Though they did not win a great many games, they fought hard each time to the end of the game and played clean. Interest is centered now on basketball, and prospects are good for a successful season. Robert Williams is to take the place of Albert Broadhead at center.

The day before Thanksgiving the grammar school football team played the Jr. high. The score was a tie 14 to 14.

Many of the college boys and girls, home for the Thanksgiving holidays, have returned to school.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Health in this community is very good at present, except bad cold.

Our Sunday school met Sunday with a small crowd. The weather was not favorable for the people to come out. Our Sunday school will meet next Sunday at 10. We hope to have a good attendance next Sunday. We stated last week that there would be a Sunday school convention in our group at Jones Baptist church, but it was put off until next Sunday at 2 p.m. We hope lots of you folks will go to it, for we are sure it will be good for us all to be there. We hope to see our Sunday school grow and not go into winter quarters this time. We will have to get on the job, and get plenty of wood to make fires with. Come and be with us next Sunday at 10 o'clock.—A Reader.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT CALERA SATURDAY NIGHT

There will be a fiddlers convention at the school auditorium in Calera next Saturday night, December 9th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Admission will be 10 and 15 cents.

The entertainment is being sponsored by Ward-Crim Post No. 56 of the American Legion. Adjutant Guy Roberts sends a special invitation to all his friends in Clanton and Chilton County to attend.

Mr. Harry Jacobs of Graceville, Tenn., was a visitor to Miss Myrtle Farley for the past week.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 5.—The first issue of the Southern Game and Fish News, a monthly publication to be edited by A. C. "Zan" Heyward of Columbia, S. C.., will make its appearance early in December.

This will be a southern magazine for southern sportsmen dealing with conservation problems of the south and reporting outdoor sporting events in each of the southern states.

Special departments will be edited by Herbert L. Stoddard, Nash Buckingham and other well known writers and authorities on hunting and fishing.

The new Union Springs Field Trial Club will start its first trials December 18 on the Maytag preserve in Bullock County. Jake Bishop, president of the club, has announced that two stakes, the derby and all-age, each with a guaranteed purse of $750 will be run. The entry list closed November 20. The nominating fee was $15, to start $20, and post entries will be $10 extra.

Hunters found wild turkeys in practically every county in the state when the turkey hunting season opened on December 1. Especially ar ethey numerous this year in the Alabama National Forest. The first half of the split hunting season ends December 31. The season reopens March 1 and continues through April 10. Woodcock also may be hunted through the month of December.

The squirrels had a tough time last month. Just after C. A. Cargile of Montgomery, reported catching a four pound bass with a half grown squirrel in it, Warden C. F. Hill came in with a report that he saw a ring-tailed hawk snatch a squirrel off the ground and soar away with it. The bass and the hawks seem to know it's open season on squirrels.

Warden C. M. Harwell of Huntsville, reports he has spotted at least 30 deer in Jackson County this fall. Recently, he came upon a buck, doe and three fawns. Deer are multiplying fast in that section of the state, he reports.

WORK MOVING FAST ON DAM

The Tennessee Valley Authority is pushing forward with construction of the Norris dam by inaugurating a new policy of two and four shifts per day and adopting a 33-hour week work basis in order to spread employment on the project. Previously the men worked 44 hours per week.

Approximately 30 men have been added to the 500 on the payroll at the dam, the authority announced. Within the next six weeks it is expected that 200 or 300 additional workers will be given employment. The total number of men now employed on the dam, survey parties above the dam, construction camp, and heavy duty highway leading to the Coal Creek railhead is about 1,700.

Floodlights have been installed so that 120 men, operating power shovels and trucks, can work in four 5½-hour shifts per day. This means that this class of work will be shut down only between 12 noon and 2 p.m. when maintenance and repair work will be done.

Approximately 380 Norris dam workers today are on a two-shift basis, of 5½ hours each, starting at 6:30 a.m. These workers are carpenters, riggers, crib builders, electricians, mechanics, excavators, road builders, and general utility laborers.

Due to the urgent need for more bunkhouses to shelter workers on the dam and the unfeasibility of working night shifts on carpentry and masonry, crews working at the construction camp, four miles from the dam, will continue on a 48-hour basis for the time being. About 625 men are employed in constructing the camp, its streets, sewers, and reservoir.

Construction of the 4.8 mile heavy-duty highway between Coal Creek and the west abutment of Norris dam is proceeding rapidly. About 325 men are working in three 8-hour shifts. The grade for the 22-foot wide reinforced concrete road is 45 per cent completed and about 600 feet of paving has already been laid.

Simultaneously with the increase in shifts, the authority's new wage scale went into effect. New rates for hourly workers on Norris dam and the construction camp are: skilled labor, $1 per hour; handy men and helpers, 60 to 75 cents per hour; and unskilled labor 45 cents per hour.

MEMORY OF MRS. BESSIE NELSON

On November 23, 1933, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Marion Nelson and carried away his loving wife, Mrs. Bessie Nelson. She had been sick several days. She was carried to the Clanton Hospital, where she received an operation on Sunday before her death the following Tuesday. Bessie was 26 years of age, the mother of three sweet children. She was a Christian woman and a loving mother, and was loved by all who knew here, as she always wore a smile. All during her sickness she kept smiling. It was the greatest pleasure of her life to talk of her Lord; so we know she was one of God's jewels. He only sent her to guide us on to heaven, so why do we weep for we should feel our loss is heaven's gain. As we know He doeth all things well.

She left to mourn her loss, her husband, Mr. Marion Nelson, three children, Hellon, age 10, Billie, age 6, and Mary Frances, just 5 weeks old, her father and mother, two brothers and one sister. Her father is Mr. George Robinson of Clanton; her brothers are Charlie, of Birmingham, Dewey of Clanton; her sister, Mrs. Sam Foshee of Clanton and a host of other relatives and friends. But weep not, for the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh and He always knows best.

She was laid to rest at New Harmony cemetery with Martin in charge. Rev. Harry Dolinson conducted the services.—Written by one who loved her.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the neighbors for their kindness and help in the sickness and death of our dear father and grandfather. We wish to thank Dr. Dubose for his kindness. We also thank those for the beautiful singing and flowers.—Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn and family.

"I want my husband to admire my skin"

A WIFE never forgets that a clear skin is irresistible and that some other woman might prove more attractive.

How can she have a clear skin, too?

There is one way which many have found efficient . . . by restoring deficient red-cells and hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) to the blood.

The right amount of hemo-glo-bin in the blood makes a vast difference in the way you feel and look.

S.S.S. Tonic has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring deficient hemo-glo-bin to the blood.

Tens of thousands yearly take a course of S.S.S. to pep up a lagging appetite, regain old-time vigor, restore color to the skin and to build up resistance to infectious diseases, pimples and boils.

CHALLENGE TO YOUNG PEOPLE

During the past forty years tens of thousands of young men and women of many nationalities and denominations have sought free training for Christian service at home or abroad offered by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. More than 2,000 students enrolled in its day and evening school last year. While for certain special courses a high school background is required, and college training desirable, yet grammar school training will admit to its general course. English is taught to any deficient in its use.

The Bible ranks first in all Institute courses, but instruction is furnished in such subjects as Sunday school administration, daily vacation Bible School, Gospel Music, public speaking, home economics, hygiene, and manual training. In special courses are offered theology, homiletics, church history, apologetics, Hebrew, Yiddish, Greek, and medical subjects for foreign mission work.

There are three terms a year—fall, winter and summer — but students may enter at any time. An illustrated catalogue will be mailed on request. Address, 153 Institute Place, Chicago Avenue Station, Chicago, Ill.

ALL-WEATHER TREAD REMAINS UNCHANGED FOR 25 YEARS

Distinction of being the oldest tire tread in the world is enjoyed by Goodyear's all-weather tread, which has remained practically unchanged since it was first developed in 1908.

The Goodyear tread, according to Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, local Goodyear dealer, who has been looking up the history of tire development, this year celebrates its 25th anniversary.

First attempt at a non-skid tire tread design was the so-called Bailey tread, developed about 1905, and featuring rounded buttons to give an uneven surface that would resist skidding. It is of interest, too, Mr. Diefenderfer pointed out that originally these non-skid tires were placed only on rear-wheels of automobiles.

In the development of Goodyear's all-weather tread, President P. W. Litchfield, who was then factory superintendent of the Goodyear company, wanted to resist skidding from whatever direction, to get better traction through mud, and at the same time to produce a tire which would not fill up between the indentations and become a smooth tire again. The grooves between the diamonds in the all-weather tread are self-cleaning.

"Old Goodyear advertisements, printed as far back as 1911, showed a tire illustration with treads much as those of today, which is rather remarkable considering the advances that the automobile has made since then . . . that substantially the same tread now is as effective as it was then," said Mr. Diefenderfer.

The Goodyear All-Weather tread is found equipping not only automobiles, trucks and busses, but on airplanes, farm tractors and other implements, bicycles, and even wheelbarrows. Moreover, in recent tests at Akron, the Goodyear tread showed from 14 to 19 per cent greater resistance to skidding than any of 15 other makes of tires.

Mr. Lloyd Howard of Thorsby, proprietor of Wayside Gardens, was in Clanton Monday attending to some business matters relative to his nursery business. Mr. Howard says that he can furnish most any kind of shrubbery and other plants that the ladies may want to beautifuy their premises.

HERE'S THAT QUICK WAY TO STOP A COLD

Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.
If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in This Way

The simple method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box of 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

COMPLAINT FORMS ARE READY

With a view to expediting action on complaints of violation of specific codes of fair competition for industry and trade groups as well as the blanket code, the National Recovery Administration has distributed to postmasters throughout the country printed forms on which such violations may be reported to local and district compliance boards.

This action was taken following the receipt of thousands of letters complaining of "chiselers" and code violators. Many of these letters give incomplete information necessitating further correspondence. The forms are intended for the convenience of citizens who feel warranted in reporting individuals or firms which they believe to be violating specific provisions of codes. In order to discourage "spite" complaints, space is provided on the printed forms for notarization or certification by one or more witnesses familiar with the facts.

The printed forms call first for the name of the individual or firm against which complaint is made, known technically as the respondent. The complainant is next requested to state the business in which the respondent is engaged, the principal product handled and the principal service rendered. Space is also provided for other details clearly indicating violation of some definite provision of the code to which respondent is subject.

When properly filled out these forms will give a complete and quick picture of the nature of the complaint. With the forms in the hands of the postmasters and available to all citizens, the facts concerning reported violations may be placed in the hands of the proper officials without delay, insuring prompt action.

This arrangement possesses a double advantage. The citizen filing a complaint will have his or her complaint investigated more quickly than if a letter were written to Washington headquarters and returned to the district or local compliance board. With the complaints filed directly with district or local boards in proper form, it will be possible for the local officials to get at the root of the matter at once and take such action as may be warranted by the facts developed in the investigation.

PAUL IN CESAREA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 24:10-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward men. Acts 24:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Returned Missionary.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Prisoner Before a King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Have a Good Conscience.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ's Way of Life.

I. Paul Tarrying in Philip's House (Acts 21:8-14). He was bound for Jerusalem. On his journey thither he took up his abode with Philip who had so successfully wrought as an evangelist in the early days of the church. While entertained in this home, Agabus, by symbolic act using Paul's girdle, portrayed the binding of Paul at Jerusalem. The meaning of the words of the disciples at Tyre is to be understood in the light of the Spirit's revelation through Agabus. To the Tyrian disciples the Spirit made known the fact that suffering awaited Paul. To Agabus the Spirit made known what kind of suffering. The same Spirit made known to Paul what awaited him at Jerusalem and sent him forward into it.

II. Paul before Felix (Acts 24:1-27).

1. Paul arrested in Jerusalem (Acts 21:18-40). Paul, at the advice of the elders of the church of Jerusalem, took a Jewish vow in order to conciliate the Jews. Even if it did conciliate the Jewish brethren, it greatly enraged the unbelieving Jews, inciting them to mob Paul. On the basis of supposition these maddened Jews dragged him from the temple and beat him unmercifully, intending to put him to death.

2. Paul accused (Acts 24:1-9). Paul is now in the hands of Felix who determined to hear his case after his accusers had come from Jerusalem. The case against him was formally presented by Tertullus, a Roman lawyer. The charge contained four counts:

(a) A pestilent fellow (v. 5). This would indicate a fellow utterly base and corrupt—a plague.

(b) An inciter of rebellion (v. 5). This they hoped would bring him into conflict with the Roman power.

(c) The ringleader of a sect (5). The aim in this charge was to throw contempt and suspicion upon the Christians, thereby bringing Paul into deeper trouble.

(d) Profanity of the temple (v. 6). In this charge they wilfully suppressed facts.

3. Paul defends himself (vv. 10-21). This defense is a superb example of the strength and dignity of a man whose life is actuated by a noble purpose. Observe:

(a) Paul's frankness and courtesy (v. 10). He freely recognized the fact that Felix had been ruler long enough to be able to form a just judgment, and assumed that Felix would render a decision on the basis of facts.

(b) Charge of sedition denied (vv. 11, 12). He showed the utter falsity of the charge on the ground of the shortness of time, and also on the ground of his conduct while in the temple, even challenging proof of their accusation.

(c) Charge of heresy (vv. 14-16). This he met by a concession and a denial. He admitted that he was of this "way" which they called heresy, but denied that Christians were heretics. He showed that his actions were in keeping with the Hebrew religion worshiping the same God, believing in the same Scriptures and had the same hope of a coming resurrection of the dead.

4. Felix trembles before Paul (vv. 22-27). Wicked as was Felix, Paul's manner won his favor though it did not secure the apostle's release.

III. Paul before Agrippa (Acts 25:26).

The occasion of his appearing before Agrippa was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. More than two years had elapsed since the trial before Felix. During this time the Jewish hatred for him had not abated. Upon the arrival of these guests they expressed a desire to hear Paul. Before these distinguished personages Paul boldly witnessed. The gospel should be preached to all, regardless of wealth or station in life. As a result of Paul's defense Agrippa was almost persuaded.

Ideals

As we advance into life, out of larger experience of the world and of ourselves, are unfolded the ideals of what will be possible to us if we make the best use of the world and of ourselves taken as we are.

Greatest of Mistakes

The greatest mistake which Christians have ever made is in thinking that charity is the beginning and the middle and the end of all religion. It is the end, as peace is the end of war. It is not the beginning.

More Necessary

When we want to make anything a success in worldly affairs we put our whole heart into it. And is this not much more necessary in the service of an holy God? Is he not worthy?

AUTHORITY

Christ said that all power in heaven and in earth had been given to Him. And under this authority He commanded His apostles to teach all nations, and to teach those whom they baptized to observe all things He had commanded. (Matt. 28:18-20.) He promises His presence to attend His teaching, even to the end of the world. The apostle John says that if we continue in the doctrine of Christ we have both the father and the son. II Jno. 9-10. Paul, another inspired apostle, commanded that whatsoever we do in word or deed to be done in the name of Christ. (Col. 3:17.) We work and worship in the name of Christ only when we do what the New Testament teaches us to do. For a work to be done in the name of Christ, we must have the authority of Christ for doing it. We find this authority in the teaching of Christ and His apostles who gave the New Testament to us. Christ said that they who heard His apostles heard Him. (Luke 10:16.) Christ even prayed for those who would believe on Him through words of His apostles. (Jno. 17:20-23.) It then revolves to this point that if we do something that neither Christ nor His apostles taught us to do, we become transgressors of God's word. The scriptures are sufficient to furnish the man of God thoroughly unto every good work. (II Tim. 3:15-17.) —Sincerely, R. L. Huffman.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are glad to see our B. Y. P. U. and singing class progressing so nicely. The best B. Y. P. U. lesson and some of the best singing we have ever had was presented last Sunday night. We had several good singing visitors, and also Mr. Joe Ben Downs with his horn, which added spice to our singing. We invite them and all others to be with us every time they can.

Don't forget our regular singing society meets here next Sunday, December 10, at 1:30. Some special music is expected, so come and enjoy it.

COOKE PLAYERS RETURN

Commencing Monday, December 18, the Cooke Players, so well and favorably known in Clanton, will show at the Wadesonian Theatre here.

Twenty-seven years ago Harry M. Cooke founded this company that since has become one of the outstanding attractions of Alabama. They have a record of playing wherever they go and as they wind their way through the country they bring joy, happiness, and gladness to the hearts of many who feel the need of a mental stimulant, a good laugh, or a chance to pack up their troubles in the old kit bag.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances, Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground,—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significances, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somehow separate from the lives of our people, casting forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression.

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these truths are kept continually in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the banking problem or of properly safeguarding the very heavy stake of the public in that problem."

Alabama has for several years been producing pine-pulp paper down in Mobile County. Alabama does many things other states are not doing, but we haven't had time to tell the world about them.

Wm. F. Feagin, director of the state board of administration, called on the taxpayers last year to let him have $199,852.73 with which to maintain the largest prison population in the United States. Then the law made him pay $193,088.58 of it to the officials who convicted the prisoners and sent them to him for safe-keeping. If the convicts had not produced their own food and clothing, they would have had $1.30 each on which to be maintained for 365 days, or less than 4 mills a day.

NOTICE TO EX-SERVICE MEN

The committee appointed at the meeting of Chilton County Post No. 6 Monday night to investigate the matter of ex-service men receiving employment under the civil works administration, have conferred with directors of the civil works program for the county, as instructed by the Post meeting.

The committee was assured by the works directors that they will carry out the provisions of their instructions relative to according preference to ex-soldiers in the allotment of men to work projects. All ex-service men must register with the re-employment office, furnish proof that they are ex-soldiers, and state their dependents.

People do not realize, he said, that we have in excess of 108 banks which have been in existence over a century and we have more than 2,000 banks which have been in existence over 50 years.

"In other words, we have more banks over 100 years of age than any other country—we have more banks over 50 years of age than any country in the world," he declared. "The American banking system has not fallen down—it is not in danger of decay. Such failures as it has experienced are due to the price we pay for too rapid development of business enterprises, but that is the American spirit."

DESCRIBES FARM ADJUSTMENT PLAN

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that export of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell. "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support

"The plan offers wheat price insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States.' This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial."

"Voice of Firestone" Back on Air.

The outstanding baritone and the foremost tenor of today, Lawrence Tibbett and Richard Crooks, return to the air December 4th for their weekly winter "Voice of Firestone" series. As the leading artists of the Metropolitan Opera, the radio and the concert stage, they bring to radio listeners the finest entertainment the world has to offer. Richard Crooks will appear on the first program and the two stars will alternate each Monday night thereafter.

Of unusual interest is the return to the program of Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., vice-president and son of the founder and active head of the company. In response to numerous requests he will again give a series of short, dramatic and educational talks similar to those which created such favorable comment two years ago.

William Merrigan Daly, the famous young conductor of American music, will conduct the Firestone Orchestra, and Alois Havrilla will announce the program.

The broadcast is at 8:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, and a rebroadcast of the entire program for the Pacific Coast at 8:30 p.m. Pacific Coast Time. The complete Coast to Coast NBC-WEAF hookup and all supplementary NBC stations will carry the program.

NEW DEXTER THEATRE OPENS IN MONTGOMERY NEXT SUNDAY

Theatre fans in Montgomery and nearby towns and cities, will read with interest of the opening next Sunday of the Dexter Theatre on famous Dexter Avenue, Montgomery. This is a brand new play house erected on the old site of Porteus and Pollan. The promoters are Royal Amusements, Inc., headed by Mr. Ike Katz, who together with the others interested in the company, are all native Montgomery people.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner will be seen a space advertisement of the new theatre, announcing the program for the opening day. Turn to the adv. and read it, and when you are in Montgomery drop around and amuse yourself for a while.

The Royal Amusements are also operators of the Tivoli, which has been running solid time for the past five years. They will continue to run this show at the same location on Commerce Street.

SHERIFF SAYS PLEASE SIGN NAME TO INFORMATION LETTER

Sheriff W. H. Gillespie asks The Union-Banner to again remind the public that, in order for him and his deputies to give the best service, all information written in to them should bear the name of the sender. Mr. Gillespie and his deputies are anxious to lend all the aid possible in seeking that all law violations are looked after, and the people can greatly aid them by complying with the above request.

Banks Make Best Record in R. F. C. Loans Repayments.

Among the loans of $2,819,000,000 made by the Federal Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the highest percentage of repayments, official reports show, has been made by the banks, indicating the return of stability as the chief unsettling element of public fear has been lifted from them.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized cash advances, fully secured by sound collateral, to 6,278 banks since it began operations in February, 1932, and made actual disbursements to them in the amount of $1,221,378,000. Of this amount, however, $545,073,000, or over 44 per cent, has been repaid by the banks. All other classes of borrowers combined have repaid about 16 per cent of their loans.

WALNUT CREEK

The attendance in our Sunday School was somewhat small last Sunday on account of rain. Our C. E. program was just fine Sunday night. At the close of our program, Rev. C. M. Nolan made a short talk which was very interesting, after which he called on Brother J. W. Hightower to preach. His text was found in the second chapter of Hebrews, "What is Man?"

Rev. C. M. Nolan will be our preacher for the next year. He is coming to us from Clark County, Thomasville, Ala. Our regular preaching day is next Saturday and Sunday. Sunday school will be at 10 o'clock, preaching at 11. We cordially invite everyone to attend. Our C. E. will meet at 6:30 Sunday night. In concluding our program Mr. Cleveland Driver will bring us a very interesting talk.

We are going to have a working at the cemetery Friday, December 8th. Everybody is invited to come and bring your tools. Be sure to come.—Secretary.

SECOND SHIPMENT OF PORK HERE

Chilton County's second allotment of pork has arrived and will be distributed to people on relief rolls and C. W. A. projects.

Distribution will begin Thursday at the Red Cross warehouse in Clanton. All relief workers and C. W. A. workers are urged to call in Clanton for the meat at once.—Kitty Clyde Austin.

Prepared to Save Lives

One of the most valuable services given to the American public by the Red Cross is through its Life Saving and First Aid courses. Virtually all of the life guards at beaches and pools in the nation are Red Cross life savers. Nearly every industry in America supports the First Aid work of the Red Cross because it annually saves lives of thousands of injured persons. These courses are taught by Red Cross experts in both lines. Last year 66,354 certificates were issued to persons completing the First Aid course and 78,795 certificates for completing Life Saving instruction.

RENFROE MULLINS BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. Renfroe Mullins entertained a group of intimate friends Tuesday night at a dinner in celebration of Mr. Mullins's birthday. Following were the guests who enjoyed this delightful occasion at the Mullins home:

Dr. J. P. Hayes, Dr. N. S. Johnson, Dr. P. T. Hinkle, Dr. E. E. Upchurch, M. L. White, C. E. Stapp, Bill and Frank Mullins, of Mobile, John Durwood and Edwin Mullins, J. Mell Martin, and Dewey Rockett.

Regret was expressed at the inability of Mr. H. T. Pipes to attend, on account of illness. Mr. Pipes and Renfroe Mullins have the same birthday, and it has been their policy to entertain their friends together for many years.

Mrs. Hugh Jones is visiting relatives and friends in Birmingham this week.

Daughter—Mamma, did you ever flirt when you were young?

Mamma—I'm afraid I did, dear.

Daughter—And was you ever punished for it?

Mamma—Yes, dear, I married your father.

"Aunt Sue, if you had your life to live over again, what would you do?

"I'd ge tmarried before I had sense enough to decide to stay an old maid."

"So you think you have a forgiving nature?"

"Yes, I must have. I go back to the same dentist."

Little Peggy—Mother, was that policeman ever a baby?

Mother—Yes, dear.

Peggy—That's funny; I don't believe I ever saw a baby policeman.

William Shakespeare was right when he said, "'Tis the mind that makes the body rich." For knowing how to do a thing is a step toward doing it. One's bargaining powers are higher when he is the possessor and user of a well trained and broad mind. That is why we have our schools with their efficient corps of teachers. This is an age of specialization and brain work. The world is calling for those who have rich minds; those who can think, those who are dreamers and doers. The brain controls the actions, the feelings, the spiritual attitude, moral attitude and the life as a whole of an individual. And the policies and thoughts of the world are shaped from those of individuals. Make use of the wonderful and seemingly unappreciated opportunity that you, the youth of the 20th century, enjoy. The future of our country rests upon our shoulders. When our time comes let's not destroy what our forefathers have so patiently built up, but let's be able to make leaders that will make progressive history for United States and the world.

The students enjoyed the talk of Dr. Van Kirk last Monday. He displayed the flag designed by himself to be used as the flag of World when all the countries are at peace. We appreciated the fact that we could listen to a well known and distinguished man as Mr. Van Kirk.

Only eleven more schools days until Christmas holidays. We will leave the dear old school Friday, December 22, and will not return until January 1, 1934. And on January 11, 12, and 13 our mid-term examinations will be held and one semester of school days will fade back of us. Let's don't forget these important dates in January. Hope they won't be the Waterloo for some.

Although his family has not decided whether they will move to Enterprise or not, John Ezell, Senior II class president, will continue to serve in that office as long as he is with us.

The writer is not speaking officially but makes boast to say that few high schools in the state have put away their football equipment in as excellent condition as we have. Although football season has been over only a few days the uniforms have been cleaned and stored in moth proof bags for use next year.

The Jr. II class which is studying occupation has put some of their efforts to a valuable and practical use. They have found all the back numbers of the magazines coming to our library in strong and durable backs. Any one wishing to refer to a magazine a year or so in the past has only to go to the office where he will find a neat and systematic file of the magazines.

The clerical work regarding the warding of letters to our football players is under way and the writer will be able to publish the players to be so honored next week.

Miss Clyde Smilie, instructor in the math and history department, is a native Alabamian, born at Fitzpatrick. She was educated in the public school of her home vicinity and attended the University of Alabama and Alabama College. She graduated from the University in 1928 with her B. S. Degree in education. Besides these courses of study, Miss Smilie has done graduate study at the University of North Carolina and the University of Alabama. She has had several years of experience as a teacher, having taught in high schools of Wetumpka, Opelika, and Moulton and also three years in the high school at St. Cloud, Florida. This is Miss Smilie's first year at Chilton County high school and along with our other new teachers, we are fortunate in having her. She has found a place in the hearts of all the students who will always respect her intelligence and interest in her work. We feel sure that her last place of teaching lost a valuable personality and we have without doubt gained one.

Coach Searcy has been busy since the close of football season looking for material for basketball and gathering the reins together so as to put out a winning team this year.

All the members of the Senior III class will be the guests of the Kiwanis club tonight at their weekly meeting. This will be held at the high school. The purpose of the club to have these young men as their guests is to bring before them the importance and value of vocational guidance as the proper course for life's activities. Three out of town speakers will address the meeting on vocational training and guidance. The Senior class considers this a rare privilege.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

It has been m privilege for the last few days to attend the National Convention of Young People's Fellowship Clubs. This convention was held in the Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tenn. There were approximately five hundred young people in the convention. They came from all sections of the United States. These young people are normal, healthy, bright, and snappy. They represent about three hundred local clubs. Every member of the organization has signed a pledge to read his Bible daily, to pray alone in secret at least twice a day, to attend religious services regularly, especially prayer meeting, and to try to win others to Jesus Christ.

The motto of the Young People's Fellowship Club is "Have a Good time in a Christian Way." This is a good motto. The only way to have a good time is to have it in a Christmas way. I have been in the ministery since I was a boy fifteen years of age and I have preached to multiplied thousands of people. The only happy people I have ever seen are Christian people. The better Christians they are, the happier they are.

The National Convention went on record concerning several very interesting issues. First, they said that they know young people and that young people are tired of the jazz spirit of the modern world and that they want the old time religion. Second, they said that the young people are in rebellion against the modernistic messages of some ministers in supposedly orthodox churches and against the rationalistic, behavioristic tendencies of some of our educational institutions. Third, they said that they will not any more give their money to support a minister who does not stand for, or a program which does not stand for the orthodox, evangelical position.

The question arises, What responsibility do I have about the contribution of money to a cause which, from a religious standpoint, is not sound? We read in the second Epistle of John that we are not to receive into our homes or bid God speed to any man who brings another message except the gospel of Christ. This epistle is explicit. If we entertain a modernistic minister in our home or support him with our money, we are a party, so John says, to the program of that minister.

The following directed from one to three songs each: Morris Cleckler, Martele Blankenship, Harry Parker, Floyd Little, Lula Cleckler, Leonard Burnett, Archie Glasscock, Ruth Cox, Elijah Glasscock, Willie B. Jones, Willodene Smith Mary Frances Bruce, W. L. Sanders, Mrs. L. F. Cleckler, Lillie Mae Weldon and L. F. Cleckler. Organists were Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cleckler, Lillie Mae Weldon, Mrs. James Gillespie.

It rained us out for our Sunday school and preaching, but we will have preaching next Sunday by Rev. T. J. Daniel. So come and be with us.—V. G. Smith.

We had preaching here at this place Saturday night and Sunday at 11 o'clock, and Sunday night, by our pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery. They were wonderful sermons.

B. Y. P. U., we must wake up. We want to urge every members to come to B. Y. P. U. and get here on time. We have not reached far enough to be A-1 union this year, but we will not give up. Now, members, wake up and pull for your union. We see other unions having great success and we want to do more than that. So let's all be here here Sunday night on time and with a good percentage.

The monthly singing at Oak Grove was a splendid success Sunday afternoon. We extend thanks to those came and did blend their voices in the "good old songs." Let's help to sing our way to righteousness.

The Enon Senior and Intermediate B. Y. P. U. gave the Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. a very inspirational program Sunday night, December 3rd. They were well represented by a large delegation from their church as well. The introduction was given by Charles Nix, president of the Oak Grove union. After a congregational song and prayer the visiting union took charge.

Miss Lena McGauby gave the devotional. She gave a wonderful address on prayer. The program was given to Mr. Lucas, who served as group captain. His program consisted of three intermediates and a number of seniors.

The Bible quiz leader conducted a contest between the two groups. The first part consisted of two members of each group who named the Books of the Bible. The second part consisted of "Searching the Scriptures," better known as the "Sword Drill." During the program a duet was rendered and the selection "Living for Jesus," was given by two members of Enon's union.

The program was very logical and harmonious in every respect. We congratulate them for their extension work and we believe their match would be hard to find. Our prayers are for Enon and "May their light keep shining before men and glorifying our Father which is in heaven."

After the program Rev. W. P. Lowery, our pastor, delivered his regular sermon which was heard by a full house. We need every person's prayer to continue our success. Even though success isn't mentioned but once in God's word, our B. Y. P. U.'s at Oak Grove have found it and are fulfilling what the word implies. Everyone come and worship with us each Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. We are appealing for visitors support. Why not pay us a visit?

The Collins Chapel B. Y. P. U., near Thorsby, under the wise leadership of Mrs. Antionette Smith, will present our B. Y. P. U. at Oak Grove with a program Sunday evening at 6:30. We are very glad indeed, to have them come and render us a program. We know that we will be greatly benefited by it.

Rev. W. P. Lowery, our pastor, was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay Sunday.

Mrs. D. S. Northcutt and daughter, Loyce, of Birmingham, spent the week end with Mrs. Northcutt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

The Thanksgiving holidays were well spent around Oak Grove. Among the visitors to other places were Miss Virginia Glass visited relatives in Birmingham; Miss Rosalie Martin visited relatives in Wylam; and Charles Nix visited relatives and friends in Longview, Alabama.

Don't forget preaching at Center Hill Sunday, December 10th. Let's go and help them, for they have certainly helped us.

The Oak Grove Dramatic Club will present "Yimmie Yonson's Yob." A three act play, Saturday night, December 16th. A full two and one-half hours of fun will be guaranteed to all who come. The curtain will rise at 7:30 o'clock. A small admission fee will be charged.

His regular appointment is every second Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We invite every body to come and be with us. —Alice Cleckler.

We did not have Sunday School at this place Sunday on account of the weather, although we had a good B. Y. P. U. service Sunday night. So let's all try to be at Sunday School next Sunday on time with a well studied lesson.

Just a word in regard to our Thanksgiving program. Mr. Durbin, with his school children, rendered a fine program which was very interesting to all. About 11:30 o'clock Mr. Durbin delivered a wonderful message from the stand which was enjoyed by all. If we will take this sermon to heart, it will be good for us. At noon a bountiful dinner was spread and in the afternoon we had prayer services and an old time spelling match. The day was greatly enjoyed by all.

Chilton Restaurant Open Next Saturday

Clanton is to have a brand new restaurant. And it promises to be up to the minute too. The name will be the Chilton Restaurant, and it will be located in the Hayes Building where Miss Watts used to have her hat shoppe, just north of E. L. Klinner Furniture Company.

The operators are Messrs. Marion F. Jones, Wayne O. Graves and J. D. Bond, all three of Dothan. These men have from 10 to 20 years experience in the restaurant business, and are all young hustling men. They say they have come to Clanton to make good, and they are going at it with that only in view. All of these gentlemen are married and have already moved their families here. Messrs. Bond and Graves live in the little house belonging to Mrs. Elbert Littlejohn on Maplesville highway. Mr. Jones lives in one of Joe Higgins's houses.

The Chilton Restaurant will have its big opening day next Saturday and from 10 o'clock until 2 in the afternoon, they will serve Mexican Chili free to all who call at their place.

In speaking of the new business Mr. Bond said: "We propose to run a restaurant where people can come and eat and feel at home. Our prices are going to be reasonable. We want the people of Chilton County to feel at home when they come here to eat. We expect to have fresh sea food at all times."

PLANTERSVILLE TO STAGE A BIG SALE ON DECEMBER 9TH

Colonel Bob Little, the famous auctioneer, announces a big cattle and hog sale to be at Plantersville on December 9th at 10:00 a.m. He says that 100 head of cattle, beef and milch cows, hogs, and 200 fat turkeys will be auctioned off. There will also be mules, wagons, double and single, and several nice saddle horses.

Dr. Pickering and Dr. Martin are the promoters, and they have engaged Mr. Frank Perry as sales director. Col. Bob Little has been engaged as actioneer which means that everybody will be able to hear the bids distinctly.

Mr. Little says, "Here is your chance to get your Christmas turkey. Everybody come. If you don't want to buy, you will be welcome just the same. There will be barbecued turkey, pork and beef for that hungry feeling."

Mr. L. A. Calloway continues very ill at his home in Clanton. Mr. Calloway has not been able to be out for several weeks.

Miss Bessie Gilmore of Mt. Creek was the week end guest of Miss Alma Allen.

Thorsby Institute News

On Friday morning Codie Bell, a T. I. graduate of the class of 1924 spoke at chapel. He received his masters degree in June 1932 from the University of Michigan and now holds an important position in Chicago with the Benefit Association of Railway Employees. In his talk he stressed the importance of doing everything well, no matter how small, and not being contented to stay in a rut, but to study and persevere. He also brought out the thought that honest work, whatever it may be, is wholesome and does not degrade one.

This week, Thursday and Friday, are the second term's tests. A week from Saturday night is the time for the Christmas program of the literary society. This will include a play, "The Christmas Carol," from the story by Charles Dickens, and music especially adapted to the play will be sung by the glee club between the acts of the play. Carols will be sung off the stage by four boys. Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

The dormitory students and teachers had a delicious Thanksgiving dinner. An interesting guessing game was played between the courses. After dinner speeches were made by the students. Miss Phillips presided and called on the various speakers. Mr. and Mrs. Maddox, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Norton were invited guests.

We wish very much to thank the following for recent gifts for the dining hall: Mrs. Villadsen for pecans, Mrs. M. Peterson for beef, Mrs. N. Laurel for canned fruit, and Mrs. Powers for canned tomatoes and dried apples. These contributions are a real help to the school and save it money.

Rev. J. W. Van Kirk of Youngstown, Ohio spoke at Chapel Tuesday morning on World Peace, and showed the World Federation Flag, which he originated. His address was very interesting and instructive.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The resignation of Prof. O. M. W. Sprague from the Treasury department at Washington recently, with the warning issued by him that the nation is in danger of drifting into "unrestrained inflation" and a complete breakdown of the credit of the government if the present monetary policy is persisted in, may be taken as an indication that the battle between the inflationists and the anti-inflationists is now on in dead earnest. It may be finished in the coming session of Congress which promises to be one of the most interesting which the country has had in a generation. The resignation of Sprague comes as no surprise, as it had been generally known in Washington for some time that he was out of sympathy with the administration's so-called gold policy. The most signaficant feature of the resignation was that it proves the determination of the anti-inflationists to wage a battle to win public support, and to do it in no uncertain terms.

Professor Sprague is an economist of world wide reputation. He was formerly an advisor to the Bank of England, and resigned that post to come back to America to assist in the formulation of President Roosevelt's financial policy. When he found himself in disagreement with that policy there was nothing left for him to do but to resign. The resignation brings into the limelight the division which, according to rumor, has been present in the Treasury for some time, a division which led some time ago to the resignation of Dean Acheson as Undersecretary of the Treasury, and to place in that position Henry Morganthau, who is virtually Secretary of the Treasury during the enforced absence of Secretary Woodin due to illness.

One of the most surprising parts of Professor Sprague's statement is the one to the effect that since his return to London following the world economic conference there, he has had no opportunity to discuss policies with the president. This is especially surprising in view of the fact that Professor Sprague was supposedly brought into the picture to be one of the advisers of the president. This leads to the belief that perhaps all of the story has not yet "come out." It will be remembered that during the London conference Professor Sprague was one of the American experts who stood staunchly for some sort of international stabilization. The stabilization plan was vetoed by president Roosevelt who did not believe that it was at that time a good thing for American recovery, as the recovery program had been mapped out by the administration. It is barely possible that a rift developed at that time between Professor Sprague and the other advisers of the president with the result that the former was from that time on, more or less out of the picture.

The statement of Professor Sprague to the effect that the country is confronted with uncontrollable inflation and all its evils unless the monetary policy of the administration is changed, sounds the battle cry for the anti-inflationists and we will doubtless hear more from them in the future. Many of the economists supporting the administration plan have come forth with a denial of Professor Sprague's charges, and say that the plan being followed by the president is the only one which can prevent the very uncontrolled inflation which Professor Sprague fears, and they infer that unless the present plan works Congress will force drastic inflation on the country. Just what the outcome of the controversy will be remains for the future to tell.

Mr. Morganthau, in commenting on Professor Sprague's resignation, stated: "I think the sun will rise tomorrow and the birds will sing," thus intimating that the Professor's resignation would not be fatal to the country. It would seem to one on the outside that this is beside the point. What the public wants to be assured is where we are going, and just how much sound logic there is in Professor Sprague's statement. That is what matters. It will be remembered that the sun rose every morning over Berlin and the birds sang in the Black Forest regularly, when Germany was being ruined by a tidal wave of inflation which taught the people of the Reich one thing—that they would go through any other suffering rather than try it again.

During the depression bankers were blamed for being too liberal in their lending policies. Now, when the first drum beats of recovery can be heard some distance off, the belief seems once more in the ascendancy that prosperity can be brought back immedately if only bankers would throw caution to the wind.

Some Good Advice

There was a great deal of hard, common sense, in a lecture delivered before the University Club at Washington, D. C., recently by Lothrop Stoddard, noted author and lecturer, who advised, among other things, that America isolate herself from Europe politically if we want to avoid the next war which, Mr. Stoddard believes, will break out within the next five years. The League of Nations and Versailles treaty have failed, Mr. Stoddard declared, and he added: "Never has the world been so blatantly nationalistic as since Versailles. So let us keep out of this mess brewing in Europe."

The author said that if we advance goods to Soviet Russia on long time credit we will never get paid for them and he characterized the oriental policy promulgated under Secretary Stimson as "extraordinarily indefensible" and one calculated to draw us into war. Mr. Stoddard stated that in his opinion what America needs most in her international policy is to see things as they actually are, without distorting the view through international idealism. Such idealism, he added, is blind, and fails to take into consideration such actualities as the fact that "International law does not exist in that sense. There is an international comity but a powerful law does not exist."

Mr. Stoddard's observations will certainly bear repeating. The trouble with most of our internationalists, especially those who do not have a predatory motive for their internationalism, is that they permit their idealism to blind them to the real political facts. They assume that nearly everyone, the world over, thinks and believes as they do, and all that is necessary for international amity is to "pass a law outlawing war." But as Mr. Stoddard states, there is no international law, comparable to the law of a nation. And if there were, it could not be enforced without bringing about the very state of war which it sought to avoid. In the enforcement of a national law, there is generally a fairly unanimous sentiment behind the law. But in international complications there is no universal sentiment. Nations think and act in accordance with what they believe to be their best national interests. Only the international professors think internationally. It is too bad it isn't otherwise, but it cannot be otherwise. Merely putting our own heads in the clouds will not lift the rest of humanity to the same exalted position. We must face facts as they are not as we would like them to be.

Constitution vs. Socialism

America's troubles can be traced to the gradual drift away from the Constitution of the United States toward socialist theories which have, in the past, been tested and found wanting, according to Walter L. Reynolds, secretary to Congressman Hamilton Fish, who writes in an interesting and logical way in the current issue of National Republic under the caption "The Constitution versus Socialism." In part, Mr. Reynolds says:

"The Constitution of the United States, which has stood for 140 years as a world symbol of freedom, an inviolate document of highest human attainment in government, toward which all oppressed peoples of the earth have set their faces as a goal, is facing today a virtual revolution; its fundamentals are being undermined in every conceivable manner and all its stands for minimized as being no longer worthy of a modern government. Our democracy is being attacked as a thing obsolete and crumbling, and efforts are being made in many ways to scrap the Constitution and to socialize our institutions. This revolutionary movement is sponsored by socialists, and radicals of all hues from red to parlor-pink, and by others who call themselves 'intellectuals' 'economists' or some other misnomer, each claiming to be the Messiah whose individual task is to lead us to the millennium. Their doctrines, based on theory, are nothing more or less than purely old forms of socialism which have been tested and found wanting. These Constitution wreckers are being ably supported by certain of the press and radio, and even with the consent and cooperation of certain members of Congress.

"By far the greater percentage of the newswriters applaud any onslaughts on the Constitution, lauding those who lead the attacks, and carefully avoiding any mention of the criticisms that might be made of their activities, whether they be connected with the administration or with any of the many organizations that have grown up to take part in this conspiracy against our democratic form of government. The people themselves, therefore, are not being properly informed of all that is going on, and are not being consulted or given any opportunity to pass on these proposals to change the Constitution or to nullify its provisions; they are told that they must leave it to the theorists that are at present weilding considerable influence to take any necessary steps during the 'national emergency'; that while these practices are in the nature of 'experiments' that we are to hope they will succeed, but to sit silently by while the axe is used. At the same time it is admitted that these experiments and tampering with the Constitution are to relieve what is admitted to be only a temporary condition for which the Constitution is in no way responsible, as the same conditions exist elsewhere, to even a greater degree than in our own country, in every nation of the world no matter what the form of government, and this chaos has been brought about as a result of the past few years trend toward socialism in this and other governments, in which the governments have taken away individual initiative and interferred with the free practice of industry and agriculture and all private initiative.

"The American people have held the Constitution inviolate for generations, during which we have enjoyed prosperity and happiness not equalled by any other nation during a like period in the history of the world. It successfully withstood all attacks made upon it until 1918, when fanatical 'reformers' conceived the idea that if in some way they could have the people look upon their pet theories, even if they had to be camouflaged, their efforts to foist them upon the American people would be a success. These betrayals of the people were accomplished by camouflaging real purposes with patriotism, making an appeal to those at home on the ground that in the enactment of such schemes they were aiding those in the trenches and helping to win the war, and defects that have weakened the whole structure to the extent of making it vulnerable to attacks and abuses, an opportunity that its enemies have been quick to grasp were set into action."

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Comin' Thru With the Rye

All right, boys and girls, all youse guys and gals who like your little teeny weeny snort every once in a while, your time is soon to come. In fact "it's just around the corner." Now, don't be discouraged by that "just around the corner" stuff, because this is the straight goods. And by straight goods I means just that—straight goods. I notice where the U. S. Government is scheduled to buy four million gallons of hard liquor during the first two months after the 18th Amendment is smothered. That ought to be enough for lots of the folks to get a swallow of hte "straight goods". And, in case there isn't enough, I notice where forty thousand cases of "good old Scotch" has just been shipped from Glasgow, Scotland. And, speaking of "straight goods," that ought to be straight enough — Scotch straight from Scotland. In addition to this, and other shipments that are sure to be made in the future, there is also the ever-present "mountain dew", "moonshine," "sweet spirits of cats-a-fightin'", "shinny," or whatever you choose to call the domestic blend of buckeye balls, washing powder, meal brand, snake hides, and other ingredients of our home-made product. On the other hand, just in case you might be interested in what may be the result of all this, just hang an ear onto the following: Reports from everywhere, in our own town, in nearby larger cities, from cities and towns, large and small, all over the nation, go to show that since the death knell of the prohibition law, public drunkenness has increased several times over. Recent reports also show a decided increase in automobile accidents. There has been a corresponding increase in crime in all other branches. If such is the fact BEFORE open liquor, what may we expect when it is open to all who have the price?

Who Is A Tory?

During the days when the fathers of this country were striving to put the new country on its feet, there were a few people who still hung to the idea that it would be best if America stayed under the protection of the British crown. These were dubbed "tories," for their trouble. It may be that the name was fitting for them, inasmuch as they favored adherence to a crown. Of late, however, President Roosevelt has seen fit to call all who do not agree with his ideas "tories." Doubtless, the president desired to plant a stigma of some kind on his criticizers in so naming them; no doubt he would like to call them stronger names, if those names could get into print. It does seem a bit unfair, though, that the president has accepted the cooperation of these critics in the past, and then, when they had different ideas from his own on certain questions, then he turn bitterly against them and hurl epithets and names at them just because they dared think for themselves, and then dared further to let their own ideas be known. In so doing, the president has taken the position that "the king can do no wrong," and that his ideas and those of his helpers are infallible, and that, right or wrong, his ideas and methods should be accepted and followed to the end, regardless of consequences. I believe that every man has the right to his own ideas, and, further that he has the right, as a free born American, to voice them. It is not mandatory that the president accept these ideas, when advanced. Neither is he within his rights to condemn any American for speaking what he conscientiously believes is true and right. Any person, no matter what his position in life, has a perfect right to speak his mind on any matter, without running the risk of being insulted for it, just because his ideas do not coincide with those of the men in power. Not long ago the president stated that he welcomed constructive criticism. Yet, when it is offered, he not only ignores what good it might contain, but goes further, taking advantage of his lofty position to toss insults to these critics. According to his manner of thinking, if you believe as he does, all well and good; but if you do not see things his way, and dare say so, then you are branded a fool, traitor, or a "story." And that goes, no matter what your politics.

Seen Santa Claus Yet?

I think no better example of the effect the preposterous system of inflated job-creating is making can be found than that which is reported to have happened in a Tennessee town a few days ago. A group of Negroes were loafing around a street corner, talking. None of them had jobs—nor were they in any rush to get one. Said one of them: "I know where we can get a good job, if we want it, makin' $2.00 a day. It's only about two miles to it, and the work is easy—rollin' cotton." Another replied: "You ain't said nuthin'. See that do' right over there. Dat's where dem guv-ment folks stay at. In a few minnits dey'll open dem do's. I'll tag around till dey git all de help dey needs. Den I'll ast for a job. Jes cause dey ain't got no mo' jobs, dey'll gib me a paper to de grocery fer some eats, watin' for de time to come fer me to work some. But dat time won't nebber come. I'll be a little late ebery time. And all dat time I'll be gittin' dem good eats. Naw! Go on to de cotton rollin' job ef ye want to, but dis boy am too smart fer sich work as dat. But while you is at work, see ef ye can't remember sump'n 'bout Santy Claus. I used to think that was all a joke, but it ain't. Jest you watch me an' I'll prove it. Git wise, boy, git wise!"

The Lid is Off

The lid of the old Republican party pot is pried off this week, with the announcement of my good friend J. Elly Daniel for the office of County Superintendent of Education. Elsewhere in The Union-Banner may be found a full list of Daniel's qualifications. Turn to them and read. In this article I'll just call him "Elly", for that's just what he is to me. We attended high school together, played football together, and worked out our hard problems together, and here I came to know Elly for the really fine personality that he is. He was a scrapper from the word "go", whether on the field or in the school room. He was a stalwart at center on the football line, and when he hit a man, that man knew he had been hit. He tackled all his problems the same way. I think Elly has carried some of that football fight on into his everyday life, for he has fought relentlessly to make a top-notcher of himself in the educational field. On and on he has forged, always with the idea in mind to some day place himself at the head of the list in qualifications for just such an office as he is asking for now. Elly was always a sober, thorough young man, weighing his words and deeds carefully before speaking or acting. And, usually, when Elly had spoken, you could bank on his words. He's that kind. I don't know who else may come forth for this position, and care not; with all his special training along the line of school supervision, I believe the Republicans of Chilton County will do well to look well into Mr. Daniel's qualifications. If the people want a wide-awake, capable, experienced man and one especially trained for school supervision as County Superintendent of Education, I do not believe a better man can be found for the job than J. Elly Daniel.

Dewey Rockett Is Rich

A few weeks ago Dewey Rockett made a trip to New York, and while there visiting the different halls and museums, he discovered that he was a very rich young man and had been for some time, but didn't know it. He found that, in the Isle of Yap, a flat stone, 30 inches across with a hole in the center, is worth 10,000 cocoanuts, or one-fourth acre of land, or a canoe, or a wife. These stones are used for money on Yap Island, and the hole is in the center so that they may be carried on a pole. Any of the above articles may be bought with one stone. Now, Dewey has some land around here some where in these diggings which he says is wrapped up in flat rocks. He says, too, that all he has to do not is to find some way to get these rocks to Yap, and he'll be rich. He can start a fruit line, buy the whole island, buy himself a navy, or start a harem. I don't think he is seriously considering any of the projects, but he says it makes a guy feel swell to know that he is rich, even if he can't cash in on his good luck.—Man in the Moon.

Let the Leader Say Where He is Leading

The nation, it has now become obvious, cannot much longer endure such uncertainty as to where its leader is leading, as the country has been forced to accept during the past three weeks and three days. As to the dollar's gold value, all we have to go on now is a twenty-four hour forecast which is renewed and changed each day about as the meterological bureau forecasts the ensuing night's weather. Every morning two professors—Warren, of Cornell, and Rogers, of Yale, whose powers of judgment are by no means approved by a majority of the nation's economists—chalk up on a blackboard what they say should be the gold price for the dollar. These light fingered daily bulletins have thus far had not one particle of effect on the London price for gold. On the contrary, the shilling cost of an ounce of gold in the London market has fallen, not risen, since the professors announced that they would bid the price up. The only thing that has happened is that Americans must pay more for gold, because sterling exchange for the dollar has been driven up higher and higher.

This week sterling exchange has moved upwards so wildly that no one can doubt that a flight of American capital has begun, seeking refuge from the dollar, which threatens to reach vast proportions, and which is imperilling the bond market at home. But this, apparently, does not much perturb the two professors. They seem confident that all they have to do, if the rise of sterling grows too great, is to write on the blackboard some different figures and announce that fair weather has come again—for the next twenty-four hours. But how certain is it that, when they change their tune, they will be believed? Their own associates in the economic faculties of our colleges do not believe in them, and it may well be that when it comes to a question of broad public confidence the showdown will likewise be against them.

Only the nation's chosen leader, the president, can forefend such risk and establish new confidence by a clear, definite statement of the purposes of his leadership.—From an editorial in the Boston Transcript.

Mr. Hayes on Inflation

The more we hear from National Commander Edward A. Hayes, of the American Legion, the better we like him. In an addess at New York the other night, Commander Hayes reiterated the fact that the American Legion wants a sound American dollar and he issued a timely warning against the dangers of inflation. In explaining the ideas of the Legion on the subject, Mr. Hayes said:

"We want to know that the fellows who were maimed in the war, and from whom a great deal already has been taken in the way of benefits, will be receiving a dollar that is worth a dollar and not 30 or 50 cents for that dollar.

Those who urge inflation seem obsessed with the idea that it is the only thing which will save the farmer, and by giving him higher prices. But they do not stop to think that as farm prices go up so will the price of the things which the farmer has to buy. And they fail to take into consideration what will happen to the wage worker whose wages will rise more slowly than the cost of living. They do not consider also as to what will become of the family living on a fixed salary or a fixed income, of the fellow who has his few savings in the bank for a rainy day, and of the millions of American who own life insurance policies, and those who are in later life, no longer able to do active work, are now trying to exist on an annuity of some sort which they earned by sacrifice and frugality in the days of prosperity when some of the folks who now demand inflation were wasting their incomes in riotous living or in the attempt to get rich through speculation.

Sam Pate May Run

With the approval of another political campaign in which the people of Chilton County will pick the men to run their public business for a time, quite a few desiring, and we may also add deserving, prospective candidates appear to be warming up to the possibilities.

Among the prospects we note Sam Pate, who admits that he is "feeling out" the situation with a view of getting into the race for Tax Assessor. Mr. Pate held this office for about ten years, and he was a most highly efficient and capable officer in every way.

Mr. Pate is a Republican, and will run in the Republican primary, if he runs at all.

We do not attempt here to say who will or who should be nominated for Tax Assessor by the Republicans. We hold the same attitude toward all the officers to be nominated.

One thing is undeniable, however. Mr. Pate is a man who can make the right kind of an official. If he should get in and be nominated by the Republicans, he would deserve the support of the party and ultimate election in November.

But there are other Republican about whom the same can be said. Let the boys get in and run if they want to. Then let the Republicans say who they want in the primary.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

From Thursday this week to Thursday next week is Stokely Food week at the ten Taylor grocery stores throughout this section of Alabama. Clanton Cash Store, Peoples Cash Store and Thorsby Cash Store are featuring this sale in this immediate territory. Mr. R. B. Clark, of the Stokely sales organization was here last Tuesday night at a meeting of all the Taylor store executives and salesmen, outlining full details of the special Stokely Sale Week.

The question of a County Agent for Chilton County remains unsettled yet, and a great many people are anxious about the matter. The Commissioners Court still has the proposition under consideration. Hugh Sexton, a young graduate of Auburn, was here this week as a possible successor of C. E. Stapp. He lives at Hamilton, Marion County, and is highly recommended by Emmett Sizemore, district director of County Agency Work.

Two prominent and popular local men have come into the limelight as possible successors of C. E. Stapp as county agent. They are Earle Thomas, of Isabella, and J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison. Both of them have been in Chilton County for some years engaged in vocational agriculture teaching. No doubt a majority of our people would prefer one of them for the job in preference to an entirely new man. The commissioners will consider this matter at a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

A delegation of local Legionnaires and members of the Legion Auxiliary attended the midwinter conference of the Legion and Auxiliary in Montgomery last Sunday. It was a most inspiring event, at which many of the objectives of the organizations were outlined for the coming year. The big question before the Legion is Alabama's public school problem. All the power and influence of the organization is being directed toward an effort to help keep the public schools open for a full term.

Uncle Bill Mullins continues ill at his home in Clanton. It was thought Tuesday he was much better, but he took a turn for the worse Tuesday night. His sons, Bill and Frank, of Mobile, are here with him. Mrs. Mullins, wife of Uncle Bill, and Mrs. John Deramus, his daughter, are also ill at the Mullins home, but not seriously. The many friends of the Mullins family throughout the county hope they may soon be restored to good health.

The family and many friends of Mr. L. A. Calloway, are very deeply concerned about his serious illness. He has been confined to his home for several days now. His sons, Dr. Raymond Calloway, of Birmingham, and Dr. Lamar Calloway of Duke University, have been here with him for some days. J. E. Robinson of Havana, Fla., was here last week on account of Mr. Calloway's illness.

Our readers will notice this week that there are already two candidates out for nomination in the County Republican primary to be held next May. They are Elly Daniel, for County Superintendent of Education, and Grover Bice, of Thorsby, for Clerk of the Circuit Court. These are the first of what is expected to be a very large number of candidates to offer themselves upon the altar of sacrifice or service to the voters of Chilton County.

As will be seen by news articles in this week's paper, the program of civil works and re-employment in Chilton County is rapidly taking on larger proportions. More men are being added this week to complete the county's quota of re-employed. Based upon the total of 3,000 registered for work, and the extent of the projects outlined for work, it is hoped that our quota may be increased to take in many more men for work in the near future.

The retirement of Uncle Joe Hester as agent of the L. & N. Rairoad in Clanton has been announced this week. Uncle Joe did not want to give up his work, but his health forced him to it. He has been agent here so long he was recognized as a fixture in the business of the community, as well as one of our most honored and respected citizens. His friends hope that his retirement from active service and the rest it may bring him will be the means of restoring his former good health.

Park on the Coosa

In the month of June, 1540, a Spanish expedition, exploring the southeastern section of what was later to become the United States of America, camped on a tract of land lying between two creeks which emptied into a river about a mile apart. Here the leader of the expedition, one Hernando DeSoto, found a large Indian town, called Coosa, and met a great chieftain named Tuskaloosa. The river today bears the name of the old Indian town, Coosa, while the creeks are named Talladega and Tallasseehatchie.

Desoto and his men, on their way to the "Father of Waters," the mighty Mississippi, camped on the banks of the Coosa two months, and today this tract of land bears many evidences in the relics which have been dug up there of the scenes enacted nearly four centuries ago. St. Augustine, oldest city in the country, was not founded until 25 years after Desoto pitched his camp by the Coosa. Jamestown was not settled until 70 years later, and it was nearly a century before the Pilgrims landed.

So it can be seen that this tract of land, which is near what is now Childersburg, in Talladega County, is linked with one of the earliest pages in the history of this country. It is fitting, therefore, that an attempt should be made to have the land preserved as a reservation or park by the federal government. This is being done through the Tallasseehatchie Historical Society, which has recently been organized in Childresburg.

It is pointed out by Demps A. Oden, member of the society that the site, roughly about 1,000 acres, is readily accessible, one of the public roads between Childresburg and Talladega passing through it, while the Birmingham-Columbus Highway is but a half a mile away. The historical society has as its aim the protection of the area against vandalism and pilferage of relics and its taking over by the federal government as either a reservation or park.

Among the relics already uncovered are many of Indian origin, as well as those showing the Spanish influence. Chief of the latter is a halbred thought to have belonged to one of DeSoto's men. Its blade is indented as though struck by a heavy weapon. This sword, together with other relics has been loaned to the museum of the Birmingham Public Library, while the other relics are on display in the lobby of the postoffice at Childersburg.—Birmingham News.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

(Grace Hicks Ezell)

If George Washington were still alive, I am afraid he would be shocked at some children's manners. In his copy books he had the rules of etiquette. Among the foremost was to be polite. People will respect you more if you will attend to your own business and speak when you are spoken to. When in the presence of your elders, you should listen respectfully and only speak when your opinion is asked.

Enrolled in the school are now 372 children. This is the most to ever attend our school.

We owe a vote of thanks to the Men's Sunday School class of the Baptist church. They have contributed twenty dollars to give children lunches who are not able to buy them.

A teacher once requested her class to write a short story about the funniest thing they ever saw. Seeing a little boy finish in an unusually short time, she went to his desk to see what he had written. She saw these words, "It was too funny for words."

At Christmas Time

This poem was written by a little girl in the sixth grade:

At Christmas when the lights are out,
And Santa is roaming all about,
The children are dreaming of cakes and toys,
And real airplanes for little boys.
The girls are dreaming of dolls and their houses,
Of scarfs and skirts and cute little blouses.

The fathers and mothers are fast asleep,
Waiting for morning sunlight to peep,
When all at once they hear a shout,
The children are dancing all about,
With songs of cheer, love and rhyme.
All this happens at Christmas time.

MARY ETHEL EASTERLING.

Thanksgiving

The Pilgrim fathers offered Thanksgiving,
For their harvest and the joy of living.
With a feast they offered their thanks,
On those lone and distant banks.

Out under the trees the tall tables were spread,
And white men and red were bountifully fed,
With turkey and pumpkin and good things to eat,
After first giving thanks for such a treat.

Several from here attended preaching services at New Cedron Saturday night and Sunday.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Virgin of South Calera celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday, with a reunion of the family and friends. The following enjoyed the hospitality of the day and evening.

Mrs. Sara Riffe, of Aldrich, Mr. Virgin's oldest child; their two sons, Roy and Herbert and his wife of Birmingham; Mrs. Sara Crimm and five children; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wanninger and daughter, Billie Sue, Billie Sue being a great granddaughter. A picture was made of the four generations. Mrs. Mary Downey and daughter, Maude, of Birmingham; Mr. R. R. Busby, of Calera and Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Mann and children of Birmingham. In the evening the 75-year-old grandfather entertained the grand children by doing the light fantastic of 50 years ago.

Although the day was enjoyed, our pleasure was somewhat marred by the absence of their daughter, of Greenville, Miss., Mrs. Lydia Stockdale, who could not attend on account of illness in her family.

The couple's early life was spent in Kentucky, from where they received presents, letters, and telegrams of congratulations from friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgin have been residents of Chilton County for about 25 years. Mrs. Virgin was a teacher in the country schools for the greater part of 20 years.

We all wish them many returns of the day.

We learn that R. N. (Bob) Connell of Refuge community has moved to Sycamore, Ala. We hate to hear of Bob leaving us, but our wishes go with him and his family for much prosperity in the future.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

Since the depression began we have hoped each month that the succeeding month would show an improvement in business that would indicate the end of the business stagnation. Our hopes have not been realized. In fact, sales of electricity dropped from 1,433,722,000 kilowatt hours in 1929 to 1,164,508,000 kilowatt-hours in 1932, a decrease of 269,214,000 kilowatt-hours or 18.8 per cent. This is in spite of an increase of power plant capacity resulting from the completion of projects under construction in 1929.

This continued falling off of business means that we are compelled to operate our plants and transmission systems far below normal capacity. This is more serious than the figures indicate. No matter how much our sales may fall during depression years we must maintain as always our power plants, transmission lines, substations, and distribution systems. Of course, when business and industry pick up, more electricity will be needed and we shall be ready. We expect to continue to construct power plants and lines reasonably in advance of actual requirements so that we can meet the needs of new customers and the increased requirements of old ones.

For the first four months of 1933 sales continued to decline, but for the months of May, June, July and August they have shown increases over the corresponding months of 1932. September, however, shows a sharp recession, and is slightly under the same month of 1932.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 7.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Everybody is back in school after a brief sojourn for the Thanksgiving holidays. From the smiles and laughter it seems as everyone had a cheerful and pleasant time. We are all now settled back in our studies for the next three weeks, which will take us up to the glad Christmas season.

The Thanksgiving program was well presented by the elementary grades last Wednesday, to a large audience. Gee, what a crowd of folks for an afternoon program—cars, trucks, and wagons brought approximately two hundred. The school takes this opportunity to express their real appreciation to the many parents and friends who came and listened so attentively to the little folks as they rendered their respective parts in the drills, playlets, etc.

After the Christmas holidays the Jr. High pupils and faculty will present a real laughable comedy program, consisting of funny poems and songs, short comedy dialogues and monologues, and in fact, numerous things to make up a real evening's entertainment of fun, frolic and laughter. Just a clean and clear cut program of wholesome recreation. More announcements concerning it will be made later.

The pig belonging to the school is certainly growing. We expect to realize a neat little sum from him next spring.

Another basketball game was added to the laurels of the Vermont boys on last Tuesday night, November 28, when they trimmed the swift stepping quintet of Maplesville, which was composed of Jr. III and Sr. I boys. This game was played at Maplesville before a jammed audience. A large group of supporters boosting each team furnished plenty of racket, if that's what one is looking for. The referee really needed two oversize whistles. Both teams showed planty of swift action, but the Vermont boys hung up an 8 to 1 lead during the first half, and with bull dog tenacity, swung on throughout the remainder of the game. However the Maplesville boys threw a scare into our team the last quarter when they rung up two field goals and five foul goals, which left them only 1 point behind and three minutes to go. At this point the Vermont boys clinched the defense and held their opponents at bay. With twelve seconds to go, the Maplesville center committed a personal foul and Sansom, our center, dropped the ball through the net just as the final whistle blew, giving our team a 10 to 12 victory. This was the boys' third straight win against no defeats. Our girls team, playing their first match game of basketball, lost their game to the Maplesville girls by the score of 11 to 8.

On next Friday afternoon at 2:30 the Jr. High school team from Cooper will play our boys on our court. Come on, Vermont fans, and let's pep the boys up to their fourth straight win. We hope the regular members of our team will be able to play. We surely missed them at Maplesville last Tuesday night. But the substitute players filled their places fine.

The entire faculty spent the holidays at their respective homes. Mr. Johnson at Jemison, Miss Cagle at Mitchell Dam, Miss Grant at Cooper, and Miss Manning at Isabella. Each reports a highly pleasant period of rest and relaxation.

Mr. Tom Frank Teel, the towering young man who presented the "Red Headed Country Boy Act" when we staged our play a few days ago, has promised to bring to our school a real classy comedy program consisting of Jokes, gags, monologues, dialogues, crazy songs, buck dancing and all that stuff folks will go miles to hear and laugh at. You can wager your last coin that this program will be worth any effort you may put forth to see it. Tom Frank is a genuine good stage entertainer and if you enjoy laughing until it hurts, just save your nickels and see this program. It will be put on at our school at a date between now and Christmas. Watch the Vermont News for the date and then be there. A dollar's worth of laugh for a few pennies.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday, November 29. Sixty-eight were present. A number of distinguished visitors, which we were glad to welcome, were present also. Among them were Mr. L. M. Chaney, director of the educational publicity department of the Forbes Piano Co., Birmingham; Mr. Earle Thomas, vocational instructor of Isabella High School; and Miss Bertha Dennis, home economics teach-in the same school. After the matter of routine business was settled, Miss Cagle, president, appointed the following as a committee to locate and purchase a piano: Mr. George Sansom, Mr. Robert B. Johnson, and Mr. Homer Ratliff. This committee will go to Montevallo today to inspect and pass on one offered for sale. Should this one not be purchased, they will go to Birmingham and possibly Montgomery. They simply mean that they are going to purchase a good serviceable piano for our school and at a bargain too.

Report cards were passed out this week. Most of the boys and girls could point with pride at the marks they made the second month. A few we are sorry to say felt just a little bit reluctant in passing them on to mother and dad. Let's hope they are a little more attentive and diligent towards their studies this, the third month.

Mr. Johnson and Miss Grant drove over to Mt. Pleasant Jr. High last Wednesday night and enjoyed a nice large chicken supper. Quite a pleasant trip for him to make back to his old teaching grounds—meeting and talking with a score of his friends and former pupils.

A few of the parents have been a little bit thoughtless regarding the school desk fund. Please remember that this is a just and legitimate obligation against the school and we can't afford to repudiate it. We need your support and cooperation in the matter. Please send in your dues at an early date. State aid will not be forth-coming until we meet our part of the indebtedness.

Don't forget the ball game with the Cooper Junior High School next Friday at 2:30.

BARNEY PATTERSON DIED

Barney Patterson departed this life November 28, 1933. He was 17 years old. Barney was carried to the hospital November 26, and lived until Tuesday morning at 6:15.

The funeral was held at Poplar Springs at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon with Dr. Ezell conducting the services, and Martin in charge.

A great crowd gathered to pay their tribute of respect to Barney. This shows their love for him. We miss Barney. His place can never be filled by anyone else in the home or among his friends. To know him was to love him. We needed Barney but the Lord needed him worse. Weep not for him. The Lord does all things well. Just submit to His will and prepare to meet him in a better world.

Barney joined the Baptist church at Poplar Springs when he was twelve years old, where he was still a member when he died. Barney said he was ready to go.

He leaves to mourn his loss a mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson, Obie and Thurle Patterson and Mrs. Evelyn Mims and a host of relatives and friends.

The family wishes to thank the doctors and nurses at the hospital and also Mr. Martin for their kindness; also for the beautiful floral offering. —His aunt, Mrs. Louise Edwards.

LIBERTY HILL

Health in this community is very good at present.

Mrs. Dovard Mims is improving slowly. They will call her daughter Edna Fay.

Our hearts were made sad by the sudden death of Mr. John Turner Friday morning. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Limbrick at Liberty Hill Sunday afternoon, with Martin in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lowery are residing with his parents for a while.

Mr. Buck Durbin has finished his nice new home.

Mr. Dolphus Jones has been doing some repairing on his house, which adds much to the appearance of our community.

Mrs. Alpheus Littlejohn and little daughter spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Lowery.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everybody is invited to come and be with us.

The next regular meeting of the W. M. S. will be held at the home of Mrs. E. P. Littlejohn.

The W. M. S. has purchased a new heater for the church.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Littlejohn and Mrs. G. L. Foshee visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kemp Sunday night for a while. Mr. Kemp has been quite sick.

FORESTRY CAMPS AID IN FIRE FIGHTING

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 5.—Landowners whose holdings are within reach of President Roosevelt's forestry camps in Alabama are being aided very materially in the protection of their lands by crews from these camps. While the suppression of fires is primarily the responsibility of the landowner and his employees and tenants, both federal and state governments have undertaken to give such assistance as is practicable.

In the parts of the state where there are regular state forestry agents the latter call upon the camps for men to help the landowners whenever a forest fire occurs. In addition, the camp superintendents have established systems of lookouts and patrol to detect fires before they have reached formidable proportions.

In some locations the camp crews have worked day and night for extended periods in cooperation with citizens and forestry agents. While most of the workers at the camps were at first unfamiliar with the standard methods of fire detection and suppression, the practices that have been their lot to date bids fair to develop the crews into bodies of highly efficient fire workers.

FAMILY REUNION SUNDAY

There was a family reunion last Sunday, December 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lumpkin, at Providence, Beat 16. The occasion was in honor of the 63rd birthday of Mrs. Lumpkin.

Those representing the immediate family were present as follows: Mrs. Charlotte Patterson, of Laurel, Miss; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Patterson, of Bessemer, and three children, Milton, Hubert, and Clarence; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ledbetter, of Montgomery, and four children, James, Curtis, Geraldine, and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Ledbetter; Mr. and Mrs. W. Patterson, of Clanton, and two children, Jewel and Revis; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ellison, of Clanton, and two children, Marvine and Dorothy; Miss Gertrude Jones, of Laurel, Miss.

Other friends present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Butler and son, Loyd, of Laurel, Miss.; Mr. L. R. Ellison and mother, of Wetumpka; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Plier, of Clanton; Miss Virginia Bowen, of Bessemer; Marshall Mims, of Clanton.

A bountiful dinner was served for all the guests, all of whom expressed themselves as having a most enjoyable visit together. Mrs. Lumpkin received lots of nice and useful gifts from members of her family and other friends. She says "I want my family and friends to know that I had the finest kind of a time with you all together last Sunday. I appreciate your remembrances more than words can tell, and I hope that all of us may live to have many more happy birthdays together."

THANKS FROM JONES FAMILY

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the sympathy extended us at the death and burial of our husband and father, Elijah M. Jones. We especially thank Dr. S. J. Ezell, the Clanton Quartette and J. Mell Martin and Sons. May the good Lord bless you all, is our prayer.—Mrs. Jessie Gray Jones and Children.

Rev. W. P. Reeves of Tuskegee remains in Central Alabama Hospital. He is steadily recovering from injuries sustained in the wreck of his automobile near Clanton some weeks ago.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Dec. 1.—First year women students at the University of Alabama have an average age of 18 years, a survey of 186 representative students showed. Most of these students came from families of three children. Their average allowance is $20 per month in addition to school expenses.

Economic problems now confronting the Orient are due to the fact that some of the eastern nations are just now adjusting themselves to some phases of the industrial revolution, Miss Wilmina Rowland, Student Volunteer representative, said in an address here recently. Miss Rowland has just returned from a three-year sojourn in China.

Nine applications for the Rhodes scholarship have been made by University students. The scholarship provides for four years of study in an English University with a stipond of 400 pounds annually.

Dr. Charles H. Barnwell, dean of the college of arts and sciences at the University, and Dr. Gladstone Yuell, head of the department of secondary education, are to represent this institution at the 38th annual session of the Southern Association of Colleges, to be held on December 7 and 8.

Omicrom Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, held its annual province convention here last week. Representatives from southern colleges where O. D. K. was represented were present.

The average college woman buys twenty pairs of stockings a year and spends $16.20 for them, a survey among women students at the University revealed recently.

University, Ala., Dec. 5.—The fundamental Christian virtues are necessary to leadership among men, state senator Bonner of Camden, declared in an Alumnae day address before the seventh annual convention of women students at the University of Alabama. Senator Bonner stated that a leader must possess truth, honesty, and ability. He emphasized the value of trained ability and declared that one who attained a position of leadership must be God-fearing.

Possibility of commercial exploitation of a flourite deposit near Mount Weisner in Cherokee County was considered by Dr. Walter B. Jones, state geologist, after an examination of the deposit. Dr. Jones inspected the deposit at the request of J. C. Gilley, owner of the property. Flourite is largely used in the steel industry. Most of the present supply comes from western Kentucky and southern Illinois.

Nineteen juniors and seniors in the college of engineering have been elected to Tau Bet Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity. This is the highest scholastic honor accorded to engineer students.

The present trend of the state governmental expenditures is downward, it was revealed by a national survey recently completed by Dr. Claude A. Campbell, professor of economics at the university. Decreased expenditures and the demands of the taxpayers are forcing state governments to economize in the cost of government.

Inflation in the United States is caused neither by chance nor necessity, according to Dr. J. A. Holladay, University economist. Inflation in this country is by deliberate action, for the purpose of bringing about a rapid rise in prices and wages.

Report of National F. F. A. Convention

On Sunday, November 19, Mr. Wood, local adviser of Belgreen F.F.A.; Austin Ezell, president of Alabama Association of F.F.A.; Willard Brown, Treasurer of Alabama Association of F.F.A., and I left Russellville, Alabama to attend the Sixth National Convention of Future Farmers of America at Kansas City, Missouri. After driving all day Sunday, we spent the night in the smoky city of St. Louis.

The next morning we left for Kansas City and arrived there about four o'clock that afternoon. We then registered at the Baltimore Hotel, where we stayed while there. That night we went over to the beautifully illuminated power and light building to hear the public speaking contest. The Fredericktown, Ohio F. F. A. Band gave a number of musical selections before the speakers started.

The speakers were introduced by the chairman, Mr. Vernor Howell, of Oklahoma. The first speaker was Albert W. Richardson, Reading Chapter F. F. A., Reading, Mass., won first prize of $300, and a gold F. F. A. medal. Subject, "Why Be a Farmer." The second speaker was Raymond N. Malouf, Richfield chapter of F. F. A. Richfield, Utah, who won second prize of $200, and a silver F. F. A. medal. His subject was, "Leadership, the Urgent Need of Agriculture." The third speaker was Joe C. Brummel, Troy Chapter of F. F. A., Troy, Missouri, who won third prize of $150, and a bronze F. F. A. medal. The fourth speaker was William Guidry, Breaux Bridge chapter of F. F. A., Breaux Bridge, La., who wone fourth prize of $100 and a bronze F. F. A. medal. All who attended enjoyed the talks very much.

The next day, Thursday, November 21, was the opening session of the convention at the Baltimore Hotel. The first thing on program was the report of states represented. Alabama gave the first report. There were forty-two other states represented with one from Hawaii, who gave a splendid report on the Hawaii planter. The next was the report of the national officer, and a few points of the executive secretary were: Receipts of F. F. A. from November 8, 1932 to November 1, 1933 were $7,792.76; disbursements from November 8, 1932 to November 1, 1933 were $1,023.50.

That afternoon we met at the hotel for the second session of the convention, and a trip over to the horse and mule pulling contest at the American Royal. Our transportation on the street cars was furnished free for the F. F. A. boys to different places over town.

We lined up at the gate of the American Royal and marched into the stadium with each of the 42 states carrying a flag of their state, and 28,000 boys marching to the tune of the F. F. A. band. The American Farmers were called out and pictures were taken of them. The American Star Farmer was awarded a gold F. F. A. medal and $500 by the governor of Missouri. We then got on the street cars and went back to the first Christian church for a buffet supper given by the people of Kansas City. This concluded the day's program.

TAYLOR-ALLEN

A wedding around which much cordial interest centered was that of Miss Annie Lucille Taylor and William Walker Allen, of Cooper, Alabama, which took place Thursday morning, November 30, 1933, at 9:30 o'clock, at The Chestnut Creek Baptist Church. The Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with fern and yellow chrysanthemums. The alter was of pot fern and yellow chrysanthemums in tall beskets.

The bridal party entered to the strain of a wedding march played by Mrs. Charles Moore. The bridesmaids, Miss Jewel Taylor, of Montgomery, and Miss Ruby Yates, of Cooper, entered at the same time. They carried arm bouquets of fern and white chrysanthemums. Miss Taylor was dressed in a black ensemble while Miss Yates was dresed in a blue ensemble.

Mrs. Orman Edgar of Birmingham entered next as matron of honor. Her dress was of flowered crepe with blue jacket and hat, and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bride entered with her father, Mr. J. R. Taylor, by whom she was given in marriage. He dress was of royal blue crepe with silver buttons. Her close fitting turban was of midnight blue, to which was fitted a small veil.

The groom was attended by his brother, Lane Allen, of Cooper, as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Allen left on a wedding trip to Athens, Alabama, after which they will be at home in Cooper, Ala.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Taylor, of Cooper, is a young woman of much charm and loveliness. After graduation from the Verbena School she attended Livingston College, after which she has taught school several years. Both the bride and groom are great religious workers and are very popular.

THE THOMAS JR. TURKEYS

The turkeys given away by Thomas Junior High school just before Thanksgiving were won by Mrs. W. C. Moore and Mr. Jesse A. Davis. The numbers were drawn by little Margie Nell Lewis, one of the smallest students at the school.

Miss Eloise Rasberry spent the holiday season with friends in Alexander City.

Thos. J. Littlejohn Died at Lawley

Mr. Thomas Jefferson Littlejohn, age 84 years, died at his home near Lawley last Tuesday, November 21, about five o'clock. He had been in bad health for the past few years, but had been sick in bed only nine weeks, but bore his pain patiently to the end. He was prepared to meet God in peace. It was sad, so sad, to give him up, but not so sad as those that have no hope.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Sam Dunlap of Lawley. Burial was in Tabernacle cemetery Thursday at 10 o'clock.

Pallbearers were his grandsons, Howard, Edward and Woodfin Littlejohn and Langley, J. D. and Russell Scott. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Bamma Littlejohn, six children, 21 grandchildren, seven great grandchildren. The children that are living are Charlie and Ed Littlejohn of Lawley, Cliff Littlejohn of New York, Mrs. J. D. Holsombeck, of Jemison, Mrs. Sophie Reaves of Centreville, Mrs. Victoria Crag of Lawley.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn were married 63 years. He was a faithful member and friend of the Baptist church for 61 years, and a devout Christian. A great array of flowers bore testimony of the esteem in which he was held. The funeral was attended by many of his sorrowing friends. He is gone but not forgotten.—Written by one who loves him.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are growing stronger than ever. Our Christian Endeavor was well attended last Sunday night. It was led by Mr. Marvin Rutherford. Mr. Gene Wyatt led the song service and we also had with us preacher Partridge. He preached a very interesting sermon, which was enjoyed by every one, and we hope to have him again. We had several visitors and we invite them back. Our Christian Endeavor will be led by Mrs. G. W. Golson next Sunday night. The subject will be, "What does Salvation Mean?" Everybody is cordially invited.

J. Hance Alred is visiting his son, Allen Alred, who is attending school at Gulfport, Mississippi.

Few Days Left For Voters To Register

The Board will finish out its schedule by sitting at the courthouse December 11 to 15 and December 28 to 29.

Attention of the public is called to these dates, and all who are entitled to register are urged to do so. No one can register except in his own Beat and at the courthouse in Clanton.

Anyone in a Beat where the Registrars have already been, must come to the courthouse on one of the given dates in order to register.

Motorists Seeking Relief From Taxes

The Chilton County Motorists Tax Relief Association was organized at a meeting at the Exchange Hotel on Tuesday night. R. J. Sumner was elected chairman of the group; E. N. Bentley, of Thorsby, vice chairman; and J. P. Lawrence, secretary.

About thirty prominent citizens of the county were in attendance at the meeting. Outline of the plans and purposes of the organization was made by Mr. Earle Hearne, of Birmingham, who is secretary of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee. Chilton is the twenty-first county in the state to be organized.

The plans and purposes of the organization are given out as follows:

Removal of county or city taxes on gasoline; removal of county or city taxes on motor vehicles; lowering of city license fees on filling stations, bulk stations, garages, tire and automobile accessory dealers.

To take an interest in county highway programs, checking up on extravagances in county road construction, pledging candidates for the legislature, and other state and county offices to lower taxes on gasoline and motor vehicles.

Pledging candidates for Congress to remove federal taxes on gasoline, oil, automobiles, etc.; cooperating with state motorists tax relief association in getting behind necessary remedial legislation during legislative session.

To determine and publicize the position of any candidate for any office on matters or direct interest to the organization; cooperate with and encourage all officials in thorough enforcement of laws affecting motorists or allied industries.

It is stated that membership in the organization is wide open to all citizens who agree with its program, and that membership in the same is without cost to anybody. A thousand members will be sought in Chilton County, it was stated by R. J. Sumner, county chairman, Wednesday morning.

THANKS FROM LEGION

Chilton County Post No. 6 of the American Legion, in a resolution on Monday night, expressed thanks for the fine attendance of the public at their frolic and entertainment on Saturday night, November 25. Also extended thanks to those who donated prizes for the occasion, and to the fiddlers and entertainers who provided the program.

The Legion was highly pleased with the result, and promise to put on another show of this kind in the near future.

The money made at the recent frolic will be used in a special fund to furnish flowers in honor of deceased comrades.

ILLNESS CONTINUES

Mr. Briggs Hodgens of Thorsby is entering his fourth month of confinement with typhoid fever. Due to unusual complication the doctors say it will be quite a while yet before he can get out.

A card, letter, or anything from a friend to let him know you remember him could not help but make his long hours brighter. We all hope him a speedy recovery.

KIWANIS MEETS SENIOR CLASS

Vocational Guidance Discussed By J. E. Lewis, Governor of Kiwanis

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton held its weekly meeting with the Senior Class of the Chilton County High School last Thursday night at the high school building in Clanton. All members of the senior class were present as guests of the club.

A most delightful dinner was served to the group of Kiwanis members and high school students by the home economics department under direction of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin.

The subject of the program was Vocational Guidance and Placement. Joe E. Lewis, of Selma, governor of the Alabama Kiwanis district was the speaker of the occasion. He discussed the subject in a most practical and appropriate manner, and revealed many valuable thoughts for the high school students who face the proposition of choosing a vocation in life and for further developing their education and training for such chosen fields as they may elect.

John Ezell, of the Senior Class, in a very appropriate manner expressed the thanks of the class for the interest shown by Kiwanis in the future of the class membership.

Dr. Sam Mosley, of Selma, came with Governor Lewis. He made a short talk to the meeting, and entertained with a number of tricks and slight of hand stunts. Dr. Mosley is president-elect of the Selma Kiwanis Club, and extended an invitation to the Clanton Club to come to Selma and present a program at some time in the immediate future.

Luther E. Little, president-elect of the Clanton Club, followed Governor Lewis with a short talk to the high school students, outlining to them the plans of the Kiwanis Club in helping them with advice and counsel about their future vocations in life.

Colen E. Stapp presented to the club his resignation as secretary, and made a very touching speech concerning his past service as a member of the club. Several members of the club took occasion to voice their appreciation of Mr. Stapp, and to express their regrets that he is to leave Chilton County.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors Friday morning Dan Waite was elected as the successor of Mr. Stapp as secretary of the club.

At the meeting Thursday night the Clanton club unanimously extended an invitation for the mid-winter conference of District and Club officials to hold their meeting here about the middle of January. This conference has been held in Clanton two times in the past, and the local Kiwanis members are delighted over the prospects of having it here again.

FARMERS GOING TO BIRMINGHAM

Will Hear Address of Secretary Henry A. Wallace Next Saturday P. M.

Chilton County has been requested to send a quota of 200 farmers to Birmingham next Saturday afternoon to hear the address by Hon. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture in President Roosevelt's cabinet. The invitation is extended to both men and women.

A letter has been sent out by C. E. Stapp, former County Agent, and Miss Ruth Pardue Home Demonstration Agent, urging a full attendance of farm men and women at the meeting.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, head of the Extension Service at Auburn, makes the following statement about the opportunity of Alabama farm folk to hear the Secretary of Agriculture:

"We are fortunate to have secured the Honorable Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, for a meeting in the city Auditorium in Birmingham Saturday, December 16, at 1 p.m.

"Secretary Wallace will give a full explanation in his address of the New Deal for our farmers, and especially as these plans may pertain to our cotton acreage adjustment for the new year.

"The City Auditorium in Birmingham will seat 6,000 people and we must fill this auditorium on this important occasion. To do less would reflect upon our leadership.

"We have made some careful estimates, and have endeavored to make a fair apportionment of the number of farm men and women and other citizens from each county. Chilton County quota is 200."

As Mr. Stapp left Clanton Tuesday he assured many of his friends here that he would be at the meeting with as many farmers as he can get to come from Dothan and Houston County. "I expect to have the pleasure of meeting the full 200 quota from Chilton County when I get to Birmingham Saturday," he said.

TIFFIN-KLINNER OFFER MANY ATTRACTIVE THINGS FOR XMAS

Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, of Clanton are offering for the Christmas trade the finest arrangement of household goods ever seen in Clanton. Not only are they making a very special appeal to buyers of standard household equipment, but they have a vast array of novelty items that go to make up the little extra touches of taste, conveniences and refinement of the home.

If you are thinking of buying something for the home at Christmas, you should visit this big store and see what they offer. You will get a real Christmas spirit by your visit and you will be more than likely to buy something which is better than spending your money for something of no value and which will vanish as soon as the holidays are over or before.

C. G. STOKES HEAD OF EMPLOYMENT

Office Is Located In New Mullins Building Next to The Exchange Hotel

The Chilon County National Re-employment office has been set up in the Mullins Building next to Exchange Hotel. Mr. C. G. Stokes is director of the office.

A full force of clerical help has been installed and are working night and day to get all records classified and worked out so as to be able to proceed immediately toward putting the people to work on projects that are approved.

By the end of this week it is practically assured that the full quota of workers assigned to Chilton County for re-employment will be classified and ready to go on the jobs.

Tuesday and Wednesday many people who had registered for work had to be called back to the office to furnish additional facts about their qualifications and circumstances. This has been carried out by an appointment system instituted by Mr. Stokes.

It is pointed out that the re-employment office is not a relief operation. Its proper function is designated as an agency for the classification of labor and furnishing workers that are suited, qualified, and able to perform certain duties that are required by jobs on designated works projects.

Mr. R. L. Pittman, an engineer, has been assigned to civil work projects in Chilton County. His function has nothing to do with employment of labor. He is concerned with the actual operation of the projects after they have been approved by the Civil Works Administration and put into operation. Efficiency of the labor on the jobs and seeing that the work is done according to specifications is within the perview of Mr. Pittman.

Ex-service men are advised that they should bring their discharges or American Legion cards to the re-employment office when they are called for further consultation about work. When proper evidence has been furnished by ex-soldiers, they will be given preferrence in re-employment according to the regulations prescribed by the Civil Works Administration.

This simply means that all other things being equal as to qualifications and dependents and suitability for work, the ex-service man shall have preference. It does not mean that the best jobs will be picked out and given to ex-soldiers, regardless of all other considerations.

Cooke Players Here At the Wadesonian

The many people of Clanton and Chilton County who like good drama, comedy and vaudeville entertainment, will be pleased to learn of a return engagement of the famous Cooke Players to the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton, for one week beginning December 18th.

Mr. Pamplin, manager of the troupe, was in Clanton a few days ago making preliminary arrangements, and he stated that his show was better than ever this year. A number of new players and brand new attractions have been added, which will take the audiences by storm, according to Mr.

MORE TRAINED WOMEN NEEDED

The reemployment office of Chilton County advises that the allotment of women for work with the C.W.A. in the county calls for a number of persons of sufficient education to make them able to do survey work. At this time, although many women have registered, and many having been placed in various classifications, it is found that there is a scarcity of women with the proper educational qualifications among those who have registered or applied.

Certification of women for this special class of survey work must be made in proven ability of the person to do the work assigned. Additional registration is open to unemployed women now and an opportunity is offered to women of special training qualification for this survey work.

"WHY KEEP THE TRUTH FROM THE PEOPLE OF THE COUNTY?"

(EDITORIAL)

Week before last The Chilton County News used about two columns of valuable space in what they termed an honest, sincere, patriotic and inspired effort to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth about alleged playing of politics by "certain Republican officials, or official," in connection with securing the relief and re-employment program in Chilton County. The modesty of the News editor was evident as he shivered forth to the appointed task of making this wonderful exposure. In fact he admitted that he hated to do it awfully bad. And we are sure he did, knowing him as we do, to be rather timid in politics, always hesitating to rush in where angels fear to tread. Why, so modest was he, and so careful of the other fellow's feelings, he would not even call the name of the "official" whom he sought to reprimand.

After a careful study of the effort of The News we have become convinced that they deliberately sought and planned to cover up and distort the truth and muddy the waters so as to keep many from finding and seeing the actual truth. In plain, simple words, it was a carefully calculated effort on the part of some politicians, and we would not be sure they are all Democrats, to administer a black eye to Judge Reynolds, who was the "official" referred to.

Here is what The Union-Banner believes is the truth of the whole situation:

Judge Reynolds, who is Republican Probate Judge of Chilton County, has taken the lead from the very start, in every movement to make possible and available to the people of Chilton County the fullest advantage of the relief and re-employment measures offered to them by the administration of President Roosevelt. By his tenacious and uncompromising attitude these relief measures have been made a reality to the comfort and happiness of hundreds of our citizens.

Naturally those who have been the benefactors of this relief are open in their expression of thanks and approval to President Roosevelt in the first place, and also to Judge Reynolds for his continued and successful efforts to see that our people get as much of the benefit as possible.

Now, here is the truth: The Chilton County News is willing for President Roosevelt to be praised, but they can not stand for any credit to be given to Reynolds for anything. Therefore, in order to cast a shadow of scorn upon him they came out and made this mean and contemptible effort to say that Reynolds is using his position in the matter to further his own political prestige. They did not call the name of Reynolds in their diatribe; we wonder why. But they came so near it their reference was easily applied.

We want to say to the Chilton County News, and all others, even from Franklin D. Roosevelt on down, that it is an undeniable fact that if it had not been for the stand taken by Judge Reynolds, "these jobs and these funds would not have come to our county" to the extent which has been done. Who will dispute this statement? If The News wanted to tell the truth about the matter, that is all they needed to say, and they could have saved all that valuable space.

Now, if the record of Judge Reynolds in helping to secure these benefits for the people of our county has caused the people to praise him, who will deny that he deserves it? If the people of the county feel that way toward him, who is going to tell them they can't say so? If the same people feel that they should thank and praise President Roosevelt for making possible his relief measures, who will deny that he deserves it?

We ask in all frankness, if Reynolds as a county official and champion of the destitute and underprivileged, has rendered a worthy effort in behalf of such people, and if Roosevelt, as a national official, and champion of the destitute and underprivileged, has rendered a worthy effort in behalf of such people, is not the one as much entitled to his just measure of praise and approval as the other?

The News attempts to prop up its political scarecrow with the statement that "continuous complaints come from citizens over the county from both Republican and Democratic parties." That is only half the truth. Everybody knows that there are people in both parties in Chilton County who would die and go to the devil before they would admit any good or any credit for Reynolds about anything.

It is those diehards in both parties who have sensed the popular position of Reynolds in his contentions for the President's relief program who are doing all the "continuous complaining." They are doing it because they fear the position and attitude of Reynolds in this matter will give him a boost for further political popularity in the future. The News, being of that attitude toward Reynolds, has joined in the effort to make folks believe something they themselves know is not true, and which is without the support of fact concerning the attitude and position of the man.

The News implies that Republicans of Chilton County had nothing to do with inaugurating the plan that has made this relief money and these

Stapp Expresses His Appreciation To People of Chilton County

To the Editor of The Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to express in my feeble way my appreciation for the many courtesies shown me during my stay in Chilton County.

I hardly know where and how to begin because I haven't the words to express myself, and too, I know that I will fail to say something that I want to say.

I wish to thank both the county papers for the many courtesies shown me, and for the wonderful way in which you have cooperated. My desire in Chilton County was to put over a real program of work and through same, popularize county agency work. The county papers have played an important part in helping to bring to the attention of the people the value and need of county farm and home demonstration work in the county.

I realize that some people of the county do not appreciate the work, but I consider this existing condition is due to my failure to reach some and familiarize them with our program. Since getting into county agency work in 1919, or 14 years ago the 15th of November, I have realized that any man, woman or child, who was not interested in county agency work, either did not understand what it was all about or that he or she was living for self alone and not a believer in the Golden Rule.

If I have attained any success in Chilton County, I wish to give credit to the people and organizations who have cooperated with me in such a splendid way. I could have done nothing alone. I wish to mention my most faithful and efficient secretary, Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, along with the home demonstration agent, the vocational and home economic teachers, Judge L. H. Reynolds, the county commissioners, the farm bureau officials, the 4-H club boys, the bankers, merchants, the Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs, the teachers, preachers, churches and hundreds of individuals engaged in every walk of life in the county. I wish that I had space and time to mention the names of such men as old brothers Nelson and W. S. Cox, and Messrs. L. G. Posey, J. N. Dennis, W. L. Popwell, W. M. Wyatt, H. S. Shaw, F. A. Gulledge, W. M. Oden, C. J. Mitchell and such boys as Marvin Durbin, James Dennis, Quinton Kelley, Clyde Popwell (deceased), the Manning boys, and hundreds of other men and boys in the county who have inspired me from time to time to put forth my best efforts to serve Chilton County.

At the meeting held recently at the courthouse when some 150 men, coming from every beat in the county, through the personal appeal of John Hollis, Sam Ezell, J. M. Culp, J. R. Mullins, W. L. Popwell, J. N. Dennis, B. Lawrence, Earle Thomas, W. M. Wyatt, L. E. Diefenderfer, J. C. Page, F. J. Callen, Glenn Sessions, J. R. Robinson, P. M. Pitts, L. H. Reynolds, Marvin Durbin, E. H. Mims and others, and the vote of all, expressed to me their appreciation of my efforts in the county and asked the county commissioners to raise the appropriation sufficiently to keep me, I could not keep the tears back. It was a great love "feast" and I shall never forget it. They tell me that some people come to Chilton County and leave but that most of them come back to live and die. That may be my course, but I am leaving here to undertake a most difficult but important job, and if I am able to put over the program, then wish to return to Chilton County as others have, I trust that you will again receive me.

My successor, Mr. J. W. Fant, is a fine fellow, well trained for the job here. He is a more highly technically trained man than I am, and I just know that if the people of the county will give him the same loyal cooperation they have given to me that he will be able to put over a much bigger program of work than I have. I beg that the people of Chilton County give to Mr. Fant their loyal support and cooperation.

Please further allow me to say to all the people of Chilton County that should they have occasion to come to or through Dothan, to please take time to look for Mrs. Stapp and me. We will be so glad to see them.—C. E. Stapp, Ex-County Agent of Chilton County.

MARION FOSHEE MAY RUN FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

We learn that Mr. Marion D. Foshee, former clerk of the circuit court of Chilton County, is likely to be a candidate for that office again in the Republican primary next year.

Mr. Foshee held the office for twelve years, and it is generally known and accepted as a fact that he made a splendid record for efficiency and public service.

For more than twenty years Mr. Foshee has been among the front ranks of the supporters of the Republican party in Chilton County and in Alabama. He has a great following of friends who would like very much to see him returned to the office of Circuit Clerk to serve another term.

Definite announcement of his plans and his decision about entering the campaign will be made by Mr. Foshee in the near future.

L. A. CALLAWAY DIED THURSDAY

Was Prominent Citizen, Business Man, and Former School Official

Lucian Adkin Callaway, age 55 years, died early last Thursday morning, December 7, at his home in Clanton, after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Dr. S. J. Ezell, at Clanton Baptist church Friday afternoon. Burial was at Chestnut Creek cemetery, at Cooper, in charge of Spigener Funeral Home, of Clanton.

Special music for the funeral was furnished by a quartet composed of Jesse C. Jones, T. E. Wyatt, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, and Tom Frank Teel. Active pallbearers were H. S. Shaw, J. Watts Moore, Chester G. Mims, D. A. Wingard, Jesse C. Jones and Grover Harris. Honorary pallbearers were members of the Board of Deacons of Clanton Baptist church, and the doctors of Clanton.

The funeral services were attended by a great host of sorrowing friends of the deceased from all parts of Chilton County. Beautiful floral offerings expressed silent ribute of many friends of the family.

Mr. Callaway is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dora Beatrice (Robinson) Callaway; two sons, Dr. Raymond R. Callaway, of Birmingham and Dr. J. Lamar Callaway, of Durham, N. C., one brother, Evan B. Callaway, of Nauvoo, Ala.; three sisters, Mrs. H. B. Glenn, Mrs. Dock Bryant, and Mrs. Grady F. Harris, all of Clanton.

He was a native of Chilton County, the son of Newton J. and Nancy (Caffey) Callaway. He was born and reared in the old Salem community, on Coosa River, where he lived until he was married to Dora Robinson, a daughter of James M. Robinson, also of Salem community. His mother died when he was a youth. His father died about eleven years ago.

Lucian Callaway was a devout and consecrated Christian. When a young man he united with old Salem Baptist church. Throughout the remainder of his life wherever he went he kept up his active contact with his church. He put into practice in his daily life those sweet and lovely Christian virtues which made him a man admired, honored and respected among men.

From his home community he went to Cooper, where he formed a business connection with W. C. Robinson as superintendent of the vast mill operations of the Robinson Lumber Company. This connection was kept for more than twenty years, during which time Mr. Callaway lived at Cooper, Clanton, Calera and Havana, Fla.

It was at the latter place that failing health forced him to give up his connecion with the lumber company. For a while he engaged in the tobacco growing industry at Quincy, Fla. Continued impairment of health forced him to give up all business obligations, and he returned to Clanton to spend the last days of his life among the friends of his native home.

At the time Mr. Callaway went to Florida he was a member of the Chilton County Board of Education, a position to which he was elected by the people of Chilton County, and in which he served for a period of six years.

During the Spanish-American War he served with the United States Army in its campaigns in Cuba in 1898 and 1899.

L. A. Callaway was one of the best men Chilton County has ever had the honor of claiming as her own. Reared by Godly parents, and inspired by the fullness of Christian virtues in his daily life, he was recognized at all times and in all places as a man to be honored and trusted; one whose counsel was wise, whose influence for good upon his generation will live and last forever. Men like him do not die. They pass on, but their power and influence and beauty live after them in the hearts of their friends and associates.

Rev. J. W. Jones, Moderator of the Chilton County Baptist Association, has received a card from Dr. J. O. Colley, expressing his thanks and appreciation to the Chilton and Unity Associations for the car load of produce sent to the orphanage last month.

Moderator Jones regrets that some of the churches forgot the matter and failed to get anything in the car.

J. W. FANT TAKES STAPP'S PLACE

New County Agent Comes Here From Elmore County High School

Mr. J. W. Fant, of Eclectic, in Elmore County, has been installed in office as successor of C. E. Stapp, as County Farm Agent of Chilton County. The deal went through officially Saturday morning, when Mr. Fant, with District Agent, Emmett Sizemore, went before the Commissioners Court for final approval.

Mr. Fant comes here with the endorsement of Mr. Sizemore, and the assurance that he is a man thoroughly capable of handling the job. He is a graduate of Auburn and has been teaching vocational agriculture in the Elmore County High School since July, 1925. He is a native of Blount County.

All day Saturday Mr. Fant was here with Mr. Stapp, meeting the people of the county and getting his bearings on the run of things in the office. Monday and Tuesday he was at Auburn attending a meeting of all the county agents of the state. He will return to Clanton Wednesday, and will take up his work in earnest.

Many interested farmers, citizens, and business men of the county met Mr. Fant while he was here Saturday and expressed a warm welcome to Clanton and Chilton County. The universal interest in Farm Agency work here guarantees that the new agent will have the hearty accord and support of our people generally. With the splendid foundation that has been laid by the successful work of Mr. Stapp, there is every reason to be assured that the future of the work with Mr. Fant is destined to continue of immense value to our farm citizenry.

P. T. A. SHOULD BE ORGANIZED

Strong Support Needed For School In the Crisis Ahead

With the possibility of another school crisis facing us, we must reorganize our Chilton County Council of Parent-Teachers Association.

Has your school a Parent-Teachers Association? Is it a member of our State and National Congress of Parents and Teachers? If you are not affiliated with them, let me urge you to send in your dues at once.

Dues are fifteen cents a year for each enrolled member, paid to Mrs. Walter D. Sheppard, state treasurer, Narrow Lane Road, Montgomery, Ala.

You will receive for your dues, one Alabama School Journal each month with planned program for your meetings. Also a course of study and community work for a period covering two school years and other helpful suggestions.

Make your P.-T. A. a better one by uniting with us. Watch the paper for an announcement of a county-wide meeting and be sure your P.-T. A. is represented at this meeting.

For further information write Mrs. A. C. Wells, Jemison, Ala., chairman of the Chilton County Council of the Parent-Teachers Association.

J. Dudley Collins May Be Candidate

Former Sheriff Being Urged To Run For His Same Old Job Again

Ex-Sheriff J. Dudley Collins has been mentioned by many of his friends as a possible candidate for Sheriff in the Republican primary next year.

Asked how he was feeling on the subject this week, Mr. Collins did not commit himself, but he indicated that he is giving some serious thought to the matter.

Mr. Collins has a four-year record as Sheriff behind him. This of course means that many people will support him on the strength of his record, and some will oppose him.

But there is one fact of far-reaching effect that his friends point out about his political record. They insist that if Dudley Collins is elected Sheriff, he will run his own office when he gets in there, and not depend on the advice or suggestion of some other official.

When he was Sheriff before, it is pointed out that Mr. Collins conducted the office for the entire four years without even retaining a lawyer for legal advice.

A passer-by watched an old man in his garden weeding.

"Which weeds do you consider the easiest to kill?" asked the man.

"Widow's weeds," answered the old man. "You have only to say 'Wilt thou?' and they wilt."

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COTTON CONTRACTS WILL ARRIVE SOON

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 12.—The 1933-35 cotton acreage reduction contract has been completed and sample copies have been received here, said Director L. N. Duncan of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who added that plans are under way to offer contracts to cotton producers in Alabama before January 1st.

It is expected that growers will begin signing contracts before the first of the year. The plan seeks to restrict cotton plantinng in 1934 to 25,000,000 acres.

Growers who sign agreements to reduce production will receive rental payments based on the productivity of the land they agree to withold from production, and a parity payment of not less than one cent per pound on their domestic allotment.

The rate of rental payment for each acre taken out of production under the agreement will be 3½ cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre for the farm in the years 1928-32 inclusive. The maximum rental will be $18 per acre.

The payment will be made in two equal parts, the first between March 1 and April 30, 1934, the second beween August 1 and September 30, 1934. The parity payment will be made between December, 1, 1934, and January 1, 1935.

Approximately 15 million acres will be rented in 1934. Growers will receive around 125 million dollars. The program will be financed by a processing tax on raw cotton.

The 5-cent per bushel processing tax on corn, effective since its imposition on November 5, will remain at that rate instead of being increased to 20 cents as provided for in the original regulations.

Gross farm income from 1933 production in the United States will be about $6,100,000,000. Payments to the farmers for restrictions in production will increase the total to about $6,400,000,000 as compared with $5,143,000,000 received in 1932.

WALLACE TO SPEAK TO ALABAMA CITIZENS

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 12.—Farm people and other citizens of Alabama will have an opportunity to get first-hand information on the new deal in agriculture from Secretary of Agrichlture Henry A. Wallace, who is scheduled to speak in the city auditorium of Birmingham, beginning at 1 p.m., Saturday, December 16.

The farm chief is expected to discuss in detail the new planned program for bringing the farm industry out of the depression cellar, and to point out how this program benefits business and professional people and wage earners as well as farmers.

It is expected that more than 6,000 people will gather in the big auditorium to hear the address. Early reports from county farm demonstration agents indicate that every county in the state will be represented by a large number of leading citizens.

The cabinet member is coming to Alabama upon invitation from Senator John H. Bankhead, Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and Ed. L. Norton, President of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club.

Secretary Wallace's appearance in Alabama will come almost simultaneously with the beginning of the signing of new cotton contracts for reducing cotton acreage in 1934. For this reason it is expected that this program will come in for discussion. The speaker is also expected to stress tariff reforms that would result in the sale of more farm products abroad.

BIG ORDERS PLACED BY THE TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

Orders placed by the Tennessee Valley Authority for the week ending December 7 totalled approximately $29,000, C. H. Garity, director of purchases, announced today.

Included in the group was an order for the first lumber to be used on the Joe Wheeler dam project. It was for $5,600 and went to the Richardson Lumber Co., Florence, Ala.

Other major purchases were: Sherman Concrete Pipe Co., Knoxville, pipe, $4,200; Mixer & Co., Atlanta, lumber, $5,000; Chavannes Lumber Co., Knoxville, lumber, $2,168; Willingham Sash & Door Co., Macon, Ga., doors, $1,875; Vestal Lumber Co., Knoxville, lumber, $1,075; Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co., Knoxville, plumbing supplies, $1,075; Crane Co., Knoxville, plumbing supplies, $1,025; Anaconda Wire & Cable Co., Atlanta, hardware, $1,525; James Supply Co., Knoxville, hardware, $1,400; Marion Steam Shovel Co., Marion, Ohio, hardware, $800 and General Electric Supply Co., Knoxville, Telephone system, $600.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Civilian Conservation Corps will plant nearly fifty million young trees next spring to aid in control of erosion in the central and southern states.

If the per capita consumption of cotton in Russia was equal to that of the United States, Russia would consume annually about 8,000,000 bales. At present Russian annual consumption of all growths of cotton is about 2,000,000 bales. The effort being made by the Soviets is one to increase the standard of living of all the people which means an increase in the use of cotton.

For the first time since the beginning of the decline in 1929, United States exports this year will show a gain over the value of those for the preceding year, it is predicted by the Government foreign trade experts.

REPORT OF F.F.A. CONVENTION

By Clifford Manning

The next day, Wednesday, November 22, started the third session of the convention. The program opened at 8:00 o'clock with F. F. A. committee work. At 9 o'clock all the boys assembled at the west entrance of the Baltimore Hotel for the day's trip. We lined up with four abreast and marched by the music of the Fredericktown, Ohio, F. F. A. band to the street car line. We then rode the street cars to Armour Meat Packing Company, and went through the plant. We saw the whole operation from the time the animals were killed until they were ready to be shipped out to the different parts of the United States. Some of the boys lost their appetites when they went into the plant, but regained them when they came out.

Next, we got on the street car and went to the Sears Roebuck and Co. They carried us through the large shipping store where the articles we order are graded, selected, packed and shipped out. After going through the store, we were served lunch in the Sears Roebuck Lunch Room. We then went back to the American Royal Building to see the matinee horse and live stock show.

That night was the annual F. F. A. banquet at the Baltimore Hotel for F. F. A. delegates, members of judging teams, prize winners, public speaking contestants, railroad prize winners, coaches and officials, sponsored by the Kansas City, Missouri, Chamber of Commerce. Dr. George F. Zook, United States Commissioner of Education, gave a splendid talk. Prizes were awarded to the winners of the judging teams by the president of the national organization, Mr. Vernon Howell. After this the program was over for the day.

The next day, Thursday, November 23, was the last day of the convention. This day being the last day of the convention, was the business session. The new national constitution and by-laws were read and adopted by the house of delegates, final reports of national expenses of the organization was read. After all business was finished the new president, through a solemn ceremony, took his chair. The convention closed with these words: "United we stand, united we part that we meet again next year with pure hearts in F. F. A. Work."

We left the convention with a determination that Alabama be recognized more at the next convention than they were at this one. We had a nice drive on our way home, although we drove through some snow, but it was warm when we got to Alabama.

DECEMBER 1 COTTON REPORT

Alabama produced this year 980,000 bales of cotton, compared with 947,000 last year, and 1,415,000 in 1931.

The yield per acre this year was 194 pounds, compared with 150 last year and a ten year average of 172 pounds.

There were planted to cotton this year 3,246,000 acres, of which 25½ per cent was plowed up and abandoned, leaving 2,417,000 acres harvested. The abandonment amounted to about one-half of one per cent, leaving 25 per cent plowed up.

Without the plow up of acreage Alabama would have produced in the neighborhood of 1,300,000 bales.

There were ginned in Alabama, to December 1, 941,000 running bales, leaving about 32,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight yet to be ginned.

The United States crop is estimated at 13,177,000 bales, compared with 13,002,000 last year. The average yield this year is 209.4 pounds, compared with 173.3 last year. There were planted this year 40,929,000 acres, of which 26.4 per cent was plowed up and abandoned, leaving 30,144,000 acres actually picked. Without any plow up this year there would have been harvested in the neighborhood of eighteen million bales.

Details of the Alabama crop will be published later.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Ozark, Ala.—Congressman Henry B. Steagall of the third district, is the proud possessor of a pair of splendid Trigg hounds presented to him recently by General W. L. Sibert, former head of the state docks commission at Mobile, who now lives at Bowling Green, Ky.

The congressman, who is an ardent fox hunter and spends all his spare time hunting near Ozark and Abbeville, received the hounds while he was a guest of Robert Rodes at a dove dinner in Bowling Green.

Mobile, Ala.—L. G. Adams, former president of the Mobile Winter Hunt club which recently consolidated with the Alabama State Fox Hunters Association, has announced a winter hunt will be held in Mobile County in February.

An invitation has been extended to members of the state association to attend the hunt. The Mobile Club presented the state organization with four beautiful challenge cups preceding the all-age open stake run in Dallas County in October.

Montgomery, Ala.—Frank Hill, district game warden here, reported that convicts at No. 4 prison camp, 12 miles northeast of Montgomery, had spotted a buck and doe crossing Dead river to Parkers island near the camp. He said this was the first sign of deer in the neighborhood of the capital in many years.

Gastonburg, Ala. — R. J. "Bob" Goode, of Gastonburg, president of the Alabama Fox Hunters Association, has been reelected a director of the chase, the official organ of the National Fox Hunters Association. Mr. Goode also is president of the Alabama Coon Hunters Association and secretary of the National Field Trials Association.

Mobile, Ala.—The first Alabama woman to bag a deer this season was Mrs. Frank Powell of Mobile.

Although she has limited her hunting heretofore chiefly to ducks and squirrels. Mrs. Powell killed a fine buck while hunting with friends on a game preserve in Chickasaw.

Prof. E. E. Ellis of Marbury was in Clanton Monday.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in this Way

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box or 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

MEMORY OF MRS. SARAH RHODES

Mrs. Sarah Rhodes, age 47 years, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Connell, November 25, 1933, about five o'clock. Her death did not come unexpected, as she had been very ill for the past year. All was done for her that loving hands and faithful physicians could do, but God saw best to call her home to rest.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, four children, four grandchildren, three sisters and three brothers and a host of friends. She was laid to rest in Cane Creek cemetery on November 26th. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish with Martin in charge.

C. C. C. MAKES PROGRESS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 12.—A progress report of the work accomplished by the Civilian Conservation Corps up to December 1 indicates an impressive amount of constructive effort toward rehabilitation and protecting the timber lands and soils of Alabama states Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. Fifteen different projects were engaged in by the twelve forest camps and two erosion control camps under the direct supervision of the state commission of forestry. The various projects have been carefully planned with the view of making the benefits accruing therefrom of a permanent rather than temporary character.

A summary of the various projects shows 980 miles of firebreaks constructed; 340 miles of new truck trails completed and 13 miles partially completed; 55 miles of truck trails improved; 8,500 man days spent in fighting forest fires; 75 man days expended on fire prevention; the removal of the fire hazard on 2,000 acres and partial removal on 270 acres; 15 miles of roadside clearing; forest stand improvement of 220 acres; insect pest control over 43 acres and partial control on 100 acres; 16 miles telephone line partially completed; 1 lookout tower completed and 4 partially completed, and 1,000 bushels of pine cones and 4,700 pounds of various species of hardwood seed gathered. Erosion control has been completely effected on 11,000 acres of valuable land and partially on 4,700 acres. In the course of the latter project 154 check dams have been built while 57 are in the process of construction, and over 1,000 square yards of stream banks have been protected. During the approaching planting season a considerable number of soil binding plants and trees will be used in soil fixation.

To most of the members of the Civilian Conservation Corps the work is entirely new. However, they are learning rapidly and the results indicate a decided rise in individual as well as collective efficiency.

Mr. J. D. Sutley has been real sick this past week. He seems to be better at this time. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

Announcing

NEW FORD V·8 for 1934

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The New Ford V-8 for 1934 is now on display at the showrooms of Ford dealers. Surpassing even the great Ford of 1933 in economy, beauty and comfort, it is truly the car of this modern age—the culmination of thirty years Ford progress. It combines the proved performance of the V-8 cylinder engine with two important new features—Dual Carburetion and perfected Clear-vision Ventilation. See this car today and drive it at the first opportunity.

OUTSTANDING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V·8

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. New water-line thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm-weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvres, new hub caps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

FENDERS IN COLOR. On De Luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors —wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quieter and easier action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new, softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front-seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

PRICES REMAIN LOW—Tudor Sedan, $535. Coupe, $515. Fordor Sedan, $585. De Luxe Tudor, $575. De Luxe Fordor, $625. De Luxe Coupe (5 windows), $555. De Luxe Coupe (3 windows), $555. De Luxe Roadster, $525. De Luxe Phaeton, $550. Cabriolet, $590. Victoria, $610. (All prices f. o. b. Detroit.)

GIRL STABS SWEETHEART WHO CRITICIZES HER FACE

Mexico City.—Enrique Torres Garcia was near death in a hospital, victim of an ill considered attempt to censor the appearance of his sweetheart. Torres called on Senorita Petra Acevedo, to take her to the movies. He thought her face was over rouged. He protested and she laughed. Angered, he got a bucket of water and tried to wash her face. She stabbed him.

Ernest Arant has been back at his old job with Hill Grocery Company for some weeks. We should have noted the fact before now, and did do so personally. Somehow we just forgot to publish it. Must have neglected it because it seemed so natural and old-timey. However, Mr. Arant will be glad to welcome his friends at Hill's again. He is a jolly good fellow who will risk one eye at a snappy joke any day in the year. And when it comes to groceries, he can sell 'em to you and make you like it.

Mr. Cecil Stokes, manager of the Naiotnal Re-employment office in Clanton, is a very likeable fellow. When I first met him I suspicioned that he is is now or has been a member of a Kiwanis Club somewhere. It was not long until my suspicions were proven to be correct. He used to be a member of the club at Gadsden. The first of this year he presided as toastmaster at a joint meeting of the Selma and Mobile Clubs on neutral ground at Jackson, Alabama. We welcome him to Clanton. When a fellow gets the Kiwanis spirit in his bones enough to show it in his face the first time you meet him, you can bank on him to the finish.

FIRE LOSS IS $50,000

Palm Beach, Fla.—An unofficial estimate of $150,000 was placed Tuesday afternoon on damages wrought by a fire which, apparently, after smouldering under the floors unnoticed for several days, broke out Monday night in the ocean front home here of Geo. Luke Mesker, socially prominent resident of here, New York and Paris.

TWO ESCAPED CONVICTS RECAPTURED IN ATLANTA

Two of the trio of convicts who escaped from the northside convict camp last week, after kidnapping a guard, were recaptured Monday evening and lodged in cells at police headquarters in Atlanta.

The two men arrested were Edward Peacock and Bobbie Ray. Floyd Collins, who also escaped at the same time is still at liberty.

County Superintendent Luther Little went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend a conference of officials of Kiwanis Clubs of Alabama. He is president-elect of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, in which office he will succeed W. M. Wyatt the first of the new year.

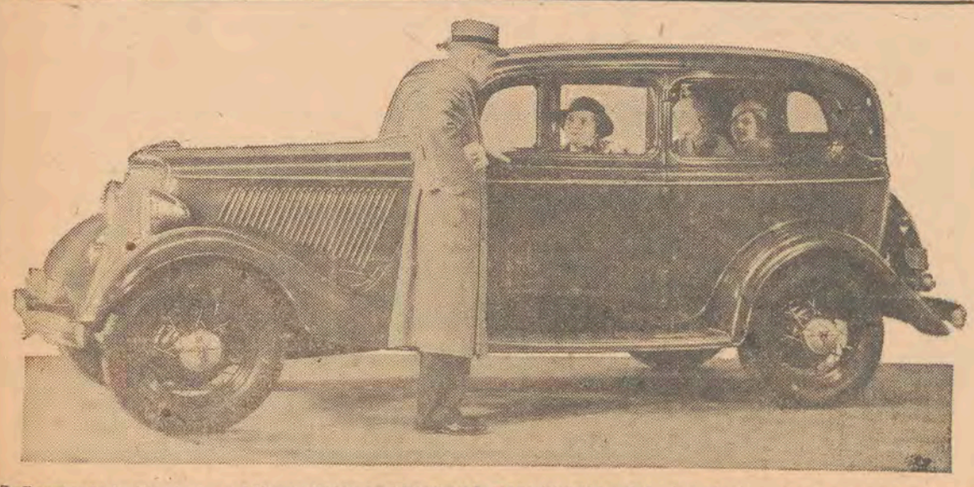
The taxi suddenly came to a halt in the middle of the street.

"What's the matter?" called the man from the back seat.

"I thought the young lady said 'stop,'" answered the chauffeur.

"Well she wasn't talking to you."

The New 1934 Ford V-8 Model Announced



Refinements in the design of the radiator and hood and more luxurious interiors feature the appearance of the new Ford V-8 for 1934. The de luxe Tudor is shown above. Dual down draft carburetion and dual intake manifold give the engine greater power, the car increased pickup and speed. A clear-vision body ventilation system also is introduced in the new Fords.

The Troy Broadcasting Company was granted permission by the Radio Commission to move its station, WHET, from Troy to Dothan, and to change its frequency from 1210 to 1370 kylocycles.

Judge Leon McCord, Montgomery Circuit Court, ruled that the Legislature was without authority in attempting to reduce the salary of Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, from $5,250.00 to $3,000.00.

Engineers of the City of Sheffield up to the present have been busy preparing the application for a public works fund loan for a municipal power plant and have not made an intensive study of rates.

COME IN AND GET THOSE CHILTON COUNTY MINUTES

There are some 20 churches of the Chilton County Association that have not called for their minutes for 1933. These minutes are not doing any good lying here in The Banner office. The clerks or someone else will please call and get your share within the next few days.

The Tory Club

Roosevelt Presidents have a way of forming their own clubs. A quarter of a century ago, the President's remote cousin organized the Ananias Club and bestowed memberships, without too much exclusion, upon various gentlemen who disagreed with his policies or disputed his facts. It grew to be quite an organization.

The second President Roosevelt wrote the charter for his own organization, The Tory Club, in his speech at the Georgia Bicentennial celebration at Savannah, but so far he has made no specific nominations. Tory Club membership is open, apparently, to anybody who does not believe in the "experiments" the administration is undertaking, particularly monetary manipulation.

Every good club ought to have, however, distinguished patrons and charter members. In his preoccupation with the Cuban situation and other matters, the President apparently has not got around to making specific nominations. Just to help things along and get the Tory Club going, The Post submits the names of four distinguished Americans who have qualififed, by their public utterances, for charter memberships:

Alfred E. Smith, of New York.
Bernard M. Baruch, of New York.
Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland.
Carter Glass, of Virginia.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A great many political writers are busy these days speculating on what will be the issues in the campaigns of 1934 and 1936. Several tentative ones have been proposed, among them bureaucracy, "back to the Constitution," less interference in private business and so on. Quite recently, however, the experts have been turning their attention more to the question of money, and are saying that inflation will be the issue in the coming campaign. But as an issue inflation is beating them to it. It is not looming ahead for the coming campaign, it is already here. Events have moved rapidly in the monetary campaign during the past few weeks. The resignation of Professor Sprague from the cabinet was followed by other moves, some supporting and others criticizing the gold policy of the administration.

Perhaps the most outstanding development was the statement of former Governor Al Smith on the sound money question. Governor Smith summed up the case of the so-called hard money men in characteristic fashion, in language that brooked no misunderstanding as to where he stood. The terms which he coined—"baloney dollars"—is one which bids fair to live for some little time. His characterization of the "brain trust" as quarterbacks on the football field who do not know which play they will make next, until they hear the signal, is characteristic of Mr. Smith at his best.

"What the people need today is what the Bible centuries ago described as 'the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.' That was what Grover Cleveland represented to the people in his day—a symbol of strength and firmness, of coolness, of rock-like integrity in the midst of shifting sands, heat and desolation." In this striking statement Governor Smith, as his reference to President Cleveland proves, did not lose sight of the fact that he is a good Democrat, but his statement nonetheless will not be taken kindly by those in the financial picture who may take it that they are referred to as "shifting sands."

Following Governor Smith's broadside, the statements flew thick and fast, some supporting and others denouncing the President's gold policy. In New York there were two mass meetings in one day. One of these, joined in by representatives of the American Federation of Labor, the American Legion and the Crusaders—who did such effective work in the anti-prohibition crusade—denounced inflation and called for a return to "sound money" and the gold standard. On the same date Father Coughlin, noted for his Detroit broadcasts, addressed a cheering mass meeting in New York in favor of President Roosevelt's monetary policies. And so the argument continues merrily. Inflation will not be an issue in 1936. It is an issue now.

In an analysis of the effects of the gold purchase program, the Alexander Hamilton Institute points out the fact that from the time England left the gold standard up to November 1 of this year, the price of gold in London increased 55.1 per cent. Wholesale prices increased but 5.1 per cent, prices of primary products 14.4 per cent, while stock prices gained 23.3 per cent. Since the inauguration of our own gold purchase plan in one month the price of gold has been advanced 16.4 per cent. Spot commodities have increased 5.9 per cent, futures, 12.6 per cent, and stock prices 17.2 per cent. At the same time bond prices declined 5.7 per cent.

These figures, while not conclusive because of the shortness of the time covered, may lead one to infer that the sound money men know what they are saying when they assert that in periods of inflation those who benefit first are not the farmers and the owners of commodities but those who are wise enough and nimble enough to gamble properly in stocks, while the credit of the country, as evidenced by the shrinkage in bond prices, is immediately weakened. Of course, in the long run, inflation brings ruin to all those who decide to "stick by the ship" and not to leave the country until the storm is over. Of course those who favor mild inflation say that they do not intend to have it get out of hand. But that is just what the inflationists have said in every country when frist embarking on the dangerous enterprise.

Clanton's Proposed Airport

Increased interest is manifest in the proposal to establish and develop a commercial airport in the immediate vicinity of Clanton. Committees of the American Legion and the Kiwanis Club have had the matter before them now for some months.

Recently added interest and impetus has come to the question by the announcement of special appropriations through the United States Department of Commerce for landing field development.

It appears from the best advices recently obtained that such development may be had in communities like Clanton without cost to the community other than providing the necessary land sites. We are assured unofficially, of course, that the necessary work could be obtained through approval of the project by the civil works administration; and that other possible avenues of federal assistance will provide the cost of materials for buildings and hangars.

From first to last it appears that the building of an airport here would mean the expenditure of fifteen thousand dollars or more, none of which would have to be furnished by local sources except the cost of the site.

Clanton has more than one possible and adaptable location for an airport. The question of securing and furnishing the site is before the commissioners as a county project. That applies the question in the proper manner, it seems to us.

There is no doubt about the future of air navigation and air commerce. It is a thing that is coming more surely and more rapidly than many of us realize. In fact now it is being carried on in much larger proportions than most people think.

Clanton's strategic location at the center of Alabama, the veritable cross-roads of the state, makes it more important that we prepare ourselves now for the future that lies before us in air navigation. We are on the main air line between Birmingham and Montgomery. We are near Maxwell Field, which is the base of operations and training of Uncle Sam's military aviation.

We hope that our county authorities will get the vision of what it means to our future to provide airplane landing facilities. Now is the time of all times to take advantage of our opportunities and get ready for the great future that is before us.

Governmental Waste

In an interview by the late Senator Underwood, of Alabama, for release after his death, that able statesman commented on the government's wasteful methods during the World War, of which its ship buildnig program was a striking example. Of this he said:

"The government decided to build its own ships, believing that the price of $80 a ton offered by the United States Steel corporation was too high.

"Well, we had first to build yards, towns, plumbing, lighting, pavements, all living conveniences for thousands of employees.

"At last we got to the actual building of ships. When we got through the ships had cost us, not $80 but from $250 to $300 a ton."

This indictment of government, operation of industrial plants was made, it should be remembered, by a Democrat who loyally supported President Wilson during the war, in spite of the tragic waste of time and money which Senator Underwood was powerless to prevent.

The lesson to be drawn from this: If you want something done in the slowest and most expensive way, let some political agency do it. If you want it done quickly and economically, leave it to private initiative and private enterprise.—Canby News-Press.

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Rumor, Surmise, and Otherwise

I wonder where The Chilton County News heard the rumor that "some Republican officials, or a Republican official" in Chilton County was trying to claim credit for the money that is being dished out so freely. I have asked quite a number of people, high, low, and in between, about it, Democrats and Republicans, and none of them heard anything about it until The News stated it as a fact. Frankly, I think somebody around The News office has had a pipe dream, or a nightmare, or something. And, after further examination, although I would hate to believe such of The News, I am about to come to believe, along with most everyone else, that the whole RUMOR is a complete fabrication, woven one way only from pure imagination, with no trace of a crossweave of truth in it. Inasmuch as The News is so anxious that the public have the FULL FACTS, surely it will be glad to furnish the source of the rumor. Now, that WOULD be interesting reading. I'm all ears. Let's have this interesting bit of information.

Another thing, The News seems quite hesitant about the whole matter, and is SO sorry to have to let the bad news of the rumor out. In fact, The News published it with tears in its eyes as big as alley apples. Oh, how that editor hated to have to tell the dear people of such bad practices by Republican county officials. But I can understand that part of it—maybe he had a hunch he MIGHT be called on to prove that such claims have been made, and maybe he also knew that he couldn't do it. That MIGHT cause some hesitancy, at that. But let's don't have any cold feet about this. Let's come forth with some more of those FULL FACTS. Let's have a show-down—if it's all true, then why not tell the name or names of the Republican officials that are trying to claim undue credit, and in what way. And if it is only a dream, as we must conclude if these names are not published and in what way they have claimed undue credit, the editor of The News can say so, and try to laugh it all off as a joke. Let's have it—one way or the other.

It's a funny thing. The national officials have put on all kinds of programs all over the nation, tending to keep raw materials off the market—such as the cotton destruction scheme, the national hog killing, the beef destruction program, the big wheat burnings, and like things. Yet, not many days ago, when a group of mid-western farmers undertook to keep raw farm products off the market of their own accord and so force the price up, these same officials considered calling out the National Guard units to attend to the matter of straightening out the tangle. "Consistency—thou art a jewel."

If you wake up some bright morning and see a red flag waving in front of your neighbor's house, don't be alarmed—it may not mean scarlet fever. It might mean you just have a Russian communist for a neighbor. The Russians are our bed-fellows now, thanks to Mr. Roosevelt. Most sane people, though, would rather have scarlet fever than live by a communist. The Stars and Stripes means nothing to communists, understand, except something to trample under foot; but that red rag is certainly something adorable and to be revered to them. Which do you like best?

The new deal has turned out to be pretty much of a raw deal, while most folks keep on waiting for a square deal.

Ben Franklin once said: "They who will not be counseled cannot be helped. If you will not hear reason, she will rap your knuckles. Good advice is seldom welcome, and those who need it most like it least." Page Mr. Roosevelt and the "brain trust" and let them read this. Maybe they never read Ben's wise sayings.

A headline says F. D. R. surveys recovery progress. And at the time he was surveying, he was on a vacation and rest trip down in Warm Springs, Ga. Methinks it was a darn good job to pick out to do right at this particular time (while resting) as it wasn't such a hard job, after all. He could survey the N.R.A. results in toto and play checkers all at the same time.

Now comes word that Hugh Johnson the great says it will be all right for Uncle Sam to buy trucks from Henry Ford, because he is complying with N. R. A. Regulations, even if he hasn't signed. And that's just what Henry kept telling them all the time. Hugh was all for making Henry sign any way, but "Hank's" fountain pen had run dry or something. Any way, he hasn't signed, and he's still doing business at the same old stand, code or no code.

All these Democrats resigning from high places in the cabinet, etc., remind one of rats leaving a sinking ship. By this method they do have a swimming chance.

Poor old Al Smith. He gets hit on every side. The Demmies helped beat him in 1928. Then when he was beaten in the convention last year, he couldn't exactly call that a red letter day, either. Then he came through and congratulated Mr. Roosevelt, and how these Southern newspapers did rave about good old big-hearted, honest Al. They told all about how he was one of the commonest of common people. All about how he fought for each and every bun and biscuit he got while young. He was SOME Democrat, then. But, of late, since he thinks things might be handled a little different than they are up at Washington, he has been branded everything from a Wall Street hireling all the way down to a common everyday slick-tailed rat. But Al doesn't worry. He just smiles and says: "Oh, well, I expected all this. You can never tell about a Democrat—most of them. They don't know what they want, and never have. And I ought to know. I've been one all my life."

Now someone takes a punch at love, the one and only thing that hasn't a code prescribed for it. He says: "Love may make the world go 'round, but it never will be able to make it go square."

Solomon turned over in his grave a few days ago and muttered a few words. A mummy near by couldn't hear well, being all bandaged up, and everything, but it sounded like this: "Women may have less imagination than men, but they know what they want—and usually get it."

A modern Solomon, who once played football, but has now settled down to try to tackle the world for a living, says: "No one ever traveled the road to fame on a pass." But things have changed since his time. That's about the only way a guy CAN build a big rep now. The old idea of working for what you get is just about obsolete.

People are getting wiser and wiser. Time was when they believed the saying that "Two can live as cheaply as one" and so were soon married. But the records show the marriage rate decreasing any way.

Another funny thing about that, though, is that although the marriage rate is decreasing, the birth rate is rising. You can answer that riddle, and go to the head of the class.

That'll be all for this time. But watch out next week in this column for "A Hell on Earth." It ought to be hot.—Man in the Moon.

Who Pays Pork Tax?

The processing tax on pork, which is to repay the government for its bounties to farmers who cut down on their hog production, is now partially in effect, although the amount of the tax is to be raised until it amounts to two cents a pound on live hogs by February 1. Some students of live stock affairs are pointing out the fact that since the tax first went into effect the price of hogs in the Chicago market has gone down just about the amount of the tax. This is leading to the question—who pays the processing tax?

It was believed, and intended, by those who favored the processing tax plan of "helping the farmer" that the tax would be paid by the consumers of pork products, and it was estimated that when the full tax came into effect the price of choice bits of pork would be raised in price all the way from twenty to forty per cent. But the fact that the price of hogs has declined in about the amount of the processing tax leads some exponents of the live stock industry to believe that perhaps, after all, the processing tax may be paid by the farmer himself. If this proves to be true it will only mean that the government is putting money in the right hand pants pocket and that it is being gently removed from the left hand pants pocket by somebody else. Only time can tell whether or not this suspicion is founded on fact. By the time February 1, 1934, rolls around and the full tax is in effect we will probably know. Either hogs will be selling at a much lower price on the live stock markets of the country or the consumer will be paying a much higher price for his portk. It is even barely possible that both horns of the dilemma will develop. For if the consumer, angered by a sudden increase in prices, goes on a strike against pork, then the price of live hogs is apt to go down whether the processing tax is indirectly levied on the farmer or not.

The Chicago Tribunt recently quoted the opinions of several live stock men to the effect that the man who sells live hogs is being made to pay the cost of the processors' tax, and citing the development of hog prices as a proof. One Illinois farmer is quoted as saying:

"By taxing the hogs $2 per cwt., after February 1 the government is taking away from the farmer through the hog market a sum equal to what he intends to pay him for signing a contract to reduce his crop. We know that the consumers are supposed to be paying this tax, but they are not doing so, and the actions of the hog market since the tax was announced prove who is really paying it. The farmer is, and will keep on doing so. When the tax is up to $2 the packers will buy live hogs that much less from the farmer."

An Iowa farmer is quoted as believing that the hog market is not able to stand the processing tax imposed by the government, and he adds "Unless the processing tax is taken off or at least held down to fifty cents a hundred weight, we will see lower prices for hogs before long."

Of course, if the processing tax is taken off, somebody will have to reimburse the government for the money paid to the farmers for reducing their production of hogs, and that somebody will be the illustrious forgotten man "Mr. Taxpayer."

Another Illinois hog raiser is quoted as saying

"Whoever thinks the hog raiser is not paying the tax on hogs through a lower price is fooling himself. I sold my prime 273 lb butcher hogs from pure bred stock at $4 last week, the top of the market on the day they were marketed. These hogs would have brought $5 just prior to the announcement of the tax on hogs and pork. As for signing the contracts to reduce our corn and hog production, we would be fools if we refused. It is the only way we have of getting back some of our tax money that the packers are taking out of the hog market to pay over to the government. No matter whether we sign we stand the expense of it through our market for hogs."

It was admitted by the A. A. A. that the tax processing plan for raising the income of the farmer was merely an experiment. Maybe the farmer will wake up some morning to learn that the experiment, as usual, was conducted at his expense.

The Man on the Corner

Best Wishes to Stapps

As Mr. and Mrs. Cohen E. Stapp go away from Chilton County to take up new duties in what we hope will be for them a larger and more pleasant field of service, they carry with them the love and best wishes of all of us.

Six years ago they came to us when County Agency work in its full and true sense was unknown to the people of Chilton County. The job was regarded as an experiment by our people, and it was up to C. E. Stapp to prove the value that had been assessed by those who had succeeded in popularizing a vision.

Here was opportunity for the Stapps in a quantity commensurate with their ample but not generally known ability. To say that they have served in a manner truly befitting their opportunity is but expressing the sincere conviction of all with whom they have come into contact.

We part with him honestly convinced that Cohen Stapp can not be excelled as a citizen. He has proven himself worthy of this estimate in every capacity. His approach to duty and his zeal to serve seem most appropriately expressed in the words of the ancient philosopher who declared, "I am a man, and nothing that concerns a man do I deem a matter of indifference to me."

He has not gone around any opportunity to help the people of our county. He has done more than what was prescribed as his duty as County Agent.

Mr. Stapp has done a laudable and constructive work here as County Agent. His value to our farmers is beyond estimate. He has not only been of worth in a material way, but he has exalted and held high a wonderfully sincere appreciation of spiritual values. These ideals of his have been made to permeate the community life of our people, and will ever stand as the most towering monument to his service in our county.

He has been every inch a citizen worthy of our love, respect, and confidence. He has expanded his usefulness through activity with the Kiwanis Club, the Boy Scouts, the Boys Clubs, the support of our schools, and a zealous attachment to the obligations of his church.

Mrs. Stapp, in the same spirit of noble impulse, has assumed and performed many public services without doing which she could have lived much more comfortably herself. She has rendered valuable and unselfish service through the church, the Pilot Club, as child welfare worker, as school attendance officer, and as teacher in our schools. Like her husband she has sought to serve through magnifying the human and spiritual rather than the material values of life.

We shall never know the full value of the Stapps to Chilton County. Any effort to summarize their manifold virtues is a task entirely beyond the ability of words or the wisdom or the vision of even the most farseeing amongst us.

We say goodbye to them with reluctance. We are sorry that those who could have done so did not choose to meet the requirements necessary to keep them. But they have moved on to another field. Much as we regret to say it, they are with us no more.

We congratulate Dothan and Houston County upon the acquisition of a man and woman whose worth is incalculable. We know they will continue to serve humanity and society with unstinted vigor and enthusiasm which is characteristic with them and seldom found to such a degree in human hearts.

We are thankful that it has been our privilege in life to know them, to love them, and to serve with them. They have been an inspiration to us and have shown us a new conception of the opportunity we have of living and working for mass progress and spiritual advancement as well as the material advantage of each other.

Cohen Stapp will receive a thousand dollars more in salary per year than he has received here. He deserves every cent of it and more too. The increase in salary will only mean to him that he will have that much more to give away. Chilton nor Houston nor any other county should ever fear that they will give to the Stapps more than they are worth.

May God bless you and keep you happy and contented in your great service to humanity, is our parting wish and prayer for the Stapps.

Welcome to Mr. Fant

The people of Chilton County extend a warm welcome to Mr. J. W. Fant, who comes here to serve in the capacity of County Farm Demonstration Agent, succeeding Cohen E. Stapp.

Mr. Fant was here last Saturday and met lots of folks. He made a good impression. He has the earmarks of a plain old country boy like the rest of us, and that means that we ought to get along well together. We will get along well.

Our new County Agent is a native of Blount County. Blount has turned out some of the greatest hill billies Alabama has ever known. For the past eight years Mr. Fant has been teaching vocational agriculture in the Elmore County High School at Eclectic.

He was educated and trained at Auburn. He comes here with the full recommendation of Emmett Sizemore, who is boss of the County Agents in this district of Alabama. Earle Thomas was in school with him at Auburn, and gives him the stamp of approval.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that we have secured a county agent who is able to carry on with the great program of progress, cooperation and community development so ably outlined by Cohen Stapp in the last six years.

But one thing remains to guarantee a glorious success for Mr. Fant in his work among us. That is the whole-hearted support of the people of our county. We believe they will give it to him in full measure. And if we do that, there is no doubt that Mr. Fant will prove a worthy successor to Cohen Stapp.

The family of Mr. Fant is composed of himself, his wife, and two children. That is one advantage he has over Mr. and Mrs. Stapp. We welcome the Fant family to Clanton and Chilton County. We predict that our people will do everything possible to make their residence with us pleasant, profitable, and of long duration.

A year ago cotton was five cents a pound asked the growers thought ten cents would be a good price. Now that it is ten cents and they want more because the price of the things the cotton grower has to buy has risen as much, if not more. But if cotton went to twenty cents what would prevent other prices from going up too? It would be a happy world if we could have inflation for what we sell and deflation for what we would have to buy.

NRA PROCEEDS AGAINST ALLEGED CODE VIOLATORS

Washington.—Two solft-coal mine operators, Moore Coal Co., of Putnam County, Mo., and Seals Bros. Co, near Centerville, Iowa, were cited to the Department of Justice by the National Compliance Board of NRA as alleged violators of the coal industry's code. Submission of evidence in this case is the first action of its kind, and follows repeated efforts on the part of the divisional code authorities and finally of the National Compliance Board to obtain compliance, all of which were unheeded. Both are accused of willful violation of both minimum-wage provisions and price schedules established under the code.

Acting on recommendation of the National Compliance Board, NRA ordered G. V. Armstrong, proprietor of the Green Front Cafe, 1419 Main Street, Joplin, Mo., to immediately surrender the Blue Eagle. The Joplin compliance board reported Armstrong violated both maximum-hour and minimum-wage provisions of the President's Agreement and ignored efforts of the local board to adjust complaints made by employees. Affidavits of employees revealed they were paid only $3.50 for working 49 or more hours a week, and that Armstrong demanded they tell inquiring patrons the Agreement was being fully complied with.

Acting on complaints of other compliance boards, the Blue Eagle was ordered surrenderd at once by the following restaurant proprietors: Coconis Restaurant Co., operating the Royal Cafe, 3905 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago; Neal Hubbard & Co., 613 Davis Street, Evanston, Ill., and the Black Hawk Cafe, Grand Island, Neb. All three were charged with violating wage provisions and neglecting to make restitution.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

In our last letter, we touched upon the decline in sales of electricity during the depression. You will be interested in the trend of our gross revenues for the past four years, as shown by the following tabulation:

1929	$18,301,845
1930	17,865,473
1931	17,727,713
1932	15,564,976

Three main factors have contributed to a loss in gross income of $2,750,000 in 1932 as compared with 1929. These factors are the loss of 12,500 customers who were compelled to discontinue electric service, reduced use by the remaining customers, and rate reductions.

Our customers generally are not aware that rate reductions since 1929 have effected savings in the cost of the service approximating $1,400,000 each year. Residential and rural customers and other small-volume users, such as cotton gins, have been the chief beneficiaries of these reductions.

While loss of business has made it necessary to operate our plants far below their normal capacity, it has not brought corresponding reductions in our expenses. That is because the cost of operating a large utility system such as ours cannot be reduced below a certain minimum whether the hydro plants are running full time or only part time.

Yours very truly,

Thos. Martin

President.

"Honesty is the best policy." This is an old saying, but it is a good one to shape your life by. If you live an honest life people will never suspect you, and in times of theft, you will always be above suspicion.

This funny poem was written by a sixth grade boy.

My Bought Cat

One day in town I bought a cat.
He kicked, bit and scratched, till I
Told him to scat.
He went away and never came back,
Because I carried him away in a sack.

I saw him yeserday on the street.
He looked clean, pretty and very neat.
I followed him and found where he stayed.
'Twas in an underbrush house he'd made.

I went home then but he followed me.
He went to my house just so he could see
If I had another cat as smart as he,
So they could travel away and happy be.

I called him near me and told him to stay.
He would not come, nor would be obey.
Finding no cat, away he went,
On the trail that formerly he'd been sent.

Away he went into the deep woods.
I'd like to go with him if I possibly could.
But, no, I couldn't, I had to stay,
Because mother had scolded and sent him away.

Christmas

Christmas comes only once a year.
Bringing glad tidings and good cheer.
Now, when from school we romp and play,
Our thoughts are all of Christmas
Day.

When Santa comes into the house
that night,
All the children are very quiet,
Till baby sis begins to cry
When she sees Santa's big bright eye.

We all pretend we're sound asleep,
But, my oh my, how we do peep.
For a single glimpse of those wonderful toys.
That Santa brings for our Christmas joys.

The clock strikes four in the early morn,
But look! Mother is holding the door.
"Wait," she said, "Till all are ready,
For Santa said wait for baby Betty."

At last we rush to see the toys.
Such laughing and romping for Christmas joys!
Even mother and dad laugh at the sight
Of the group of children so glad and bright.

OAK HILL NEWS

Our Sunday school and Epworth League are fine, but could be better if every one would come out and help us.

Mr. and Mrs. Early Ray of Jemison were the Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Glass.

Mrs. George Porter spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. G. W. Littleton.

Mr. Brasher Northcutt spent Sunday with friends at Union Grove.

Mr. B. C. Lenoir has been called bock to his job in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Atkinson were the Sunday afternoon guests of their daughter, Mrs. Henry Davenport.

Miss Mamie Davenport spent the week end with Miss Ruby Abbott of Jemison.

Mr. Herman Ellison spent Saturday night with Messrs. Owen and Ocie Litttleton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Davenport were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Davenport of Union Grove.

Mrs. W. A. Collum is visiting her daughter at Mars Hill this week.

Miss Onzelle Littleton was the guest of Miss Mary Jim Sutley Sunday.

Misses Ruby Abbot and Mamie Davenport spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Emma Atkinson.

All the friends of Mr. Felton Williams are glad to hear that he is improving.

A number of young people from here atended the preaching service at Union Grove Saturday night.

CHESTNUT GROVE SCHOOL NEWS

We are having a nice Sunday school here. We enjoyed a good sermon by Rev. Canant of Wilton Sunday afternoon. We are also glad to say that we are having a nice B. Y. P. U. at this place.

We are sorry to state that Mr. J. C. Jones's baby is now on the sick list.

Mr. Harry Nabors and wife visited his father and mother here Sunday.

We will have an entertainment Friday night, December 15, for the benefit of the school. Beginning at 6 p.m. we will have a fish pond, box supper and a cake for the prettiest girl. So boys, you must come and see that the prettiest girl gets the cake and buy your girl's box. Mr. Luher E. Little will make us an address at 6 oclock.

Don't forget the date, Friday night, December 15th, at 6 oclock p.m.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing at Friendship church, one mile north of Clanton, next Sunday afternoon, December 17. A supply of both books will be on hand, and the singers of the county are invited to participate.

The singers are also asked to bear in mind the singing at the courthouse the fifth Sunday afternoon in this month.

The Commissioners Court all made a trip to Montgomery on business on Wednesday morning.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Health is favorably good at this writing. We are glad to hear that Mrs. W. N. Thomas is improving.

The people of this community were shocked and grieved early last Thursday morning to hear of the death of little Kagene Childress, during the night. She had been sick several days. She was the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Childress. Weep not, dear friends, little Kagene was just a beautiful flower budded on earth to bloom in heaven. Burial was in Mars Hill cemetery Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Sunday school was good last Sunday. Rev. Cost filled his regular appointment here Saturday night and at 11 a.m. Sunday, with Rev. J. E. George concluding the 11 o'clock sermon with some wonderful thoughts.

Several from here attended the singing at Providence Sunday afternoon. They reported the singing some better than usual, but not as good as it should have been. If everybody would take hold and do their part, it would be better.

B. Y. P. U. was good Sunday night, but best of all was the wonderful serman Sunday night by Rev. Green of Jemison. The house was just about full. There were people from several of the adjoining communities. Come again.

Listen folks, next Sunday night after B. Y. P. U. Rev. Maurice Hodgens of Howard College will preach for us. Everybody come that can. He is a Chilton County boy. He attended Jemison High School before entering Howard College. Let's encourage him all we can by our presence at church Sunday night. Would be glad for as many as can, of his school mates to come out and hear him.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends was that of Mr. Earl Smitherman and Miss Nellie Cox, of Dry Valley, last Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Miss Gladys Moore of Randolph spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott.

Lelia George spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Janie Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Scott and children and Mr. W. R. Scott were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum Sunday.

Misses Irene and Olene Miller and Mildred Cobb and Mr. Alton Cobb were the dinner guests of Mr. J. O. and Miss Mabel Cobb Sunday.

Messrs. Lloyd Edwards and Leo Cobb spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mrs. Joe Smitherman and Mrs. Jimmie Sims of Sylacauga visited their sister, Mrs. J. T. Childress, part of last week.

Mesdames Buster Scott, J. W. Collum and J. E. Cobb visited Mrs. W. R. Scott Monday and helped her quilt.

Some of the young folks from Oak Grove visited Miss Croquise Barnes Saturday night.

Miss Addie Collum spent Tuesday night with Miss Eula Langston of Mars Hill.

Remember next Sunday night and come hear Mr. Hodgens.

B. Y. P. U. at 6 o'clock. Everybody try to be on time next Sunday night.

IN MEMORY OF J. T. TURNER

Our hearts were saddened and a very serious thought came to us on December 1, 1933 of the death we must meet when God calls us, just as Mr. J. T. Turner did by answering his Lord's call. We want to join him, the angels and Christ in a land where sorrow never comes, with the same farewell unspoken, we want to calmly enter into His mansions as daddy did. We must not weep or wish him back with us, because it was the Lord's will for him to leave this earth, but we must strive and work forward to the time when we can meet him.

Among Mr. J. T. Turner's friends, six of them acted as pallbearers. They were Messrs. Emanuel Cooper, Welby Cooper, Johnnie Chambers, Marvin Lowery, Herschel Lowery and Hiram Littlejohn, all of the Liberty Hill community. All the beautiful flowers showed the respect of daddy's many friends. Let us not forget to give flowers on such occasions, but also remember to give them to our friends while they are living and can enjoy them.

Mr. Turner leaves to mourn his death his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Turner; five sons, Robert, of Birmingham, Horace, of Dallas, Texas, William, Elijah and Johnnie of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Zackie Lowery, Gladys and Juanita of Clanton; two brothers, Sam and Lee Turner of Pletcher; three sisters, Mrs. Ed Rainwater of Prattville, Mrs. Jake Williams of Billingsley and Mrs. Mattie Weldon of Sylacauga and a host of friends.

The remains were laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery. Rev. J. H. Limbrick of near Billingsley conducted the funeral. The Clanton quartet and Liberty Hill choir were in charge of the singing. Martin and Sons were in charge.—Written by his daughter, Gladys Turner.

Death of Mr. J. H. Goddard

Thorsby feels a great loss in the death of John Henry Goddard, who passed away December 10th, 1933, age 89 years. Mr. Goddard was born in Meigs County, Ohio, August 10, 1844, and came to Alabama almost 27 years ago. He lived near Clanton 10 years and moved to Thorsby 16 years ago. He was the son of Benjamin and Mary Frazee Goddard. He served 3½ years in the war between the states. He is survied by his wife, brothers, one son, nine grandchildren, 11 great grandchildren, and one great great grandson. Mr. Goddard was for many years an active member of the board of trustees of Thorsby Institute. He was a grand old soldier. He suffered much during the past 12 years, but bore his suffering with such fortitude and patience as to win the admiration of his many friends.

The Helen Keller Literary Christmas program will be given Saturday night, December 16, at 7:30. It will consist of a play and singing of carols. Everyone is invited. Admission is ten cents.

Thursday, December 21, school closes for the Christmas vacation. It will reopen at 8:30 Wednesday, January 3.

On Tuesday morning at ten o'clock the seniors planted their class tree on the campus in front of Helen Jenkins hall. Each senior read a poem or verse concerning a tree or gave a talk when their turn came to put a shovel of soil around the tree. The senior class presented the school with a shovel to be used by the graduating classes each year in planting a tree. They suggested that the colors of the succeeding classes be put on the spade.

EARLE THOMAS WILL RUN FOR STATE SENATOR

While in Clanton Monday Earle Thomas, of Isabella, said he had made up his mind he will give Dr. Gragg a run for his money in the race for State Senator next year.

"Dr. Gragg has been my family doctor for a long time," said Mr. Thomas, "and I like him very much. In fact I like him so well that I want him to keep on doctoring and not get strayed off into senatoring. Therefore, I have concluded I will try to beat him in the Senate race, so I can go to Montgomery and look after the legislative ailments and let him stay at home and continue to take care of physical ailments."

Of course, the above was said by Mr. Thomas in a jocular manner, as he and Dr. Gragg are the best of friends. Either of them will make a good offering on the part of the Democratic party for State Senator.

Mr. Thomas has been in Chilton County for about nine years, engaged in vocational agriculture teaching at Isabella High School. He is a good man, a keen student of public affairs, and can be a powerful representative of the interests of the farmers in the State's law-making body. He knows farmers and farm problems, and is thoroughly capable of following the farmers' best interests through the haze of legislative entanglements in the Senate. He is a Democrat, and this bid for the State Senate will be his first venture into the field of politics. He will be a candidate in Chilton, Shelby and Autauga Counties, which compose this Senatorial District. According to the unwritten law of averages, this is the time for Chilton to supply the Senator for this district, and according to the usual political strength of the two parties in the district, it is practically certain that the candidate the Democrats nominate will be elected to the office in November. So far Gragg and Thomas are the only candidates entered in the race.

ISABELLA 4-H CLUB

On Friday, December 8, the members of Isabella 4-H club held their regular meeting with Miss Ruth Pardue in the home economics department.

Our enrollment has increased greatly since the organization in October. We now have 52 members. Since clothing is the phase of work we are now taking up, each girl has selected the garment that she will make.

By the next meeting, which will be on the first Thursday in January, each member is supposed to have her material and equipped sewing box, which is required for the making of her garment she has chosen to make.

The club is divided into four groups, and each group will make different garments.—Louise Cox, reporter.

Big Rally Coming

When I came to Chilton County, a school debt of $375 was inherited. I thought that this was only a small amount and that it would be easily paid in about twelve months. But 'lady luck' in the form of the depression has dealt ungratefully with everybody since that time, and it has been all that we could do to keep the interest paid up. To this time $150, including interest and principal has been paid. The interest has recently been paid to Februray 25th at which time the balance of $280 will be due.

Special efforts are being put forth to raise this entire sum. It can be done, if we want to do it. The trustees are asking every person in Chilton County to give one dollar. At some time in the near future, representatives of the school will be calling upon you to do your part toward making this a success. Help put this job over.

Trip to Tuskegee

A group of farmers of Chilton County accompanied the teacher of agriculture to the forty-third annual Negro Farmers Conference, held at Tuskegee, December 3rd. More than 4,000 farmers, ministers and business men from all of the southern states gathered at the confab. Upon their return many of them are working new plans in an effort to do some of those splendid things suggested to them at Tuskegee. It would be well for more of our people to attend these annual conferences, for it leads to better farms, better homes, better communities, better churches and a better country in which to live.

These New Jobs

It's a fine thing to have a job, folks, but I want you farmers to be mighty careful. Do you know that lots of our folks lost their crops on the road working? Don't abandon your farm for the C.W.A. It's simply here for a season. Don't sign up just because you can. If there is any way out without signing up, don't sign up. Stay at home, cut wood for the summer, repair those broken tools, repair that pasture fence so your stock won't disturb your neighbor as they did last year, clean up that old bottom land and cut a ditch there to drain the water, break that land that isn't so bad about washing, fix up your gardens and get ready for early spring gardens, fix that leak in the barn, make shelter for your stock, build a chicken house, terrace your land and stop those big washes that worried you so much during the summer, and you can't find time to sign up with the C.W.A.—Benj. Anderson.

AUBURN QUARTET WANTS CONCERT HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a letter from Mr. J. B. Hammond, of Wetumpka, Ala., stating that a quartet from Auburn wants to put on a concert at Clanton Wednesday, December 20th. We do not know anything about it other than what Mr. Hammond says in his letter. We quote the letter below:

"Wetumpka, Ala., Dec. 11, 1933. Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Clanton, Ala. Dear Sir: J. Everett Devaughn told me to ask you to give him a little write up. I expected to see you last week.

"He is in school at Auburn. Auburn has secured a musician of world wide reputation. They have a real quartet, and want a concert at Clanton Wednesday night, December 20th. The object is drumming for students who are musical. I am sure he has written you about this matter. He says that bunch can sing anything at sight. Your friend, J. B. Hammond."

As stated above, all we know about the concert is what Mr. Hammond writes. We did not get a letter from J. Everett Devaughn. All the singers in Chilton County know Mr. Hammond, and most of them know J. Everett Devaughn. Those around here who like singing would be glad to hear this quartet, we are sure; and if they come here and our people know about it, we are sure they will turn out to hear them.

JOHNSON-EASTERLING

Mr. and Mrs. J. Matt Johnson announce the engagement of their daughter, Geneva Hazel, to Mr. W. Girthie Easterling, the wedding to take place at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday evening, December 16, 1933. Mr. Easterling is a son of Mr. W. E. Easterling, of Clanton Rte. 1.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE FOR GIVING OUT PAY CHECKS

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin advises of the following dates for giving out pay checks, which is a revision of the schedule as announced last week:

On Saturdays checks will be given out at the places at the hours stated:

Coopers, Thorsby and Jemison at 9 o'clock a.m., Verbena at 10 o'clock a. m. Pletcher and Mt. Creek at 12 o'clock noon.

All who are interested in this matter at the above named places are urged to take due notice of these changes and be governed accordingly.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our many thanks to our neighbors and friends for their untiring efforts of service during the sickness and death of our dear father, Mr. F. W. Johnson, and for the flowers which showed that he had many friends.

We Want to thank Mr. Daniel and Mr. Boyet of the Spigener Funeral Home for their kindness shown us. Also do we wish to thank Dr. Arthur Johnson for his service. May the Lord richly bless each and everyone who helped us in any way, is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wilkins.

SHAREHOLDERS' MEETING

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of Clanton will be held in the directors' room of the bank at 7 o'clock p.m., on Tuesday, January 16, 1934, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before them.

This, December 9, 1933.
12-14-4tch J. C. PAGE, Cashier.

SHERIFF'S SALE—REAL ESTATE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

BANKERS CODE

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

In keeping with the spirit as well as the letter of the National recovery program, the East Central Alabama Clearing House Association, in compliance with the bankers N.R.A. Code, has adopted the following "Schedule of Service Charges."

1. Checking Accounts. (An active checking account shall be deemed to be an account against which one or more checks have been drawn within the month). Active checking accounts, the minimum balance of which falls below $50.00 during the month and against which more than 3 checks have been drawn within the month, shall be assessed a service charge of 50c, provided that not more than 5 checks have been drawn against such an account during the month. If more than 5 checks have been drawn against such an account during the month an additional charge of 3c each shall be made for all checks in excess of 5.

On accounts of average balances of $50.00 and over, one check will be allowed for each $10.00 of average balance during the month and a charge of 3c each will be made against all checks in excess of this amount.

2. Maintenance Charge. On all checking accounts, the average balances of which have been less than $25.00 for a period of 3 years preceding the charge and against which no service charge has been assessed by reason of inactivity or otherwise, shall be assessed a maintenance charge of 25c per month until the balance of such account shall have been built up to $25.00 or more or, by reason of activity, said account shall come under the regular service charge.

3. Individuals, who are not customers of the bank, shall be assessed an exchange fee for cashing out-of-town checks of 15c per $100.00, with a minimum charge of 10c.

4. For all exchange checks, drafts, cashier's checks, etc., issued by the bank, there shall be a charge of 12½c per $100.00, with a minimum charge of 12c. This charge shall apply to customers and non-customers alike.

5. Travelers checks are to be charged for at the rate of 75c per $100.00 plus government tax, with a minimum charge of 40c plus tax.

6. There shall be a charge of 25c per $100.00, with a mimimum charge of 12c, on all checks left for collection. This charge shall apply to customers or non-customers.

7. For all transactions executed specifically for non-customers or customers requiring special postage, registration fees, insurance charges, etc.. all such costs shall be paid by the customer or non-customer.

8. Extra supplies for customers, such as endorsement stamps, special checks, overprinting of checks, ink pads, etc., shall be paid for by the customers at actual cost.

9. For every check returned through the mails on account of insufficient funds, the account against which the check was drawn shall be assessed with a charge of 25c for each such check.

10. The practice of overdrawing one's account shall not be permitted within the association.

11. All banks shall make a charge of 25c for making credit reports, except in the case of reports made for other banks.

12. Each bank may make a charge on notes allowed to run overdue without attention by the maker of 25c for the first overdue notice and 5c for each additional notice, plus the accrued interest on the note.

13. It is understood that the above service charge shall be considered the minimum that may be imposed by any member of this association and that any member so desiring may install a higher schedule of charges that it may choose, not in conflict with the spirit of the code.

14. The above "Schedule of Service Charges" to become effective December 1st, 1933. (Chilton County banks January 1, 1934.)

INTEREST ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS:

The rate of interest within the association on all savings deposits shall be at the rate of 3% per annum, payable January 1st and July 1st. The interest rate on Certificates of Deposit shall not be in excess of 3% per annum.

In compliance with a ruling of the Federal Reserve Board, based on the Banking Act of 1933, deposits on Savings Accounts made after the 1st day of the month will bear interest from the 1st day of the following month. All withdrawals during the interest periods will be deducted from the last deposit or deposits. Pass books shall accompany all withdrawals and deposits. No interest will be paid on deposits made and withdrawn within the interest period.

The above "Schedule of Service Charges" is subject to change by the Bankers N.R.A. Code Committee.

"HERE COMES CHARLIE"

The play, "Here Comes Charlie," will be presented by the senior class of the Isabella High school at Maplesville Auditorium Saturday night, December 23. Admission will be 15c and 25c.

The druggist danced with joy till the very bottles on the shelves rattled.

"What's up?" asked the boy who makes sandwiches. "Are you going to have a fit?"

"No," said the druggist, "but you remember when our water pipes were frozen up in December—"

"Yes, but what?—"

"Well, the plumber who fixed them has just come in to have a prescription filled."

WOMEN WORK WITH C. W. A.

Supervision of the program to put a number of women to work under the Civil Works Administration has been placed in charge of Miss Kitty Clyde Austin and Miss Ruth Pardue.

Concerning this phase of the re-employment program Miss Austin and Miss Pardue have issued the following request:

Since most of the women's work under the C. W. A. program consists of taking surveys, we are asking the co-operation of the people over the county in giving information asked for.

BAKER SCHOOL

(Intended for last week's news)

The Thanksgiving program was a success last Thursday night. Our attendance was very good. We noticed quite a number of parents were present. This is very encouraging to the teachers. When the parents coperate with the teachers, it improves the school spirit. We were so glad to have comfortable seats for our audience. The school is very much indebetd to Liberty Hill church for this added convenience and are very grateful to the church for the benches.

The P.-T. A. had a call meeting Tuesday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss buying a turkey to be sold by "chance." Don't you want to have a big fat turkey for your Christmas dinner? If so please be ready to purchase a chance when we call on you. The money we get from this drive will be used for the benefit of the school. Our school is very anxious to get out of debt. So please cooperate with us and we shall be out of debt when school closes this time.

(This week's news)

Last Friday afternoon the Baker school boys and girls played the Thomas Jr., boys and girls in a basket ball game. We had two wonderful games, the scores were 24 to 6 in favor of Thomas Jr. girls and the scores for the boys were 28 to 14 in favor of Thomas Jr.

Next Friday afternoon, December 15, the Baker boys are going to play the Cooper boys on the local court. So come on boys and girls and help us boast our team and try to win.

Announcement

There is going to be a concert at our school on December 22. The Libery Hill quartet will give their musical concert. Everybody come and bring someone with you. The admission fee will be five cents for all the children from the third grade down and a dime for everyone else.

Remember that the turkey will be given away to the winner on that night, December 22. Everybody buy a chance and come in the hopes of winning the turkey for your Christmas dinner.

The P.-T. A. meeting is going to be Thursday, December 21, and we want to urge the members of the association to be sure and be there and all others who will be interested. Remember the date, December 21.

Dr. J. Lamar Callaway went to Havana, Florida, this week to attend to some business matters, before returning to his work at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina.

FRIENDS:

Mr. Parrish's store, the Southern Seed & Plant Co., is loaded down with the finest assortment of fruits and candies I have ever seen, and I just wish everybody had some of them for Christmas. I want all my friends to come and let me fix up what you need.

Miss Mildred Coe was the all' day guest of Miss Rubye Weldon Saturday.

Remember we invite all singers to come and help us next Sunday.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In our college we recently have had three days of general education. We brought to our platform a great many speakers. Sullins Stuart, the son of George R. Stuart, spoke on the subject, "My Father and His Associates." Sam Jones and George Stuart were mighty men. They were different. They supplemented each other. God never made any two people alike.

Mr. Webb from Bellbuckle, Tenn., spoke on the subject, "My Father and His Idea of Education." I have never heard a more interesting address. Mr. Webb's father was over eigthy when he died. While he was dying he had one of those visions which dying men sometimes have. He told his son, "They are calling me. There are father and mother." He named other members of the family. Then he called the name of his old school master and said, "He is speaking to me." The son said, "Father, if he is speaking to you, he is telling you to be still." The old man grew quiet and said, "Son, if he is telling me to be still, I will do it. I never disobeyed him in my life." That explains the rugged character of the famous founder of the Webb School. He was taught the lesson of obedience. Mr. Webb said that he had rather have a boy who says, "I seen" if he had seen something than to say "I have seen" if he had not seen anything.

In our modernistic world we have allowed young people to do as they please. We have talked about self-expression rather than self-control. What this country needs is a revival of old time parental authority. It is better to know how to live than it is to know facts about life.

Dr. Warren, president of Carson-Newman College, in his wonderful address said, "The Soul of Education is the Education of the Soul." Somebody else said, "Education is What We Have Left After We Forget all We Learn."

There is a tendency in education to go back to the old standard. The men who made this nation the greatest nation in the world were educated under the old system.

PETE JARMAN DECLINES TO ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR

The many friends of Pete B. Jarman will be interested in the following statement from him relative to his prospective race for Governor of Alabama:

"While I have never been a candidate for Governor, nor initiated an originial conversation or correspondence on the subject, I have received many solicitations that I run and assurances of support in the event I did. This is most gratifying and I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart. In fact, this unsolicited strength, fostered by my friends, will ever remain one of the bright spots in my life.

"Although I have not recently been mentioned in the press as a prospective candidate, I consider it my duty to the thousands of friends throughout the state who have urged me to run, many of whom await my decision, to again express my keen appreciation and to say that the expense necessary to a campaign for governor, coupled with the economic situation, prevents my doing so."

COTTON GIN REPORT

There were ginned in Chilton County 12,227 bales of cotton of the 1933 crop prior to December 1, as compared with 11,772 bales ginned prior to the same date in 1932. These figures were given out Monday by B. L. Vance, cotton census enumerator for Chilton County.

WHAT MR. STAPP HAS DONE FOR THE 4-H CLUB BOYS HERE

The 4-H Club boys are very sorry to hear that our leader and adviser, who organized the 4-H Club in Chilton County, Mr. C. E. Stapp, is leaving us.

I can say for all the boys that we have enjoyed working with Mr. Stapp. He has shown us a good time on club camps, club rallies, and picnics. We have gained greater farming ability through the club projects we have carried, learned more about keeping records on projects.

Mr. Stapp has gotten pure-bred cattle started in this county. A number of the boys have obtained pure-bred calves through Mr. Stapp. A Jersey Calf Club has been organized and some of the boys in the club have won prizes on judging of cattle, also prizes on having the best calf.

Some pure-bred bulls have been placed in the county by Mr. Stapp. As 4-H Club members, we believe that the commissioners of the county will not let the county be without a county agent. We have learned Mr. Stapp's ways and have learned to love him. If we get a new county agent this task will be to do over. We hope he will carry on the 4-H club work and others as Mr. Stapp has since he has been in the county.—Clifford M. Manning, President of Boys 4-H Club.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and every one for their kindness shown during the illness and death of our beloved wife and sister.

We want to especially thank the doctors and undertaker, Martin, for their kindness. May God bless each and everyone is our prayer.—Mr. J. E. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Connell and Family.

IN MEMORY OF JULIA D. JONES

On Sunday morning, November 5th, 1933, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Viola Smith and took away from them their loving mother to her happy home in the great beyond. She was 69 years of age and had been an invalid for 46 years. She always wore a smile and bore her suffering with patience. But our loss is heaven's gain. Her husband preceded her to the grave three years ago.

Some day in the future, we know not where and we know not when, God will summons us to leave this old world of sin. If we have obeyed Him He will claim us for his own and we shall rejoice with His loved ones around the throne.

She leaves to mourn her loss three children 15 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. The children are Mrs. Cuba Brand, Mrs. Viola Smith and Mr. Grover Jones, all of Clanton.

Weep not that her toils are over. Weep not that her race is run. God grant we may rest as calmly when our work, like her's is done, til then, we yield with gladness, our moher to Him to keep and rejoice in the sweet assurance He giveth his loved ones sleep.

She was laid to rest in Mullins cemetery with Rev. W. S. Cox and Dr. S. J. Ezell conducting the services with Martin & Sons in charge.—Her granddaughter, Gertie Mae Brand.

C. E. Stapp is in Auburn the first of this week attending a conference of County Agents. From Auburn he will proceed on Wednesday to Dothan, where he will take up his work as County Agent of Houston County.

Judge Reynolds made a trip to Montgomery Wednesday morning.

East View News

Only eleven days until Christmas, one of the greatest and international holidays of the years. A very few of us know the origin of this sacred day. Christmas, the holiday commerating the birth of Christ, originated in the early centuries of Christianity. At first the date of the celebration varied but by the fifth century all Christian countries observed Christmas on December 25. The custom of presenting our loved ones with gifts sprang from the historical presentation of gifts to Christ, the babe, by the three wise men. The Yule log, the mistletoe, and the holly are all relic of symbols used by the pagan Gauls, Germans and Britons. Now every human throughout this world takes part in some way in the observance, of the birth of Christ, our Savior. This is the reason that there is always a beautiful feeling and spirit of brotherhood in people during the Christmas season.

The members of the Senior Three Class feel that they have never spent part of their time any more profitable than they did last Thursday night when they were the guests of the Clanton Kiwanis Club. Every Senior greatly enjoyed the big-brother atmosphere of the meeting, the purpose of which was to bring the youth closer to the experienced and learned men of various walks of life. The club urged that each member of th class have at least one heart to heart talk with some member of the club, on preparing for his life's vocation. We are sure that the speech made by Mr. Joe Lewis, of Selma, head of the Y. M. C. A. there and district governor of the Kiwanis, was enjoyed by all. He painted to us a true picturt of what was facing us in th nxt thirty years and told us how we could prepared to meet the obstacles of life.

It seems that the class enjoyed the magical tricks with coins by Dr. Sam Mosley also of Selma and a guest of the club.

The Senior I home economics girls under the instruction of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, were responsible for the delicious and bountiful plate served at the Kiwanis Club last Thursday. Every one had favorable comments to bestow on the manner of serving and on the preparation of the delicious food.

Many of our boys will receive letters this year for their efforts in football. Those boys receiving letters in football are: Willis Baker, Emanuel Cooper, Carson Eiland, Capt. Jesse Frank Foshee, Jack Gillespie, Osmond Glenn, Carl Jones, Joe Moore, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Morgan Reyonlds, Sidney Reynolds, D. H. Wilder, U. L. Baker, and James Tiffin. Dan Sanford was voted a letter by the team for his efficient services as manager.

The "C" Club, whose membership is made up of boys who have been awarded letters in athletics, initiated several new members last week. The final rites were performed last Tuesday night at the schoolhouse. Different steps in the initiation were carride out last week when the boys appeared at school in dresses, kid costumes and other humerous attire. The boys who have the honor of being made a member of the "C" Club this year are: D. H. Wilder, Melvin Powell, Jack Gillespie, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Osmond Glenn, Carson Eiland, U. L. Baker and Dan Sanford.

Regular basketball practice began last Monday afternoon with about twenty boys reporting. All prospects point to a successful season for our basketball team. This will be the first time Coach Searcy has coached a basket ball team here and every student is looking forward to being able to yell for a winning team.

The senior class has erected a bulletin board in their session room and it is filled with valuable material, on Shakespeare, suitable books to read and subjects of interest to the English and democracy class. News articles will be posted as the term goes on and every senior should watch this board for there is some helpful material on it.

Who am I? Am in the Senior high. Some boys think I am good looking and so do some girls. Have black hair. Sorta resemble a movie star. Am a member of the masculine group. Have no sweetheart. Played football. Live in twon. Love to fool around with other boys girls. Drive a car. And was told that I had lots of grit. and intestinal fortitude, (guts), because of a statement I made once.

The Junior One Class has entered into the Christmas spirit already. Holly and other Christmas decorations can be seen adorning the walls of their sessoin room.

Mr. J. T. Searcy, teacher in math and athletic director, is the personage the writer will attempt to write about this week. Mr. Searcy is a native Alabamian, having been born at Clayton, Alabama. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Searcy. He was educated in the public schools of his home town, graduating from the high school there in 1922. Following this he entered the Troy Normal School at Troy and graduated from there in 1924. The next four years Mr. Searcy spent at the University of Alabama and was awarded his B. S. degree in education in 1928. Here Mr. Searcy began his playing of football. He played two years of college football, basketball and baseball, therefore, he has indeed much valuable experience in athletics. Before coming to C.C. H. S. he taught four years at Sulligent, Alabama. Mr. Searcy assumed the duties as athletic director here when Mr. H. T. Walker entered government service at Fort McClellan during the middle of football season. Mr. Searcy has had ten years experience as an athletic coach and by the results of his work with hte boys here we ar assurd that we have among us a real football coach. Besides success as a football coach, Mr. Searcy has proven himself worthy of a place in our faculty by his school spirit and work as academic instructor, as well as a successful coach.

Just between friends.—Wonder why a certain Senior II stood a certain Senior III up last Saturday night . . . Yeah, that's the thing to do get mad with your girl before Christmas, but make up after Christmas . . . . What has become of our new club? . . . . That ship is still in the rivals harbor, and the crew landed last Saturday night.

The entire student group is glad to learn that John Ezell will not leave us as his parents have decided to remain in Clanton. It was hoped that John would remain with his class any way since three boys in that class have been together for the past eleven years, in schools during the vacations and will graduate together this year. John Ezell, Joe Moore and the writer entered first grade together eleven years ago and have worked together and had fights with each other, and have been pals during that time. Perhaps there are other groups of students who have been together like this. If so please give the writer your names.

The honor roll for the month of September is published below. These students whose names appear below have neither been absent nor tardy for November and have made the grade A in deportment. These requirements are necessary before one may be placed on the honor rolls, regardless of their academic grades.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to

. . . keep the bowel action regular and comfortable
. . . make constipated spells as rare as colds
. . . avoid danger of bowel strain
—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can overcome this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels just as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Will not irritate kidneys. The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you syrup pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drugstores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.

THOUSAND IDLE TEACHERS TO BE PUT BACK TO WORK

Montgomery, Ala. Dec. 12. — One thousand unemployed teachers of the state will be put to work by Monday morning by the Alabama Relief Administration under the direction of the state Department of Education, Frank L. Grove, secretary of the Alabama Education Association, announced in Montgomery Saturday. At the close of Thursday, 827 teachers had been assigned work, this official reported, and applications expected to be approved Friday and Saturday will extend the total to more than a thousand.

A minimum weekly salary of $12 is being designated in the contracts signed by the teachers, which amount upon the recommendation of the local relief worker and the county or city superintendent of education, may be increased to equal the salary usually paid for such work in the community served.

Money to the amount of $50,000 a month released by the federal government through the office of Thad Holt, Alabama Relief Administrator, is being used for the purpose. Funds for the employment of additional teachers are available, State Department officials announced, and teachers who are eligible for the positions are urged to file application immediately with their respective superintendents, who will submit such applications to Montgomery for approval.

More than 1,300 classes have already been organized on a six-weeks basis in illiteracy, home economics, agriculture, elementary school subjects, physical education and "general education." To date applications from 48 counties and 16 cities have been approved while applications from 6 counties are being held up waiting adjustments. This gives a total of 54 of the 67 counties and 18 of the 47 cities that have requested relief work for teachers. The counties leading in the number of teachers so far assigned work are: Jefferson, 42; Hale 35; Pickens, 32; Marshall and Perry, 31 each, and Montgomery 27.

Included in the $50,000 allotted monthly for teacher relief, a special monthly allotment of $2,000 is available for rehabilitation services. This amount may be used for the training of teachers to do rehabilitation work, for the purchase of necessary appliances, and for the traveling expenses of those served. Applicants for this special assistance must be over 16 years of age and must be unemployed.

OAK GROVE

The Senior B. Y. P. U. of Oak Grove had as their honored guests Sunday evening Collins Chapel Senior B. Y. P. U. During their visit they gave us a most helpful and beautiful program. The foundation of their program was "Jesus." The structure was His life and the polish was soft music chanted from the choir. We think Collins Chapel was just grand, and especially their religious organizations. We challenge Chilton County and the State of Alabama to shape their examples as those instituted in the hearts and minds of this glorious band of young Christian followers at the Chapel.

We have been wondrously blest since meeting this union. Our prayers are that they will continue their good works and to serve our Master.

Why not pay Collins Chapel a visit? Then, once interested always interested.

Don't forget our play, "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," a three act performance to be presented at Oak Grove school building next Saturday evening, December 16th at 7:30 o'clock p.m. A full two and one-half hours of fun will be guaranteed to all who come. The admision will be 10 cents and 15 cents. The proceeds of the play will be used in purchasing a new set of church song books.

The list of characters in order of their appearance are:

Peg, the cook, Thelma Pierce; Mickey, farm hand, Frank Lesley; Sylvia, the niece, Irene Lesley; Yimmie, from Monnasoto, Marvin Stuley; Frank, the clerk, Charles Nix; Kittie the helper, Pauline Lesley; Belle, the foster daughter, Nannie Sammons; Mrs. Kent, the mother, Dorothy Dees; Mr. Kent, the father, Mr. J. C. Seay; Pal, detective, Jack Pierce.

So don't forget—Saturday night, December 16. Admission 10 cents and 15 cents; seven-thirty p.m.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Sunday afternoon, December 10, at 1:30 o'clock, the singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. W. M. Devaughn with two songs, followed with a prayer by Mr. W. F. Gilliland. The directors for the evening were:

A. O. Boswell, L. D. Hughes, W. F. Gilliland, O. L. Devaughn, Raymond Gilliland, Floy Devaughn, Dewey Jones, J. B. Crew, Emmett Wilson, Jessie Jones, W. G. Culp, W. M. Devaughn. Several quartets were arranged by Jessie Jones. O. L. Devaughn sang the closing song and J. L. Smith dismissed with prayer.

The representation from Cooper was large also from Clanton and a number of other places. We appreciate your interest in helping us and invite you and everybody else back on the fourth Sunday. The class grows bigger and better every Sunday, so we are expecting to put it over in a big way next time. We realize that we have some competition on every fourth Sunday, but let's try to divide up equally.—Sec'ty.

BOX SUPPER AT CANE CREEK

There will be a box supper at Cane Creek Saturday night, December 16, at 7:30 o'clock. Be sure and come and bring some one with you.

Misses Mary Jim Sutley, Roberta and Gladys Satterwhite, Messrs. Jimmie Cofer and Marvin Sutley attended a candy making over at Mr. Ben Tom Haynes last Saturday. All reported a wonderful time.

Miss Onzell Littleton dined with Miss Mary Jim Sutley Sunday.

Mrs. Lester Northcutt has been ill at her home this week. We hope she will soon be well.

Lesson for December 17

PAUL IN ROME

LESSON TEXT—Acts 28:11-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Philippians 3:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Has Guests.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Journey to Rome.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Goals to be Reached.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Finding and Fulfilling God's Purpose.

Rome was the center of the world's power and influence. Paul expressed a longing to see Rome (Romans 1:11). His object so far as the Roman church was concerned was twofold.

First, that he might impart to them some spiritual gift, to the end that they might be established.

Second, that he might be comforted by their fellowship.

His vision no doubt extended beyond the Roman church. His hope was that from that metropolis the gospel might find its way to all parts of the world.

I. Paul's Voyage to Rome (Acts 27).

1. The ship (vv. 1-6). It was a vessel of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company (vv. 1, 2). Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, were permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were two hundred and seventy-three in the ship (v. 37).

3. Overtaken by a storm (vv. 7-20). Paul had advised that they spend the winter in Fair Havens, (vv. 8-12) but his advice was not heeded. The gentle south wind deceived them so they loosed from Crete, only to be overtaken by the tempestuous wind called Euroclydon. They did everything possible to save the ship.

4. Paul's serene faith (vv.21-26).

(a) His rebuke for failure to heed his advice (v. 21). This was more than a taunt, it was a reminder of the wisdom of his former advice urging them to give to him a respectful hearing.

(b) Bids them to be of good cheer (v. 22).

(c) Promises them safety (v. 22). He assured them that though the ship would go to pieces, every man's life would be saved.

(d) The source of his information (vv. 23, 24). It was revealed unto him by the angel of God.

(e) The reason for Paul's faith (v. 23). The consciousness of having been chosen by God and being engaged in his service enabled him in the midst of the most violent storm to rest in God.

5. The ship's crew all safe on land (Acts 27:27-8:10). This was exactly as the Lord had promised.

(a) The hospitable reception by the natives (v. 2). They built a fire and made the shipwrecked people as comfortable as possible in the cold and rain.

(b) Paul gathering sticks for the fire (v. 3). In this he was like his Master, ministering rather than being ministered unto.

(c) Paul bitten by a poisonous serpent (v. 3). Among the sticks gathered there was a serpent. When warmed by the fire this serpent darted at Paul and fixed its fangs upon his hand. At first the natives thought he was an escaped murderer and that retributive justice was being meted out to him. When they saw he was not harmed they concluded he was a god.

(d) Paul heals Publius' father (vv. 7-10). He now reciprocated the kindness of these people. Others came also for healing.

II. Paul's Arrival at Rome (28: 11-16).

1. Tarrying with the brethren at Puteoli (vv. 11-14).

2. Met by brethren from Rome. (v. 15). They came some forty miles to meet him. This greatly encouraged him and moved him to give thanks to God.

3. Living in his own hired house (v. 16). He was treated with great leniency, being allowed to live apart in his own hired house even though he was constantly under guard.

III. Paul's Ministry in Rome (17-31).

1. His conference with the leading Jews (17-22). He did not wait for the Sabbath day to speak to the Jews, but after a three days' rest he called the chief Jews together in order to have a fair understanding with them.

2. Paul expounding the kingdom of God and persuading concerning Jesus (23-31). He pointed out a real kingdom with the historic Jesus as King. To Paul the kingdom meant a definite reign of a definite person, not merely an improved state of society.

Sweet Savor of Christ

It does not consist so much in what we do as in our manner of doing it; not so much in our words or deeds as in an indefinable sweetness, tenderness, courtesy, unselfishness, and desire to please others to their edification.

Springs of Comfort

They are in God. He is the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort. As a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.

Mr. Clyde Robinson of Cooper was in Clanton Tuesday.

THANKS FROM CALLAWAY FAMILY

We take this means to publicly acknowledge our most sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their many expressions of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father, Lucian A. Callaway. May God richly bless and reward each of you, is our prayer. — Mrs. Dora Callaway, Raymond and Lamar Callaway.

LAY DAM

R. D. Woodson has returned from the veterans hospital in Tuscaloosa and looks much better than when he left here.

Wallace Wood has been serving on the jury during the fall term of court.

H. W. Branch and J. W. Murphy are both riding in brand new Ford V-Eights. And are they "classy looking?" I mean the cars, of course.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ware and children, of Birmingham, spent this last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Powers.

While hunting squirrels a few days ago, Horace Miller killed an eagle that had a wing-spread of exactly six feet. While this eagle was not a Blue Eagle, I imagine that it could put up a real fight, if cornered.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkinson wish to announce the arrival of twin boys, born on Sunday, October 29th, weight 3½ and 4 pounds. Both mother and boys are doing nicely.

MAPLE SPRINGS

B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school, we must wake up. We want to urge every member to come to B. Y. P. U., and be here on time. Members, pull for your union. We have a fine subject for Sunday night. It is, "The Future Life." This has been a question asked for ages, "Where is the soul beyond the grave." If you would like to know, come to B. Y. P. U. Sunday night.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. There will be service at 11 o'clock Saturday, Saturday night, Sunday school Sunday morning, with preaching following, B. Y. P. U. at 6 Sunday night, with preaching following. Remember everybody has a welcome any time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and family had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Martin and two children, Mrs. Wise and daughters, Sarah and Ruth, and Mr. J. N. Dennis, wife and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Devaughn spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Scarbrough Sunday.

Mr. Oliver Glenn had as his Saturday night guest Mr. Raymond Gilliland.

Mr. Joe Lansford had as his Sunday dinner guests Messrs. Arthur Mitchell and Cecil Wilson.

Mrs. Dora Jones of Clanton spent last week with Mrs. Emmett Wilson.

Downs-Wise

A wedding around which much cordial interest centered, was that of Miss Evelyn Downs and Bill Wise, which took place last Saturday night at the home of Rev. J. D. Hughes. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs, and is a young woman of much charm and loveliness. Mr. and Mrs. Wise will make their future home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs.

Mr. Joe Lansford spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Mr. Oliver Glenn was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. Raymond Kelley.

Several from here attended the singing at Poplar Springs Sunday afternoon. They all reported a fine singing.

Mr. W. F. Glenn and family had as their Monday night guests Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Glenn and children of Cooper.

VERBENA NEWS

The W. M. S. of the Baptist Church observed last week the annual week of prayer for Foreign Missions.

Mrs. F. G. Dudley is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Will Gulledge.

Miss Katie Myrtle Glenn is home from State Teacher's College, Troy, and is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Glenn.

Judson Strock, Jr., has recovered from an attack of flu.

Robert Williams is captain of the high school basket ball team. James Griffin, Cecil Yeargen, Joe Gaines, George Gulledge and Jim Adie Adams are strong contenders for places on the starting lineup. The Marbury team is to play Verbena on the local court Friday afternoon.

JEMISON P.-T. A.

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Jemison High School is sponsoring an oyster and chicken supper at the high school auditorium Friday night, December 15, from five until seven thirty o'clock. The plates will be sold for twenty-five cents.

Don't miss seeing Ocie Wyatt join Mattie Lou Turner and W. H. Ousley Jr., with the iron bonds of padlock. See Fred Golson, Jr., as best man and Willodean Missildine as maid of honor. In fact you will be interested in seeing the entire bridal party. Come.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson returned to their home in Havana, Florida, last Saturday. They spent several days here on account of the illness and death of Mr. Lucian A. Callaway.

Fireworks of all kinds and plenty of them at Alred Drug Company. Prices right.

PNEUMATIC RAIL TIRE MEETS A NEW TEST FOR SAFETY

Goodyear Equipment on Fast Railmobile Passes 'Shotgun' Trial

Akron, O., Dec. 12.—Startling proof of the safety of the Goodyear pneumatic rail tire was demonstrated before railway executives in Chicago last week when one of the tire was purposely blown out at a speed of 70 miles per hour.

The demonstration was a part of the first public showing of the Fairbanks-Morse "Railmobile"—a rail car unit developed through co-operation of engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., the Fairbanks Morse Co., and the Chrysler Corp. After 30 years of development of the automobile and truck chassis, the railmobile—the automobile or truck on rails—presents excellent opportunity for economies in railroad operations and equipment costs. Previous attempts have met with failure due to crystalization of axle and wheel parts because of excessive vibration—a problem solved by use of a rigid axle mounted on pneumatic rail tires.

A standard Chrysler sedan and a Dodge truck chassis with bus body and trailer were on exhibit. One of the tires of the sedan was blown out by a shotgun mounted on the running board while traveling at high speed with no appreciable effect on operation of the unit other than a slight bump as an aluminum safety ring inside the casing took up the load as the tire was deflated.

The rail tire, expected to play an important part on railway rolling stock of the future, is constructed in much the same manner as an automobile tire. In addition to the aluminum safety ring bolted to the rim inside the tire, allowing the wheel to drop but five-eighths of an inch in event of deflation, a steel guiding flange to keep the tire on the rail is provided. An especially designed tread allows front tires to squeegee water off the rails in wet weather so that the driving and braking wheels have a dry surface to work on.

LOMAX—MT. PLEASANT

Everybody in this community that is interested in cottage prayer meetings are requested to be at the home of Ernest Jones on J. A. M. Jacks' place Saturday night, December 16th, at 6:45 o'clock.

We have been having some real good meetings in the past. If you believe in old time religion, come, we need you. If we serve God at home then we can serve Him at our church.

VERMONT PLAYS MT. PLEASANT

Beginning at two o'clock next Friday afternoon, December 15, the swift stepping little band of red warriors from Mt. Pleasant will invade the territory of Vermont Jr., seeking a star of victory.

On the following Friday the Vermont boys and girls go to Mt. Pleasant for the final game before the Christmas holidays.

Both the boys and girls teams are expected to play tomorrow (Friday). We expect a large crowd out to see these games, as they will be the last ones on our court until the 12th of January.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

There will be preaching services here Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. The subject will be "The Cost of Being Good," for Saturday night. "What is Pure and Undefiled Religion?" For Sunday. "The People That God Gave Up," for Sunday night.

You have a cordial invitation to attend these services.

SUNSHINE TABERNACLE NEWS

Our Sunday school is growing nicely. We have one hundred on roll and eighty-five were present Sunday morning. We also had good services Sunday night and some good singing. Mr. Marion W. Easterling is the pianoist.

There will be services here Thursday night, Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Brother E. J. Orange will preach Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Everybody has an invitation to attend.

The bulding is almost completed, and Mr. Perry Johnson is painting it. We thank God for that good man and the respect he has showed and the help he has done. There are also many more that have helped wonderfully. We appreciate every thing that has been done.

YOU TELL HIM, BIDDY!

It's today's mash that makes tomorrow's eggs! If you have lots of grain, Purina 32% Chowder is just the feed to help that grain make eggs. But it must be fed today and every day or the hens won't be in shape to lay when egg prices get better. If you wait till then to feed 32% Chowder, you'll wait until prices start going down before you start getting any eggs! Purina 32% Chowder mixed with your own grain is a real money maker. We have formulas telling how to feed it. Come in and see us.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT, DEC. 22ND

There will be a community singing at the courthouse in Clanton on Friday night of next week, December 22, beginning at 7 o'clock. Prof. P. B. Shaw of Brookside, Ala., will be here and will have with him a quartet and other singers from Birmingham. J. Z. Mims will be chairman. All singers are invited.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed on you?

Culprit—Nothing, you honor; my lawyer has taken my last cent.

T. V. A. CONVERENCES

Conferences between representatives of the T. V. A. and representatives of the holding company which controls the Alabama Power Company, Tennessee Electric Power Company, Georgia Power Company, and Mississippi Power Company, which have been in progress for two months, were continued in Chattanooga today. Satisfactory progress was reported by the engineers attending today's conference.

Among the matters discussed was revision of the contract now in force, under which the Alabama Power Company purchases hydro-electrict power from Muscle Shoals. This arrangement was made between the power company and the War Department a number of years ago, and the Authority has accepted its provisions until the date of its expiration on December 31, 1933. The power company has also leased the steam plant at Muscle Shoals under similar arrangements, This contract, however, expired on November 30, 1933, but was extended until December 31 by the Authority so that it might be discussed along with the hydro-electric contract.

Since August 1, 1933, up to December 1, 1933, the Authority has received approximately $440,000 in revenue as a result of these contracts. Five per cent, or approximately $22,000.00 of this, has been set aside to pay to the State of Alabama in accordance with the provisions of the Tennessee Valley act.

Dixie Volunteers To Be Here Friday Night

The famous Dixie Volunteer Quartette of Birmingham will put on a program in Clanton Friday night of next week, December 15th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The program will consist of sacred and popular songs, spirituals, comics and jokes. There will be one and a half hours of fun and entertainment, and the admission will be 10 cents and 15 cents. Part of the proceeds will go to the Home Makers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church, who are sponsoring the program. It will be at the courthouse.

The Dixie Volunteers are well advertised and have been favorably received wherever they have performed, which has been a number of places over the state. Those who like good quartette singing and high class clean entertainment will enjoy their program.

COOKE PLAYERS RETURN

Commencing Monday, December 18, the Cooke Players, so well and favorably known in Clanton, will show at the Wadesonian Theatre here.

Twenty-seven years ago Harry M. Cooke founded this company that since has become one of the outstanding attractions of Alabama. They have a record of playing wherever they go and as they wind their way through the country they bring joy, happiness, and gladness to the hearts of many who feel the need of a mental stimulant, a good laugh, or a chance to pack up their troubles in the old kit bag.

"Why Keep the Truth From the People of the County?"

jobs possible. In answer to that we would remind The News that Roosevelt carried Chilton County last year, the first Democratic Presidential candidate to do it in 48 years. If we do not miss our calculations we can truthfully say there were at least a thousand Republicans who had something to do with it, if voting for Roosevelt could be counted as having a part in the Roosevelt program.

The News knows that Judge Reynolds stood almost alone in his first advocacy of securing a part of the relief money for Chilton County. The Commissioners Court tied on the question at the outset, and Reynolds untied the vote in favor of the relief program. Practically every other Republican official in the county was openly opposed to the measures at first and for a long time.

Who can The News point out among the outstanding Democrats of the county as ones who stood beside Judge Reynolds and measured up with him in the effort to secure the benefits of the Roosevelt relief program for the needy people of our county? Name them, please. Such men, if there be any in the Democratic party, will get just as much praise and future political prestige as Judge Reynolds, don't you think?

We do not know that Judge Reynolds will care to be or seek to be Probate Judge again. Neither does the Chilton County News. But it is the realization of the immediate impending possibility of such a thing that has set The News and some others to having nightmares and resulted in throwing the convulsion that the News had week before last.

Rebuffed here and there on every hand, both by Democrats and Republicans, Reynolds kept on fighting for the destitute people of our county to have the help the Roosevelt administration made possible. Finally he had to go over the stoutest opposition in order to give the people themselves a chance to vote and say whether they wanted it or not. Their vote was overwhelmingly in support of the stand Reynolds had taken and maintained without flinching. Enough for that at this time. Everybody knows the facts of the record that was enacted.

Everyone knows that Judge Reynolds has done days and days of hard work and spent many dollars of his own money in order to get every dollar and every day's work possible for our people. He has not played politics. He has not singled out Republicans or Democrats in the discharge of his duty as an official in connection with the work and employment program. The people of Chilton County praise him for what he has done, just as naturally and just as properly as they praise President Roosevelt for his inception of the relief program.

If The News thinks Reynolds is not entitled to any credit for bringing the relief program to Chilton County, will they please tell the people how they would have gotten it if Reynolds had not kept up his fight and overcome the opposition? Every intelligent and informed person knows that the Commissioners Court was designated in the Roosevelt relief program as the sole agency through which the measures could be administered. It was up to the Commissioners to ask for relief funds, and up to them to set up machinery for operation of the plan. It is also known that our commissioners were opposed to the relief funds in the beginning. It was the continuous and persistent leadership of Reynolds that finally won them over to a policy of cooperation with the federal government.

The Commissioners were honest in their contentions, no doubt. We would not question that. The same is true of many others who could not see through the proposition, and were either opposed to it or lukewarm on the subject. But the point we contend for here is that Judge Reynolds took his stand for relief, and held on to it until now all who would be fair and honest with themselves and him will readily admit that he was right in the first place.

The Editor of The Chilton County News also operates a newspaper in Coosa County. We ask The News if Coosa County has received any relief funds on relief work from the Federal government. Have the county officials of Coosa tried to get this relief for their people? If the county officials have nothing to do with getting the relief work and relief money, we wonder why Coosa County has not got any of it. If Judge Reynolds had not contended for Chilton County's portion of relief money and relief work, we believe that Chilton would be in the same fix as Coosa, with not a dollar of relief money available to our people.

If Reynolds had stood in the way of the relief program and had blocked the operation of same, our people would blame him for doing so. Since, on the other hand, he has worked hard to bring them every advantage possible, are the people not justified in praising him for so doing?

Now, finally, we approach another election. Reynolds is popular. The people praise him. His die-hard enemies start a bush-whacking campaign to throw him down. The Chilton County News is the fog-horn through which they seek to spout their infamy. That is the truth, and we ask again, "Why keep the truth from the people of the county?"

"The truth is the light," and anybody, Democrat or Republican, who can not stand in the light of the truth is in a bad fix.

If the record of Judge Reynolds in helping bring the Roosevelt relief program to the people of Chilton County has gained for him the popular favor, we invite The Chilton County News or anybody else to undertake the job of denying to him such favor and approval as the people of the county choose to give him.

CLARK POWELL WRECK VICTIM

Young Man Killed Instantly In Accident Last Saturday Night

About 7:30 last Saturday night a cut-down Ford wrecked on Plier Lane near Concord schoolhouse, in which one young man was instantly killed and two were injured. Clark Powell, 20-year old son of Schusler J. Powell, died instantly with a broken neck. Carlee Baker, 20-year old son of Peter Baker, sustained a bruised leg and other minor injuries. He was brought to the hospital, and after first aid treatment was released. Fate Cleckler was knocked partly unconscious and sustained cuts on the head. Cleckler was not at the scene when the accident was discovered, thirty minutes after it happened, but a searching party was organized to hunt him, and he was found asleep on Nath Miner bridge about four miles down the creek from where the accident happened. It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when he was found.

It is supposed that the boys had started to a wedding at the home of J. Matt Johnson when the accident happened. Some girls, returning from the wedding, heard groaning off the road a piece. They went and got help and discovered what had happened. Carlee Baker was doing the groaning, and the Powell boy showed signs of having been dead at least half an hour.

Funeral services for Clark Powell were held at Walnut Creek church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. J. Orange in charge. Martin had charge of the body.

TOM FRANK TEEL AND FUN MAKERS ARE TO BE AT VERMONT SATURDAY NIGHT

At 8:00 o'clock next Saturday night, December 23, Tom Frank Teel and his gang of happy fun makers will present one and one-half hours of real laughable comedy at Vermont Junior High School.

This entertainment consists of comedy songs, accordion music, Negro monologues and dialogues, buck and wing dancing, gags and jokes galore.

This entertainment is served for laughing purposes only—so if you can digest a large volume of real spicy fun, flavored with clean comedy and genuine merriment, you can come to Vermont school on the above date and it will be dished out in generous proportion.

If you wish to get all keyed up for a real merry Christmas, just breeze down and see this bunch of wisecrackers display their wares. A large turkey will also be given away that night. Admission will be 10c for all school children and 20c for adults. The proceeds will be used for payment on the piano for the school. Those who never laugh any, beware if you come, for your cherished record may break down. We'll see you at Vermont.

WADE'S GROCERY STORE NOW OPEN

Location is In Wade Buliding Next to Alabama Power Co. on Main Street

Wade's grocery and Market is the newest addition to Clanton's list of high-class business establishments. That this new place is worthy of a rating among the best food stores is apparent as one observes the cleanliness and perfect appointment of every detail of the store. The new establishment occupies the Wade Building near the ice plant, where J. D. Broadhead was formerly located. The building has been renovated from start to finish, and new equipment installed throughout. It is one of the best-looking stores in our city.

James Wade is manager of the business. Ira Crowe is in charge of the market. Joe VanDerveer is in charge of the grocery department. These young men are experienced hustlers and thoroughly enthusiastic about their new store. They know how to serve the needs of people who want to get the best of foods, and they are determined that every want shall be satisfied if entrusted to them.

In the market department there has been installed a modern and efficient refrigerating unit of large capacity.

Something of the fine variety of foods offered at Wade's can be visualized by reading their large advertisement on the back page of this paper.

Their telephone number is 133. Joe VanDerveer says to his many friends: If you can't come after it, call phone 133 and we will send it to you.

James Wade, manager, states that a formal opening of the store will be announced for the first week in January. At this time the public will be invited to come to the store one day for special favors. Meanwhile, the organization is ready to serve every customer at a moment's notice, and the patronage of everyone is solicited, and will be duly appreciated.

LEGION WANTS EXTRA SESSION

Editor Union-Banner:

The American Legion Posts in Alabama are making every effort possible to get the governor to call a special session of the legislature. The only means by which funds can be provided to keep the public schools in Alabama operating. Unless prompt and effective measures are taken, our public schools will close within the next sixty days, because of lack of funds.

I call on officials and the leading citizens in Chilton County to join us in pleading with the governor to call a special session of the legislature to provide funds to keep our public schools open.

The boys and girls of today are the men and women of tomorrow. Can we afford to let the public schools of Alabama close their doors to them?—Yours truly, Grover A. Bice, Commander of Chilton County Post No. 6.

Farmers Meeting Here Last Monday

Delegates Chosen to Important District Meeting To Be In Montgomery

In response to the call of County Agent, J. W. Fant, a group of about fifty representative farmers of Chilton County met Monday for the purpose of discussing and considering the farm credit situation.

Out of the meeting six representative farmers were selected to attend a destrict meeting in Montgomery on December 27th, as follows: J. N. Dennis, J. D. Collins, W. G. Shaw, G. W. Sessions, R. M. Foshee, and T. F. Patterson.

The purpose of the program is to create a permanent farm credit organation, through which farmers themselves will direct and control their own financing plans. This is being mapped out under direction of the national farm relief organization which has been set up by the Roosevelt administration.

At the meeting here Monday a resolution was passed asking our Senators and Representatives in congress to support the continuance of the emergency seed loan plan; also a resolution endorsing Senator Bankhead's compulsory cotton acreage reduction plans.

Earle Thomas, of Isabella, and J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison, vocational teachers, attended the meeting, and assured the farmers of their continued interest in and support of the county agent's farm program.

FAMOUS ORATORIO TO BE PRESENTED AT FOURSQUARE

The Clanton Church of the Foursquare Gospel is to present the famous Oratorio "Regem Adorate" on Christmas Eve along with a splendid program arranged by the pastor, Rev. Harry B. Miller.

The fame of this sacred opera has spread throughout the world. Mr. Miller has sung in this production several years in Angelus Temple. Being an accomplished musician it renders him able to present a portion of the Oratorio to the city of Clanton.

Approximately fifty voices will be heard in this presentation. All Clanton should hear this inspired masterpiece. Regem Adorate was written by Amiee Semple McPherson several years ago during her return trip from France, and has since been recognized all over the world as one of the best sacred operas ever presented to the modern world.

Doctors Gathered For A Conference

Meeting Held at Central Alabama Hospital on Tuesday Night of This Week

A special meeting of the physicians and surgeons of Chilton, Autauga, Dallas, Bibb and Shelby counties was held at the Central Alabama Hospital Tuesday night, when business problems of the profession were discussed and tentative plans were made for the organization of all members of the medical profession in the five counties into an association.

A committee, with Dr. C. N. Parnell, of Maplesville, chairman; Dr. T. J. Marcus, Clanton, secretary; Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Dr. V. J. Gragg, Clanton, and Dr. C. S. Strock, Verbena, members, was appointed to draft the rules, regulations and by laws for the proposed organization.

Those present were: Dr. V. J. Gragg, Dr. T. J. Marcus, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Dr. O. C. Mastin, Dr. N. S. Johnson, Clanton; Dr. H. G. Franklin, Thorsby; Dr. C. N. Parnell, Dr. J. J. Dubose, Maplesville; Dr. R. J. Eiland, Cooper; Dr. J. D. Eiland, Verbena; Dr. S. C. Meigs, Centreville; Dr. W. J. Owen, Brent; Dr. J. I. Reid, Montevallo; Dr. J. C. Chandler, Columbiana; Dr. W. W. Harper, Selma; Dr. A. D. Wallace, Plantersville, and Dr. A. J. Marlar of Billingsley.

Following the meeting at the hospital, they were entertained at a pheasant dinner by Dr. Gragg.

Mell Martin Honored By National Funeral Directors

J. Mell Martin, funeral director, of Clanton, and head of the firm of J. Mell Martin & Sons, was recently appointed a member of the committee on legislation of the National Funeral Directors Association. He has the distinction of being one of nine men of his profession designated as members of this committee to represent the funeral directors of the entire United States.

For the past five years Mr. Martin has been Secretary of the Alabama Funeral Directors Association. In this capacity he has exercised a very keen ability as an official, and has wrought most successfully in the interest of measures of vital importance to members of the profession.

For the past 28 years Mell Martin has been a funeral director. Thirteen of those years have been devoted to his business in Clanton. He is a native of Coosa County, from whence he came to Clanton. The practice of his profession here has brought him into intimate touch with practically all the people of Chilton County, and he is regarded as one of our most valuable citizens.

Not only has Mell Martin made a success of his own personal business among us, but he has also rendered a public service in many capacities. He has taken the lead in civic affairs upon many occasions, when his leadership counted for the difference between success and failure of important projects. He has been an active member of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. He is past president of the club and at present a member of the Board of Directors. He has done conspicious service as a member of the city school board of Clanton. He is a member of Clanton Masonic Lodge, a member of Clanton Chapter Royal Masons, and past Commander of Clanton Chapter of the Knights Templar.

Worthy and deserving of the high regard in which he is held by his fellow citizens at home, Mell Martin is just as truly one of the outstanding leaders of his profession.

DR. ARTHUR JOHNSON TO BE ON VACATION FOR SOME TIME

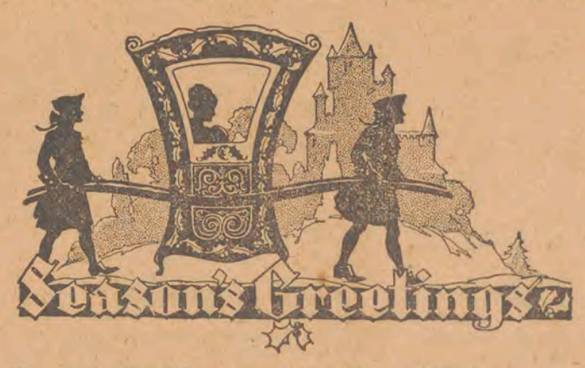
Dr. Arthur Johnson announces to his friends and patrons that on or about the first of January, 1934 he will take several months rest for the purpose of getting well of rheumatism during that time. Miss Alma Allen will keep his office open for the convenience of those who wish to pay on accounts.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

SAYS ADVERTISING IN UNION-BANNER REALLY GETS RESULTS

Mr. J. E. Martin, of Jemison Route 3, placed a want adv. in the Union-Banner a few weeks ago, offering some cows for sale. While in Clanton Monday of this week Mr. Martin said that the little adv. really got results. The cows were sold to a man who lives 750 miles from Clanton and who read the adv.

Mr. Martin says he wishes to tell all his friends that it really pays to advertise in The Union-Banner. People read it far and near.



To our subscribers and friends everywhere, we extend our most sincere wish that you may have a Happy Christmas Time.

As we come to the end of 1933, we are glad to say that we most heartily appreciate the cordial friendships we have enjoyed with each and every one of you during the year.

We have all had a hard year. Many opportunities have been denied us by influences beyond our control. But we have tried to make the best of such opportunities as were given us to be of service to you.

As we look toward the future there is doubt as to what is in store. But we are strengthened for our tasks when we feel that we shall have the continued confidence and good-will of such a loyal and appreciative army of friends as you have been to us in the past.

We trust that the coming year may be good to you and will bring you a fair portion of the comforts and joys you need. We hope to be with you in your homes and around your firesides every week during 1934. We will have a good time tigether.

Your Friend,

THE UNION-BANNER

ASK YOUR BANKER ABOUT CODE

Since the publication of the Bankers Code in last week's papers it has developed that some people do not understand the outline and application of certain policies contained in the code. Perhaps some may misinterpret some of the things.

Sensing the possibility of such misunderstanding, Mr. Frank Callen, president of the Peoples Savings Bank, of Clanton, urges all who do not understand the code and its relation to their business with banks, to please contact their banker for a proper explanation before assuming a wrong conclusion.

"The code is not going to be a burden or a disadvantage to anyone," said Mr. Callen. "It does not intend to and will not apply in the manner which some people seem to have interpreted it. Therefore, I urge all bank customers to see your banker for a correct and complete explanation about any features of the Code which you may not understand."

Sheriff Gillespie Makes Statement

Explaining Matter About People Signing Names To Letters Sent

Please give me space in your paper to correct probably an error which seems to exist in the minds of some of the people in the county in regard to the announcement which I requested you to make in your paper last week in regard to anonimous or unsigned letters sent to me giving information of violations of the law in the different parts of the county. I want to say that it was not my intention to convey the idea to the people that if a letter giving such information was not signed by the writer that such information would be cast aside captiously without being investigated by the sheriff's office, but to the contrary, I will say that it always has been my policy while trying to enforce the laws to consider carefully all information received from whatever source and then try to make an honest investigation and get the very best results that I possibly could.

My only intention in asking the papers to make the statements in last week's paper was to get the idea to the people that it was a lot easier to make an intelligent investigation of a violation of the law if the officer can know the name and who the party is that is giving the information.

Now in conclusion I want to assure the public that any and all information together with the names of the informer will be confidentially and forever kept by the sheriff's office while I am your sheriff here in Chilton county, and I want to appeal to all good citizens of our county to furnish such information of violations in the different parts of our county, for without your assistance and help I cannot successfully enforce your laws as they should be enforced.—Respectfully, W. H. Gillespie, Sheriff.

CAR WRECK ON THE LAY DAM ROAD SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Gresham Smith and Roy Smith were injured in an automobile accident on Lay Dam Road last Saturday afternoon. Gresham Smith was hurt internally, it was said, and was carried to Central Alabama Hospital for treatment.

Frank Mullins and little daughter, Martha, of Mobile, arrived here on Monday. Mrs. Mullins is with her mother, Mrs. H. C. McDonald, who is critically ill in a Montgomery hospital.

BOB JONES TO EDIT A RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPER

Dr. Bob Jones, the well-known evangelist, who is the president and founder of the Bob Jones College located at Cleveland, Tennessee, and whose articles appear weekly in several hundred papers under the title of "Comments on Here and Hereafter," announced today that he will edit a religious weekly entitled, "The Fellowship News."

The first issue of the paper will appear January 20. The paper is sponsored by the National Organization of Fellowship Clubs. Dr. Jones announced that a sermon would appear each week along orthodox and evangelistic lines. There will be an editorial page, one page given exclusively to field news, and one page to Bible study. The subscription price of the paper is only fifty cents a year. Dr. Jones announced that a large number of subscriptions have already come in and he believes this will be the largest religious weekly in the United States.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS FROM THE STAPPS

The Union-Banner:

Please express through your paper to our many friends in Chilton County our very best wishes for Christmas Cheer and Health, Happiness, Peace and Prosperity during the new year to come.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Dothan, Ala.

CITY PROPOSES BUILDING PLANS

City Hall and Extension of the Water System Is Under Consideration

The weekly meeting of Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night was of particular local interest. It was "City Fathers" night, the purpose of which was to bring before the city officials something of what the Kiwanis Club has endeavored to do in community service the past year. Then for the club to receive some suggestions from the city officials about what might properly engage the attention of the club for community service during the coming year.

The mayor, councilmen, and city clerk were invited to the meeting. The mayor was the only "city father" who showed up at the meeting. The club welcomed the mayor with a lively little song, "How Do You Do, Mayor Smith, How Do You Do?"

When called upon Mayor Smith expressed his keen appreciation for the community services rendered by Kiwanis in the past, welcoming the continued activity of the club in support of worth while projects that will engage the attention of Clanton citizens during the coming year. They are the building of a city hall, and extension of water mains to hitherto unreached portions of the city.

"A suitable lot can be obtained," the mayor said, "upon which to erect a city hall. The building could be constructed under aid of the Public Works Administration. It would serve the city for all office and administrative purposes, including the headquarters for the city fire department."

The mayor stated that the city officials will right soon set about some method of informing the people of the full facts about the two projects and determine if the people are in favor of undertaking them. Many interesting figures concerning the improvement of the town's financial condition were given by Mr. Smith.

The question of the city's proposed improvements was taken up at the council meeting Tuesday night. An architect was engaged to draft plans for the city hall, and steps were taken to place the entire program before the people of the town for their approval or rejection.

It is understood that four sites are being considered for erection of the city hall; the Dr. Hayes lot, the J. C. Jones lot, and the county property, all of which corners upon the intersection of First Avenue and sixth Street, one block south of the courthouse; and the old Clanton Baptist church lots on Second Avenue between Woco Pep and Dr. Arthur Johnson's office.

P.W.A. PRAISED BY REYNOLDS

Discussing Proposed $150,000 Bridge Across Coosa River at Log Cabin Beach

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 14.—An emphatic tribute to Roosevelt policies was voiced by Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, of Chilton County, and veteran Republican, at a hearing of the state public works advisory board Wednesday in Montgomery.

"We will never see another chance like this to get aid," he declared, in discussing with other members of a Coosa-Chilton delegation a proposed public works loan application for a $150,000 bridge across the Coosa River below Mitchell Dam.

"This is the only time in my life I have ever seen the South treated fairly and squarely," he went on, commenting on national recovery developments.

The remarks took place during an extended informal conversation on administration policies which followed the formal presentation of a request for information by representatives of the two counties. About 30 persons appeared altogether, including, besides Judge Reynolds, Probate Judge, Geo. B. McDonald, of Coosa County; Scott M. Corley and J. T. Newman, Coosa commissioners, and C. D. Duke, J. C. Atchison and J. E. Cobb, Chilton commissioners. They were accompanied by Capt. Landon Smith, state highway director.

No definite action had been decided upon at the close of the hearing, but the leaders of the movement are contemplating, among other plans, a loan application to be financed on revenue bonds of the two counties, paid by tolls.

The advisory board Wednesday also heard opponents and proponents of the Walker County hospital project. The opposition was represented by Dr. A. C. Jackson and Jim Freeman, who stated that the proposed institution would compete with a private hospital already in operation. The proponents appearing were R. A. Cooner, W. P. McClesky and C. N. Atkins.—Alabama Journal.

CHRISTMAS OFFERING BAPTIST ORPHANAGE

The goal set for the Christmas offering of Alabama Baptists for the orphanage at Troy is $25,000. Realizing the urgency of the situation and the great need of the orphanage at this time, the Baptist Sunday schools of Chilton County are called upon to make their gifts to the orphanage Christmas fund as liberal as possible. This matter is being brought to the attention of all local Sunday schools by special request of Rev. J. W. Jones, moderator of the Chilton County Association and Mr. J. Z. Mims, moderator of Unity Association.

The message says: "What a victory and what a glorious thing if one time every Baptist Sunday school in this state would take a worthy offering for our orphans. It can be done. We are all able to do something. It should be done. The people will gladly give to the orphans of they have the right sort of opportunity. Let us this year recognize and believe the words of Jesus in our offering, as He said, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my little ones you have done it unto me."

POPLAR SPRINGS

Don't forget the singing next Sunday afternoon, December 24, at 1:30 o'clock. We are going to have singers from other counties and states. We are also going to have some quartets, duets, etc.

This is a good way to celebrate Christmas eve, and we are expecting a large crowd.—Sec'y.

LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Verbena, Alabama, Dec. 18.

Dear Santa Claus:

I want you to come to see me and my sister. Our daddy got killed on a big truck in September and mamma says she don't know whether you will think of us or not. Please bring us a big doll and just anything you can. We will be so glad.—Your Little Friends, Lauvern and Louise Bone.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We have a very good Sunday school at this place. We had an entertainment here last Friday night for the benefit of the school and we are glad to state that it was a success. We wish to thank the people for their cooperation.

We were glad to have Mr. Luther E. Little, of Clanton, and Mr. J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison, with us. We hope to have them here again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones's baby died December 13 at the Central Alabama Hospital. Their loss is heaven's gain.

The school children are to have a Christmas tree at this place Friday, December 22, beginning at 1 o'clock p.m., sharp. We would be glad if all the patrons would be present, and all that wish to come. So don't forget the date, December 22 at 1 p.m. The children will have some speeches to say on this date.

The B. Y. P. U. was rained out here Sunday night.

Hear Lloyd Howard with his accordion at Vermont Saturday night, December 23rd.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everything seems to be moving along nicely lately. B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are very good. Let's just keep working.

Bro. Robinson filled his regular appointment Saturday at 11 a.m., Saturday night at 6 and Sunday morning at 11.

We were very glad to have with us Sunday night those two visiting ministers, Bro. Durbin and our old pastor, Bro. Lockhart. We also had with us people from adjoining communities. We were glad to have you. Come again.

Remember Sunday school next Sunday at 10 o'clock and B. Y. P. U. at 6 Sunday night. Everybody come and be on time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and Miss Mamie Downs spent the day with Mrs. Anna Wise of Cooper Sunday.

Mr. Lester Downs spent a few days visiting in Birmingham last week.

Mrs. Clifton Parrish was the Saturday dinner guest of Mrs. Bertha Mitchell and family.

Mr. Raymond Kelley spent Wednesday night of last week with his sister, Mrs. Clifton Parrish.

Mr. W. F. Glenn had as his supper guest Friday night Mr. Wiley Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs had as their Friday night guests Mr. Evan Downs and wife and children of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and Miss Mamie Downs visited Mr. and Mrs. Claude Downs of near Verbena last Wednesday.

Misses Eloise and Lera Glenn had as their Friday afternoon guest Miss Mamie Downs.

MRS. HAMILTON

Mrs. Francis Hamilton was the wife of Mr. H. C. Hamilton, who died the 30th of December, 5 years ago. Mrs. Hamilton was 78 years old August 27, 1933. She leaves to mourn her death one son and five daughters, and a host of grandchildren and many friends. She was buried November 25th at Union Grove church of which she was a member, with Martin & Sons in charge. Rev. Davis, pastor, conducted services. We wish to extend to her many friends our thanks for their devoted and loving care during her illness and death.—Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Jones.

A Christmas Greeting in Memory of Our Mother

On Friday evening, November 24, at five o'clock the death angel visited the home of my sister, Mrs. B. E. Jones and carried our dearly beloved mother, Mrs. H. C. Hamilton. Words are inadequate to express the great shadow of grief and sorrow this departure gave us.

I am so glad I could be with her during those last days of suffering and tried in every way to alleviate her pain to keep her with us. To think that never again will I see her radiant smile and feel her loving arms around me when I go there seems unbearable. If we all could realize the meaning of the word "mother" and make them as happy as possible while they are spared us, great would be our reward. I thought I did the best I could for mother, but now since she is gone it seems that I could have done more.

She was a devoted wife, loving mother and grandmother, faithful friend and loyal Christian. I know that all who knew her will miss her. She was never too busy or tired to do a kind deed for someone. She always tried to make the very best of her resources, lift up instead of pull down. Many would have fallen by the roadside under the heavy burdens she shouldered. Only through the unfailing strength given her by our Father in Heaven could she have held up so long.

God giveth and God taketh away. It seems so hard to bear when we wanted and needed her so much, but our loss is her eternal gain. This is the first Christmas we have had to spend without her.

I pray that God may give me the strength to bear her departure from us by instilling in my heart and soul the blessed thought that she is now at rest in the land where pain nor sorrow never come. May her beckoning spirit draw us as a magnet to that Lord where parting never comes and we can all be together always.—Loving Daughter, Mrs. H. C. Baker.

DEATH OF MRS. CALLIE DAVIS

On December 14 the angel of death visited the home of Mr. George Scott and bore away the sweet spirit of our sister and aunt, Mrs. Callie Davis. Aunt Callie was born in Montgomery County. Early in life she went to Mississippi and Tennessee, and later was married to Mr. Silas Davis. To this union was born one child which lived only a short while.

Aunt Callie was 86 years of age and has been a member of the church ever since early youth, and has lived a Christian life. She had been confined to her bed since March 20. On Thursday night, December 14, God in His love and sympathy, saw fit to call her home out of her suffering and pain. She left us a sweet thought. She said she was ready to go and only waiting for Jesus to come for her. All was done for her that earthly hands could do, but God said, "'tis enough, come with me. It is hard to give her up, but God's will must be done. There is a vacant place in the home that no one can fill. But the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away and we must be submissive to His will.

Dear one, let's not grieve for her, for we know she is in the hands of God. She has lived a life we can all follow. Let's try to live the life she has lived and meet her in the glorious home where there will be no parting, heart aches nor goodbyes.

She leaves to mourn her loss a sister, Mrs. G. C. Scott; two nieces, Mrs. T. F. Limbrick, Mrs. G. T. Bowles and one nephew, Mr. J. N. Davenport, and a host of other friends and relatives.

She was laid to rest at New Cedron with Rev. J. H. Limbrick conducting the services.—A Niece that loved her, Mrs. Elmer Scott.

OAK GROVE

We wish to thank our many friends for their splendid cooperation with the Oak Grove Dramatic Club in making our play "Yimmie Yonson's Yob" so great a success. We are well pleased with their attitude toward the play; and $18.14 was collected at the door. We take pleasure to invite everybody to come and let's share the benefits of our new song books. We are purchasing them to use and not to lie upon our church benches. Then take heed to our invitation and join us next Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock in a great B. Y. P. U. program.

Miss Lois Robinson of Collins Chapel was the week end guest of Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Miss Estelle Lessley of Calera spent the week end as the guest of Misses Irene and Pauline Lessley.

Mrs. Sol Edwards of Birmingham is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

Mr. Buman Cobb of South Alabama is visiting friends and relatives here.

We are arranging a Christmas program for Sunday night, December 24. We invite all the parents to come and bring their small children and lets instill into their growing hearts the value of living. He gave His life a ransom for many. Then let's give our talents to the advancement of His cause.

We have been requested to announce the play, "The Antics of Andrew," to be given at the Newala School Building, January 12. This play is to benefit Enon B. Y. P. U. They have certainly helped us down in Chilton and let's help them.

Miss Onzell Littleton spent Saturday night with Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Miss Lois Robinson dined Sunday with Miss Gladys Satterwhite.

We wish everyone a bright and happy New Year.

"That man hasn't an enemy on earth." That is what a friend said about another recently. "Then he is no good," I replied. You can't have convictions and stand for them and not have enemies. "How do they like the pastor of that church?" I asked a gentleman recently. "They are crazy about him. I mean every one in the church is for him." wa sthe reply. I did not answer but I thought, "I should hate to be in the preacher's place at the judgment seat of Christ." I know that church. No man could satisfy everybod in that church and at the same time please the Lord Jesus Christ.

You can't judge men by what their own generation thinks of them. You have to judge them by what the world thinks of them years and sometimes centuries after they are dead. Jesus wound up His earthly life by dying the most ignominious death that any man could die. The people of His day chose a crook named Barrabas instead of Him. What does the world today thing of the choice they made? Each generation spends a large part of its time in crucifying its own benefactors and in honoring benefactors who were crucified by past generations.

My friend, God has a plan for every life. He has a plan for you. Don't worry about what men think or say. Do the will of God. Do what He wants you to do. Don't get discouraged. Be faithful. Wait for the returns to come in. Just as certain as there is a just God on the throne of this universe, if you fulfill God's purpose for your life, you will be on the winning side some day. You say you don't know whether there is a God or not. Well, there is one. But if there were no God you would feel so decent to know that you are living up to your own honest convictions. Never mind the opinion of the crowd. Remember, too, that years ago the crowd chose Barrabas instead of Christ. Remember that human nature has not changed, but right is right and God is God and the eternal principle holds.

CLANTON — SELMA

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

We did not escape the storm that broke in 1929. Just as with other industries and individuals by the fall of that year our earnings began to be affected. But hoping for a speedy recovery of business we kept on for some time building new lines and substations and finishing up projects then under way. The President of the United States asked us and all other utilities throughout the country to do this in order to keep men at work as long as possible. We gladly cooperated in this and every other wish of the President just as today we are members of NRA and cooperating with the President.

For ten years ending with 1929, this company spent an average of over $14,000,000 per year on the purchase of properties and the building of new power plants, substations, transmission and distribution lines to expand its service throughout the state. The annual amounts spent since 1929 have, of course, been very much smaller.

The 1933 original forecast called for an extension program of $874,469 but it looks at this time as if less than $500,000 will be spent.

As can be seen from the above expenditures this company's growth has been greatly affected by the stagnation of general business.

Yours very truly,

President.

BAKER SCHOOL

Don't forget the musical concert Friday night, December 22, at Baker Jr. High School, at 7:00. Admission fee 5c for children from third grade on down and 10c for all others—adults and all.

We have sold most all of the chances on the turkey. Everybody come in hopes of being the one to win the turkey. It will be given away Friday night after the concert.

The Baker school boys played the outside boys last Friday afternoon in a basket ball game. The scores were 14 to 28 in favor of the Baker school boys.

Here are some of the rules for life: Make few promises. Always speak the truth. Keep good company or none. Drink no intoxicating liquors. Good character is about everything else. Be honest if you would be happy. If evil is spoken of you let your life refute the falsehood. If your hands cannot be employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind.

We are going to vacate our school Friday for the Christmas holidays. We wish each and everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

MEMORIES OF MOTHRER

On Sunday morning, December 17. just as dawn began to break, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Lawrence Patterson, of Titus, and bore away the spirit of our precious mother and grandmother, Mrs. Molly Patterson. Funeral services were held Monday at 11 o'clock a.m. at Liberty Hill church in Coosa County, with Rev. Joe Kelley, of Clanton, officiating. A large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends attended the funeral. Her body was laid to rest under a beautiful flower mound to await the resurrection of the dead in Christ, at His second coming.

Aunt Molley, as she was known, was united in matrimony twice, her first marriage being to Mr. Jim Dennis, of Coosa County. To this union were born four children, two preceding her to her grave. The living are Aaron Dennis, of Jemison, Mrs. Johnny Wright of Clanton. After her first husband's death she was again united in matrimony to Mr. Joe Patterson. To this union were born two children, Jim Patterson, of Rockford, and Miss Emma Patterson. At the time of her death she had sixteen grandchildren and twelve great grand children and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

But God saw fit, in His goodness, to take her home to reign throughout the endless ages of eternity. She brought sunshine and happiness into her home. She took to bed fourteen months before her death. She bore her suffering patiently and when the Lord called she was ready to go. Her seat is now vacant and the cloud of sadness has now found its way into the home, but God does all things well.

May we all be so submissive to His will that we can say, "Thy will be done on earth as it is inheaven." It is so sad to think that dear mother can never visit our home again. But it is wonderful to think that she is living with the blessed Savior, who is able and willing to take care of us all, if we will only trust Him. Friends the only way to ever meet mother is to trust in Jesus and prepare to meet Him in that city of gold where cometh no separation. We feel assured that we shall meet her on the morning of the resurrection, when God shall call His faithful children home.

She was a faithful soldier of the cross and lived the life of a true Christian. We can not understand why God called one so good as she. But He doeth all things well and we only see through a glass darkly now, but some sweet day, if we are faithful to the end, all things shall be made plain, her influence will live on though her spirit has gone to its reward.

She is not dead, just sweetly resting from life's labors and cares. No more on earth we see her face, her sweet voice we hear no more, but only let us live to meet her on that bright and sunny shore.—Written by a grand daughter.

COMING ATTRACTIONS TO BE AT ENTERPRISE DEC. 23

What attractions! Expert entertainment is to be offered in the form of a minstrel. Dialogues, monologues, jokes, songs; in fact every form of entertainment to be thought of. The famous "Turkey Stealing Case in Watermelon County," is to be enacted in the presence of everyone.

Come and be prepared to laugh. Date, December 23rd. Admission 25c. Watch the papers for further announcements.

Teacher—Johnny, what is a cannibal?

Johnny—I don't know.

Teacher — Well, if you ate your mother and father what would you be?

Johnny—I'd be an orphan.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

The jovial old Dutch settlers of New York brought with them the joyous observance of the fatherhood. We of the new world owe our Santa Claus to them, for this jolly old saint is none other than St. Nicholas or Sans Necolaas, the patron saint of the children, as pronounced by the Dutch.

Every child observes Christmas in some form. The Dutch and French children put their wooden shoes in front of the door and Santa fills them. The children of the Baltic lands believe that the Christ-child himself brings the presents. Norweigian children have lots of fun hunting for their presents in unexpected places. In Italy the little children draw their presents from the "Urn of Fate." While in America and England the kiddies hang up their stockings. Santa Claus used to ride around on a white horse but later changed it for reindeer. Now he has an areoplane.

Christmas day is only four days away. Several of the classes will have Christmas trees for themselves Friday. Each student will draw a name and give this person whose name he draws a present.

School closes its doors Friday and they will not be swung open again to students until January 1, 1934. The first day of the new year will be spent in school. That's a good time for some resolutions on the students' part. Closer study, give more time for your school work, aim at higher grades. better conduct and other things which we should improve.

Our classes here are certainly not dormant. Last Thursday was Alabama Day. One hundred and fourteen years ago, December 14, Alabama was declared a state. The Jr. I class, with Miss Josephine Martin as class sponsor, observed this holiday with a splendid program last Friday. The five flags that Alabama has been under were displayed and a brief history of Alabama while under those flags was given. Alabama's five different capitals were discussed and a brief account of Alabama's greatest men and women was given. The five flags that Alabama has been under are: Spanish, French, English, United States and Confederate. St. Stephens, Cahaba, Tuscaloosa, Huntsville and Montgomery are the places where the state capital has been.

Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin's Sr. I home economics class put another feather in their cap last Saturday night when they entertained the members of the football team and their dates and members of the faculty at the annual football banquet at the high school. The delicious and lovely four course dinner, along with the appropriate Christmas and football decorations were fitting to the banquet themselves. The evening was full of toasts, speeches and jokes with Lloyd Howard topping it off with his accordion. Master of ceremonies was Dan Smith. The letter men were officially recognized and will receive their letters in the near future. After the gayety and fun, the banquet assumed a serious and thoughtful mood and next year's captain of the Chilton Tigers was elected by the team. The captain who will take Captain Foshee's place and lead Chilton's brilliant team against its opponents next year will be Cecil Jones, end, and alternate captain is Sidney Reynolds, who takes James Tiffin's place.

Here's to a successful season of football for the 1934 Tigers, and their new captain, Cecil Jones, and their new alternate captain, Sidney Reynolds. Go to it.

A welcomed guest at the banquet was Lieut. T. H. Walker, who was coach of our team for a short while at the beginning of the season, but left to assume duties as an officer at Fort McClellan. We were glad to have also Jarrell Burdette, a former graduate. He is now a student at Howard College, and he is doing well on the freshman team.

This week, as I suppose all the students have learned by now, is the fourth month test week. So don't let dreams of the oncoming holidays drift you away from school.

The Senior III English Class, with Miss Frances Gulledge as their teacher, is studying the life of Shakespeare closely and eagerly. They have begun one of his most famous tragedies, "Macbeth." Notes, outside readings and reports, clippings and other information from Miss Gulledge assures the fact that those seniors who are fortunate to go to college will, due to a good foundation, not find Shakespeare there such a hard fellow.

Everyone here cannot fail to take on a real Christmas spirit with songs of the Yuletide Season being sung in chapel.

You are right, Morgan Reynolds was "Who Am I," last week. Now try this one: I am in the Senior High. Have sorta blond hair, wear glasses sometimes. Boys like me. I am a good sport. Don't like people to not like me. Sure I'm a girl. Drive a car to school sometimes. I'm not fat. About five feet nine inches tall. Wear dresses. Go to dances. Known for my New Year's Eve parties. Suck a lemon after yelling at a football game. You would like to know if I had a sweethaert wouldn't you. Well perhaps I have. Almost forgot, I like to swim.

Winchell says: Here's some more news about our two ships. Both were in the harbor last Friday night and both crews landed and it appeared they received the same reception. . . Queer, some girls suddenly become friendly with some others lately. I suppose it's because it is near Chritmas. Anyway it was a good thing to do, don't see why they haven't done it before . . . Why is one certain first class football player not so popular with his team mates. Until recently he was popular, but now? . . . All right you gossip hounds, feast on this: What Senior Three boy slapped a charming young lady last Friday night and why? . . . Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. See you next year with the holiday's scandal.

Dr. S. J. Ezell and his father, who has reached the ripe old age of 83 were the guests of the school at chapel period Monday. Dr. Ezell gave us an inspirational talk on our chances and opportunities in life. His father also spoke a few words.

All the students are now proudly showing everyone their pictures that were taken here several days ago. Every student was photographed and all the teachers too, in less than forty-five minutes.

Mr. J. B. Varnell, head of the science department, was born in Scottsboro, Alabama, the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Varnell. Mr. Varnell finished his high school education at the Lincoln Memorial Academy at Harogate, Tennessee, and entered the Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate in 1924. He also studied at the State Noraml School at Florence in 1925. Two years later Mr. Varnell entered Howard College and finished there in 1929 with his degree of bachelor of science. Not ceasing his educational pursuits here, he has done graduate work at Howard College and the University of Alabama in 1931 and 1932 respectively. Mr. Varnell has come down from a line of teachers on both his mother's side and father's side. His twin brother is a prominent teacher in Knoxville. Before coming to Chilton County High school in 1930, he was coach at Woodville High School in 1925-26. In 1929 and 1930 he was coach at Addison High school in Winston County. This year is the fourth year as a teacher at Chilton County High School, a sure evidence of his ability as a high school teacher and his popularity with the people. During the summer of 1926 he worked with the United States Geological Survey. In the 1929 edition of Entre Nous, the annual of Howard College, the writer noticed that Varnell was the president of the Chi Sigma-Gamma there, a national fraternity. Here at Chilton High Mr. Varnell is probably teaching this year one of the richest courses in a high school, biology, physics and chemistry—three strong and valuable sciences. In his four years of conscientious and diligent teaching here Mr. Varnell has won many comments of praise which are indescribable, with mere words.

Another word from Student Winchell: Here's to the unholy three, two brunettes and a blonde. Better disguise your handwriting next time. I am a good detective.

Here's wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, everybod:.

CLARK POWELL DIED

Probably one of the saddest incidents in the annals of this community was witnessed Saturday night, December 16 about 8 p.m. o'clock when Clark Powell was thrown from a Ford Truck and instantly killed near Concord Junior High School, three miles east of Clanton.

Clark having received an invitation to a wedding supper, in company with the other boys experienced the awful tragedy a short distance from where the wedding was held. None of the other occupants were seriously injured.

Clark was 20 years of age, and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Powell. He was a handsome and energetic young man. He had a host of friends and relatives to mourn his passing, together with a younger brother, Reedie.

Funeral services were held at Walnut Creek church with M. Lockhart, E. J. Orange, C. M. Nolan and G. G. Williams officiating.

Pallbearers were Marion Easterling, Toy Baker, Lelan Easterling, Clarence Mims, Gerthie Easterling, and Clement Easterling. Martin was in charge.

POSTMASTER'S TEST DATES ANNOUNCED FOR TOWNS

Washington, Dec. 11.—The civil service commission today announced examinations would be held for scores of postmasterships in various parts of the country. The deadline for receipts of applications was set for December 29.

The list of offices for which examinations will be held and the salaries included:

Alabama: Boligee, $1,200; Brundidge, $1,900; Carbon Hill, $1,900; Citronelle, $1,900; Columbiana, $1,900; Elberta, $1,200; Grand Bay, $1,200; Hanceville, $1,600; Red Level, $1,300; Stevenson, $1,800; Thorsby, $1,400; Wadley, $1,500; Warrior, $1,400; Whistler, $1,400; and, Nauvoo, $1,300.

JOHN H. GODDARD DIED

Mr. John H. Goddard, age 89 years, passed away at his residence in Thorsby Sunday night. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha B. Goddard, one son, Benjamin Goddard, of Continental, Ohio; two brothers, Mr. George Goddard of Circleville, Ohio, and Sam Goddard of Liberty Hill; nine grandchildren, eleven great grandchildren and one great great grandson.

Mr. Goddard has lived in Chilton County for 27 years. He has been a member of the Masonic Lodge for over 52 years. At the time of his death he was a member of Thorsby Masonic Lodge.

Funeral services were held last Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Congregational church in Thorsby. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery, with Rev. J. E. Each officiating, assisted by Rev. W. P. Lowery. Spigener was in charge.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

As I stepped up to the lonesome lady in the hotel lobby, I inquired: "Are you looking for a particular person?"

"I'm satisfied," she said, "if you are."

Hazel—Now that you have looked over my music what would you like to have me play?

Henry—I think we had better play cards.

A CHRISTMAS CALL THAT YOU WILL ENJOY

By T. E. Harris, DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Christmas, the glad holiday season, is near at hand. It will be a happy time for many, while others will feel saddened because they will be separated from loved ones and friends.

Families and friends do become scattered with the years and we miss their smiling faces and cheery voices, more especially at Christmas time. It is the season when happy memories flood our minds. The older folks recall the years when the children were young and Christmas was a time of joyous excitement for all. And the children, now grown up and living miles away with youngsters of their own, remember Mother and Dad and wish they could all be together again, if only for a few minutes.

To these folks we have a happy suggestion to make, one that many families are following. When the Yuletide rolls around this month, even though hundreds of miles separate you from your loved ones and friends, just remember your telephone. All you need to do is lift the receiver and tell "Long Distance" whom it is you want and almost at once the connection is made and you are talking with them just as though you were in the same room. It is the next best to being together in person.

A great many families make a practice of voice visiting by telephone at regular intervals throughout the year. Because your voice is you over the telephone, visiting this way has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit and is a convenient and inexpensive way to keep the ties of home and friendship alive. For example you can talk with folks 50 miles away for around 35 cents, and 100 miles for about 55 cents and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost, by using station-to-station service.

Can Herman Lowery pick a guitar? Well, hear for yourself, at Vermont Saturday night, of this week.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

Mrs. A. L. Duncan of Prattville has returned to her home after a visit to her mother, Mrs. G. L. Phillips, who has been quite ill.

BACK TO CHILDHOOD DAYS

Forty years ago, in the year 1893, a lad of about a dozen years, drove an ox cart carrying corn to the old water mill of Uncle Johnnie Robinson, on Yellow Leaf Creek.

Last Saturday that same lad, now a man approaching the shadows of life, drove his twin oxen down the road carrying corn to the same mill. His name is Uncle James Baker, who lives down on the Lay Dam Road.

"Uncle Johnnie Robinson was a mighty good man as same as a miller," said Uncle Jim, "and I believe our present miller, Mr. Thompson, will prove to be just as good in all his ways."

"But the funniest thing was when I got to the mill last Saturday and found it out of condition," continued Mr. Baker. "The trouble was the water wheel had become clogged with eels. If you don't believe it, ask Baxter Smith. He was down there cutting the eels out with his knife. The mill was soon making meal again."

WILL and ZAZU on a Tin Can Tour
And where there's the Will, particularly with Zasu there's an unending laugh from the time they leave the old home in Flat River with the family heiress until the return — in triumph. Will offers something new as a master of ceremonies and Zasu's fluttering is funnier than ever. And the romance of their youngster has a heart gripping appeal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fox have returned after a brief visit to Centreville.

She—What are all those men doing in a circle with their heads together? Is it a football team?
He—No, my dear, just a bunch of Scotchmen lighting a cigarette.

Teacher—Ferdinand, what is an excuse?
Ferdinand—Something you can never think of when you need it most.

Madge—They say she is very clever but I have never noticed it.
Marjorie—Of course not. She says all her clever things about you after you have gone.

"HERE COMES CHARLIE"

A three-act comedy to be presented at the Maplesville auditorium by the Senoir Class of the Isabella High School Saturday night, December 23, at seven o'clock.

Two and one-half hours of laughter and fun. See the following, some country hicks, stuck up society folks, domineering aunts and sarcastic Ted Hart ey, Tim McGrill; James Veazey, Nora Malone, Agnes Peters; Mrs. Farnhom, Lorene Lecroy; Larry Elliot, R. C. Veazey; Ted Hartley, Will L. Martin; Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Pauline Durbin; Mrs. Smythe-Kersey, Louise Cox; Mortimer Smythe-Kersey, Clifford Manning; Uncle Aleck, Homer Morgan; Charlie—well, that's the surprise.

String music will be furnished between acts. Admission will be 15c and 25c.

Tom Frank Teel will pull jokes and stunts at Vermont Saturday night of this week. Hear him.

DEVAUGHN INVITES SINGERS TO POPLAR SPRINGS SUNDAY

Prof. W. M. Devaughn of Poplar Springs was in The Union-Banner office Tuesday of this week. He asked us to announce his singing for next Sunday afternoon and to urge the singers of the county to come down and help his class. Prof. Devaughn has a splendid class at Poplar Springs, and those who like good singing will enjoy attending next Sunday afternoon.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Tomorrow will bring us to the Christmas holidays. School will be dismissed until January 1. The school wishes everyone a very merry Christmas and a bright pleasant new year.

A clever little pageant will be presented by the primary pupils of Miss Manning's room Friday morning. Following this will be a Christmas tree exercise, all pupils taking a part. Old Santa is going to leave something for everyone in school.

We are all glad to see Miss Grant back in school. She was detained all last week on account of a slight attack of tonsilitis. Mr. John G. Johnson, brother of our principal, supplied while she was absent.

Our P.-T. A. held its regular meeting on last Wednesday night. Forty-seven parents and a large number of the younger set were present. The meeting was called to order by the president, after a song and prayer, the roll was called. Several new members joined. The program committee then presented an interesting little program by several of the Jr. High girls. Following this, Mr. John G. Johnson spoke twenty minutes on "The Purpose and Value of a P.-T. A. organization." He wove into his subject many illustrations which tended to point out just why such an organization is an asset to any school and community. He outlined in his talk the special duties and responsibilities devolving upon each parent and teacher, and just what course they must pursue in measuring up to this duty and responsibility. After this our principal spoke on the possibility and reasons why we should affiliate ourselves with the state Parent-Teachers Association. We expect to have Mrs. Nora Wells at one of our later meetings to present in detail the method of approach in joining this statewide organization. Mrs. Wells is the chairman of the county council of this district. Our next meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m., January 4, 1934. Let's start the new year right, with a large attendance. Refreshments will be served by the committee.

Last Friday afternoon saw our boys' basketball team suffer their worst defeat of the season when the crack little team of red warriors of Mt. Pleasant trimmed them to the tune of 20 to 11. This game was highly exciting because both teams had a large group of supporters "whooping it up" on the side-lines. The Vermont boys were dazed the first quarter by a series of swift passes which left them far behind in the count. However, our boys did rally just after the third quarter opened and managed to pull up to within 3 points of the visitors, but this was short-lived as Burnett tore loose through our defense and netted 2 field goals and 1 foul goal for 5 points. This wide margin was too much for our team to overcome, especially against such air-tight defense set up against them. Our teams, both boys and girls, go to Mt. Pleasant next Friday afternoon, December 2, for a couple of games, at which times we hope to avenge our loss last Friday.

It looks good to see our school and class mate, T. J. Ratliff, back in school after a three weeks absence due to a severe attack of La Grippe. We have been missing him on our team. T. J. plays the left forward position and is our most reliable man on crip shots.

The entire faculty attended the Christian Endeavor exercises over at Antioch last Sunday night.

Remember the entertainment to be given at our school on next Saturday night, December 23, at 8:00 o'clock.

Mr. Johnson (To Jr. I Geography class)—Lester, can you tell the class what Isle is noted for its great internal improvement?

Lester (Triumphantly)—Castor ile.

The school wishes at this time to extend their thanks to Mr. H. L. Traywick and his two sons, Bill and Robert, for feeding and caring for the school pig during the holidays and week ends.

Attendance for the third month has been far better than it was during the second.

The Liberty Hill quartet will not be able to present their program until after the holidays. We have been delayed in placing the piano in our school. Consequently they have been set back in staking their program.

The school girls basket ball team won over a group of outside girls last Friday evening by the score of 10 to 1.

A group of men went to Jemison last Tuesday and brought back the piano. We are certainly proud the P.-T. A. is making this addition to our school. They have now set forth to equip the school with shades and maps. Three cheers for our P.-T. A.

The parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to attend the Christmas program next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. This will be given in place of the chapel exercises, and just before old Santa comes in and distributes the toys, firecrackers, etc., to the happy band of youngsters.

Don't forget the comedy program on next Saturday night. If the weather is cold and disagreeable, just come right on, as we will have the auditorium warm and comfortable and you can fully enjoy the exercises.

SHOULTS CLUB MEETING

Miss Ruth Pardue of Clanton, our home demonstration agent, met with the club members of Shoults community last Thursday afternoon.

About sixteen members were present and three new members were added to our membership.

A business session was held with our president, Mrs. Stella Shoults, in charge. Plans for a community club house were discussed. After a brief discussion, Miss Pardue took charge and gave a very helpful demonstration on "Keeping our hats up-to-date." Many hats were blocked and cleaned. We feel grateful for such a woman as Miss Pardue. We hope that she can be our home demonstrator for many years. Very soon we aim to build a club house. Many women are becoming interested each month. — Mrs. Willie Hicks, reporter.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Health of this community is good at present.

Rev. Bentley spoke to us last Saturday on the subject, "The Duty of A Christian," and how happy he would be in doing his duty.

Our Sunday school met Sunday at 1:30 with a good attendance and several visitors. We were glad to have them and hope they will come back. After Sunday school Dr. Ezell spoke to us on what it takes to be a New Testament church to almost a full house, and everyone seemed to enjoy his sermon fine. Our Sunday school meets next Sunday at 10 o'clock, and we want every member of our church to be present that can come. We want to try to do more for our church and community than we have in the past. We can do it if we will try and invite all visitors to come.—A Reader.

Obituary of Mr. J. H. Goddard

John Henry Goddard, son of Benjamin and Mary Frazee Goddard, was born in Meigs County, Ohio, August 19, 1884 and died in Thorsby, Ala., December 10, 1933, age 89 years and 4 months. He served 3½ years in the Civil War, participating in 21 battles, was on one scouting expedition when he was in the saddle 69 days and 32 nights without a government ration. Was honorably discharged on November 10, 1865.

He was married on February 7, 1866 to Sarah A. Lewis. Three children were born to this union. His wife died in 1893. He was married on March 3, 1895 to Martha B. Timberlake. One child was born to this union. Three children preceded him in death. He is survived by his widow, one son, 9 grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren and one great great grandson and 2 brothers. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, having received his master's degree on January 15, 1881. He lacked one month and 5 days of having 53 years of membership in the order. He moved to Alabama 27 years ago and located near Clanton. Sixteen years ago he moved to Thorsby and united with the Congregational church of which he remained faithful until death. His funeral was held at his church on Wednesday, December 13, with Rev. Each, his pastor, assisted by Rev. Lowery and Rev. Butler conducting services. The remains were laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery with Spigener of Clanton in charge. Masonic burial services were held at the grave with Mr. Q. C. Meroney of Verbena, master of ceremonies. He also had many years membership in the order of Eastern Star.

Card of Thanks

Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night the Christmas program of the Helen Keller Literary Society took place—Dicken's Christmas Carol was presented very interestingly in play with music relative to it sung by the glee club between the acts. At the conclusion there was a processional by the girls chorus, singing a Christmas carol and a recessional by both the glee club and chorus singing, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

Monday afternoon there was the try-out for the Declamatory contest which will take place February 25. The four girls chosen are: Mary Louise Reinhardt, Ruth McKee, Lessie Rasco and Mary Nell Pate. The boys are: Jack Eastburn, S. E. Maddox, Conway Thornburg and Phares Raybon.

School will close at one o'clock on Thursday, December 21st. It will have one session instead of the regular two. It will reopen at eight-thirty Wednesday morning, January third.

All of the dormitory teachers expect to be away for the vacation except Miss Klingelhoefer, who plans to board in town. Miss Leech will visit Mrs. Norton a few days, then go to Birmingham to visit Miss Elizabeth Robinson, a former librarian at Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. Maddox was called to her home near Midland City on account of the serious illness of her brother, who makes his home with her mother.

The library will be open on Tuesdays and Fridays from nine to eleven. Miss Lois Primm will be in charge. Those who wish to get books are requested to come to the rear door of the school near the library as the front door will not be open.

First honor roll—Jane Billingsley, Hal Broadhead, Mary Frances Duke, Ruth Foss, Sarah Mary Green, Jack Higgins, C. B. Jean, Mary Nell Pate, Linnie Belle Reinhardt, Mary Louise Reinhardt.

PAGEANT AT BAPTIST CHURCH ON NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT

There will be a pageant at the Clanton Baptist church Sunday night, December 24th, begining at 6 o'clock. All departments of the Sunday school will take part. The public is cordially invited to attend. A feature of the program will be a male choir.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM, CONCORD

There will be a Christmas program at Concord Baptist church Saturday night, December 23, beginning at 7:30. Santa Claus will be there. The public is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dunlap from Selma have come to spend Christmas holidays with relatives and friends here.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

See the new 1934 play, "Here Comes Charlie," at Maplesville Auditorium, Saturday night, December 23, at 7:00.

Miss Mary Alice Cochran has arrived home for the Yuletide season.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt acknowledge with many thanks a nice basket of oranges, tangerenes and cumquats from Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Grooms at Griffin, Ga. There could be no more appropriate gift for the Christmas season, and they are very nice ones too.

REDUCED PASSENGER FARES
Between All Points on THE LOUISVILLE L&N & NASHVILLE R.R.
HAVE BEEN IN EFFECT SINCE LAST APRIL

This railroad, joined by several of the more progressive shorter lines in the southeastern territory, was the first major trunk line in America to materially reduce its fares over its entire system and to abolish the Pullman surcharge. Now, since similar reductions are being made by other railroads in the north, the south and the west, tickets can be sold to those sections of the country at greatly reduced fares. Generally, the basis is the same as on this railroad.

3¢ A MILE... for transportation one way in Pullmans with the addition of only the berth or seat cost and no surcharge. Not over...

2¢ A MILE... in coaches. Round trip tickets in Pullmans at from 2 to 2½¢ per mile traveled. Liberal return limits.

What A Man!

People who are interested (and who is not?) in the election of a representative in the Legislature, and prospective candidates for that office in particular, are invited to consider the record and qualifications of Mr. A. A. Jackson, of Lomax, for that important place, which invitation is extended by E. A. Crowder, also of Lomax.

Credit is given by Mr. Crowder to Mr. Jackson for winning single handed and alone a scrap with the Alabama Power Company which resulted in a saving of $360,000 a year to rural customers of the company in Alabama. What a man? Here is the story of Mr. Jackson's gigantic performance, as told by Mr. Crowder:

"If it was my duty to pick a man to represent Chilton County in the legislature at Montgomery, I can honestly say that I know of no one that would be more fitting for the job than Mr. A. A. Jackson of Lomax.

"While the Alabama Power Company was reducing rates in the cities the rural districts of course, took it for granted they would also get a reduction. But when bills were received it was very disheartening to note an increase of over 300 per cent. What could we do? Who could dispute the Alabama Public Service Commission? They had authorized this raise. But was this in line with N.R.A.?

One man, at least, didn't think so. That man was Mr. Jackson; and I might say right here that he was enough. However, Mr. Jackson first went to the chairman of the N. R. A. of Chilton County, who informed him that Mr. Walker was the N.R.A. attorney, and advised Mr. Jackson to take this matter up with him, which he did. And what satisfaction do you think he got from Mr. Walker? Simply these words: 'When the power company sends me a bill I just pay it, and that is all I know to tell you to do.' 'However', he continued, 'I will write a letter for you, if you want me to, to the State Chairman of the N.R.A.' (Please note how unconcerned Mr. Walker was.)

"Mr. Jackson informed him (Mr. Walker) that he (Mr. Jackson) had been blessed with enough education to write, and he walked out. But, was he through? I will admit things looked mighty dark, but did Mr. Jackson quit? No. He only laughed and then went to work for a reduction in rural rates. And I want to tell Mr. Walker and all the rest that he got results. A saving of approximately $360,000 yearly was estimated when the new schedule became effective October 1st.

"Will Mr. Jackson take any credit for this? It is doubtful. But I for one know he never tired in his efforts until the rates were reduced. Will he run for the legislature? That is a question I can't answer. But if he does, and is elected, the people of Chilton County will be well represented."

Of course The Union-Banner would not presume to suggest about men and candidates in the Democratic party. But we will say that it looks to us like a man who can stride single handed and alone over Marion Gore, Grover Walker, the Public Service Commission, and the Alabama Power Company, ought not have his abilities limited to the office of a mere representative in the legislature. He ought to be Governor. What a man! What a man!

The Code of 1633

The Boston Transcript has discovered by delving into New England history, that codes and regulations of prices and conditions of labor are not new in that section of America at least. The Transcript has found that back in 1633 the price of turkey in Boston had been fixed by law, and the General Court had ordered that "no person should sell to any of the inhabitants any provision, clothing, tools or other commodities above the rate of four pence in the shilling more than cost." At the same time, the editor adds, the Boston innkeeper in the autumn of 1633 was "forbidden by law to ask more than a penny for a quart of brown, October ale, drunk out at mealtime."

Here is "code" regulation with a vengeance, and one can only speculate on whether anything was done to regulate tipping. Perhaps those thrifty colonists had not yet arrived at the stage where they could afford to parade their affluence, by leaving a quarted under the plate. Limiting the retail price of brown, October ale at a penny a quart will strike the modern American as decidedly modest, but it will be remembered that internal revenue taxes in those times were not quite as prolific as they are today.

But the Transcript editorially continues: "Nor was this all. Though nobody in Puritan Boston in his wildest dreams envisioned the NRA of 1933, the General Court of Governor Winthrop's time had already set metes and bounds to the pay of tradesmen. Carpenters, joiners, bricklayers and men in other crafts were all required to subscribe to a certain schedule of wages. Long hours of labor were prescribed and the government of the colony solicitously directed the employment of leisure: No person, housholder or other might spend his time idly or unprofitably under pain of such punishment as the court might see fit to inflict.

"In consequence of these regulations the prices rose faster than wages and the Bostonians of 1633 ate his turkey with feelings divided between thanksgiving that he was not as other men were and resentment at the meddlesomeness of the government in his business affairs and recreations."

The statement to the effect that under these regulations prices rose faster than wages, has a distinctly modern flavor. We have noted the same result in 1933. Evidently it is a little difficult to change the direction in which economic laws operate. It is reassuring to know, however, that Boston survived these regulations of 1633 and is still a fairly impressive community. Surely with the additional aid of the modern Brain Trust up-to-date Boston and these United States ought to be able to do the same.

The world series this year was far from a financial success and one of our exchanges thinks it was because there were no fan dancers at the games. Maybe so, but there were a lot of dancing fans.

Think Before You Speak

Some current comment and scattering insinuations observed in the past few days indicate that a few people have placed an entirely erroneous and too hasty construction upon the method and procedure of the conduct of the local office of the National Re-Employment Service.

Some who have not gotten jobs seem to be inclined to place the cause upon their inability to "pull the proper strings." We believe such a conclusion is too hasty and is the result of jumping at conclusions without first giving proper consideration to all facts concerned.

Mr. Cecil Stokes has been here now two weeks laboring day and night with the tremendous task of getting applicants for work properly classified and assigned. He has gone about his task in a manner that has convinced all close and fair observers that he is pursuing without fear or favor the rules and regulations laid down for him by the national authorities in this matter.

Those who would be inclined to raise objections because they have not been put to work should remember that the National Re-Employment office was not put here for the purpose of giving jobs to all who applied. That was not contemplated because it was recognized as impossible from the start.

About four thousand applicants have registered for work. Out of that number there were allotted only 800 to be given jobs. These have to be selected out of the 4,000. On that basis only one out of every five applicants can be employed. Consequently most of the applicants must be turned down, and there is no use to raise a racket about that.

Mr. Stokes has been sent here to select the workers out of the applicants, without favors through politics or any other "string pulling." We believe he is following that policy, and we believe it is unfair to him and hurtful to the re-employment program in general for anyone to jump at conclusions without justification and make such charges as some we have heard made.

Indefensible Waste

A Washington dispatch announces that the public works administration in Washington has allotted $375,000 for the construction of postoffice buildings in this state. Among the communities listed for a building is Wadena, fro which is allocated $58,000.

Wadena needs a federal building about as much as a dog needs two tails. The present quarters are more than ample for our needs and will be for many years to come. For their rental, including fixtures, Uncle Sam pays $1,392 per annum, the government furnishing heat and light. Now let us see what the new arrangement is going to cost; Interest on investment, $2,000; janitor service, $1,200; upkeep, $600; depreciation, $1,200;—total, $5,000. These figures do not include fixtures and other equipment. From these fixtures it will be seen that a federal building at Wadena imposes an additional $3,600 annually. Then too, any property acquired for postoffice purposes must be taken off the tax rolls and that is an item not to be sneezed at.

Assuming that the new building will be in use 50 years, the federal treasury will sustain a net loss of $180,000 in this particular transaction. Multiply this by a hundred or more and we get an idea of the criminal waste of taxpayers' money that Uncle Sam indulges in.

If we must have a public building program why would it not be a good idea for the government to purchase closed bank buildings for postoffice purposes and thereby thaw out and make available for distribution some of the frozen assets for the benefit of the depositors. Such a plan could be defended but the open one upon which the government has embarked is indefensible from whatever angle viewed.—Wadena, Minn., Pioneer-Journal.

Considerable interest and favorable comment has been noted relative to Clanton's "Merry Christmas" signs which have been swung acros the highway at both ends of the city's business district. The idea is said to have originated in the fertile brain of some bubbling member of the Kiwanis Club. From there it gained the interest of the city officials. Further negotiations secured the cooperation of Mr. Williams and the Alabama Power Company. All of which resulted in Clanton's expression of Christmas Greetings to all motorists who chance to come our way. Fine idea. Congratolations to us.

Scientists have advanced the theory that the universe is expanding as parts contract. This seems to fit in with the theory of cheapening the value of the dollar by increasing the price and amount of gold in the country.

When France pays a little on account to Uncle Sam, then a world will know that another European war is brewing.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

A Hell On Earth

Let's picture a hell on earth. Let's begin at the cradle and end with the grave, because that is as much of life as our Christian belief will allow us to explore—the rest we must leave in the hands of our Creator; He leaves life in our hands at birth, and takes up the further management of our affairs at death.

Two children—a boy and a girl—are born. After a few weeks they are taken from their mothers. They may or may not see them again. The children may never even know who their parents are. They grow up in a government school. They are taught what the government wants to have them know—that they are cogs in one big machine—that they must live to work that they may draw their pittances of food and clothes. It matters not whether they learn to read and write—a favored few have been picked to receive these advantakes. They see no Bibles; they attend no Sunday schools; they hear no sermons; and they know not the meaning of prayer, for there are no prayers said around them.

When their very natures would cry out to a superior power, they are told that there is no God; that life is life, and death is death; that there was nothing in the beginning and there will be nothing at the end. They naturally pick up their language, through their every-day connections with others about them. But beyond that, there is practically no learning to be done.

The word "love" might as well be stricken from their language, for they are never allowed a chance to know its meaning; "hate" is the very motto that is taught as their guiding star; hate of everything—hate for their overseers while at work—hate for anyone who might try to tell them of something better—hate for God, if, indeed they may have heard that there is a God—hate of everything good and true and upright—hate even for life, itself, in that it brings to them only dreary existence. Their sense and idea of love is the same as any animal might experience.

They own no property, nor want any. They have never been taught anything that might put the idea of private ownership in their minds, such minds as they have. They cannot grasp the idea of a permanent home, for they have never known such. They care nothing for land and possessions—they would not know how to manage them if they had them. All they have ever been taught to expect is food and clothes, both of the poorest qualities.

With such principle (or lack of it) instilled into these children from birth, how can they be expected to realize that there is anything better? They have geen taught that this method is best, and they believe it. They are not to blame, then, when they turn deaf ears to any advice other than this, for their belief in their early training is as zealous as that of any other person, no matter how enlightened.

At last they have reached their full growth. They are thrown together, and are married. Marriage is simple—either or both may come before an official and declare their desires to become married. When they have registered such intentions with an official, the marriage is consummated. Either may appear at any time before the proper official and ask that the marriage be annulled, and it is allowed, without a question. There is nothing unusual for men or women to be married and "un-married" dozens of times in a year.

But let us assume that they desire to stay married. The man is taken to work on one job, the woman on another. There is no such thing as not working—they all work— and their work is not according to their own likes, but they do the kind of work the overseers would have them do. They may work in the same gang one day, and miles apart the next. It may be that they will not see each other for days, weeks, or even months. They may be housed in the same rooms or in separate buildings, just as the overseers see fit. If, indeed, there ever was any real affection between them, could they be expected to continue to feel such? No more than any other animal.

After a while the woman may find another man she thinks she likes better, or maybe the man finds another woman he likes. It is no trouble to free himself and marry the new mate—only a matter of registration —that's all.

And, so, on and on they go. It's the same old story in every case, for all fare and share alike. Even if some person should be presumptive enough to try to think for himself, he would immediately be branded as dangerous to the republic, and punished accordingly. A man knows nothing or wants to. He owns nothing, nor wants anything. He works, and is fed and clothed. If he becomes ill, he may receive medical aid, or he may not. If he is a big strong husky, he may be well cared for, for the sake of his labor later. But if he happens to be a weakling, or is crippled, the overseer may decide that it is better to let him die and be out of the way to make room for a better man; if he doesn't die, at any time a charge of treason may be trumped up and he be shot, and no questions will be asked, because the overseer is a trusted official, and his report of the affair is accepted without investigation.

At last these two come to their death beds. They have served their purpose. They have slaved their lives away. They know no God. They have been allowed to let their animal instincts lead them as low as it might. And so they die, and their government sees that they are buried in a rude box, without song or service, the same as any other animal—the only difference between the burial of a man and an animal is the box—the people have them, the animals do not. There is no funeral, for there is no minister to conduct one even if the officials would allow such. After the dirt is packed in above them their government forgets they ever existed, for in this place there is no hereafter.

I believe you will have to admit that a condition such as I have described above would make life pretty much a hell on earth. I have purposely omitted the several different kinds of punishment that might be meted out by overbearing overseers having power thrust into their hands. But if you will just consider the possibility of having to go through life in the manner pictured above, do you not think it would seem like hell on earth, or at least as near it as mortals may conceive? About the only thing lacking would be the fire, and I imagine in some cases that might be used too.

Yet, there is one place on earth—Russia—where life is lived under identical conditions as those described. That is why intellectual Russians, and those with knowledge that the outside world is a better place to live and enjoy life, have gathered all their possessions and left their native land, where their individual efforts may be recognized. These are the "better" class of Russians—people educated in the regime before the wild surge of communism enveloped the nation with a shroud of hate and disorder.

America has recognized Russia for trade purposes. In return, heads of the Soviet government have given a pledge that Soviet propaganda will not be spread throughout our country.

But one of the articles in the Soviet Constitution sets forth that: "In order to further our (Communistic) cause, the officials of our government may sign any kind of pledges or agreements with any nation on earth, without any intention of keeping faith with it. Our work must go on, no matter what means we may have to use."

Considering this, can it be expected that Soviet officials will keep the faith with us? And, too, inasmuch as the seeds of Communism have already been planted here, would it be possible for these officials to stop their campaign of propaganda, even if they desired? Would you invite a skunk into your parlor, just because it's owner promised it would be nice?

Our people should consider all this, and decide for themselves if they want our nation on speaking terms with another which works under such conditions, taking into consideration that this nation will be making every effort to make our government over according to their liking. Do Americans want Sovietism?—Man in the Moon?

A Voice From the Past

"The people of the United States are entitled to a sound and stable currency and to money recognized as such on every exchange in every market of the world. The government has no right to injure them by financial experts. * * * At a time like the present when the evils of unsound finance threaten us, the speculator may anticipate a harvest gathered from the misfortune of others; the capitalist may protect himself by hoarding, or may even find profit in the fluctuation of values; but the wage earner—the first to be injured by a depreciated currency and the last to receive the benefit of its correction—is practically defenseless. He relies for work upon the ventures of confident and contented capital. This failing him, he is without alleviation, for he can neither prey upon the misfortunes of others nor hoard his labor. One of the greatest statesmen our country has known, speaking more than 50 years ago when a derangement of currency caused financial distress, said:

"The very man of all others who has the deepest interest in a sound currency and who suffers most by mischievous legislation in money matters is the man who earns his daily bread by his daliy toil."

These are not the words of a modern "Tory" attacking the monetary plan of President Roosevelt. Al Smith did not say them, nor any of those disagreeing with the plans of the brain trust economists. They were said by Grover Cleveland then president of the United States, in 1893, which was 40 years ago, and they are as true today as when they were uttered. The laboring man always has been the sufferer from cheap money. His wages never keep up with the depreciation of the money standard of values and the higher prices of commodities. If his wages should keep up, however, he would be no better off than he was before.

And President Cleveland also had experience with the results of cheap silver. In his third annual message, delivered December 2, 1895, he declared: "The compulsory purchase and coinage of silver by the government, unchecked and unregulated by business conditions and heedless of our currency needs, which for more than 15 years diluted our currency medium, undermined confidence abroad in our financial ability, and at last culminated in distress and panic at home, has been recently stopped by the repeal of the laws which forced this reckless scheme upon the country."

In the same message Mr. Cleveland recited the evils that had come out of the issue of greenbacks during the Civil War and told how their retirement and the resumption of specie payment had dragged the finances and the industry of the nation out of the doldrums.

In all history, "cheap money," however it has been disguised by other names, always has been just that. We can only judge the future by the past. There is nothing new in the supposedly palliative monetary nostrums that are now being proposed. They are as old, almost, as written history is old. Most of them were tried at least as long as 2,000 years ago. It is unreasonable to suppose that economic laws have altered almost over night; that the 50 cents of last year could become the dollar of today without eventual wreckage of the money system.

Those who are seeking to save the credit of the United States by insisting upon a dollar made up of 100 cents for all purposes, are not traitors. Soon, we may have no doubt unless all history lies, they will be lauded from every rostrum as patriots.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

An old saying is "Half a loaf is better than no loaf at all." Therefore, by a very simple process of reasoning one might conclude that half a dream come true is better than none at all. We had dreamed that both of Clanton's swamps would be ditched to the railroad by Christmas. One of the C.W.A. overseers assured me Tuesday that his crew would reach the railroad north of town by the end of this week. Another crew is already digging at the ditch on the south prong. We are coming, surely, and if Uncle Sam's money holds out, we will get there.

Several minor accidents have already been reported as a result of Christmas celebration. More than one adventurous youth, we are told, has had his fingers scorched by his failure to properly calculate the exact time when a firecracker would pop. But why blame the boys? Very few of us older heads are any better at calculating. And I know some of our crowd who have gotten more scorched than their fingers, and it wasn't Christmas time either.

Along with the digging of the ditch, I observe that much clearing of the swamp has been done. Most anything is catching among people. That is largely the theory of the national recovery psychology. There is no telling where will be the stopping place of the ditch-digging movement. A little public improvement inspires a property owner to do some trimming up. Another one catches the inspiration, and there it goes.

His many friends in Clanton and Chilton County lament the death of Mr. Houston C. Armstrong, of Selma, last week. While he was not widely known here, yet he had an acquaintance with enough of our citizenship to make him loved, honored ann appreciated as the fine type of citizen which his life had so forcibly emphasized in his home community. Mr. Armstrong was president of the City National Bank, to which Glenn Boyd went as Vice President a few years ago.

The weather of the past few days has been very much out of style for the time of the year. It has played many curious pranks over the country, running the mercury all the way from high hot to low freezing and below. The main effect noted in this vicinity is that it has stopped the epidemic of hog killing, and seriously slowed up the normal supply of chitlins. I for one hope it will turn cold again before Christmas.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The theory of the inflationists that we must have very cheap money, much cheaper than a fifty cent dollar, in order that the man who owes money will be able to pay his debts, must sound too good to be true, even to the man who runs as he reads. If getting out of debt were so easy as that, certainly the inflationist program would have become a habit long before this. Yet efforts which have been made in other countries, in the decades and centuries gone by, in the line of inflation, have ended in disaster.

Most anybody could guess that there must be a catch in it somewhere, and there is. Let it not be forgotten that after we get down to a basis of ten cent dollars we will still have to live and pay our debts. Take the man who owes ten thousand dollars and is broke. When the dollar gets down to a dime he will still have a debt of $10,000 which he can presumably pay in dollars now worth but a dime. If the debt is now only a thousand dollars in gold, the dollar is only ten cents in gold. He must therefore earn ten thousand ten cent dollars to pay off the debt.

Now the first thing this man is apt to discover after the inflation has been accomplished is that living costs have gone up as fast, if not faster, than the dollar has depreciated. He will find also that his wages have not gone up so fast as the dollar has depreciated. He will first have to earn a living and maintain his family before he can pay anything on the debt which he owes. He can only pay on the debt the margin which he may have after he has paid his current expenses. He is very apt to find, therefore, that the saving which he has, if any, is even less than the margin he had when the dollar was a dollar and $10,000 debt represented $10,000, and that the debt is even harder to pay than it was before.

This applies to the farmer as well as to the man who works for a wage or a salary. The farmer's expenses under inflation rise as rapidly as those of the man in the city. Even if he gets more for his wheat, his corn and his hogs in "balony" dollars, his crops are so limited that after he pays his living expenses and his increased taxes he is apt to find that he is no better off than he was before the inflation commenced.

Of course if the farmer had 100,000 or a million bushels of wheat or corn, or if he had great supplies of oil and copper, he might benefit in the first flush of inflation and be able to pay off some of his debts before retribution struck him. But the farmers who need help most do not carry commodities in any such great quantities. This does not mean that nobody would benefit from the sudden rise of commodities due to inflation. Someone might gain, but it wouldn't be the farmer. The fellow who might benefit, if there be any benefit, would be the individual who gambles in the grain and commodity markets, who, with a surplus of cash on hand, could go into the market and buy metals, oils or grain futures measured by the 100,000 and million bushel units. He knows the game and is nimble in getting in and out of the market and he might have a chance to make a clean-up. But it is difficult to see how the farmer would benefit from this.

If drastic inflation comes, therefore, the farmer will gain little, while the wage worker and the salaried man, the holders of insurance policies, possessors of savings accounts and those living on pensions or fixed income will be badly damaged. The man who will win, and even his advantage may be transitory, is the stock market gambler, and the commodity market manipulator, of whom we have heard so many excoriations, during the past few years.

We hope the matter of the Russian debts will soon be solved so that we will know just how much Uncle Sam is not going to get.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FANT GIVES SOME FACTS OF INTEREST TO POULTRYMEN

At this time of the year there are many problems with poultry. The feeding and housing are probably the most important at this time.

Hens should be housed in a comfortable house and a good laying mash kept before them at all times. Feed all the whole corn the hens will consume in 20 or 30 minutes just before they go to roost.

I am giving below a good home mixture for laying mash, principally of home grown feeds: Mix thoroughly the following: 65 pounds of yellow corn meal; 25 pounds ground peanuts; 7 pounds bone meal; 1 pound salt.

Milk should be fed with the above mixture at the rate of two to two and one-half gallons per day per 100 hens.

This formula gave 60 per cent production while other feed gave about 50 per cent production under similar conditions.

Ground soybeans, 20 pounds; cowpeas, 30 pounds, or cottonseed meal, 15 pounds, may be satisfactorily used to replace the ground peanuts in this laying ration.

Where plenty of green feed, like oats, rape, vetch or combinations of these or others that grow in winter are available, white corn meal may be substituted for the yellow.

There are several other combinations of home grown feeds that give good results.

When in Clanton call by the county agent's office and talk over your farm problems.

J. W. FANT, County Agent.

SUCCESS OF COTTON PLAN IS UP TO THE FARMERS

Auburn, Ala. — The success of the government program of cotton production adjustment, planned to reduce surpluses and establish a fair buying price for cotton, is squarely up to the farmers of the cotton belt.

The plan is a voluntary one. Cotton producers are not forced to take part in it. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is offering a plan that makes it possible for the cotton growers of the country to bring production and supply into line with effective demand, thus working a fair exchange or parity price for their cotton. But the individual growers will have to take part in the program in order to make it effective.

Rental payments, and adjustment payments if needed to insure parity price on the domestically consumed proportion of his crop, will make it possible for the cotton farmer to join the national movement for stabilization of his industry without loss of immediate cash bonus.

Those who do not take part in the program will receive none of the rental payments and none of the guarantees of parity price for the domestically consumed portion of their crop. The domestically consumed share of the individual farmer's crop or "farm allotment," will be 40 per cent of the average annual cotton production on the farm for the base period years, 1928, through 1932.

See the new 1934 play, "Here Comes Charlie," at Maplesville Auditorium, Saturday night, December 23, at 7:00.

HUGE SURPLUS STILL THE COTTON PROBLEM

An enormous surplus with its positive tendency to force down the price of cotton, is still the basic problem facing the cotton growers of the country, according to J. W. Fant county agent.

The emergency campaign last summer, which reduced the indicated 1933 production by 4,400,000 bales, was a big step in the right direction. It prevented the ruinous increase in the existing surplus which would have followed the record production of more than 17,000,000 bales in the 1933 crop if there had been no plow-up campaign.

More than 13,000 bales were produced this year, however, in spite of the emergency reduction, and the surplus problem still remains.

The carryover of the United States cotton before the 1933 crop was harvested has been placed at 11,600,000 bales. Add to this the estimated 1933 crop, after the plow-up reduction, of 13,100,000 bales, and there is a total indicated supply of 24,700,000 bales for the coming year.

Total disappearance of United States cotton during the year is not expected to be more than 14,700,000 bales, leaving the big estimated carryover of 10,000,000 bales before the 1934 crop is harvested.

Further reduction of the surplus is necessary. The supply of cotton must be brought in line with effective demand at a fair exchange price.

Chief aim of the new cotton adjustment program is to make possible this needed reduction.

LIVESTOCK REMINDERS

Breed all open dairy cows this month. Fall freshening cows produce more milk and butterfat than those freshening in the spring according to records obtained in dairy herd improvement association work.

Do not neglect to get rid of all low producing cows just because the price is low. Present conditions do not justify wasting feed and shelter on such dairy cows.

Where only a limited supply of ensilage is available it is better to feed it to the milking herd. Succulent feed will stimulate milk production during the winter months when green feed is not available.

Have your calves and yearlings been treated against stomach worms and intestinal parasites this fall? Calves that show swelling under the throat, are thin in flesh, yet retain a ravenous appetite, are apt to be infested with worms.

From now until spring milk cows should have shelter on bad days and nights to keep them dry and comfortable. The cold, wet ground will cause diseased udders and you will also have to use more feed to maintain normal production.

Dairy incomes increase and dairy surpluses decrease with fewer and better cows. Dairy herd-improvement associations point the way to more profitable production by assisting you to locate your low producing cows.

The store of Chicago Sales Company will be closed Wednesday and Thursday, December 27 and 28, for the purpose of taking inventory.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 19. — The Civil Works Administration has offered the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department an opportunity to improve oyster beds in Mobile Bay, left almost barren by 1929 floods, and construct additional ponds at the state fish hatchery.

Commissioner I. T. Quinn already has placed 42 CWA men at work planting oysters in lower Mobile Bay and probably will add to this force within the next week or two. He also is negotiating with CWA authorities for 72 men to be employed in building more ponds at the Eastaboga hatchery.

The CWA has placed 240 men at work completing construction of the federal fish hatchery at Marion, Ala. Work on this hatchery was started a year ago but was discontinued for a time due to lack of funds.

Vredenburgh, Ala.—Alabama sportsmen have joined in extending condolences to S. H. Vredenburgh, Alabama lumberman, and Trainer John C. Campbell in the loss of Champion Trego. The dog died of pneumonia at Fitzpatrick, Ala., early this month.

With Trego's passing went one of the greatest pointers of the day and a career that promised to reach lofty heights was cut short almost at its beginning. He was not yet five years old.

Trego, a white, liver and ticked pointer, reached the zenith of his field trial exploits at the prairie trials held at Pierson, Manitoba, this year where he won All-American Amateur championship. He had nine other major triumphs to his credit.

Bay Minette, Ala.—Baldwin County had as its guest for one week this month Senator and Mrs. A. F. Atwood of Columbus, Ohio, who came to Alabama to hunt quail and wild turkeys. Bob whites are songbirds in Ohio and cannot be hunted.

Senator Atwood and his wife are well known to the world of outdoor sport. The senator won the national bait casting championship at Cleveland in 1922 and is considered among the nation's best shots. Mrs. Atwood also has won angling honors, capturing the national fly casting championship of her division at Denver in 1923.

The Ohioan has been president of the Ohio Sportsmen's League, numbering 100,000 members, and is the father of that state's game and fish legislation.

FORESTRY CODE IS A BENEFIT

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 19. — The greatest single impetus to the practice of forestry on private lands in recent years is probably contained in Article 10 of the Lumber Code, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester.

In the past the lumber industry has been the subject of considerable criticism, emanating from various sources, for the manner in which the timber lands under private ownership have been managed. Market conditions, competition and lack of interest on the part of the public had built up a combination of circumstances which tended to place the situation largely beyond control, the greatest evil being the unjust system of taxation on the standing timber and timberlands. The lumber industry has never raised the question of taxation on the manufacturing units, but has strenuously objected to the system of taxation on the timber growing units whereby the unharvested timber is taxed annually from the time it springs from the seed until it is cut. Some striking examples of forest denudation and so-called "deserts" in the midst of ideal timber growing conditions have been the result.

The Code, however, brings the various operators under a common banner enabling them to prevent glutted markets with the sequal of disastrous prices and to avoid unfair competition. It also enables the operators to bring their problems of a common kind forcibly to the attention of the public agencies responsible for existing conditions, to the end that the necessary remedial steps will be taken. Forestry or timber growing with its policy of wise use of the land has always had tremendous public appeal.

NOTICE FROM TVA

The Tennessee Valley Authority announced today that an organization calling itself "Farmers Fertilizer Cooperative, Inc., Harry J. Frahn, secretary-manager," and giving postoffice Bob 471, Sheffield, Ala., as its address, is not authorized to represent the authority in any manner whatsoever.

Attention of the authority has been to a circular letter signed by this organization entitled "Open Letter to Farmers," to which is attached a coupon asking farmers to order their 1934 supply of fertilizers from the Tennessee Valley Authority through the said Farmers Fertilizer Cooperative, Inc. The coupon carries this caption "Cooperating with the Tennessee Valley Authority — Fertilizer Pledge."

Use of the name of the Tennessee Valley Authority in this manner is wholly unwarranted and unauthorized. The Tennessee Valley Authority will announce its own fertilizer program.

Lesson for December 24

A VISION OF WORLD PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 11:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT—They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea. Isaiah 11:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peace on Earth.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Prince of Peace.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Does Christmas Mean.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Christian Christmas.

Isaiah does not set forth merely an ideal for a world at strife. The fact is revealed that Jesus Christ shall come back to the earth and establish a kingdom, and remove from men's hearts the cause of strife. Instead of a vision of "World Peace" a better statement of the subject would be "The Universal Reign of Jesus Christ."

I. Who Is This King? (v. 1).

1. He is the Son of Man. "A child is born" (Isa. 9:6). The one who shall reign over all the world as king is a real human being. The eternal Son of God, incorporated with the human race in order to be its Saviour and Lord, shall come of David's line.

2. He is the Son of God. "A son is given" (Isa. 9:6). As the eternal Son of God he was not "born" but "given." This son "given" is the "Mighty God," the "Everlasting Father." Being such he will take the "government upon his shoulders," that is, he will assume all authority. He is "Wonderful." The world will marvel at him. He is the all-wise "Counsellor." Therefore there will be no mistake made in his conduct of the affairs of the kingdom. He is the "Prince of Peace."

II. The King's Qualification (v. 2).

The king which the world needs and for which it longs must have superhuman wisdom and power. There shall rest upon him:

1. "The spirit of the Lord."

2. "The spirit of wisdom," giving insight into all things, human and divine.

3. "The spirit of understanding," giving him the ability to use that which is highest and best.

4. "The spirit of counsel," enabling him intelligently to plan and administer the affairs of the kingdom.

5. "The spirit of might"—ability to execute his plans.

6. "The spirit of knowledge," enabling him to perceive the will of God in all things.

7. "The fear of the Lord," causing him to be reverential and obedient.

III. The Character of the King's Reign (vv. 3-5).

1. "He shall not judge at the sight of his eyes." His knowledge is perfect. None can deceive him.

2. "Not reprove after the hearing of the ear." The word "reproof" means decide. His decisions, therefore will be on the basis of fact, not of heresay.

3. "With righteousness shall he judge the poor." When Christ reigns as king the poor shall get justice.

4. "Shall smite the earth with the rod of his might." By the "earth" is meant the wicked inhabitants.

5. "He shall be girded with righteousness and faithfulness." He is absolutely righteous and will faithfully carry out all his words.

IV. The Issue of the King's Reign (vv. 6-10).

Here is a picture of the glorious golden age of which poets have sung and for which the great and wise men of all the ages have longed and looked. There will then be peace both between men and animals.

1. "The wolf shall dwell with the lamb" (v. 6). The word "dwell" suggests intimacy as if the lamb should receive the wolf into its home.

2. "The leopard shall lie down with the kid" (v. 6).

3. "The calf and the young lion and the fatling together" (v. 6). They are so gentle and kind that a little child shall lead them.

4. "The cow and the bear shall feed" (v. 7).

5. "The lion shall eat straw" (v. 7). The lion shall no longer prey upon other animals for food.

6. "The suckling child shall play on the hole of the asp" (v. 8).

7. "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord" (v. 9). The issue of this glorious reign shall be the attraction of the Gentile nations (vv. 10-12). This is the real purpose of the coming kingdom.

Piety Comes First

No student can afford to say, as some unfortunately do, "I will secure my education first and my religion afterward." Religion is a value so important that it cannot safely be postponed or side-tracked in favor of any lesser concern.

How Sweet Is Rest!

Rest! How sweet the sound! It is melody to my ears! It lies as a reviving cordial at my heart, and from thence sends forth lively spirits which beat through all the pulses of my soul! —Baxter.

"As a Man Thinketh"

Out of the heart proceedeth every evil. The mind is the mill by which the grist of the soul is ground. Love thinketh no evil; righteousness does not meditate upon iniquity.

COLLINS SAYS PLANT OATS, PEAS

The question has been asked several times, who would get the rent paid by the government on the cotton acreage taken out of production for the years 1934 and 1935? Of course this will go to the land owner, and that is as far as the program has been made out, and if the government don't make a program any further, I expect to give my renters the rent on this land (not the cash rent from government) but the crops grown from this land. Although I expect to ask them to plant oats, and follow in peas or beans, unless I have to furnish the seed oats and peas, if so, I will expect ¼ of the crops to pay for seed oats and peas. It appears that we should plant crops other than corn, for our western friends are plowing up their corn to make the price better; so it would not be right for we people here in Alabama to grow corn. The best pay from a few acres of land comes from oats and peas.—J. D. Collins.

SUNSHINE NEWS

We wish to say that our Sunday school is going on nicely, as the service was omitted Sunday because of the death of our dear friend, Mr. Clark Powell. We miss him from our midst, for to know him was to love him. We are so sorry of the awful tragedy in his home, and wish to say to his bereaved loved ones to look up for only God can heal the broken heart, and He understands all things.

We are having services at the Sunshine church every night this week and next, with sister Mayfield, from Atlanta, Ga., in charge of the meeting. We had a wonderful service Sunday night. We are expecting Rev. E. J. Orange from Montgomery here with us Thursday night. We invite everyone to these services. Come and help us out, and enjoy the meeting together.

Sunshine Holiness tabernacle is about four and one-half miles from Clanton, near Refuge church. Everybody come. Remember services are to be held every night this week and next. No services in the day time.

Mr. W. T. Ward attended the Tractor school in Birmingham Friday and Saturday and reported a nice trip. Mr. Ward has been driving a tractor for 20 years.

Dr. Pardue and wife from Selma were Sunday visitors of Dr. Ward.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE FROM JUDGE REYNOLDS

Editor Union-Banner:

As we come to the close of 1933 I feel that we people of Chilton County should be thankful that conditions are as well with us as they are. We surely will not fail to fully appreciate the contributions the Federal Government has made toward the comfort and relief of our people during this year.

Through the National Government our county has received over $100,000 in cash, and thousands of dollars worth of clothing, supplies, etc. I do not know what the people of our county would have done without this help.

We do not know how long this program of the government will continue. I hope every citizen of our county who has work to do on farms or any other kind of work will give employment to our needy people; and I urge every person in the county who is without work to endeavor to prepare next year to make a crop or to get something that will be sustaining. We should not assume the attitude of waiting on the government to take care of us.

Christmas is near at hand. I sincerely wish for all the people of Chilton County a merry holiday season, and comfort and happiness throughout the New Year.

Sincerely,

L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate.

Bear Cat Gas 20c

Buying gasoline in car load lots enables me to reduce my price on Bear Cat Gas to 20 cents a gallon, beginning Thursday, December 21. I take this occasion to thank all my friends and good customers for their liberal patronage in the past. It is your patronage that helps to keep the price of gas down. Other towns are paying 25 cents for gasoline. Bear Cat gasoline has been sold long enough to fully establish its good qualities until even the most skeptical are not doubtful any more.
On Saturday, December 23rd, as a special Christmas Gift to you, I will sell Bear Cat gas for 18 cents. This will be for Saturday ONLY.
To you that have not used Bear Cat gasoline, I want you to come down and fill up and patronize a home industry that spends its money in Clanton.

LADIES BANQUET WITH KIWANIS

Much Fun Enjoyed at Annual Gathering Last Thursday Night Here

The weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton last Thursday night was an unusually interesting event, with the members enjoying the presence and participation of their ladies at the banquet at the Exchange Hotel.

The program was prepared and carried out with the prevailing fun, frolic, and Christmas cheer for everybody. Each member of the club was assigned a lady to escort into the banquet hall. Gathered about the table all joined in singing America, which was followed with invocation by Presley Cochran.

Each club member was called upon to introduce the lady whom he had brought to the banquet. This brought out many very interesting and novel feats on the part of some of the club's most gifted orators, such as J. P. Montgomery, Luther Little, John Hollis and Sam Ezell.

During the disposal of a sumptuous turkey dinner the spirit of fun and good cheer broke out in several places.

A resolution of appreciation to Cohen Stapp was read by Lloyd Warr, and unanimously adopted by the club, with instructions that the same be presented to him as a memento of his fine services in Kiwanis during his residence in Clanton.

The new officers of the club for the next year were introduced as follows: Luther Little, president, introduced by Mack Wyatt; Earle Thomas, vice president, introduced by past president, John Hollis; Dr. C. O. Lawrence, treasurer, introduced by past president, Dr. V. J. Gragg; Dan Waite, secretary, introduced by Sam Ezell; the new board of directors, and Miss Mary Ellis, pianist, introduced by Luther Little.

Dr. Gragg reported that the property for the proposed airport had been purchased by the county. Percy Pitts paid the respects of the club to Dr. Gragg for the splendid manner in which he has supported the airport movement on behalf of the Kiwanis.

Concluding the program the attendants were divided into seven teams of four each. Each team was equipped with scissors, paste, and an old magazine. The letters were composed by selecting suitable words from the magazines and pasting them to compose the letter.

Dr. Gragg, Miss Mary Ellis and Earle Thomas were judges. Their decision was a tie between two of the groups. The prize was awarded jointly to the successful contestants. Mrs. John Page and Mrs. Billy Smith, representing the winning teams, opened the prize package. When they finally got all the boxes and paper from around it, the prize was a nickle bottle of Hoyt's cologne. Mell Martin settled the contest finally by pouring the cologne on all of the eight people who won it.

Music was furnished by Wright and Veazey of Isabella.

Cotton Options Being Delivered

County Agent Fant Is Busy at The Job This Week

County Agent, J. W. Fant, is engaged now in delivering cotton options to the farmers of Chilton County. He has announced and will carry out the following schedule which began Saturday, December 23:

Clanton, December 23 and 30; Verbena, December 26, 8 a.m. to 12; Thorsby, December 26, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Jemison, December 28, 8 a.m. to 12; Maplesville, December 28, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Stanton, December 29, 8 a.m. to 12; Pletcher, December 29, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

In a letter sent out last week Mr. Fant said: "These options must be delivered by January 15, 1934. There are two methods of exercising these options. First, by exercise of the option prior to January 15, 1934, or within thirty days of date of option contract, and entering into the 1933 Cotton Producers Pool. Second, by exercise of the option without entering the pool.

"If you enter the pool you may draw 4 cents per pound or $20.00 per bale by signing a pool agreement, which pledges you to cooperate in the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction plan. You also retain ownership in the cotton, and any advance in price above ten cents you will profit to that extent.

"If you exercise the option without entering the pool you may ask the Secretary of Agriculture to sell the cotton on a date selected by you and you will receive the difference between 6c per pound and the selling price on that date.

"Be sure to bring your notice of acceptance showing the amount of cotton you have optioned when you come to get your cotton option contract."

ELMORE WOMAN SLAIN, SON SHOT

Wetumpka, Ala., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Rosella Self, 45, was shot to death, and her son, Bill Sewell, was probably fatally wounded last night near the home of Bill Brown, eight miles from here, according to Elmore County officers.

Brown, a World War veteran, was arrested by Deputy Smith and is held in the county jail. He did not deny the shooting, but gave no reason for it, officers quoted him as saying.

Young Sewell is in a Montgomery hospital with several bullet wounds in his body and is not expected to live. Mrs. Self was shot one time in the abdomen. The shooting took place about 7:30 p.m. in front of Brown's home, officers said.

Mrs. Self is survived by her husband, who is in the penitentiary, and several children. Brown came here several years ago from Coosa County and has a wife and six children.

Mr. Fant Explains 1934 Cotton Plan

January First Is Day Set To Begin The Sign-Up Campaign

New Year's Day is the beginning of a new era for the Chilton County cotton farmer. January 1 has been set as the day to start the sign-up campaign of the 1934-1935 cotton production adjustment contracts, according to J. W. Fant, county agent.

"This campaign," says Mr. Fant, "is to cover the sixteen cotton producing states, and Chilton County will share with the other counties of Alabama and with the other southern states in the rentals to be paid by the government to the individual farmers, who cooperate in this campaign, which has as its purpose the returning to a 'parity' or 'fair share' price for cotton. In other words, it hopes to give a bale of cotton the buying power of a pre-war bale of cotton."

"The government," he explains, "will pay rent at the rate of 3½ cents per pound for the average yield of lint cotton per acre during the years 1928-1932 inclusive, with a maximum rental payment of $18 per acre to be paid in two equal installments, the first to be made between March 1 and April 30, 1934 approximately, and the second between August 1 and September 30, 1934.

"A parity payment," he adds, "of not less than 1 cent per pound lint cotton shall be made to the producer between December 1, 1934 and January 1, 1935 approximately, on the 'farm allotment.' (The farm allotment is 40 per cent of the average production during the years 1928-1932 inclusive.)

"The government," he further explains, "will not rent less than 35 per cent and not more than 45 per cent of the average acreage planted in cotton during the years 1928-1932 inclusive."

"No producer who signs a rental contract will be allowed to increase his cotton acreage above what he planted in cotton in 1932 or 1933," concluded Mr. Fant.

ORATORIO TO BE REPEATED

The sacred oratorio, "Regem Adorate," composed by Aimee Semple McPherson, is to be presented for the second time this season at the Clanton Foursquare Gospel church, Friday, December 29, 1933, at 7:00 o'clock.

The oratorio was presented to a capacity audience Christmas eve, and at the request of many who attended and many who could not be present, Rev. Harry B. Miller, the pastor of the church, says he will repeat the oratorio.

The entire oratorio is not presented but will be presented to the Clanton people in the near future. Because of the lack of equipment and singers the oratorio could not be presented at the present time.

Negro Killed At Work In A Well

A shocking accident occured Wednesday, December 20, when Crawford Reid (colored) was working in a well three and a half miles west of Thorsby. The rope or chain with which the buckets of dirt were raised and lowered gave away and the bucket and contents fell and hit Reid on the head, killing him instantly. Funeral services were held at the house on Thursday afternoon conducted by R. C. Mixson, of Shelby, pastor of the Union Baptist Church of Clanton. Raid was 64 years old. He is survived by his wife, Frances, his mother, Eliza Moore, five sons, five daughters, two brothers and a host of friends, both white an dcolored. We want to thank the many friends for their sympathy and help in this time of distress. Among them were Mr. E. F. Popwell, who gave time and labor, Mr. Leon Popwell and Mr. Raymond Popwell, all of whom were very kind and helpful. Among the colored friends were J. R. Wright, M. W. Stewart, N. J. Stewart and others. Help and gifts of flowers were also given by Mrs. W. D. Caton and Mr. Will McGrodie. We hope our loss is heaven's gain. "When we asunder part, it gives us inward pain, but we shall still be joined in heart and hope to meet again."—E. J. Ellison.

LAND PURCHASED FOR AN AIRPORT

Engineers Here On Wednesday Mapping Plans For Submission to C. W. A.

By unanimous action of the Commissioners Court last Wednesday sixty acres of land was purchased from E. W. Miller by the county to be used for development of an airport. The tract, located just east of the Reynolds Addition to Clanton, will be leased to the government for a period of five years for use as an airport.

Development of the project and the erection of airport facilities will be done under direction of the United States Department of Commerce, and labor for the job will be furnished through the Chilton County CWA.

Engineers were here Wednesday engaged in outlining plans for the airport development. The project will be submitted to the Civil Works Administration for approval this week, and it is expected that the work will be authorized in the near future.

Nothing definite has been given out yet as to the extent of this development. That will be determined by the report and recommendation of engineers assigned to the project.

It has been stated by a number of experts that the site offers an excellent place for airport facilities. Also consideration has been given to inclusion of a community center on the property in connection with the landing field.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Stewart E. Armstrong, age 25, son of Mrs. Annie Armstrong, is in the Central Alabama Hospital with a bullet wound clear through his chest just above the heart, which was self-inflicted at the home in east Clanton about 8:30 Tuesday morning. No motive is given for the action. It is thought that the young man will recover.

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECK TUESDAY

Engine and 22 Cars Derailed at Switch One Mile Below Wadsworth

Four people are thought to have been killed and thirteen were injured when a fast L. & N. freight train wrecked at Wadsworth about noon Tuesday. Twenty-one cars tumbled from the track as the engine had left the rails, and all of them piled high into a mass of debris.

Wrecking crews worked frantically Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday night to ascertain the fate of two men and two women hoboes believed to be under the mass of wreckage.

All of those injured, except the fireman, were hoboes. Some were brought to Clanton hospital, and some carried to Montgomery. Those in the Clanton hospital are Bill Powell, Birmingham; Homer Martin, Birmingham; Lewis Jackson, Negro, of Realford, Ala.

Those in a Montgomery hospital are Clifford Snipes, Hurtsboro; Dan and Coy Richway, Gadsden; J. B. Anderson, Elkton, Tenn.; M. W. Williams, Cincinnati; Calvin Gamble, Atlanta; Will Loftin, Negro fireman, Birmingham; Joe Davis, Negro, Birmingham; Johnny Jemison, Negro, Birmingham; Ernest Lack, Negro, Mobile.

The time of the wreck was fixed at 11:52 a.m. Tuesday. The engine it was unofficially reported, struck a piece of wood that had fallen or had been placed upon the rail.

SPLENDID PAGEANT PUT ON AT THE CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

A very interesting and instructive pageant, entitled "And it Came to Pass," was presented by the Clanton Baptist Sunday school at the church last Sunday night. The purpose of the pageant was to raise a Christmas offering for the orphans' home at Troy. After all departments presented their offering, and a collection was taken from over the congregation, the total amount was declared $150.00.

COOKE PLAYERS TO BE IN MAPLESVILLE NEXT WEEK

The Cooke Players, who played at the Wadesonian Theatre here all last week, will be in Maplesville at the high school auditorium all next week, beginning January 1st. The Cookes have a fine list of plays and players this season. Their comedian is especially good.

SNAKE 8 INCHES LONG AND SIZE OF TWO HORSE HAIRS

A very peculiar snake or worm or some kind of elongated water animal was brought to The Banner office on Tuesday morning by the con of Mr. Cary Moates. The boy said that he drew it out of their well. The thing is fully eight inches long, and is not more than one-tenth the size of a match. It is a kind of dark brown color and is very active in the water. There is a slight resemblance of a head on one end, although that end is somewhat smaller than the rest of it.

Hardy Hurtt said that he had seen lots of them, adding that a horse hair put in the water would turn to one of those things after a certain length of time.

COTTON GIN REPORT

According to figures released by B. L. Vance, cotton census enumerator for Chilton County, there were ginned from the 1933 crop 12,233 bales of cotton prior to December 13, as compared with 11,786 bales ginned prior to the same date last year.

M. D. FOSHEE IN RACE FOR CLERK

Former County Official Would Like to Have His Old Job Again

Official declaration as a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County in the Republican Primary of next May was made Tuesday by Mr. Marion D. Foshee. His announcement came as a culmination of what has been recognized for several weeks as a very probable decision that he would enter the race at the urgent request of many leading Republicans and a large following of friends of Mr. Foshee over the county.

M. D. Foshee needs no introduction to the people of Chilton County. He has been identified with public and political activities since the year 1910, when he was first elected to the office of Circuit Clerk. He was re-elected to the same office again in 1916. He has served a total of 12 years in this important office. Before being elected Circuit Clerk he was chief clerk in the office of Judge Reynolds for about four years.

The official record of Mr. Foshee is recognized as among the best in the history of Chilton County. His work as clerk was always given the stamp of approval and highest efficiency by every authority of our county and state. His courtesy and efficiency was recognized as a great benefit to all who had dealings with the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court.

During his terms of office and since his retirement therefrom, Mr. Foshee has always been recognized as one of the most active, loyal, and energetic supporters of the Republican party. He has served the party in every official capacity as chairman, secretary, campaign manager, etc.

We dare say the support which Mr. Foshee will receive from the Republicans of Chilton County in the Primary next May will make him one of the most popuar candidates in the field. His past record sustains the prediction that he has a great following of loyal and hearty supporters, and all will recognize the fact that if Marion Foshee is again Circuit Clerk, we will have an efficient and able officer and the Republican party will have a worthy and efficient standard bearer.

TRUCK BURNED ORANGES LOST

Collision With Auto On Highway Near Cooper Last Saturday Night

A big motor truck loaded with oranges, enroute from Florida to Tennessee, was destroyed by fire last Saturday night on the Montgomery Highway just south of Cooper.

A collision of an automobile with the truck smashed a gasoline tank on the latter. The gasoline was ignited and the truck was at once in flames. The machine with all its equipment and contents was a total loss. It is said that baked oranges were scattered all over the landscape.

The car which collided with the truck was driven and occupied by some Negroes who live near Mitchell Dam. Some of them were severely burned. The wreck happened when the Negroes attempted to make the turn-off from the highway on to road 22 toward Mitchell Dam.

Large Program of Widely Scattered Projects Now Being Carried Forward

Revival of Business Here Is Attributed To the Increase of Money Coming From Payrolls of Government Works in the County

New Projects Are Being Considered

Probable Expansion of C.W.A. Program in Chilton County

The director advises that the following new projects have been submitted for approval:

Continuation of the Clanton drainage project by the construction of lateral ditches into the main channel, and deepening of the lower section of the main channel in Walnut Creek. This project is calculated to employ 90 men for six weeks.

Drainage of the swamp to the east of the cotton mill, extending from the present ditch toward Lomax. This project is estimated to use 60 men for six weeks.

Erection of public safety signs and devices on the roads of the county, with a work shop in which to make such appliances, as well as other articles and devices needed by the county. This contemplates the employment of 30 men for six weeks.

The road from Cooper to Enterprise, employing 50 men six weeks.

Eight miles of the Jemison-Randolph road, employing 50 men for six weeks.

The road from Pletcher to Poole Cross Roads, employing 50 men for six weeks.

The road from Cane Creek to Union Grove, employing 50 men for six weeks.

A bridge over Walnut Creek on the Union Point Road, to employ 25 men for five weeks.

Drainage of Oakmulgee Swamp in the extreme southwestern part of the county, to employ 60 men for six weeks.

Grading, surfacing and graveling 50 blocks of streets in Clanton, to employ 63 men.

Erecting of auditorium at Isabella school to employ 33 men.

Extension of the building of Maplesville school to employ 14 men.

Improvements at Thorsby Public school to employ 21 men.

Development of the proposed airport at Clanton, the outline of which is being mapped out by engineers here this week.

The CWA director wishes it known that all people in the county have the privilege of submitting any worthwhile public projects that might be considered for work. Submission of the projects should be made to the executive committee of the local CWA board, which is composed of Judge Reynolds, Luther Little, and C. D. Duke.

All civic clubs and public organizations are urged to give attention to such possible projects as might be considered.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be a regular fifth Sunday afternoon singing at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Both the new books will be used, and J. Z. Mims will act as chairman.

It is hoped that all societies in the county will cooperate in this singing. All those interested in sacred song, come on, and let's close up the old year with the best singing we have had in 1933.

EVANS JOHNSON DIED

Evans Johnson, age 78 years, died last Friday night at the County Alms House. Burial was at New Harmony, Lomax, Saturday, with Martin directing.

WILLIAM GREEN PRICE DIED

William Green Price, age 75 years, died at the County Alms House last Sunday. Burial was at Cedar Grove Monday, Martin in charge. Mr. Price had been an inmate of the alms house for several years.

PRESIDING ELDER HERE NEXT SUNDAY, DEC. 31ST

Rev. D. P. Slaughter, presiding elder of the Selma District, will preach at the Clanton M. E. church on next Sunday, December 31st. The quarterly conference will be held immediately after the preaching service.

KENNEDY-JONES WEDDING

At the home of Rev. A. L. Foshee, Sunday, December 24th, Mr. Stanley Kennedy was united in marriage to Miss Ressie Jones. Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. W. H. Kennedy; and the bride is the daughter of Mr. Reedie Jones of West End, Clanton.

The Director of Civil Works in Chilton County reports that the full quota of over 800 people, both men and women, are now at work on various projects widely distributed over the county. Present calculations are to complete the projects now under way by the middle of February. It is considered likely that the civil works program will be extended beyond that date, and that other projects will be adopted to take up the quota of workers for the county.

At the present time the following work projects are being carried forward, with the number of workers indicated:

Drainage ditch in the swamp north of Clanton with 126 men at work.

The road from Maplesville to the Perry County line with 64 men at work daily.

The road from Jemison to the Maplesville highway with 59 men.

The road from Verbena to Enterprise with 64 men.

The road from the Maplesville highway at the Cobern place toward Jemison, with 59 men.

The above constitute the old projects that were originally started under the R. F. C. They were taken over and are being continued under the present civil works program. The following additional projects have been adopted by the civil works administration and are being carried out now:

Drainage ditch in the swamp south of Clanton, on which 126 men are employed.

Auditorium at Enterprise Schoolhouse employing 12 men.

The clean-up survey on which 44 women are employed.

The health survey employing 38 women.

The CWA clerical force composed of 10 people.

Community club house survey employing 26 people.

A sanitation survey employing 20 people.

Rose propagation program employing 15 people.

Construction of the schoolhouse at Cooper on which 30 men are employed.

The project on Clanton and Higgins Ferry Road employing 35 men.

The road from Verbena to Elmore County line, employing 35 men.

The Clanton and Billingsley road project with 35 men.

The Jemison and Union Grove road with 35 men.

The road from Thorsby to Collins Chapel employing 35 men.

The road from Enterprise to White City, with 12 men.

The Dry Valley road project employing 20 men.

The Cooper and Adams Ferry road employing 9 men.

Building an auditorium at Collins Chapel with 12 men at work.

Tentative Liquor Tax Is Approved

Measure Will Go Before the Congress When It Meets In January

Washington, Dec. 22.—A tentative liquor tax measure designed to raise more than half-a-billion dollars annually in revenue was approved today by the house ways and means committee for presentation to congress early in January.

The rate of $2 a gallon was fixed on distilled spirits and the administration's proposal for sharing the revenue from this source, estimated at $300,000,000, with the states was dropped.

The administration's proposition for a double tariff schedule through which it might bargain for reciprocal trade agreements with foreign liquor exporting countries also was discarded. Present tariff rates, including $5 a gallon on spirits, were retained by the committee.

It was estimated that existing rates would bring in between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 on imports of between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 gallons expected in the first post repeal year.

Chairman Doughton (D), North Carolina, explained after an executive session of the committee that the projected double tariff schedule on liquor was laid aside pending receipt by congress of a contemplated administration recommendation for board reciprocal trade legislation.

Difficulties of adjusting allocations between wet and dry states arose on the administration's 20 per cent sharing plan to result in the abandonment of that plan, he said.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

I think we, as a race, should feel very great toward Prof. Anderson and students of the Chilton County Training school for their efforts put forth to indulge the Christmas spirit, by rendering beautiful selections in a very calm hour of the night.

In reality they were trying to make everybody happy and I give to them a wonderful spirit for the following day. We always think of Christmas morning as being very sentimental and harmonious.

"Here you stand at the parting of the ways, some road you are to take, and you stand here, consider and know how it is that you intend to live; carry no bad habits, no corrupting associations, no enmities and strife unto the new year. Leave these behind and let the dead past bury its dead; leave them behind and thank God that you are able to leave them." —Ephriam Peabody. By G. E. K.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy DeShazo and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Panama City, Florida, spent Christmas with friends in Clanton.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB MEETS

The Midway-Mt. Creek club met on December 13th with Mrs. R. L. Duffey. Several new members were present. Two members were added to our club.

Miss Ruth Pardue, our demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on keeping our hats up-to-date. Several hats were blocked and cleaned.

At our next meeting we will have a discussion on home gardening and poultry raising.

We are very glad to have Miss Pardue as our demonstration agent. She has created a great interest in club work here. We hope to be able to build a club house soon. The club will meet January 10th at 2 p.m., with Mrs. S. R. Hudson.—Reporter.

FAIRVIEW DEMONSTRATION CLUB

Miss Pardue, our home demonstration agent, met with the members of the Fairview Demonstration Club last Tuesday afternoon. Most every member was present and ten new members were added to the roll, which, we are very prou dto have.

A business session was held with our president, Miss Jewell Foshee, in charge. Plans were discussed for a community club house. After the club house discussion Miss Pardue took charge and gave a very helpful demonstration on "Keeping Our Hats Up-to-Date." A number of hats were cleaned and blocked; some were remodeled.

Plans have not yet been set on just what we will do at our next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Ola Edwards, on January 16. We hope every member will be present and bring some one with them.—Reporter.

TWO DIE IN CRASH

Pell City.—Two men were killed Sunday when a motorcycle they were riding struck a guidepost on the viaduct between Pell City and Riverside. They were Ben Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Martin, and his brother-in-law, Tommy Mehan, son of Mrs. Pat Mehan. Martin suffered a broken neck and died almost instantly, while Mehan died about an hour after the accident of internal injuries.

The last words of some of the boys who celebrated the return of John Barleycorn the other night were "let's have just one more." And their first words next morning were, "mama, where's the aspirin bottle?"

IN REMEMBERENCE OF AUNT CALLIE DAVIS

On Thursday night, December 14, 1933, the death angels visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Scott of Billingsley and bore away the spirit of our dear beloved aunt, Mrs. Callie Davis. She has many friends and loved ones to mourn her loss. One sister, Mrs. G. C. Scott; one nephew, J. N. Davenport; two nieces, Mrs. T. F. Franklin and Mrs. G. T. Bowles, and a host of friends and relatives.

She left us a sweet thought, she said she was ready to go and only waiting for Jesus to come for her. All was done for her that human hands could do, but God said "Tis enough, come with me." It is hard to give her up, but God's will be done on earth as in heaven. There is a vacant place in her home that cannot be filled, and many sad hearts, but the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh and we must be submissive to His will.

Dear ones let us not grieve for her, for we know she is in the hands of our Savior. She has lived a life we can all follow and let's try to live the life she lived and meet her again in the glorious home where there will be no more parting or good byes.

Aunt Callie was 86 years of age and has been a member of the church ever since early youth and has lived a Christian life. She had been confined to her bed since March 20. She bore her pain and sickness patiently and begged every body to pray for her and her loving relatives.

She was laid to rest at New Cedron cemetery with Rev. J. H. Limbrick conducting the services.—A Niece who loved her, Gussie Davenport.

CANE CREEK

Well, another Christmas has passed and found lots of people wearing that morning after the night before expression. Some seventy odd from the community serenaded practically everyone in Mineral Springs and Union Grove communities Christmas night.

We have called a new pastor, Rev. Robinson, and to hear everyone talk, old Cane Creek is going places. Now, while we are all in that mood, let's work hard to accomplish something in 1934.

Our Sunday school certainly is growing, but we still have lots of room for improvement. We especially invite all the people, both young and old, every Sunday, regardless of denominations, and if you older folks won't come and bring your children please send them any way. We are trying to organize a singing class for the second Sunday afternoon in each month and want to invite singers from all over the county to help us have a class really worth while. All of you candidates that sing, also you that cannot sing but talk real loud, please take note. Both Stamps and Morris-Henson books will be used. Our preaching days also fall on the second Sunday, so come early to hear a really worth while sermon, and we will begin our singing promptly at 2:00 o'clock, and remember the date — the second Sunday in each month.

Lots of visitors and visiting the past week, but the reporter was too deeply buried in turkey and all the fixin's to take notice.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The youltide greetings was with every body that went to Poplar Springs last Sunday, December 24. Everyone seemed to have the Christmas spirit, which made the singing better. The house was well filled, also the class. The following directed: A. O. Boswell, Emmett Wilson, J. Z. Mims, O. L. Devaughn, Akins Collins, L. T. Grant, Dewey Hughes, Ralph Grant, J. B. Crew, Ira Grant, W. F. Gilliland, Dewell Jones, Maston Robinson. The Frisky Four quartet from Cooper sang two songs. Also a number of other quartets were arranged from the class. A duet was sung by Lena Mae Devaughn and Ralph Grant. Mr. W. M. Devaughn sang the closing song and we were dismissed by our pastor, Bro. Lowery.

Poplar Springs wants to thank each and everyone that helped us spend such a glorious day giving thanks to the Lord. We also enjoyed the fine talks and words of encouragement that were given Sunday. Let's don't forget the next singing day here the second Sunday in January, 1934, at 1:30. We invite everybody to come and help us start the new year off right.—Sec'y.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to our many friends who remembered us during Christmas with a gift. Each of the four churches we are serving sent Christmas greetings with gifts. The East View church gave us an offering, nine beautiful cakes, and many presents.

The Mt. Springs church gave an offering and many nice presents. The Eclectic church gave an offering, some boxes of nice things to eat; and the Seaman church gave an offering.

We cannot find words that would really express our heartfelt appreciation to our friends for those kind and loving favors that made Christmas more real and merry to us.

Also we wish to express to those friends who have been so willing to lend a helping hand during the long illness of Mrs. Nelson, our highest appreciation. We shall never forget them.—A. C. Nelson, Mrs. A. C. Nelson, Osmond Nelson and Herman Nelson.

Dr. Lee Roy Mims of Jasper spent Christmas here with his father, E. H. Mims.

Financial Statement of The Town of Clanton For Last Year

To the Citizens of the Town of Clanton:

At this time the mayor and council wish to submit to its citizens a financial statement of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as of September 30, 1933. Under the law the town is required each year to have an audit made of the Town's affairs by a competent auditor, and this year the services of Joseph E. Miller, public accountant, of Montgomery, Alabama, was procured in making this audit.

For your information we wish to call your attention to the financial condition of the town as of October 6th, 1930, which was published in the local papers and the present financial condition of the town. You will note that during the past three years the town has operated within its income, having contracted no new obligations which could not be met within the year, and has paid on old obligations such as notes and open accounts about 30,000 dollars. On account of the financial condition of the country at large, the town's revenues have been reduced materially and we have had to adjust our budget accordingly. Our aim has been to operate the affairs of the town as economically as possible and at the same time serve the town as progressively as we deemed advisable.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

A citizen of Birmingham, who is an electric consumer, recently wrote a letter to the Editor of the News containing this:

"As a utility customer, I have been very much interested in what municipal ownership would do to me; and I have investigated carefully just exactly what municipal ownership is now doing for 14 cities in this State where the electric utilities are operated by the city governments. I have no connection with either the Alabama Power Company or the Birmingham Electric Company.

"Those proposing municipal ownership of utilities for Birmingham are very fond of quoting electric rates at Tacoma, Wash., in Canada and other far away places. They overlook the fact that here in Alabama, now, we have 14 cities owning their municipal electric distribution systems. In every one of these Alabama cities having municipally-owned utilities I find the rates are higher than the rates charged by the Alabama Power Company and the Birmingham Electric Company, the average residential rates of these municipally-operated utilities being from 50 per cent to 75 per cent higher. If municipal ownership means lower rates for customers, why have not the customers in these 14 Alabama cities gotten lower rates?

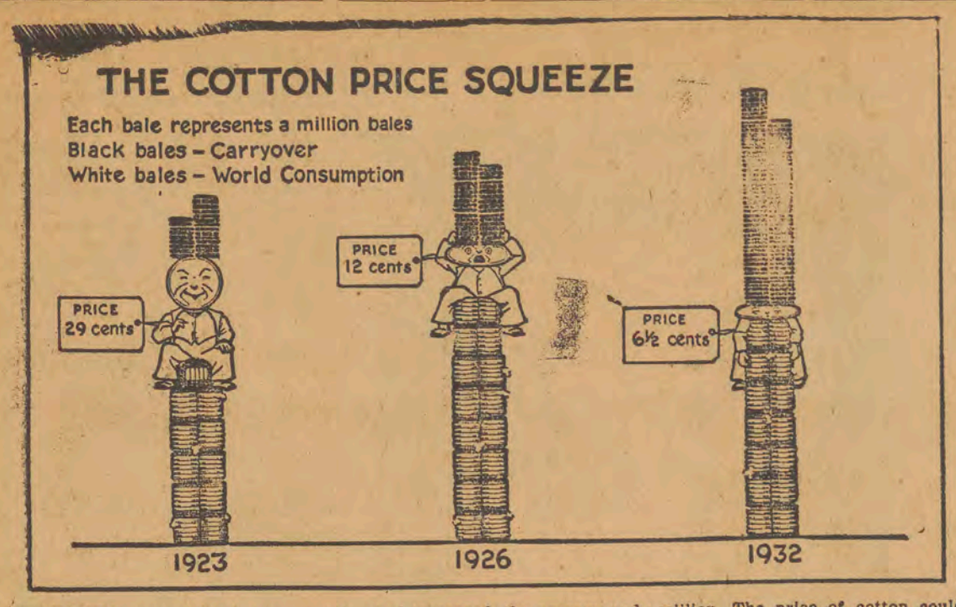
"Tacoma, Washington, is held up as a fine example of municipal ownership. It should be known, however, that the ad valorem tax rate in Tacoma is $8.76, as compared with $3.60 in Birmingham. It evidently takes a good deal of city taxes to keep the Tacoma plant going."

That letter of the Birmingham citizen expresses more clearly than we can write the real facts about municipal ownership of electric utilities in Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 10



CAUGHT between a top-heavy surplus and low consumption, the price of cotton to the southern grower has been squeezed unmercifully. Back in 1923 the carryover was not so heavy, and the price to growers was high. By 1926 the squeeze began to be felt. Though consumption had increased, the acreage and production had increased to a greater extent, and there was a carryover of nearly six million bales. By 1932, as the graph shows, the squeeze was painful. Consumption dropped by two million bales, and the carryover amounted to thirteen million. The price of cotton could not hold up under such conditions, nor can it be expected to recover until this carryover is lightened by an adjustment in acreage and production. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration will aid growers to make such an adjustment in the crop of 1934.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Christmas has come and the holidays will soon be past. The folks around here seem to have had a wonderful time. There was the least I believe that I have ever seen. Just a little plainer, I did not see anyone Christmas day that you could tell had had a drink. The men and boys are to be congratulated.

Sunday school was good Sunday. There were not many church members present. I wonder why? It was on the eve of the birthday of our Lord and Saviour, and a pretty day. Why didn't more come out? All officers and teachers were present except the choir director.

The singing Sunday afternoon did very well. It was better than usual. It would have been real good if there had been plenty of books. Wonder what was the trouble with Oak Grove? They failed to show up. We always miss them when they don't come.

Directors were Lonnie Cobb, Bill Cofer, Lloyd Edwards, B. L. Cobb, Burl Martin and Mrs. J. W. Collum. Organists were Mesdames Howard Roper and B. L. Cobb and Misses Ruby Smith and Violet Martin. We had with us Sunday afternoon Mr. Bill Cofer of Quinton, Ala. Everybody likes to hear Bill sing. We sure were glad to have him come and help us out. Come again, Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thornbro and children, Edna Merrill and Albert, of Birmingham spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott and Mr. George and Miss Avon Thornbro.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb are spending the holidays in Montgomery with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Glass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb and children spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Rufus Childress. They also had Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Childress and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Childress and children as their dinner guests.

Mr. Ben Tom Haynes spent Christmas in Birmingham with his brother.

Messrs. V. Miller, Burble Price and J. O. Cobb and Misses Irene and Olene Miller and Mable and Berney Dean Cobb were the Christmas day guests of Mr. Alton and Miss Mildred Cobb.

Mrs. Zonie Sims and children of Sylacauga are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott, and also Mr. Sims's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sims.

Mrs. Comer Lenoir of Ensley has been been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Dennis.

A wedding of much interest, and came as a great surprise was that of Mr. Langley Scott and Miss Sarah Thornton of Elmore County. They will make their home down there. They have been spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holsombeck.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb was the Christmas day dinner guests of their brother, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Cobb. After dinner they all visited their sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Sammons, near Wessington. All of Mr. and Mrs. Sammons's children were at home except Mrs. Amy Blewster, who is up North. The ones from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Sammons of Mt. Dora, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sammons and Mr. Odis Sammons of New Jersey.

Mrs. Thelma Goddard is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melton of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum are spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Collum, over in the western part of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller.

Mr. Leo Cobb spent Christmas day and night with Messrs. Herbert and Robert Watson.

We were sorry to hear that Mrs. Velpoe Mims of Mars Hill had to be carried to Clanton to the hospital early Sunday morning for an appendicitis operation. We hope for her a speedy recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Mims were greatly missed in the singing Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Leo Cobb has gone to Birmingham to spend the rest of the week with relatives and friends.

I wish you all a Happy New Year. I guess the old year and I will bid you adieu about the same time, as next Sunday night is time to elect new officers in the B. Y. P. U.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

A very Happy New Year to everybody.

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day and there was a large attendance Sunday night. Our pastor, Rev. J. C. Miller, resigned as pastor. We regretted very much to give him up. He has given us a little more than three years of the most faithful services that our church has ever had from any pastor. May God bless him in his work elsewhere.

There was a very sad accident that happened at the home of the Champion sisters last Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. Crawford Reid (colored) was cleaning out a well for them and a can of mud fell more than 50 feet and hit him on the head and killed him instantly. Uncle Crawford was well known over this county, as he had been digging wells for 30 years. He was 64 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion spent last Tuesday with the Misses Champions. Also Mrs. Clover and Mrs. Jimmie Franklin paid them a visit Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley and little brother, Leo Miskelley, have gone to Cleveland, Alabama, to spend Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Bellenger.

Mr. Phillip Franklin and relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Saluria, went to Pensacola, Florida, to stay until Thursday.

Burnie Davenport is at home from Talladega, where he has been in school. He is to return to the school the first of the year.

Maurice Hodgens, one of our very good boys, who is a ministerial student of Howard College, is spending the holidays at home.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens, who has been ill so long, was at church Sunday and Sunday night. We are sure glad to see him able to be going about again.

Miss Bertha Lee Price is on the sick list.

Misses Rubie Wright and Dulcie Champion visited Mrs. Laura Franklin and Mrs. George Spivey Saturday evening.

Syrell Baggett visited his sister, Mrs. Vastene Davenport, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vastene Davenport spent Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport. The Davenports are also having as their guests this Christmas their daughter, Mrs. Newton Peoples and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and children.

Mrs. Phillip Franklin and two little cousins dined with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson and his mother, Mrs. Dovie Dawson, are spending Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin.

Rev. Miller, Mr. Jasper Smitherman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and Miss Edith Champion took dinner with the Misses Champion Sunday.

There was quite a number dined with the Prices Sunday. Among whom were Messrs. Murice Hodgens and Briggs Hodgens.

Few Days Left For Voters To Register

The Board will finish out its schedule by sitting at the courthouse December 28 and 29—Thursday and Friday of this week.

Attention of the public is called to these dates, and all who are entitled to register are urged to do so. No one can register except in his own Beat and at the courthouse in Clanton.

Anyone in a Beat where the Registrars have already been, must come to the courthouse on one of the given dates in order to register.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith (nee Mary Scarbrough) of Sylacauga spent the Christmas holidays with Rev. and Mrs. Albert L. Foshee.

Lesson for December 31

THE LIFE OF PAUL

LESSON TEXT—Philippians 3:1-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. II Timothy 4:7.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Paul.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In Sight of the Goal.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Aiming High.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Debt to Paul.

In order to grasp the meaning of this lesson it is necessary to understand the entire letter to the Philippians. The occasion for writing to the Philippians was the receipt of a much needed contribution from the hand of Epaphroditus for Paul's support while in prison (Phil. 4:10-18). The church was perhaps small and certainly poor (II Cor. 8:1-3), yet it repeatedly sent gifts to him (II Cor. 11:8, 9). It is therefore a letter of a grateful missionary to the church which sent means for his support.

I. The True Israelite. (vv. 1-3).

Certain Judaistic teachers had persistently dogged the steps of Paul. Against such he issues the warning, "Beware of dogs"; "beware of evil workers"; "beware of the concision." The true Israelite is the one who worships God in the spirit, rejoicing in Christ Jesus, having no confidence in the flesh.

II. Paul's Ground of Confidence. (vv. 4-6).

Paul had everything in which a true Jew might glory.

1. "Circumcised the eighth day" (v. 5). This was the literal requirement of the law for those born under the Abrahamic covenant. His being circumcised showed his true upbringing.

2. "Of the stock of Israel" (v. 5). He was of the chosen nation by blood and birth.

3. "Of the tribe of Benjamin" (v. 5). The first king of Israel, whose name he bore, was a Benjaminite. The tribe of Benjamin, though small, had remained loyal to national customs.

4. "A Hebrew of the Hebrews" (v. 5). This showed he was of Hebrew parentage and not a proselyte.

5. "Touching the law, a Pharisee" (v. 5). The Pharisees were of the sect most zealous for the rites and ceremonies of Judaism.

6. "Concerning zeal, persecuting the church" (v. 6). He proved his zeal by his positive effort to stamp out that which was threatening Judaism.

7. "Touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless" (v. 6). So exactly had he conformed to this requirement of the law that he was consciously blameless.

III. Paul's Estimate of Himself (vv. 7-9).

If any man had a right to confidence on the ground of inheritance and accomplishment, Paul had. The vision of Christ and his merits gave him the true perspective of values. In this light he saw the utter worthlessness of the things he prized most. He counted all things but loss for Christ, even regarding them as refuse in comparison with what he had gained.

IV. Paul's Transcendent Aim (vv. 10, 11).

1. "That I may know him" (v. 10). Personal acquaintance with the Lord Jesus Christ was his supreme desire.

2. "The power of his resurrection" (v. 10). This is an advance over personal acquaintance with the Lord. It is the expression of the life of Christ through the apostle.

3. "The fellowship of his sufferings" (v. 10). It is suffering for righteousness' sake, the common experience of all who will follow the Lord.

4. "Attain unto the resurrection of the dead" (v. 11). It is not only to be resurrected but to have part in the first resurrection, that is, the resurrection from among the dead, when the Lord Jesus Christ comes back to the earth (I Thess. 4:16, 17).

V. Paul Presses Toward the Goal (vv. 12-14).

Paul clearly grasped the meaning of his perfection in Christ, yet he was keenly conscious of his personal limitation. Herein is expressed the true law of progress in the spiritual life.

1. Conscious limitations (v. 12). "Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect."

2. Conscious of a transcendent goal (v. 13). The Christian life is an upward calling. One must know of heights before he will make any effort to attain unto them.

3. A resolute determination to reach the goal (v. 14). He declares "This one thing I do." The primary concern of life is not the stage of progress made, but the effort to attain thereto.

Planning the Future

We are always wanting to be doing, to be giving, to be planning for the future, to be mapping out all our life; instead of resting and receiving day by day, leaving the morrow to our God, and rejoicing in Jesus Christ amidst all our falls and failures.

The Live Reality

The profoundest fact of human life is that, for everyone, the real, the only true life is lived in the realm of the spirit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp of Dothan spent Christmas with friends in Clanton.

TEASLEY SCHOOL PLAN OPPOSED

Montgomery. — The plan of Senator Teasley, of Montgomery, to have members of the Alabama Legislature hold a caucus here and draft a plan to relieve the distressed financial condition of the public schools Tuesday had met the disapproval of the leaders of the senate and house.

Replying to Senator Teasley's letter requesting that the caucus be called, both Lieut. Gov. Merrill, president of the senate, and Speaker Tunstall, of the House, said they were not willing to take such a step.

Lieut. Gov. Merrill said he would not like to call the caucus unless petitioned by a majority of the Senate members, while Col. Tunstall said that he did not believe the caucus should be called unless Gov. Miller wished such a plan adopted.

Senator Teasley's proposal for a caucus, to be followed by a short special session of the Legislature for adoption of the plan formulated, followed the announcement by State Superintendent of Education Harman that practically all of Alabama's public schools would be forced to close in mid-January unless financial aid was immediately forthcoming.

IN MEMORIAM

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God, in His inscutable providence, to remove from our midst, Brother M. C. Childress, who for many years was a faithful member of Lodge 411 and has been actively engaged in diversified farming in this county, and

Whereas, he has left an indelible imprint upon his numerous friends and acquaintances of this county by his untiring efforts and self denial by precept and example, and

Whereas, as a citizen he has left his community better as a result of his high standards of living and his Christian character, therefore, be it resolved.

That we, members of the Masonic Lodge No. 411 hereby express our appreciation for the services and influence Brother Childress rendered, and

That he will be missed by this lodge and by his friends and neighbors, and

That we express to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and

That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Masonic Lodge, and send a copy to the family, and to the county papers.—Committee, J. A. Peterson, A. A. Conway, S. P. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dunlap from Selma visited relatives during the holidays. We are always glad to welcome Mr. Dunlap back.

Dr. Vincent Ward and brother, Clyde, took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Broadhead Wednesday, and certainly enjoyed a nice dinner.

OSCAR METZ IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Oscar Metz, attorney and former county assistant solicitor, died early Friday at his home, 505 12th St., w., Birmingham, after a brief illness.

Funeral services took place in Shadyside Methodist church, where he had taught the Young Men's Brotherhood class for the past year, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Dr. J. S. Eddins, assisted by Dr. R. L. Baker, officiated, and Johns directed burial in Elmwood cemetery.

A member of the Birmingham Bar Association, Mr. Metz taught law in the Birmingham Law School at the Y. M. C. A. for the last five years. Born in Cullman, he came to Birmingham at an early age and studied law while working in a subordinate position in local law offices. He passed the bar examination in 1914.

As a member of the ordnance department during the World War, Mr. Metz spent nine months overseas.

He held membership in the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Dorothy Horton Metz; his mother and three sisters, Mrs. A. C. Morris and Mrs. T. R. Johnson, Birmingham, and Mrs. W. T. L. Daniels, Cullman; one brother, Reaford Metz, Cullman.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of the Young Men's Class at Shadyside Methodist church.

VETERAN FUND IN RED

Montgomery. — It was necessary for the state to transfer $210,111 from the general fund to the pension fund to enable it to pay Confederate veterans and widows $1,153,553 in pensions during the last year, despite the fact that death thinned the ranks of the veterans. The annual report of State Comptroller Hard for the fiscal year ending September 30 shows that revenue for pensions amounted to $941,419, or $210,111 less than disbursements.

Veterans and widows are scheduled to receive quarterly pension checks January 2, but it has not been announced whether funds are available.

John Peach, legal adviser to Gov. Miller, has completed the preliminary draft of the state bond that will be exchanged for outstanding state warrants, as soon as it has been approved

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances, Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground,—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significances, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somehow separate from the lives of our people, casting forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression.

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these truths are kept continually in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the banking problem or of properly safeguarding the very heavy stake of the public in that problem."

UNUSUAL FACTS REVEALED—by "Movie Spotlight"

DESCRIBES FARM ADJUSTMENT PLAN

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that export of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell. "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support

"The plan offers wheat price insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States.' This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial."

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN- to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

A successful manufacturer recently remarked to this writer, "I would prefer the advice of one man who had stuck his own money into a business venture and made good than to accept the theoretical counsel of all the economists and efficiency engineers in the country.

"In no other profession are 'expert' views so far apart as among economists, particularly the college economists. What one economist acclaims another economist ridicules. It is almost impossible to get economists, even in the same college, to agree on anything beyond the most simple and obvious principles."

When a man goes out on a spree he is practicing inflation. And he gets the inevitable deflationary headache the next morning.

Build Up the Navy

In short, the entire system of naval limitation as now established is under fire, and the danger is not remote that when the present treaties expire no agreement on further limitation may be reached. For the United States in such circumstances to neglect its building would be folly, for it would mean that it might be obliged to face open competition on the seas under serious handicap of a fleet too small, too old and too weak for proper national defense. In asking for naval construction now, the Secretary of the Navy is asking only what is called for to safeguard the United States against uncertain future contingencies, while in asking for what common sense shows to be necessary. His recommendations deserve the favorable consideration of the administration and of Congress.—Hartford Courant.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

There seems to have been a slow but undeniable pickup in business over the United States during the past few weeks, and with their characteristic ability to change their opinions over night the American people are quickly changing once more from pessimism to confidence in the future. When the spring and early summer joyride slowed up in the fall, hilarity gave way to despair and a great many people began to feel once more that there was no hope in the future. Now the picture is changing again. Retail business has picked up in most sections of the country, and the old barometer of steel production seems to be righting itself once more. The line on the chart has quit going down from week to week, has stabilized itself and started slowly up the hill again.

All of which is, of course, very heartening. Those who believe in all phases of the New Deal think that we are on our way again and that the progress will be faster from now on. They admit that some of the pickup is due to the government's pumping money into the farm belt to bolster up the farmer, together with the public works program, both emergency and regular, but they say that when the effect of this has worn off, the wheels of industry will be going of their own accord and there will be no stopping them. They compare the American economic system to an automobile which will not start on a cold morning when the battery is low and the oil thick. Give it a push, they say, and it will start off and keep going.

Everyone will hope, of course, that this theory is the proper one. All of us want Old Man Prosperity to return, no matter what sort of vehicle he is riding in. If he will only come back he can be assured that "all is forgiven." There is, however, another side to the picture. Some of our economists think that the present upturn in business is due solely to the distribution of money and jobs in the agricultural and urban districts of the country. When the effect of this wears off, they say, and the emergency construction program is completed, we will be right back where we were except that Uncle Sam will be several billion dollars more in debt. Then they add, more appropriations will be needed and we will go on and on until the government can no longer bear the load and we shall have real inflation.

To one of my friends who takes this view, I cited the illustration of my New Deal acquaintances of the stalled automobile which on a cold morning needs only a push until the engine turns over and warms sufficiently to run of itself. His reply was that something more than a push is needed to run an automobile. The motive power, he said, is gasoline. The government, through the agricultural and temporary job programs, has filled the tank with gasoline. When that is burned up more gasoline will be needed and the government will be called on again. And the gasoline tax, he continued, will finally cause the collapse of the whole plan.

Here are presented two opposite views on present developments. They are extreme views, of course, and for that reason, perhaps the correct view will be found between the two. There is another conservative but cheerful group, who think that we are going to get well anyhow, in spite of ourselves. They point to the fact that Great Britain is now over the first hill and on the road back to prosperity and that conditions in South America, in Italy and Germany are improving in an economic sense. They believe therefore that what America needs most is an assured confidence in the future, to know just where we are going in our money, our budgetary, and our other administrative programs. So the debate goes on. Even the experts can't tell us what the future has in store for America. Even the college professors disagree. One man's guess is as good as another's.

The Moribund League

It is perhaps natural that there should be talk of "reorganizing" the League of Nations.

The failure of a business concern usually suggests reorganization if there is enough left to reorganize.

Of its complete failure, there can be no question. Its decline was not brought about by the withdrawal of Japan and Germany and the now threatened secession of Italy. These heavy blows at the prestige of the League were merely confirmatory evidence of what had before been clearly apparent—that the League had long ceased to be an effective, or even a responsive, instrumentality for the accomplishment of any of its professed aims.

Now comes Italy with a threat to withdraw from the League unless the covenant is virtually rewritten with a view to enticing the United States into membership and persuading Japan to re-enter the fold.

The viewpoint of Italy is that the Treaty of Versailles has become inapplicable to present conditions and should be revised; that the theoretical functions of the League should be reduced in number and curtailed in scope, and particularly that the League should cease to be the world policeman for the enforcement of provisions in the covenant which have no relation to actual conditions in a changing world.

The supposition that the United States can be inveigled into a league which has failed, when this country would have nothing to do with the idea when the wretched history of the league was still to be written, and its failure a matter of prediction only, and not of record, must strike one as naive.

The reasons for our abstention from membershrip have been so fully vindicated by events that it seems almost incredible that any European foreign office can indulge the notion that America would reverse an attitude and policy so completely unborne by results.—Washington, D.C., Herald.

Money Talks to Farmers

What has been regarded as one of the shrewdest moves of the Farm Administration to allay the unrest in the Corn Belt was the announcement of liberal loans to farmers agreeing to curtail production of corn and hogs. Latest reports indicate that it has given a setback to the farmers' strike. Lemars, Iowa, was the center of the trouble-making, but a local newspaper now gives his advice to the farmers:

"We don't care if Milo Reno does say you shouldn't touch any of that money. When you get a chance to get Uncle Sam's check for anywhere from $300 to $1,000, and even more, there's something wrong with you if you don't take it. If you do that, you can live in comfort for the next few months anyway. Then if the Wallace plan is a washout you can say, 'I told you so,' and organize a bandit army the way they do in China and hang your neighbors and steal their hogs and cattle. But give the government this one chance to put you on your feet again."

There was never much doubt about the appeal of the pocketbook argument to the Western farmers. It is difficult to imagine them refusing money. But when the money is spent, what new innducements can the government give them to act for their own best interests?—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Price Fixing

It is rapidly becoming evident that the chief defect of the NRA program is that part of it which has to do with price fixing. Price fixing always leads to suspicion, and is never popular. Either the consumer gets the idea that the established price is too high, or the producer becomes convinced that it is too low. And in addition, all efforts to get around the laws of supply and demand usually come to grief sooner or later.

A case in point is the criticism growing out of the price provisions of the cleaners and dyer's code. The new scale of prices seems to be popular neither with the public nor some of the cleaners and dyers themselves. The public is responding to the higher prices by wearing its clothing longer between pressings and cleansings. This has caused many of the shops who do the work to uffer, with the result that there have been committees of complaint at Washington. Of couse, all the cleaners do not want the price reduced but there are numbers of them who say they can make a fair profit with lower prices and that the higher prices will drive them out of business. Charges and counter charges of profiteering and chiseling were hurled back and forth in the meeting at Washington.

The adoption of the code for cleaners and dyers was authorized on the assumption that it would do away with sweatship labor, racketeering and many other evils. Few people favor sweating labor, or acketeering in this or any other industry. But incident to the many complaints that go with price fixing a great many folks are wondering whether it would not have been simpler and more effective to have provided for a minimum wage and maximum week for the cleaning and dyeing industry and then to have let nature take her couse.

Job Inflation

A lot of Southern Democratic congressmen are appealing to Washington for money inflation, but the trouble the administration is going to have with them when Congress reassembles is over the slow inflation of the jobs.—Topeka Capital.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Well, folks, everybody was in town last Saturday. But I don't suppose there is any use in mentioning the fact, because everybody was here and saw that everybody else was here, too.

And, another thing, people were not just standing around window shopping, either. Gee! But the greenback was really passing over the counters on the double-quick. I stood around and watched the folks buy and buy and keep on buying. And the good part about it was that they had the cat-hair to pay for all those goods, too.

Now, of course, The Chilton County News would have you know that the Democrats are responsible for all this prosperity, too. No use telling you that, though, for they will attend to that little matter, I'm thinking.

Come to think of it, The News just about gave credit for all this money that Chilton County is getting to Judge Reynolds and other good Republicans who have worked so tirelessly that our people might share in the government's huge re-employment project. The News editor, however, still clung to the statement that it was a national government headed by Democrats that was making this project possible. Well, what of it? Nobody said the president wasn't a Democrat, in the first place.

At last somebody has found out who "the forgotten man" is. He is the taxpayer, that is, until tax-paying time rolls around, and then he is the man of the hour. But Mr. Taxpayer isn't so sure it is better "to be remembered late than never."

Percy Taylor, of the column, "What's Happening in Alabama," in The Birmingham News, says: "The Republicans are making plans to wrest the reins of county government in Chilton County from the Democrats, who took charge at the last general election." I reckon little Percy had his ear muffs on backwards or something when he listened to the returns from the last general election in our county. There is only one Democrat official in Chilton County, and he wasn't elected at the general election.

That's nothing new for Percy, though, to get things all wrong-set-on. Fact is, he gets everything backwards. I wonder if he doesn't do his reading while standing on his head.

One of my good friend Democrats was talking over things in general a few days ago, and had the following to say: "Things are never what they seem to be. Take politics, for instance. Every time, we seem to have the election all sewed up and tucked away a few days before election. But by the time election day rolls around things always change. I think we Democrats just work too much ahead of time. During election weeks, we have the lead on Monday night before election day on Tuesday, but on Tuesday night when the votes are counted the Republicans are always ahead, and the results on Tuesday night are the ones that count. We stay ahead all the time except for one day, but it just so happens that this one day is the all-important election day."

I see where Mussolini invited the mothers of 92 families in to some kind of convention, over in Italy. They go in for mass production over there, so far as population is concerned. These 92 mothers have brought 1,288 children into the world, with the champion mother of Italy boasting the sum total of 20, and the average of the 92 being 14 each. Think that's making out fairly well?

Another baby article. The State of Ohio sends news of the birth of a 20-ounce baby born a few days ago. Ohio goes in for quality rather than quantity, maybe.

Again I hear of something new under the sun. Did you ever hear of a born hitch-hiker? No? Well, Mississippi has one. This little fellow's mother was on a hike in Mississippi, and he was born while she was crossing a bridge. So I suppose we might call him a born hitch-hiker, and he crosses his bridges when he gets to them.

Now, Bibb Graves has announced for Governor of Alabama again, as you may know. Bibb's campaign committee had a lot of signs printed and placed over the state, which reads as follows: "Alabama Needs Bibb Graves For Governor." Some wag got out his paint brush and painted over the word "Needs," and substituted "Had" in its place. Now the sign reads: "Alabama Had Graves For Governor." I suppose he intended to imply that this one time was plenty.

The boys are all sharpening their wits for the coming pitched battle in the race for governor. Another smarty comes out with this neat little fun poke: "Oh, Graves, Where Is Thy Victory?"

Come to think of it, though, things sailed along fairly smooth while Graves was on Goat Hill. Of course, his opponents say he spent lots of money, but after listening to a few school teachers and other people on the state's pay roll talk, one forms the idea that this "saving millions with Miller" isn't so hot, after all. It may be that a sign may be posted to the effect that we had Miller for governor, too.

And one thing seems certain. No matter who takes the governor's seat next time, automobile owners have just reason to believe that their license tags will cost less than ever before. All men who have been mentioned for the high seat, so far, have announced their intention of having these tag charges reduced. Thanks for this cheering news.

I think Mr. Dixon, from up Birmingham way, made a fad when he made the announcement that, if elected Governor, he would see that a $5.00 tag charge would be made. I was all for that guy to come in until I happened to glance over The Montgomery Advertiser a few days ago. "Grandma" seems to be pulling for Dixon. I don't know what's wrong with Mr. Dixon, but there must surely be something, or The Advertiser wouldn't trail with him.

And, now, so far as our own county is concerned, the coming primaries seem sure to bring out a big covey of candidates. I think there may be something like 50 or more candidates from both parties who will be out on the limb. Boy! Won't the sky be black with feathers when all these fellows shoo out off the limb and the going gets tough Let's hope for one thing, though. Let's hope it will be feathers and not mud which gets scattered around.

And the gas companies decided to give the people around Clanton some kind of a Christmas present. It turned out to be a reduction in the price of gasoline. Well, that's something.

Will Rogers says Mr. Roosevelt was wide awake on the job when he sent Russia the First American ambassador under the new treaty. He was a Mr. Bullit. Very appropriate, don't you think. And let's all hope that's the only bullet we'll have to send their way. Maybe Mr. Roosevelt intended to give the Soviet reds a gentle hint in sending Mr. Bullit. And maybe he intended them to read between the lines and realize there were plenty more bullets where that one came from, just in case they might want to start something.

Inasmuch as nominations are in order, or soon will be, I wonder who will be the first to nominate somebody from dear old Chilton for Governor of Alabama. It seems every other county in the state is going to have at least one candidate, so we might as well have one, too. I suppose Governor Jackson, from up Lomax way, would have the inside track in a case of that kind. All there would be to it would be a formal announcement, as he seems to have all the big wampus cats already whipped into line, and they would not dare cross him. If you doubt that, call up the Public Service Commission or the Alabama Power Company. It's been a long time since anybody could boast of whipping that pair, but Governor Jackson seems to have put the jinx on. Now, if he should be placed in the proper position, maybe he could draw a tight puckering string on them, and for once they'd know who is who 'round in these diggin's. All aboard!

I'm hoping you enjoyed a great Christmas. And better still, I hope for everyone a most happy and prosperious New Year. No funny business about that, either. Straight goods. —Man in the Moon.

Has Heads and Tails

All things considered, it appears that Mr. Litvinoff, as Mr. Duranty says in the Times, is taking home the turkey. What Russia wanted was recognition, for recognition means better opportunity to acquire in America the machinery and other goods that the soviet needs in its attempt to industralize Russia. That Russia has no money to pay is well understood. That it will expect credit is taken for granted. That the Roosevelt administration will lend itself to this is obvious Once Russia has bought from us on credit it will make the natural plea that it can pay only in kind. It will offer oil, of which we have an embarassing surplus; or wheat, of which we have more than we can eat or export; or lumber, of which this continent has plenty. Possibly the American appetite for caviar could be enlarged to the extent of balancing the trade. Congress has nothing to say about recognition; that is entirely an executive function. But Congress can and should prevent the use of the government's money—the taxpayers' money—to aid the advancement of a communist state. —New York Sun.

Failure of Socialism

Persons socialistically inclined—of whom ther are a vast number in this country—often point to the present world-wide depression as "a failure of the capitalist system," that is to the system of private ownership of property and liberty and from this argue in favor of fundamental changes in the economic order as a means of improving the lot of the people.

But the present world-wide breakdown could more properly be charged to a collapse of the socialist system. Every important power in the western world today, except the United States, is under either socialist parlimentary control, or that dictatorship to which socilaism leads as in Italy, Poland, Germany and Russia.

Beyond this effect of direct socialist control, the menace of political ownership of property and destruction of individual liberty and enterprise, and the meddling with the established monfied systems, are the chief factors in the slowing down of business enterprise. It is not to be expected that productive enterprise will go ahead full steam when enemies of all private enterprises are engaged in trying to tear up the tracks and burn the bridges just ahead.

In western Europe, under the threat of socialism and bolshevism, money was withdrawn from productive enterprise in thousands of cases and went into hiding. In this country political demagogues and doctrinaires who are at heart socialists whatever their outward party profession, have been busily engaged in threatening all business enterprise, and hampering and hamstringing it wherever possible. What they cannot immediately destroy by socialist legislation, they try to tax and restrict and handicap to the point of extinction. In this they are joined by those international adventurers of capitalism who seek by this method to kill off all independent enterprise in the belief that they may gain profits not through only national, but world-wide mergers. The interests of the international capitalists and the international capitalists run parallel up to a certain point. Thus we find them working together to expose the smaller American industries to the destructive competition of foreign cheap labor production, much of which American international bankers and industrialists now control.

Socialist politicians in this country are now laying the foundations for a political party along the lines of Europe's socialist parties, a name which will hide their socialism being one of their principal worries at this time. To what plight such a party will bring this nation is easily discernible. A country comparable with the United States in earlier high standards of wages and living is Australia, which for several years was ruled by this type of politician. As a result, Australia has been almost on the point of bankruptcy. The bureaucracy built up in that country to provide jobs for politicians, and kill off private payrolls to build up public payrolls, created a condition of depression and unemployment which has filled Australians with despair.

The failures of socialism in the Old World are resulting in dictatorships. Socialism centralizes all power in the politicians. It hands over to them complete control of the life, property and liberties of the people. Thus it builds up a giant machine ready for the hand of dictators. Will we venture into such chaos?

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

It was a good Christmas. The best we have had in a long time. The old time spirit of happiness, cheer, and good-will seemed to be more generally distributed than in recent seasons.

With Santa Claus out of the picture it is a good feeling to sit quietly by the fire again and turn to Amos and Andy and the Saturday night shindig at Nashvile.

Such a buying spree as was pulled off in Clanton last Friday and Saturday has not been witnessed here before in many years. The stores looked like a cyclone had hit them after the Christmas shoppers had left the scene. Stocks of fruits, fireworks, and toys were completely exhausted before the demand was satisfied.

"We will have good old hog and hominy for Christmas and New Year's in Beat 8," said Byron Harris in Clanton last Friday as he told of killing a hog that weighed 638 pounds.

Scott Chesnut, of Jacksonville, Florida, has been spending the Christmas holidays with relatives and friends in Clanton. Mr. Chesnut is well known here where he grew up as a boy. He has been gone for many years, but he comes back now and then to renew old acquaintances and refresh the scenes of his youth.

John VanDerveer, Jr., has gone to Tuscumbia to take a position in a printing establishment. His friends wish him a successful and pleasant connection.

The County Commissioners last Wednesday voted unanimously to buy the Ed Miller place and offer it to the government for an airport development. The Department of Commerce was notified of the action, and it is daily expected that engineers will be here to get the project started under the CWA program.

County Agent J. W. Fant is engaged this week in settling cotton option contracts with the farmers of the county. He is making regular appointments daily in different sections of the county delivering contracts to the option holders.

Dick Hayes is full of enthusiasm about the new Chevrolet automobile which is coming out in a few weeks. He returned from the General Motors proving ground in Michigan last week, where he saw demonstrations of the new car in actual performance. He expects to have the new model ready to show the public in a few days.

Joe Franklin objects to our statement of last week which said he sold out on account of ill health. He says he is not guilty of the charge, and we gladly offer this correction. We might be disposed to charge a man with many things, but certainly the last thing we would tack on him would be the charge that he is sick or getting old. Congratulations Joe.. Don't let anybody count you out.

Christmas Jubilee Singers

Something of the old fashioned serenade at Christmas time was enjoyed by many people of Clanton last Sunday night. At an early hour a group of young people went from place to place spreading Christmas cheer at many homes. They gathered around the Christmas tree wherever it was found and added their hymns and carols to the joyful holiday expression of the beautiful lights and gay decorations.

Late in the night, as all was quiet, when it was zero hour for Santa Claus, another group made the rounds. It was the colored jubilee singers from the Chilton County Training School, led by Prof. Benjamin Anderson. They sang in the quaint and peculiar manner which is the gift of their race. Stops were made in front of many homes in the city where their lovely voices, as they died away in the distance, left our ears ringing with the eternal joy of Christmas music.

Death of Houston Armstrong

The death of Houston Armstrong removes one of Selma's outstanding citizens, a valuable asset to the community, a civic leader of high purpose. He inherited a distinguished and honored name and early in life became active in movements that contributed to the well-being of the community, being guided by a high degree of conscientiousness in all his acts and undertakings. He had the good fortune to receive an education from one of the country's foremost colleges and was also a graduate of the school of practical experience which together fitted him in an eminent way to meet the tasks of business and well-rounded citizenship. As a churchman and ardent friend of the Y. M. C. A. he was a tower of strength in the promotion of the interests of these institutions, Selma's beautiful "Y" being largely a product of his efforts and generous support. These institutions will miss his counsel and guidance sorely. In his home life his character shone with peculiar splendor. He was a devoted husband, an exemplary father, a true and loyal friend.—Selma Times Journal.

Bank Deposits Insured

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation authorized by the Banking Act of 1933, becomes operative under a temporary plan on January 1, 1934; and under a permanent plan beginning July 1, 1934.

Under operation of the plan, depositors of banks which are members of the corporation will have their net deposits fully insured up to the amount of $2,500.

Resources of half a billion dollars furnished by the United States Treasury, the 12 federal reserve banks, and the member banks are pledged to the security of deposits under the plan outlined.

"This effort of the national government toward security of bank deposits represents the most sweeping fundamental change which has ever taken place in banking, as well as the strongest pledge of individual security ever offered to bank depositors," says a statement of Bauder-Baker, advertising specialists, of Chicago.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

MILLIONS TO THOSE WHO SLASH THEIR ACREAGE

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 26.—Signing of cotton acreage reduction contracts by Alabama farmers, which is to begin as a part of the celebration of New Year's Day, will result in the distribution of from ten to fourteen million dollars to Alabama farmers in rental and "parity price" payments.

Part of the payments will be made in the spring and the remainder in the fall and winter, according to Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who is directing the campaign in Alabama.

The goal is to cut the planting of cotton to about 40 per cent below the 1928-32 average. The average annual planting of cotton in Alabama for those years was 3,373,000 acres. Sixty per cent of this, the amount to be planted in 1934, is 2,023,000 acres. In 1933, after plowing up, Alabama had 2,417,000 acres left for harvest.

Reports received here from county agents, who are now busy conducting an educational campaign in preparation for the signing up, indicate that Alabama farmers fully realize the need for restricted production and that they will respond almost unanimously to the cotton control program.

The rental payment growers are to receive will be 3½ cents a pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre on the rented acres for the years 1928-32, inclusive. In addition, a "parity" payment of not less than one cent per pound on the portion of the crop consumed domestically during 1928-32 will be made.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Alabama farm people will ring in the new year by beginning the sign-up of cotton acreage reduction contracts for 1934 and 1935.

Factory payrolls in October, 1933, were close to 35 per cent above those of October 1932. Farm incomes in October, 1933, were close to 44 per cent above that for October, 1932.

From February to November the price of gold advanced 60.2 per cent and the average price paid to farmers for all farm products increased 51 per cent, reports Dr. F. A. Peterson, professor of prices and statistics, Cornell University.

Ten production credit associations now being organized in Alabama are expected to make available $12,500,000 of credit for crop and livestock production in 1934. An effort is being made to have the association ready to operate by February 15.

Alabama farmers received $21,620,892 more for their cotton crop than they would have received if there had been no plow up campaign. Government payments totaled $13,620,892 and and the smaller crop sold for $8,019,000 more than the entire crop would have brought at 5.5 cents if no acreage had been retired.

CREDIT CO-OPS TO LEND $12,000,000

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 26.—Ten production credit associations, the aim of which is to make available to Alabama farmers about $12,500,000 as credit for crop and livestock production, are being organized in Alabama.

The organization work is being done under the instruction of county farm demonstration agents, following a meeting in Auburn, December 11, of county agents and officials of the production credit corporation of New Orleans, under which corporation the associations are being set up.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has announced that county agents and other extension workers are cooperating fully with President Jesse B. Hearin and other officials of the credit corporation in bringing to Alabama farmers the benefits of credit legislation enacted by congress at the last session.

present plans are that the association will make loans as low a $50 and borrowers will give first mortgage on their crop and personal property as security. It is indicated that full and adequate security will be necessary to obtain the loans.

The government will subscribe the bulk of the capital in the form of A stocks but when the farmer receives a loan he will be required to buy a B stock in his association to the amount of 5 per cent of the loan. Subsequent loans will be made without this stock purchase provision.

Borrowers will pay six per cent interest for the time they actually use the money. That will mean, officials of the credit organization pointed out, that loans will be about three per cent per annum, whereas, for many years, farmers have paid as high as 30 per cent on money. Only the B stock to be owned by the borrowers, is to be voting stock.

FORESTRY WORKERS ARE TO ENJOY THE HOLIDAYS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 26. — The question of what leave would be granted the members of President Roosevelt's reforestation forces during the holiday season has been settled by recent orders received at the camps, according to the State Commission of Forestry. The enrolled members of the various camps are authorized to take leave with pay beginning at the close of work Thursday and ending at midnight of the following Tuesday. This applies to either Christmas or to New Year, but the men must choose which period they wish to take. Only one such period is allowed. In all cases, however, enough men must be retained to protect the government property.

Superintendents and foremen and other members of supervisory and facilitating personnel are allowed cumulative leave at the rate of a day and a quarter per month of service, exclusive of Sundays and holidays. These employees are authorized to take this leave at the Christmas and New Year season, provided that enough of them remain to direct the work as may be required of the retained enrolled forces during such period.

PRIZE WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 26.—In the issue of next Sunday, December 31st, the Atlanta Sunday American will publish the names of the ten winners of the Annuity prizes offered in the American Weekly slogan competition. These prizes range from $1,000 a year for life to $250 a year for five years.

The great value of the prizes and the simple nature of the contest created unusual interest throughout this section. Announcement of the winners has been delayed because of the determination of the judges to give personal consideration to every slogan submitted.

The demand for the Atlanta Sunday American, December 31st, is certain to be unusually heavy. Persons who entered the contest and others who wish to know who won the wonderful prizes are urged to order in advance through the local agent or dealer. The Atlanta Sunday American is sold in most of the better drug stores and by boy salesmen and local agents throughout the South. It is also found on all newsstands. The issue of December 31st, goes on sale Wednesday, December 27th. Get your copy early.

FIRE PROTECTION AROUND THE NORRIS DAM AREA

A telephone system of protecting against forest fires the ten counties that comprise the Norris dam watershed has been perfected by state and federal forces, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today.

All that any citizen, upon observing a forest fire, has to do is to telephone the nearest of the 20 C. C. C. camps located between Norris dam site and Tazewell, Tenn., and fire fighting crews will be turned out at once. The counties thus afforded additional protection are Scott, Campbell, Claiborne, Hancock, Union, Anderson, Morgan, Knox, and Jefferson.

Plans call for the making of a base map of the entire Norris dam watershed, showing both TVA and state protective areas. These will be divided into fire districts with a C.C.C. camp superintendent or a state district and deputy forest warden for each. The state of Tennessee has appointed each of the 20 TVA camp superintendents and their foremen as district and deputy fire wardens to make the plan of fire control more effective.

The work will be supervised by two district superintendents, each of whom is to be assigned the crews of 10 C.C.C. camps and a fire despatcher who is to be responsible for calling out by telephone the necessary crews. Reports on all fires will be made out by the TVA camp superintendents and forwarded to the state forestry department.

Plans for fire control were laid at a meeting presided over by Phillip Neff, C. C. C. forestry director. Others in attendance included Frederick J. Shulley, of the Tennessee Forest Service; Edward C. M. Richards, chief forester of the TVA; G. H. Lentz, chief of planting of the TVA forestry division, Captain Houghton, liaison officer of the U. S. Army with the C.C.C. in the TVA area, and foresters from other parts of the Appalachian region.

PASSION PLAY IN BIRMINGHAM

The world-famous Passion Play from Freiburg, Germany, will be presented in the Phillips High School auditorium in Birmingham at matinee and evening performances, Wednesday and Thursday, December 27th and 28th.

The German cast will present the play in English as translated by Dr. Alred E. Wolf. Post No. 1, American Legion is sponsoring it.

This is the same play with the same cast of characters which thousands of people have paid from $2 to $15 each to see. It was given in Amarillo last year, and in other cities all over the United States during the past five years that the cast has been in America.

Matinees will begin at 2:30 and the evening performances will begin at 7:45 o'clock. School children will be admitted for 25 cents in the afternoon; seats for the evening performances will range from $1.00 to 50 cents. Wednesday afternoon has been designated as a special time for the school children, who will be admitted for 25 cents.

The Passion Play, as it will be presented in Birmingham, is probably the finest example of the play which has passed through all the stages of change and expansion, and which now after more than 800 years is still being given.

The play is very similar to the Passion Play of Oberammergau, which is perhaps better known because of the publicity given it by Cook's travel agency of England and Europe.

The Oberammergau play, which is only presented every ten years, has never been given except in its native city, and it never will be because it is against the religious convictions of the people.

Characters in the Passion Play live the history of the New Testament days. The text of the play is little changed from that presented in front of the cathedral at Freiburg in 1264, long before Columbus discovered America.

The common people in that era of feudalism were cramped between the vast power of ecclesiastical autocracy and the nobility; they were sunk in ignorance hardly understandable in this day and age. The most fantastic superstitions were accepted as truths.

They had few forms of entertainment; so it was they who turned eagerly to such spectacles as the Passion Play. In Europe, in the Middle ages, there was no entertainment to compare with it. With the purest form of the Passion Play in its day of glory, history and legend credited it with being the outstanding example of medievial magnificance.

In the present production, no expense has been spared to make it the most beautiful and elaborate spectacle ever presented to an American audience. Hundreds of costumes are carried by the company for the large list of extra people used in the play; angels, water carriers, virgins, followers of the Master, etc. A great nondescript crowd of men, women and children are dressed in the period of the time. The players convey the atmosphere of this sacred drama to the hearts of both portrayers and hearers.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but He revealeth His secret unto His servants, the prophets." That is what God says in Amos 3:7. Before God sent a flood He told Noah what He was going to do. Noah was His servant. God never sends judgment until He has sent warning. Before God destroyed Sodom He went and talked it over with His friend, Abraham. Lot, Abraham's nephew, was in Sodom. No doubt Abraham had prayed for Lot a thousand times. God would not destroy the city of Abraham's nephew without first letting Abraham know what He was going to do.

"As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the coming of the Son of Man." That is what the Word of God says. Judgment is coming but God has an ark. Jesus is our ark of safety. Noah's ark had a door. Jesus says "I am the door". They went in Noah's ark two by two. We may enter our ark of safety two by two or we may enter by the multiplied thousands, but remember, every one must enter for himself. Another can't go in for you. We must enter personally or we will perish. The door was shut. Then the flood came. Too late, too late. Dreadful words are these!

I can imagine Noah in the ark. Blackness fills the sky. It is dark everywhere. Lightning breaks out from the pavilion of the storm cloud. Thunderbolts burst in judgment over the heads of the Godless men. The rain falls. The storm rages. The earth is covered with water. The darkness deepens. There is no safety in the homes. Houses are being destroyed. There is wreck and ruin everywhere. Yonder is a man on a hilltop. God kindles for him a lightning fire. Look! He sees Noa's ark floating down the valley in safety. Hear him cry, "Noah, come this way. Rescue me!" The lightning writes in the rocks near by "Too late!" The thunder echoes back, "Too late!" The wind sighs, "Too late!" The rushing waters take up the chorus, "Too late!" Look! A wave from the sea of God's wrath sweeps over the lost and despairing man. "Turn, sinner, turn. Why will you die?"

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 26.—Sportsmen attending the annual Allison deer hunt December 21 adopted a resolution lamenting the death of Judge Robert Benson Evins of Birmingham, who was a member of the board of governors of the Allison Sportsmens Club.

Judge Evins, one of the state's outstanding sportsmen and conservationists, died November 28, while attending court at Greensboro.

"Alabama has never given to the state a son more loyal, a friend more true, nor a citizen more worthy of the confidence of his fellowman than Judge Evins," the seolution stated.

"Judge Evins loved Alabama and was devoted to the development of its boundless natural resources. It was Judge Evins who drew the bill which in 1923 was enacted into law and gave to Alabama its present forestry laws. He stood at the forefront at all times and labored untiringly for the cause of conservation.

"We, the representative sportsmen-citizens assembled about the festive board at the close of the annual deer hunt on the Allison game preserve, mourn the absence of Robert Benson Evins, and it is the sense of this assemblage that in the passing, Alabama has lost a true patriot and conservationist and a real friend."

Sixteen deer were killed during the hunt which was attended by 125 sportsmen. Two members of the state legislature, Representative R. G. Swift of Atmore and Representative Charley West of New Sastle, killed bucks, while those receiving the traditional "nine licks" for missing a buck included Senators Comma Garret, Jr., of Grove Hill and B. C. Cowart of Haleyville, and Representative Earl Tucker of Thomasville.

Seven bucks were killed on an Allison hunt November 20, which attracted 87 hunters. These hunts are given each year on the 121,000 acre preserve of Col. E. F. Allison, Alabama lumberman. The preserve is said to be inhabited by between 7,000 and 8,000 deer and is abundantly stocked with wild turkeys.

Happy New Year

We desire to express our hearty appreciation to our friends and customers for their splendid patronage of the past year, and especially for the fine business given us this Christmas.

Now, as we go into the New Year we wish for every one of you all the good things possible for the year 1934.

Let the car speak for itself

HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

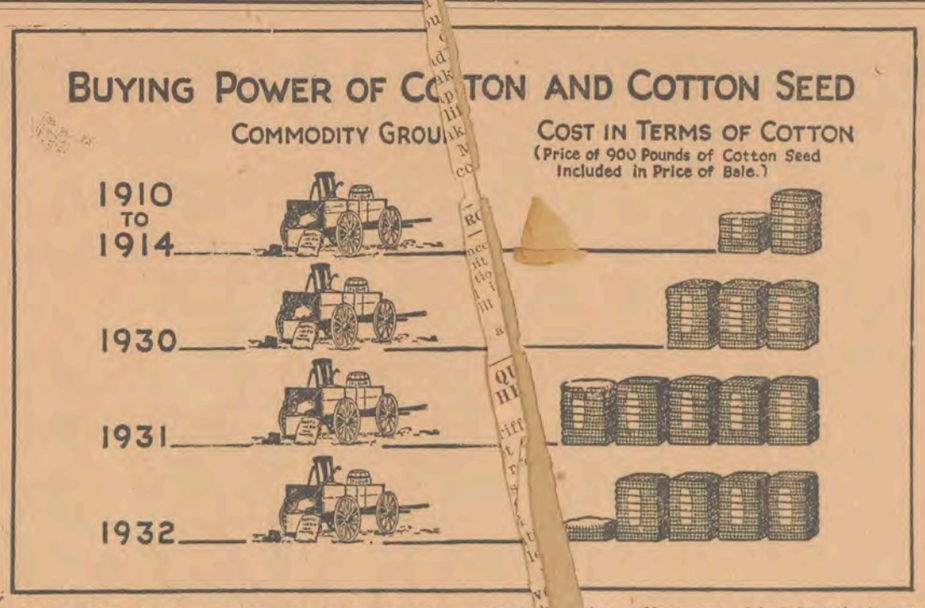
BUYING POWER OF COTTON AND COTTON SEED



THE articles that cost a farmer slightly over one and one-half bales of cotton in the period from 1910 to 1914, cost him three bales in 1930. The large crop of 1931 caused cotton prices to fall still lower, and in that year the farmer had to pay five bales of cotton for the list of articles. Large surpluses se the "disparity" between on prices and the prices of th e farmer buys. The way to re buying power of cotton nate the surplus. The Agri Adjustment Administration's program of production control provides a means to do this. Growers who cooperate with the Government will be helping to bring about the adjustments necessary to bring back the buying power of their crop.

A WEDDING DINNER

Probably one of the most interesting occasions experienced in this community in some time was the wedding dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mims, Sunday, December 24th, in honor of their son, Clarence, and his bride, who were solemnly united in holy wedlock at the home of M. Lockhart Saturday afternoon, December 23rd.

There were about 50 so that participated on this occasion Sunday and everyone enjoyed a bountiful dinner.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heatley, of Pinedale community. We take this means of wishing them a happy new year and a long and happy life together. They will probably make their home in Sylacauga, where Mr. Mims has been employed in the cotton mill for some time.

FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican Primary to be held in May, 1934. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.
